In a lucid and admirably arranged speech Morley shattered the hopes based on him by critics here who correspond in their views about India with those in America who have opposed the statesmanlike dealing with the Philippines, and incidentally astonished the onCservatives by the vigor of his declared determination to crush sedition in the Indian empire.

SAYS BRITISH RULE MUST CONTINUE.

Secretary Morley defended the sharp treatment he had extended to Indian agitators and refused to offer any apology for it. He declared he was confident the bulk of the population in India was on Great Britain's side. He would not say they liked the dominant power, but that that did not matter. They knew their interests were bound up in the law and order which the British maintain. It was the dream of some educated Indians, he said, that they could carry on the government of their country better than the British, but they could not work it for a week.

British rule in India, Morley said, will continue and ought to continue and must continue.

If must not be imagined, however, there was nothing but rampant imperialism in his speech.

Mr. Morley spoke sympathetically of the appalling plague figures which fell like a black shadow across India's financial prosperity, which was evidenced by a surplus of $3,750,000 in the budget. He announced the reduction of military expenditures by $2,500,00, adding the government would not, however, interfere with the Indian military program.

He proposed to establish an advisory council of Indian notables. Their appointed for the first time in the history of India of native members of the executive council of India would enable the Indian voice to be heard more freely. He declared the British doctrine of administrative efficiency was pressed too far and said there would be an inquiry into the question of centralization of government.

HIS RETORT TO OPIUM CRITICS.

Regarding the opium question Mr. Morley said he had been implored to put righteousness before revenue, but he did not believe in satisfying one's own righteousness at the expense of other people's revenue. He said, in conclusion:

"There is a school who say we might wisely walk out of India, leaving India to manage her own affairs better than we can. Any body who pictures to himself the anarchy and bloody chaos which would follow such a withdrawal will shrink from such a position. We are bound to take different views. We shall face all these mischiefs, difficulties and dangers with a clear conscience for we know we are not following our own interests, but the interests of these millions committed to us, with sympathy, kindness, firmness, love, and justice, whether the weather be fair or foul, with courage and a hopeful spirit."

THE MASK OF HEALTH

Few People Are Really as Well as They Look. Cause and Remedy

Many people in Peterborough, both men and women, who believe themselves to be in perfect health, are often in the greatest danger.

Indigestion, which is so common a trouble, is the principal cause of the greater share of the general poor health. It has misleading symptoms that seem to have no reference to the stomach, such as headache, sleeplessness, specks before the eyes, pains in the back and side, etc.

The success of physicians everywhere with the prescription that is now embodied in Mi-o-na stomach tablets has made this remedy in the last few years the acknowledged specific for the treatment of stomach diseases. The secret of this success lies in the fact that Mi-o-na is prepared expressly to strengthen the digestive organs and its use for a few days puts the whole digestive system in such shape that it can care for all of the food that is eaten without pain or distress.

Simply take a Mi-o-na stomach tablet before before each meal and on retiring, and it will so strengthen the stomach that you can enjoy a hearty meal without the least fear of distress or suffering.

We absolutely agree that your money will be refunded should you buy a 50c box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets and not be satisfied with the results. Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents. Booth's Mi-ona Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

Fire Brigade Is Appreciated

Peter Hamilton Co. Gives Thanks and Cheque to the Fire Laddies

Not a sensible ratepayer of property owner is there but recognizes fully that the fire brigade of this city, from Chief Rutherford down to the newest neophyte on the body that protects our homes and business places, are what in slang but expressive terms may be called "The goods." This axiom is now doubly verified by the following letter received by the brigade from the Peter-Hamilton Mfg. Co.:

John Gibbs, jr., Secretary Peterborough Fire Brigade;

Dear Sir,—We have your favor of the 8th, and enclose you herewith a cheque for $15, as requested. We would also ask you to convey to the officers and men of the Peterborough Fire Brigade our thanks for the very efficient way in which they handled our recent fire. We quite agree with what Mr. Copley the insurance adjuster, who adjusted our loss, said, viz., that he did not think any brigade in Toronto or elsewhere could have handled the fire any better than your brigade did.

Again thanking you, we remain,

Yours truly,

THE PETER HAMILTON CO., Ltd.

Ennismore Man Has Passed Away

Death of Mr. Jas. Twomey a Semi-Centurn Resident of that Township

Yesterday morning Mr. Jas. Twomey passed away at his residence, 315 Murray street after a long illness. The deceased who was eighty years of age, was born in Ireland. About fifty years ago he came to this country, and after first living in the United States, he moved to Ennismore, where he resided for nearly half a century. He was highly respected in Ennismore by all who knew him. He was married in 1857 to Margaret Doherty, who predeceased him a few years ago. For the past year and a half the late Mr. Twomey had resided with his son in this city.

Seven children, three sons and four daughters are left to mourn his loss. The sons are Thomas and Maurice, of Emily, and Timothy of this city. The daughters are Sister Veronica of Port Arthur, Mrs. Michael Cavanagh and Mrs. P. J. Scollard, of Ennismore, and Miss Mary, at home.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 7.30 from the late residence of the deceased to St. Martin's church, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Mr. Tooley Jumps Into the Net

Mr. M. C. Tooley, proprietor of the Queen's Hotel, when asked yesterday whether he felt any ill effects after the daring jump from the upper storey window of the new Fire Hall in Aylmer St. Wednesday night, when he showed the Fire Brigade how to jump to the life net, replied that he was neither sick, sore nor sorry. It seems that whilst the members of the brigade were awaiting after the life net had been stretched, Mr. Tooley came to the front and said, "Look out boys, I'll show you how to take that jump." It might be added that Mr. Tooley does not qualify in the feather weight class either. After his leap into the air, the rest of the brigade got busy jumping to the net.

A Shower of Fish

Independence, June 13.—At four o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the rain was heaviest, a large quantity of silver colored fish, which closely resembled mountain trout, fell from the sky. Although a few of the fish fell in all parts of the town, the fall was heaviest over the square in the centre of the town. So many of the fish fell there that the catch basins, built to carry the water to the sewers, were clogged and the water backed up and covered the sidewalks.

Various theories have been given to account for the fish being in the sky, but the most plausible is that they were sucked up by a tornado in the Rocky mountains and carried east. The fact that the fish resemble mountain trout adds to the plausibility of this theory.

Shipped in Good Faith

Montreal, June 14.—The city attorneys have decided that no action can be taken against the parties who shipped the thousands of tins of bad salmon to Montreal. A report is to be made to the city council to that effect.

From information given out at the city hall yesterday it appears that one of the city attorneys has just returned from Toronto, where he went to see if sufficient facts could be got upon which warrant could be issued to apprehend those who had shipped the salmon. This official reported that there was no evidence whatever that the fish had been shipped to Montreal in bad faith, that a certain amount of the fish had been good and that bad faith could not be proven.

London, June 14.—"Such a contingency as an outbreak of war between the United States and Japan is regarded by educated Japanese as almost inconceivable," cables the correspondent of the Times at Tokio. "If the Progressives are inclined to stir up agitation for the defence of Japan's treaty rights, it will be aimed solely at discrediting the ministry, and in the interests of party politics. The Progressives themselves would take the lead in denouncing such a war if there was any real danger of such."

STRANGE CONDUCT OF WELL-KNOWN PASTOR

Why Rev. J. J. Rae Was Left Without a Station for a Year---An Episode in Toronto Which has Created a Stir in Methodist Circles Generally

Bowmanville, June 14.—Behind the request of the Rev. J. J. Rae to be left without a station for a year are some sensational particulars. Rev. Mr. Rae was president of the Bowmanville Methodist Conference, which has just closed, and has been pastor of Picton church for four years.

The retiring president appears to be the victim of circumstances of a most distressing character. It is alleged that Mr. Rae, who is well known here, having spent a four years' term as pastor of the Methodist church, while in Toronto during the past year, for the purpose of ordaining a young man to the ministry, was in the T. Eaton Company's store, and took some souvenir post cards without paying for them. As he was about to leave the store, he was detained by an officer, and was taken to the office of Mr. Eaton, where he made an explanation. Rev. Dr. Carman, the General Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, was sent for, and Mr. Rae's explanation was repeated to him, with the result that there was nothing done in the matter, the affair to be kept quite secret. Mr. Rae's explanation is said to have been that goes to Peterborough in 1908.

he was looking at the cards, and at the time there was no one near whom he could pay. He carried them in his hand until the clerk should be disengaged, and in the meantime the doors to the dining room opened, and as he was in a hurry to take luncheon, he forgot about the cards, and made for the dining room. It was after he came out of the dining room that he was detained.

A committee was appointed to investigate the rumor of Mr. Rae's action in the Toronto store, and brought in a report to the effect that inasmuch as his statement to the conference did not seem to harmonize with current rumors, he was asked to put his statement into writing. Rev. Mr. Rae then asked that he be left without a station for a year. This request was granted and in consequence the report of the committee was laid on the table.

He requested the Stationing Committee to leave him off the list of stations this year, though in the first draft he was down for Picton. He had been invited to become pastor of the Port Hope church in succession to Rev. G. W. Henderson, who

No Chance for Preference

Prominent English Business Man Has Little Hope for its Adoption

Yesterday, Mr. Arthur Sutcliffe, business director of Messrs. Sutcliffe and Bingham, Ltd., proprietors of the great Kidbrook Works, with head offices at 164 Ayres Road, Old Trafford, and Manchester, England, who has been spending a couple of days in the city, visiting Mr. W. H. Meldrum, the local capitalist and manufacturer. Mr. Sutcliffe went west by the 11.30 C.P.R. train last night.

During his visit to the city, Mr. Sutcliffe was interviewed by a Times representative and expressed himself as emphatically opposed to the proposed preferential tariff.

Mr. Sutcliffe thinks that the people of Great Britain will be strenuously opposed and never consent to having their necessary staple food stuffs taxed, as the tax would materially result in a consequent raise in the price of living. Mr. Sutcliffe is now over on his fourth visit to this country and thus in a good position to consider and speak about such matters. His four visits to Canada have been in the interests of the company. He expresses the greatest faith in the future prospects of Canadian business progress and predicts a most roseate future for Canada.

Dynamite for Fishing Purposes

Scientific Report by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa

The Times is in receipt of "Contributions to Canadian Biology," studies of the Marine Biological Station of Canada, issued by the Dominion Government, Ottawa. This illustrated treatise contains names that would have a tendency to put the unlearned into some 47 different kinds of spasms, including such words as "Strongylocentrotusdroebachiensis, Plagiotremalia arachnordes, acanthostaurus pallidus, etc. The photographs of prehistoric or contemporary specimens, as the case may be, look like impressions conceived in the brain of a man whose relatives should have had him locked up long ago and divorced from the excessive use of stimulants. The marine biological specimens portrayed, seem like a conglomeration of angles and uncouth impossibilities that should be ashamed of themselves for daring to exist. This scientific report seems to get down, during part of its length, to the comprehension of ordinary everyday individuals and gives a report of how the unsportsmanlike use of dynamite for "fishing" affects the fish and general results.

After describing the manufacture and constituents of dynamite, together with its cost, including specific warnings as to handling and use. The report shows how at the harbor of Kingston, Ont., dynamite was used, and how many fish, and of what species, were killed. The main evidence adduced is that killing fish by dynamite is a cruel and wasteful loss of fish life, when only a small percentage are captured and most of them useless as food.

Correspondent Has Lost a New Hat

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—I do not want to appear as a kicker without reason. Still after having a new $3 hat knocked off and broken by the overhanging branches of trees in an east ward residential property, I think it is time some action should be taken to prevent a recurrence of the same interference with pedestrians. On Douro street is the residence of a well-known junk dealer. Lately the pavement in front of his place has been raised about a foot. Now any one passing, particularly at night runs, not a chance but a certainty of having his hat knocked off or his sight blinded. Judging by my own actual experience I have had a new christie hat destroyed by these overhanging branches. If this city is so keen on stopping the illuminated signs, that interfere with no one, why do not our city fathers prevent people having their headgear or eyes endangered by such obstructions as I note above?

Yours truly,

EAST WARD.

No Wonder Beef Prices Are Stiff

Medicine Hat, Alta., June 14.—All the witnesses at the Beef Commission agreed that there was no competition at all amongst buyers, who cut the country up into districts and were ordered not to interfere with each other. Trouble in getting cars on the date ordered was also a grievance, and the small shipper was shown to have no chance against the big corporations, which could send in whole train loads of cattle at once and get through passage to the seaboard, while the small shipper's stuff was usually hitched on to a way freight, and took much longer. The trouble in shipping to England was that the brokers purchased shipping space at about thirty shillings a head, and retailed it to the small shippers at from forty-five to sixty shillings.

Bridge Collapsed

New York, June 14.—The collapse of a temporary bridge on the second floor of the skyscraper at Cortlandt and Church street last night caused the death of one man and the serious injury of three others. The police charge that the accident was due to gross negligence on the part of employes of the contractors, and the foreman of the cement gang was arrested, charged with homicide.

The dead man was James Pringle, 28 years old.

Had the accident occurred five minutes later the dead and injured list might have been appalling as more than 100 men were gathering to receive their time checks when the crash came.

The police authorities claim that the bridge was overloaded with cement bags.

Russia Has Fear of China's Progress

Harbin, June 14.—Russia's plan of reconstruction in the Far East now appears to be based on fear of China. Notwithstanding a lack of money, Russia is endeavoring to greatly strengthen her Siberian borders. The effect to their loss of prestige with the Chinese, especially the Manchurians, and the breaking away of high mandarin beneficiaries, despite the subsidies paid them, together with the lofty attitude of China, now that the Japanese are regarded as hectoring and brow-beating them, powerfully impresses the Russian people.

All the Russians formerly employed on Saghalien have abandoned the Japanese there, though they are needed in various industries. The frontier line in Saghalien and Core is strictly military. Russia's contentions regarding the fisheries have been disregarded, and the negotiations for joining the Russian and Japanese railways at Kwang-Chengtsu have failed, the Japanese conducting both along their own lines. The Russians declare their inability to combat Japanese advances or Manchurian interests.

Minister of War Terauchi last week inspected the Japanese strategic post at Kwang-Chengtsu, causing disquiet to the Russian officials, who say that the relations between the two nations are not yet on a working basis.

Another Victim of Orchard

Montreal, June 14.—Mr. Merrill Weed, American collector of customs on the Delaware and Hudson, holds the belief that Mr. Lawrence Cronin, his brother-in-law, who was killed in the Bird Mine, Wushington, of which he was superintendent in 1902, was a victim of the Western Federation of Miners.

Mr. Cronin's death, Mr. Weed stated, had occurred under decidedly suspicious circumstances. He had been making the rounds by a path he had been accustomed to taking for a long time, when suddenly the ground gave away beneath his feet precipitating him into an old shaft in which sharp rocks had been placed.

When his rescuers succeeded in getting him out he lived long enough to say that he had been the victim of assassins who had laid the trap for him. Mr. Weed stated that he would not be surprised to find Cronin's name in the list of Orchard's victims.

Tokio, June 14.—The newspaper men of this city were summoned to appear before the home department yesterday and were officially advised to abstain from the publication of any matter of an inflammatory or agitating nature on the American question.

SECESSION IN NEW ONTARIO

In reviewing the proceedings of the Imperial Conference in London a short time ago, we left the question of Preferential Trade with the Empire for consideration on another occasion. In the opinion of a majority of the members of the Conference representing the Colonies, the question of devising and putting into operation a system of Preferential Trade between the various parts of the Empire, was the most important subject that the Conference could consider. The chief exponent of this policy, Mr. Deakin, the Premier of the Australian Commonwealth, who moved the resolution in regard to the subject, in a speech at a dinner given to the Colonial Premiers by the Royal Colonial Institute, made a most forcible argument showing the importance of the adoption of such a policy. He said the necessity of employing all the resources of the Empire to the defence of the interests of every part of it was not a matter on which there could be, or was, any difference of opinion, and that for that purpose the whole Empire must be linked together for the common purpose of sea defence. But, Mr. Deakin said, it is impossible to understand why we should stop short at that kind of defence—utilize the best brains of the Empire to that end—and take no steps for the defence of our commerce, shipping and trade. Upon these depend the maintenance of our resources, without which the very means of defence will be lost to us. We must defend our merchants, traders, shipowners, manufacturers and farmers, and all others who minister to the greatness of the Empire. Many of them are now exposed to a competition which is unfair, which is subsidized so that in the scales of commerce a false weight is used against us. Surely in such circumstances the last we can do is to insist on equal treatment for our own people and protection for their honest labors. Why not create a common brain for the trade and commerce of the Empire as well as for its army and navy? Why, if a Roman citizen was proud of his citizenship, should we neglect to add yet another laurelt to those conferred upon our ancestors by their long roll of heroic achievements in the field? Our aim should be to make in peace as well as in war our Imperial citizenship a reality as well as a name.

PREFERENTIAL TRADE

An agitation in favor of the secession of what is called "New Ontario" from the other parts of the province, is now going on. A meeting largely attended at Rainy River, in support of the movement, passed resolutions declaring that it was not the outcome of disappointed politicians but a popular movement in favor of better treatment and more ample representation in the Provincial councils than have hitherto been recorded to that part of the Province. Those concerned in the agitation declare that the needs of the district are neither understood nor regarded by the Provincial Government and that in consequence the development of the country is being greatly retarded. Meetings are being held in all parts of the district and the people seem to be thoroughly in earnest in the demand for a change in the situation.

Those who carefully look into the matter will readily appreciate the difficulties that a Provincial Government has to meet in the development of a new district where a mining industry has rapidly sprung into considerable importance, and the influx of population into what but a short time ago was an unknown wilderness has brought a demand for the immediate establishment of all the administrative machinery that is found in old settled countries. The mineral, timber and agricultural wealth of New Ontario is doubtless very great and the development of these natural resources cannot fail to add very greatly to the prosperity of Old Ontario. The new domain now opened up to settlement and industrial enterprise cannot fail to exercise a great influence on the social and economic conditions of the Premier Province of the Dominion. Within her own boundaries she can offer her most enterprising sons opportunities that in the past they have thought could only be found in Western Canada. New Ontario will also give a new and important field for the productions of the shops and factories of Toronto and other towns, while the successful exploitation of its mineral wealth will add to the general prosperity, while laying the foundations of large individual fortunes for those who have been successful in their mining enterprises.

That it would be for the benefit either of Ontario or the Dominion to carve out a new province, we do not believe. Canada is already burdened with too many governments and too many officials. To add another Provincial administration to those already in existence would only add to the burden of the Canadian taxpayers, without any reasonable justification for such a step. A recognition by Mr. Whitney's Government of the situation and earnest efforts on its part to meet that situation, and a little patience on the part of the people of New Ontario, are all that is needed to bridge over the difficulty and to maintain the Provincial organization in a state of prosperity and progress.

France Won't Buy All the Vineyard

Paris, June 13.—The municipal strike in the south is progressing, and the prefects of the departments involved have received a number of fresh resignations of mayors and municipal councils. Almost all the principal towns in the affected region are now in a condition of municipal anarchy.

Premier Clemenceau has summoned the prefect of the Department of Aude to Paris to confer on the situation.

The chamber yesterday discussed and rejected various alternative schemes to M. Codet's bill, including the proposal made by the Socialist leader, M. Jaures, that the vineyards of France be nationalized and that the state establish a monopoly of alcohol and sugar.

Lived Among the Chinese Lepers

Montreal, June 13.—Rev. S. S. Conrardy, of Canton, China, who is making a tour through Belgium, England, Canada, and the United States, with the object of raising a fund to equip a hospital and carry on his missionary work among the lepers, is in the city. He was with Father Damien when he died of leprosy. While in Canton recently he came in contact with 100,000 lepers utterly deserted, but for the help they received from a few sisters of charity. There was no pity shown to the lepers by the Chinese, and he himself knew of many cases where parents had buried alive children who were developing this frightful disease.

Money was required to carry on the missionary enterprise. Hospitals were needed and food had to be provided.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 40,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10,00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $12.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards
Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,600 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

100,000 Shares of Treasury Stock for Sale at
10 CENTS PER SHARE

This company was incorporated February 9th, A.D. 1907, under the laws of Arizona.

Capital stock 1,000,000 shares, full paid, non-assessable par value $1, treasury stock 400 000 shares. Other stock pooled.

Officers and Directors

President ..... EDWARD T. PATRICK, Mine Owner and President of the Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.
Vice-President ..... JUDGE CHAS. L. HAYES, Mine Owner and Leading Attorney of Goldfield, Nevada.
Secretary and Treasurer ..... ADAMS F. BROWN, Corporation and Mining Lawyer and Member of Listing Committee Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.
Depository ..... JOHN S. COOK & CO. Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claim (80acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bond and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and with with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

Partners of the Tide

...By... JOSEPH C. LINCOLN, Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

That was a job there was some fun in! She was a big iron steamer that ran on the ledge at the mouth of Boston harbor and went down. We got the contract right in the face of the salvage company in their own town."

Sam did most of the talking.

Sam did most of the talking. Gus listened, and Bradley brooded. Perhaps, he thought, he had made a mistake in leaving the big city; perhaps, after all, he was destined to become nothing but the "longshoreman" Gus had intimated might be his fate. Captain Titcomb didn't think so, but he might be mistaken. He grew more downcast every minute.

"I tell you, honest, Brad," said Sam, with apparent earnestness, "I don't see how you and the cap'n are going to make much out of this business or get to be anything more than just anchor draggers. Speaking as a man with some experience in wrecking, your chances against the big chaps, like our crowd, look small to me. You may win out, but"— He shook his head doubtfully.

Gus, at Hammond's request, seated herself before the squeaky old parlor organ and played while she and Sam sang. Bradley, who didn't sing, sat on the sofa and watched them gloomily. All day he had been in that excited nervous state where criticism or encouragement affected his spirits as the weather does a barometer. The doleful prophecies at the wharf—although at another time he would have laughed at them—had depressed him in spite of himself. The whole hearted joy and confidence of the old maids had cheered him up again, but now he was realizing that, after all, it was Gus' encouragement and congratulation that he wanted, and she had not congratulated him.

At length he rose to go, giving as an excuse the fact of his being tired and having to be up early next morning. Gus apologized to Sam and accompanied him to the door. She came out on the step; it was a beautiful night, clear and calm, with every star shining.

Bradley put on his hat. "Well, good night," he said shortly.

But Gus laid her hand on his coat sleeve.

"Couldn't you see? Sam envies you, and that is why he talks so big about New York. And he knows you're going to succeed too. Oh, Brad, your opportunity is here! You ought to be as proud and confident of yourself as I am proud and confident of you."

"Gus," he whispered, looking straight into her eyes, "do you believe in me as much as that?"

She did not shun his look. "Yes," she answered simply, "I do."

Goodness knows what might have happened then. Perhaps Gus was afraid to wait and see. At all events, she snatched her hands from his, whispered "good night," and ran into the house.

CHAPTER XI.

IT was the morning of the second day following the securing of the wrecking contract. The Lizzie, with Bradley, the captain and Alvin Bearse aboard, had left the Orham wharf an hour or more before. They had stopped at the Point to pick up Peleg Myrick and Bill Taylor, the new hands, whose services the captain had secured without much trouble.

Barney ran the little wrecking schooner under the tilted stern of the Ruth Ginn, and Bradley sprang from the shrouds to the rail of the stranded craft. Then, one by one, all but Barney, who stayed behind to look after the Lizzie, they clambered aboard the wreck. Most of the hard pine boards that formed the deck load were in place, having been lashed well and being out of the reach of the heaviest seas, which had spent their force on the stern and after portion of the vessel.

The patent windlass was in good condition, and so also, to their delight, was the donkey engine. Peleg, working manfully at the pump, reported that she had some water in her, but that it didn't "seem to be gainin' none."

Bradley got steam up in the donkey engine, and the big anchor of the Ruth Ginn, attached to a heavy cable, was lowered carefully until its shank rested across the stern of the dory. To this main cable, near its middle, were spliced two others just as heavy; to each of these another anchor was made fast. The dories were rowed out almost at a right angle from the wreck into the deep water. Then the anchors were thrown overboard and a three fingered iron head, with its spread taken from in the sand, held the lumber schooner fast.

"Now, Brad," commanded the captain, "haul that line taut."

Bradley started his engine, the windlass turned, and the cable, that had hung loose from the bow of the wreck, lifted from the water and tightened till it groaned.

"All she'll stand, is it?" asked the skipper. "Good! Make her fast. They say tide'll wait for no man, so I guess we'll have to do the next best thing and wait for the tide. Now boys," as the men climbed aboard from the dories, "git to work and strip her."

Bradley and the captain knew that they could not hope to get out all the lumber in the hold of the Ruth Ginn if she was allowed to lie in her present exposed position. One more gale and she would be almost certain to break up. Their hope was to lighten her by getting rid of her deck load and to work her off the shoal into deep water and then tow her up to Orham harbor, where she could be unloaded at their leisure.

She lay almost broadside to the shoal, but not quite. Her bow was well up on the sand, but her stern overhung the edge of the Boneyard, which on that side was, as Captain Titcomb said, "steep as the back of a barn." The cable, tight as the steam windlass could draw it, led off from her bow to the spot where the anchors were planted under many fathoms of water. Where the tide turned its pressure against the schooner would bring her to bear on the cable with a tremendous pull. The waves, growing larger as the water deepened, should, if Bradley's plan was a good one, loosen her hold in the sand, and every inch she moved the cable would retain. The more she loosened, the easier she would move. The slack thus made in the cable would be taken up by the windlass. She might gain but a foot a day for awhile, but some day or other, if the weather held fair, she would have worked herself through the sand and clear of the shoal.

Cash Better Than Time.

"Have you a few moments to spare?"

"Young man," said the capitalist severely, "my time is worth $100 an hour, but I'll give you ten minutes."

"If it's all the same to you," thoughtfully replied the visitor, "I believe I would rather take it in cash."—Exchange.

A Persian Rug Test.

Real Persian rugs have one remarkable property that must be peculiarly their own. One day a woman went out to buy a very fine rug, and after looking at many kinds she finally elected to purchase a beautiful cream colored one, which the salesman declared was a genuine Persian rug.

"This," the man continued, "is the best proof of its genuineness," and he took from the open grate a redhot coal, holding it tight in the tongs. Then, to the utter astonishment of his customer, he touched the coal to the splendid rug.

"Gracious!" the would be purchaser ejaculated as the rug sizzled, giving off a little smoke and an odor of burning.

"Don't worry," the salesman remarked, as he threw the coal back into the grate and pointed to a charred spot as big as a half dollar right in an especially light portion of the creamy woolen ground, whereupon, with his hand, he brushed all the burnt part away, and the rug looked as if it had never been through any modern ordeal of fire. Perhaps the pile was an eighth of an inch shorter, that was all, and, besides, the untrained eye could not observe that small defect.

"A Persian rug that will not stand the fire test is not worth your attention, madam," the clerk declared as he took down the lady's order for the genuine Persian rug.

Fashions In Brides.

The natives of the Sandwich Islands estimate women by their weight. The Chinese require them to have deformed feet and black teeth. A girl must be tattooed sky blue and wear a nose ring to satisfy a south sea islander. Certain African princes require their brides to have their teeth filed into the semblance of a saw.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

Recent Discoveries Under Continued Development Make Us Believe that an Advance in the Price of this Stock must take place at an early date.

The Gold Bond Company is a Colorado Corporation. Capitalized at 1,500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable, 500,000 shares in treasury.

Our holdings consist of four claims, three of which are patented, and all lie close to the Addison claim, which made the GOLDEN MESSAGE famous. One of our veins is an extension of the Addison, and shows the same character of ore as that now being taken out of the Addison shaft. Comparatively little work has been done on the Gold Bond group, but we have receipts from small shipments of the high grade ore showing values running as high as $24,000 per ton; the veins are from three to twenty feet in width, all good milling ore, with streaks of the extraordinary high grade running all through.

RECURRING HEADACHES

Do They Bother You ?

You fine life a miserable affair because you have headaches, but you have neither nausea nor are you weak —You know if you could only prevent headaches you would enjoy perfect health.

Such headaches indicate a general lowered condition, because they arise from a general decay of the nervous system.

This depressed condition of the nervous system has its origin in the reduction of the quality and quantity of the blood.

The blood is thin—its red coloring is reduced—it contains no nourishment.

The digestive organs are not supplying it with sufficient nutritive matter.

The result—nerve weakness, nerve debility, ill-health.

If you had used Ferrozone you would know how powerfully all the digestive and assimilative functions of the body are stmulated.

Ferrozone does more—it supplies all the elements that are essential to the rebuilding of the body—supplies the reconstructive forces that contribute to the formation of rich, red blood.

You see, Ferrozone doesn't treat a symptom—it remedies a cause—and that's why a month's treatment will absolutely remove every vestige of recurring nervous headaches.

Nothing like Ferrozone to build you up, to give the reserve of force, that happy health that contributes so much to happiness and contentment.

Ferrozone will make you feel like new, try it—sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

How the Net Test Began

Why did those firemen wait until a 217 dispensor of wet goods took that "Leap Our Ville," into the net. Truly this was a case of truly rural rookies.

Bell Telephone Inspector Here

Yesterday Mr. F. W. Donn, the capable and efficient manager of the Bell Telephone Co., was busy with Mr. W. J. Carmichael, of Montreal, superintendent of construction of the company's lines. These two gentlemen, both experts in their particular personal lines gave the local system a thorough overhauling and inspection.

Firemens' Test a Great Success

The trial exhibition given by the local fire brigade, after box No. 24, near the Quaker Oats Co., was sounded resulted in good results. In the shortest time that could be expected, the hose wagon, driven by experienced men and hauled by well trained horses was going at full speed to the seat of the alarm. In less than three minutes from the first alarm the team was at the hydrant at the rear of the elevator, and two lengths of hose were quickly laid and coupled into one big nozzle. The water was soon placed at the full height of the building.

Excursion From Bentsfort

The steamer Monarch brought an excursion to the city yesterday from Bensfort, yesterday. The excursion was held under auspices of the Bensfort Union Sunday school, and over 200 were on board the boat. The city was reached about eleven o'clock and a trip over the lift lock was enjoyed. After going over the lock the steamer sailed up the river some two miles and then returned for lunch at Nicholls Oval.

Farmers' Excursion a Success

Everything points to the monster farmers' excursion to Idyl Wyld on June 20th, being a great success. The oratorical talent invited far exceeds anything of the kind held at a local picnic in years. The new steamer Otonabee will leave Wolfe street wharf at eight a.m., the Ashburnham wharf at 8.10 and the street railway wharf at 8.30 returning to the city at an early hour in the evening. The steamers Rainbow and Water Lily will be occupied all that day carry passengers from Rice Lake points to Idyl Wyld.

F. W. and L. Committee on Trip

The Fire, Water and Light Committee met last night, and drove around the city to locate the new street lamps to the best advantage Applications have been received for about a dozen arc lamps and as each one costs from $45 to $50 per year, the committee does not care to put any where they are not really needed. It is likely that not more than five or six lamps will be ordered, especially now that the city is negotiating with the Peterborough Light and Power Company for the purchase of their plant.

Bowmanville is Hospitable

Rev. J. G. Lewis, who has been attending the Bowmanville, Bay of Quinte Conference meeting has returned to the city. The conference lasted one week and the stationing committee met two days previous to that. Mr. Lewis states that the conference was an excellent one, the best in fact, that has been held for years. There were about 225 ministers and laymen present and these were billeted at the different homes. Mr. Lewis spoke in eulogistic terms of the treatment that the delegates had received at the hands of the Bowmanville people. They partook of dinner in a body in the town hall daily.

How Long Did They Hang On?

Bancroft Times: A few days ago a wild duck was noticed flying over the village, but low down with a labored flight, as if exhausted, until finally she came to the ground in Mr. S. James' garden, when investigation disclosed the fact that the mother duck had been carrying on her back twelve young ones apparently three or four weeks old. Whether the old one became exhausted with the burden she was carrying or whether the young ones were slipping from her, and she wanted to readjust her load, is not explainable, but after an unsuccessful effort to restore them to their former positions on her back, the old one departed, leaving behind eleven of her brood. These Mr. James is caring for until they can take care of themselves.

Japan Expects Apology

Tokio, June 13.—The leading papers here whose opinions are worth quoting are silent on the question of demanding an indemnity for the so called bombardof Japanese establishments in San Francisco.

Reparation for the damage inflicted and punishments for the culprits is expected, and it is believed that the government is taking proper steps in the matter.

It is true, however, that popular indignation has received a degree never before witnessed in the history of Japan's relations with the United States. It is thought by influential Japanese that the quicker the facts regarding the negotiations now in progress here and in Washington are published, the better it will be for all concerned.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Remedies of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the Wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

Lakefield People Now In a Feud

Trouble Started Over the Laying of Concrete Walk in the Village

It seems that the good villagers of Lakefield, as represented by their council, undertook to lay a concrete walk on the east side of Regent street under the frontage tax system. The residents wanted the sidewalk laid outside the tree line, and the council started to lay it inside. This annoyed the ratepayers and they have entered action against the council.

Mr. E. A. Peck is acting for the people, and Mr. O. A. Langley of Lakefield will defend the council. An intrim injunction was applied for and granted.

The prizes will be presented at the close of the inspection. The Cadets are in good shape.

Cordage Co. Goods as Good as the Best

When any one, no matter for what ultimate reason, tries to belittle the the products of our city he is pretty sure of getting left. As noted in a former issue of The Times the case of the Canadian Cordage Company against Thos. McGuinness, of Leamington, Ont., was on trial. The plaintiffs sued the defendant for $514.26, the principal and interest of a promissory note made by the defendant in favor of the plaintiffs and due on October 28th, 1906. The note was given in payment for a number of rope cables, which McGuinness purchased from the Cordage Company to be used by him. McGuinness refused to pay on the ground that the cables were not of good material.

The case resolved us to whether the Cordage Company manufactured goods equal to those turned out by American firms engaged in a similar line of business. The defendant an American, brought experts from the United States to endeavor to prove that the cables purchased in Peterborough were not made out of good material or properly manufactured.

The evidence of showed that the local company used the same material and had their plant equipped with the same machinery as that of the American factories.

His Honor Judge Weller gave a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs for the full amount asked, $514.26. Each party will pay their own costs.

Hall, Medd & Davidson, solicitors for the plaintiffs; A. T. Boles, Leamington, for the defendant.

Weak Women

Up weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. Help with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The Night Cure—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical nervine sedative and stomachic recovery remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, toning, the repair of all nerve, all tissue, all blood ailments.

The Night Cure, as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and derangements, while the Restorative, eases nervous irritation, gives restored vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

CZAR'S ULTIMATUM TO RUSSIAN DUMA

Fifty-five Social Democrat Members Must be Excluded and Sixteen Placed Under Arrest, for Plotting to Set Up a Democratic Republic

St. Petersburg, June 15. — Premier Stolypin yesterday demanded that the Lower House of Parliament exclude from the house all the members of the Social Democratic faction, numbering fifty-fivve, and sanction the arrest of sixteen of their leaders, including M Alexinsky, Tzeretelli, Dshaparidze, and Ozol, on the charge of entering into a conspiracy to other throw the Government and establish a Democratic Republic.

Continuing, the Premier announced that unless the house immediately yielded, parliament would be dissolved.

TROOPS GUARD ENTRANCE.

The press and public galleries were cleared, the police and troops took possession of the entrances to the parliament building, and the house went into secret session and debated the question raised by the premier. It is considered almost certain that his demands will be rejected.

"CZAR'S ULTIMATUM."

The lower house eventually declared a recess until nine o'clock in the evening without taking a vote on the government's demand. There are still forty speakers awaiting a hearing.

GREAT FORCE TO MAKE ARRESTS.

The streets outside the Taurida Palace are filled with members of the Secret Police, who, it is presumed, have orders to arrest the Social Democratic members of the House when they emerge from the building. The courtyard of the buildings in the vicinity of the palace are filling up with infantry, Cossacks, and mounted police.

The first Russian parliament was opened on the 10th of May, 1906, by Emperor Nicholas, who then promised there would be no withdrawal of the concession of representative government. The Duma, however, proved to be too radical to please the reactionaries, and the Czar was persuaded to dissolve it on July 22nd. He then announced that a new Duma would be elected, in the hope that it would recognize the powers that be, and he set March 5th of this year for the assembling of the second Duma. This body has refrained from radical measures, and the speeches have been much more temperate and the sessions more orderly than in the former Duma, fear of a dissolution keeping the members temperate in their expressions. The Constitutional Democrats have thus far succeeded in controlling the course of events in this Duma, but the reactionaries evidently fear an armed uprising is being secretly planned, in which the revolutionary Social Democrat members are taking an active part, and without proving the case in the proper legal way, they require that the Social Democrats be treated by their fellows in the Duma as guilty of treason. This is a challenge to the Duma that even the Constitutional Democrats can hardly refuse to accept.

PRECIPITATED OUTBREAKS.

The dissolution of the first Duma precipitated a series of mutinous outbreaks at Cronstradt, Sveaborg, and other places that were suppressed with serious loss of life, and that might have been successful if they had taken place in their due course. Whether a second dissolution of parliament will provoke further trouble remains to be seen. Russia has been ominously silent for some months. An explosion may not be far off.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

Michael Fallow was charged with attempted burglary of Dr. Nimmo's residence. Miss Nimmo in the witness box, identified the prisoner, whom she had seen in her room at 3 a.m. Fallon made his escape by the parlor room window which he kicked out. This was a pane of double diamond glass 6x8½ inches in size. As the prisoner got in through the cellar window he slipped on a pot of grease and left marks from it through the building. The cellar window was open at the time but covered by a wire netting. There were also green paint marks on the door and door frame at the back stairway. These, she thought, looked like hand marks. The foot marks where the man got out were small. To Mr. Gordon, for the prisoner, she first identified prisoner at her home last Friday when he was taken there by two policemen. The officers compelled prisoner to assume the same position he had occupied the night of the robbing. She told one of the officers previous to his being brought for identification, that the robber had a slight moustache. She had seen the prisoner once on Charlotte St. about a month ago. She recalled this because he looked like another man she knew. Mrs. Nimmo then gave evidence. She heard her daughter scream at about 3 a.m. Saturday. She did not see the prisoner's features that morning, but prisoner is about the same size. She identified sound of prisoner's footsteps when brought to her house for identification. The paint marks on the door were not there two weeks ago. At this stage Mr. Wood, County Crown Attorney, said he thought sufficient evidence had been heard to authorize the prisoner being committed for trial. The magistrate thought so, but Mr. Gordon wanted to call witnesses. P. C. Newhall said he took prisoner to Mrs. Nimmo's house at 4 o'clock yesterday morning for purposes of identification. Prisoner did not ask to be taken but readily consented to go. He and P. C. McDonald took a hat and coat from the police station and asked the prisoner to put them on. He said to Miss Nimmo, "We have brought a man here on suspicion. Take a good careful look at him and don't get excited." Prisoner at Miss Nimmo's request kneeled down and she took the electric light and looked at him from many positions. She then turned to witness and said, "There is no room for mistake, I think you have got the man." He did not hear Miss Nimmo say she thought the burglar had a slight mustache. Prisoner was arrested in his bed on Edinboroughg street. When prisoner was arrested he said, "Hello, McDonald! What's your charge?" Prisoner is a painter by trade and had some green paint on his clothes. P. C. McDonald then gave the same evidence as former witness. The prisoner was then committed for trial at the Fall Assizes.

Eels Caught in the Trent Valley Waters

The Lindsay Post says: Harran Bros. of Chesarea, have been engaged for years as eel fishermen on the Scugog waters, and have a nice demand from city customers. They have been operating at Goose lake with fair success for some time, and are catching an average of 60 eels per night. They set night lines to which are attached a great number of hooks, each baited with a minnow. The line is allowed to sink to the muddy bottom, and in the morning there is something doing when a squirmy lot are hauled in and despatched. Inspector Bradshaw visited the camp the other day, and found no indications of other fish having been caught. Eels are very tenacious of life, and Archie tells a yarn about one that was killed, dressed and eaten at camp for dinner. Later on some visitors arrived; one picked up the head that had been thrown away—only to drop it with a yell of pain. The jaws had snapped together and given him a painful wound.

Attempted Felo de se at Garden Hill

Yesterday morning sensational reports reached this city from Garden Hill, Durham Co.; this place, it might be mentioned incidentally was named by the transposition of the words of a son of Erin, who 30 years ago arrived there after being told it was a "perfect garden," and who remarked "It's a hill of a garden that place is." However yesterday's intelligence was to the effect that a quarrel had occurred between two brothers, John and Wellington Gilmour.

As a result John Gilmour, a farmer, married and living about a mile north of the village has gone insane, while his brother, Wellington, also married, made a desperate but ineffectual attempt to end his own life, with a jack knife, inflicting three wounds on his throat.

Wellington Gilmour lives on a farm not far from his brother John.

The latter was taken to Rockwood Asylum, Kingston, in charge of Constables Nattrass and Harley of Millbrook.

The sad outcome, whereby one brother has gone insane and the other attempted self-destruction is reported as already stated to have been the outcome of a quarrel.

John is the father of a boy and Wellington has two small children.

It appears that on Tuesday evening Wellington Gilmour left home saying that he was going over to see John. He did not return at a late hour, and Mrs. Gilmour becoming uneasy, went to John's house. When she opened the door John fell to the floor frantically insane. Wellington Gilmour was not there and is said to have wandered about all night.

Early Wednesday morning Wellington arrived at his mother's home in Cavan township, with his throat cut and blood flowing freely. He is now recovering. It was ascertained later there was no quarrel between them. Wellington, the younger brother, had seemed strange in his mind for some time.

Stewart Is Urged to Make Statement

Affairs of the Sovereign Bank to be Aired

(Special to The Times.)

Montreal, June 14.—It is thought more than likely that Mr. D. M. Stewart may, in the near future, make a statement in reply to some of his critics, and also touch upon the manner in which he was ousted from the Sovereign Bank.

Although the Board of Directors associated with Mr. Stewart were quite as responsible for the great losses made as Mr. Stewart himself, the blame for the conditions which led up to the reorganization has been fastened almost entirely upon Mr. Stewart's shoulders.

Close friends of the late general manager are quite ready to admit that Mr. Stewart took a number of false steps in his haste to go ahead, but claim that the public in view of recent developments, has lost sight of Mr. Stewart's achievements and the fact that the blame for the setback is not all his own.

These friends are urging Mr. Stewart to make a statement, but so far he has refrained from publicly commenting in any way upon the developments of the past two months.

Will Romaine St. Sewer be Opened

Ald. McIntyre Advocates the Day Labor System

Alderman McIntyre, a new and popular member of the City Council is out in an evening contemporary with a long explanation of his action in connection with the building of local sewers by day labor. The article defends this recent action of the council.

Mr. McIntyre in his letter is certainly sincere in advocating his first uttered opinions on this point. We trust that the Romaine street sewer when the "slight" troubles now under consideration are fixed may be made to work satisfactorily and that the ratepayers, who have already seemingly paid dear for what might possibly be termed a "municipal trink failure" will have nothing more to expend over same alleged failure. As far as we can judge from memposted in this matter, this sewer contains pipes that are now at all kinds of angles to one another instead of in a straight line. Whilst we may be misinformed in this matter the ultimate result will show whether this sewer, as built by skimped pay by the city is a success or whether it would have been wiser to have let experienced and practical contractors to have made a difficult job even if at slightly advanced prices. There is no doubt but what City Engineer Thos. Hay, in this connection did all in his power in the city's interests, but, when theory combats experience the latter gets the battle every time.

Peterborough is Most Patriotic

Sergt. Bray of B. Battery, who was in the city yesterday at the Queen's Hotel is certainly the typical British Army non com. as described in such novels as Conan Doyle's "White Company." This khaki clad officer whilst in the city did more to bring the attention of Peterborough's young men up the advisability of joining the army than seventeen general officers, clad in scarlet and gold and decorated with bands and medals could have done. The sergeant noted that Peterborough is the most progressive and up-to-date town he ever was in, in an experience covering India, South Africa and Canada. Whilst not wanting to see our young men go from our midst, even in our country's defence unless necessary, the advent of so plausable and patriotic a Tommy Atkens cannot but throw a certain amount of breeze on the ever burning spark of Canadian patriotism that never dies in the county or city of Peterborough. In this connection, it might be remarked that Sergt. Bray, in front of some eight or ten witnesses said that Peterborough is one of the most patriotic places his varied experiences has ever brought him to.

Tramps "Treasure Island" is Cobourg

John Beck, a trump, sixty-five years of age, has at last accomplished his desire to secure accommodation in the new jail at Cobourg. He drifted into town on Wednesday of last week and visited Mr. Henry Reynold's jewellery store, where he selected a wedding ring. He was leaving without paying when Mr. Reynolds stopped him. Beck then wanted to be arrested, but was not obliged. Later in the day he met Chief Bond, and asked him to arrest him as a vagrant, but again his desire was not gratified. He was given a night's lodging in the city hall and walked to Cobourg next day. He was sent away and returned to Port Hope, where he again spent a night at the town hall. On his release on Sunday morning he entered the police station and after donning a cap and coat belonging to Chief Bond, he then tramped to Cobourg, where he was arrested. Previous to coming to Port Hope Beck broke a window in Barrie with a view to being arrested.—Port Hope Times.

PARLIAMENT NEAR SCANDAL SESSION

Conservatives Plan Attack on Government With View to Return to Office

FEAR DISSOLUTION PLAN

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Accused of Bad Faith—But Premier Not Worrying

Ottawa, June 14.—Mr. Calvert's statement that Parliament is to meet again before dissolution insures another scandal session if it holds good. The worst that has been said in Parliament against ministers of the crown and private members on the government side is a trifle compared to what remains behind.

If another session is summoned, as promised to R. L. Borden, the opposition leader, by Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself, it will be the last opportunity of the Conservatives before they go to the country to fight for their seats in the house to make parliamentary capital against the Government.

They naturally would take advantage of it to rake up everything calculated to discredit the members of the administration and the party in power. The recent speeches at Toronto of G. E. Foster, former Conservative Finance Minister, and Mr. Bennett, M.P., show clearly enough that scandal is the weapon on which the Opposition must rely, and every one knows that Mr. Emmerson was not the only member of the Laurier cabinet that the Conservatives were prepared to assail either justly or unjustly.

Mr. Foster flung taunts at Sir Wilfrid's colleagues in a way that in the house would make reprisals inevitable and let loose all the pentup floods of gutter gossip affecting ministers and others who escaped direct attack in the house last session.

If Sir Wilfrid had not pledged himself to Mr. Borden it might have suited some of his followers better to face dissolution rather than a scandal session likely to prove much more offensive, it not more damaging, than anything preceding it. But in any case, whether there is to be a session or an electoral campaign, scandal will be the main feature of attack, and if Sir Wilfrid has made up his mind to fight it out on thatline in the house before going to th ecountry it may be confidently predicted that a programme of reprisals has been determined on.

FEAR DISSOLUTION PLOT.

Mr. Foster in his Toronto speech urged the Conservatives to be active and alert as no one knew the hour when an election might be thrust upon them, and in other Opposition quarters the belief has been encouraged in every possible way that Sir Wilfrid intends to spring a dissolution surprise as soon as he is ready and can catch the Conservatives unprepared, returning to power once more at the head of a sweeping majority.

The Liberals have been busy for some time past putting their nominees in the field and clearing the way for the general election, whenever it may come, and the Opposition leaders have had to stir up the members in some way or other; a realization that the possible loss of their seats and of another year's parliamentary pay was imminent seeming to be about the most effective method of rousing them into activity.

As long as they believed their parliamentary indemnity was safe and they were in no immediate necessity of fighting for their seats they manifested little disposition to exert themselves for the welfare of their party. The managers of the Conservative party, apart from the desire to wake up the rank and file are apparently disposed to distrust the announcement that there is to be another session before dissolution, and to regard it as intended to throw them off their guard. They are consequently pushing arrangements in every possible way for early conventions and nominations and a sudden call to an electoral campaign.

Sought Mother Five Years

Brockville, June 15.—After a search of nearly five years, Jos. Paszerik, a Hungarian, has been successful in finding his mother, and although she is demented, she fully recognizes her boy when they met at the St. Lawrence State Hospital.

Mrs. Paszerik left her home in Hungary 21 years ago. Her husband had died, leaving her with three children, Joseph, being the eldest. She sailed for America alone. Shortly after landing in New York she became insane and was committed under her maiden name, Marie Wallie. Five years ago her son sailed for this country. He began a search for his mother and recently learning that a woman under his mother's maiden name was an inmate of the St. Lawrence State Hospital, he made the trip to the institution. At first Marie Wallie did not recognize him, but as he talked to her in her native tongue and recounted scenes and incidents of their past life in the home in Hungary, the mother seemed to remember and after a little recognized her son. Paszerik has secured his mother's discharge.

Last Contest at Roller Rink

Season Closes Tonight Until the First of September

At the skating contest in the Charlotte street roller rink, which closes this evening until Sept. 1st, between ladies and gents skating in couples, Miss Lexi Ritchie and Mr. Jack Seymour were the judges' choice, and considering the hearty applause the decision got, it was also the choice of the people.

The judges were Messrs. Armstrong, Hanks and Dr. Bradd and their task was an exceedingly difficult one, there being three couples who were almost equally good.

They were afterwards presented with the prizes by Dr. Bradd, the gentleman's prize being a handsome fountain pen, and the lady's a hand satchel.

EAST RIDING TORIES PREPARING

Many Aspirants in East Peterborough

IN CONSERVATIVE PARTY

Next Dominion Election Promises to be a Hot One

There is much controversy regarding the political future of the East Riding of this county. The past political history of East Peterboro is too well known to require comment; still it is interesting to note the number of possible candidates for parliamentary honors in that riding. Among those now on the tapis for representative at the approaching Dominion elections in East Peterboro, all of whom would command a large vote are Messrs Dawson Kennedy, city, Richard Birdsall, Otonabee, Dr. Ford, Norwood, Ald. H. Phelan, city, E. A. Peck, East Ward of this city, J. A. Sexsmith, Belmont, J. Reid, Westwood, Joshua Smithson, Otonabee. It has for some time been rumored that Hon. J. R. Stratton will be a candidate for parliamentary honors in the East Riding. We understand that Mr. Stratton has decided definitely not to allow his name to be brought forward as a candidate. Dr. A. J. Robertson, of Norwood, another strong possible candidate, is one of the most popular men in the Reform party and would doubtless poll a large vote. Dr. Robertson has for years been Secretary of the Liberal Association of the Riding. No matter what candidates the respective political parties may choose as their standard bearers the coming election will be strenuously fought, as both Conservatives and Liberals intend to make a bitter fight for victory.

Mr. John Lang of Otonabee, the ex-member, is mentioned as a likely applicant for the senatorship of this district, as is also Mr. John Finlay, the well known manufacturer of Norwood, who is the present member of Parliament. It is improbable the latter gentleman will again be the Liberal standard bearer for the East, as a very strong spirit of opposition to him has recently developed among some of the leading Liberals. With the material at hand by both parties, and the determination easily visible on the part of both sides to win, there will be very few votes unpolled in the East Riding at next election, and no matter which political party wins the battle of the ballots, East Peterboro is pretty well assured of having an able representative in the next House of Parliament.

ANGLICANS TO AID FORMER CONVICTS

To Follow Them After They Leave the Prison---R. J. Devey of Peterboro Addressed Meeting---Lively Disoussion on the Lord's Day

Toronto, June 15.—The work of aiding men who are discharged from prison was discussed yesterday by the Anglican Synod.

The report of a committee suggested that some agency acting over the whole Province be secured, to aid those leaving the prisons, as there are many objections to their going back to their own homes where their records are known.

NO FOLLOW-UP SYSTEM.

Rev. R. Seaborne, jail chaplain, said; "There is one great trouble I find in my work. Men leave my hands and I have no one to whom I can commend them—no one of our denomination, I mean. The Salvation Army is constantly making converts, because they take up the work where I lay it down. And right here I would state it as my opinion that the Salvation Army is rapidly resolving itself into a church denomination, and we are feeding them by our neglect of this work. We are only touching the fringe of it. I can only bid these men good-bye, and hand them over to other denominations, when our own people should be them to the front."

HAS HELPED 30 MEN.

"I have met some 30 of these men lately," said R. J. Devey, of Peterborough, "and gone with them to restaurants and lunch counters. In all my visits I have not seen a single member of my own Church at the Union Station. I can produce over 500 names of men who passed through Peterborough, and of these only one spent a night in jail."

Rev. W. H. Vance objected strongly to this change; "If the gentleman who has just spoken thinks there is no one of our Church around the station, he is mistaken. We have held services in the immigration rooms, there being over 400 present. We have had as many as 15 men working in that neighborhood. Men pass at the rate of 1,000 a day through the Union Station, which makes it impossible to deal with them personally. As many as 3,500 have passed through the station between Friday and Monday."

ON THE LORD'S DAY.

Rev. Dr. Shearer, agent of the Lord's Day Alliance, gave an address on the new Act, in the course of which he said; "Nearly 150,000 Canadian workmen would have received 13 them the day of rest of which they had been robbed.

"There are 150,000 poor fellows who are working on our railways seven days a week. One man had not had one day in 15 years as a holiday. Then we are charged with being too radical," he remarked.

Mr. Blake made a few remarks on the National Sunday League. "I say that when these persons want this freedom, I ask, Have we any right to enslave our fellowmen as our servants on the Lord's Day? To open our museums, run our cars? What right have we to do this. Let us determine that we are never going to enslave our fellow men in order to turn the Lord's Day into an irrational Sabbath."

FREE VIEW OF BARS.

Among the clauses in the report of the Temperance Reform Committee was one reading that "the committee ventures the hope that the Dominion Government will so amend the License Act as to compel every bar to have its windows uncurtained. But nothing was said about abolition of the bar. In reading this report, the chairman remarked; "There was a time when I thought it unwise to advocate the abolition of the bar, because I thought it would lead the young men to drink at home, but I am convinced that this is the only course open to use."

Mr. Blake; "Then why don't you put that in your report?"

"This is only a report. Mr. Blake or anyone may propose any addition he likes."

Mr. Blake; "Would you add, then; 'Until the bars are abolished!' They will then see we are working up to something."

This was added by unanimous vote Committee appointed.

Child Beater is Found Guilty

Henry Walden, the Northumberland county man, who was charged with assaulting the four-year-old daughter of Mrs. G. W. McWilliams, whom he adopted, has been found guilty at the June session of the county court, at Cobourg, but has not yet been sentenced. The case for the crown was conducted by Crown Attorney Kerr, of Cobourg, and E. L. Goodwin, of Peterborough, who were interested in the case. Walden made a strong fight, but the evidence against him was strong. The accused when cross-examined by the prosecuting lawyers, admitted some damaging evidence against himself. The evidence showed that the little girl had been frequently beaten, and her body showed marks of the hard blows she had received.

It is not known what Walden's sentence may be, as yet, as leniency may be allowed owing to his having a wife and large family of small children.

Resisted Arrest, Was Shot Dead

Dalhousie, N.B., June 15.—On Thursday morning, while driving with his wife and child, Mr. Boyle was attacked by Balmoral by three men, who gave him a severe beating.

Police Officer Seeley of Dalhousie went to arrest them, and one of them, Peter Fountaine, resisted with an axe. Officer Seeley drew a revolver, and in the fight it was discharged, the bullet passing through Fountaine's body. Although fatally wounded, the man broke away, but died a few hours later. The others got away and have not been recaptured.

Former Times Man Here in Automobile

Mr. J. E. Kelso and Family on an Extended Tour From Rochester

Mr. J. E. Kelso, accompanied by his wife and two sons arrived yesterday afternoon in their Winton touring car from Rochester, N.Y. Mr. Kelso left Peterborough some 27 years ago and settled in the Flour City, where he has succeeded in business. Whilst in Peterborough Mr. Kelso was for some time on the Times staff, and lived on Smith town Hill near Mr. J. C. Belcher's residence. After leaving the town and settling in Rochester, Mr. Kelso engaged in the laundry business. Since taking hold of this branch of trade Mr. Kelso has erected five large brick buildings in connection with his business. He is a son of the late Mr. Robt. Kelso who spent most of his life in Peterborough. The party are registered at the Stadwin House, and will remain in the city for some four or five days, when they leave for Hastings, Belleville and other points, returning home via Kingston steamer to Rochester.

Drinkwater Acquitted

Cobourg, June 15.—James H. Drinkwater, the Centreton general merchant, who was arrested in the Non-Jury Assizes at Toronto two weeks ago at the instance of Mr. Justice Teetzel on a charge of forging the name of his uncle, Frank Wall, to a promissory note for $400, appeared before Judge Benson here. He was found not guilty and discharged.

Bilious People Now Easily Cured

If you are frequently bilious or have feelings of nausea, there is a reason.

When the liver action is normal the bile is secreted in the proportions necessary to ensure the digestion of fats.

When liver action is irregular it is an evidence of impairment of nerve force.

When these derangements occur, an undue amount of work is thrown upon the liver and kidneys, they rebel—the whole system suffers, and ill-health follows.

Another dangerous result of derangement of the biliary function is constipation. Deadly disease results from this condition.

This is a hateful condition because it ensures two results—heavy dark rings under the eyes and a sallowness that's absolutely abhorrent.

These derangements if allowed to continue excite the formation of gall-stones, cause jaundice, catarrhal inflammation of the bowels, and indigestion.

If you wish to get better, the very root of the trouble must be reached.

This can be accomplished only by Ferrozone—a remedy that strengthens the system, the blood, the liver and kidneys.

Ferrozone is food for the nervous system.

It fortifies and strengthens it.

The nervous system controls all the functions of the body.

Improve its tone, you improve the tone of the whole body and this is what Ferrozone accomplishes.

Its first action is to fortify digestion—this means nourishment and more building material.

Ferrozone makes rich, red blood—lots of it, and this means the proper action of all the large and vital organs of the body.

Quickly there comes strength, vigor, endurance—that glow of feeling which we call health.

You are sure of robust health; sure of strong nerves, good appetite; sure to look and feel your best if you use Ferrozone; try this great tonic, sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

THE DECLINING BIRTH RATE

The annual summary of births, marriages and deaths, published by the registrar general of Great Britain for 1906, includes statistics for that year from all the chief European cities. It is a striking fact that in all the cities reported, with the exception only of Dublin and Copenhagen, the birth rate for 1906 was below the average for the preceding five-year period. London still shows a much higher birth rate than most large European cities, but it also is showing an even more rapid rate of decrease. The rate for 1906, for instance, was the lowest on record and the same is true of the birth rate of all England.

The births for England and Wales were at the rate of 27 per thousand. For London the rate was 26.7 per thousand, as against an average for the preceding ten-year period of 29 per thousand. In Paris, however, the birth rate is now down to 18.8., and in Brussels it is slightly lower than that. In Berlin it is 24.9. Marriages are also on the decrease in England, and if the ratio is taken of marriages to the total marriageable population, it is reported that there has been a decrease of 21 per cent in the last thirty-six years. A similar showing is made of the size of families. The decrease in this respect in Berlin has, indeed, been as high as 33 per cent in twenty years.

Against these facts there may be offset the almost equally universal showing of a decrease in the death rate. In England the highest death rate reported was in Liverpool, with 20.6 per thousand. In London the rate was only 15.1. The infantile mortality rate in London was 121 in 1906 as compared with an average of 130 for the preceding ten years. There was not a single death from smallpox last year, and the total number of deaths from this disease in four years has been only 27.

WISH FATHER TO THE THOUGHT

A prominent German naval officer says, according to an exchange, that the next great war will be between Japan and the United States, the Philippines being the disturbing factor, while the Panama canal is calculated to injure Japan.

If ever such a war ensues it will be one of the greatest calamities of history, as in all probability it would embroil practically the whole of Europe. As Britain is Japan's ally, Canada would be at once involved, and one of the first to suffer, so that she may well pray that such a disaster may be averted.

It would be better a thousand times that the United States should hand Japan the Philippines on a silver salver than that war should ensue. The conquest of these islands has cost the republic dear in blood and treasure, and it is doubtful if their retention will ever repay any part of the ghastly debt charged up against them.

However, it is needless to borrow trouble. In the case of the Germans the wish is father to the thought. Britain is cordially hated throughout the empire, and the darling wish of the erratic Kaiser is that she should be humbled. When the Boer war broke out, the African republics had the personally expressed comfort and encouragement of the Emperor. Should war break out between the United States and Japan, Britain's entangling alliance would be William's opportunity, and all the great powers of Europe would be arrayed in hostile camps.

When the Japanese were busy destroying the Russian army and navy the United States press and people were unstinted in their praise and admiration of the "little yellow men" because Russian diplomacy was out of favor at Washington, but since then the tone of popular and official expression is reserved, and the republic seems to be courting trouble with Japan, a work in which a fool press is busying itself with extraordinary industry.

The opinion of the German officer only echoes a view that has been current in Germany for some time, a view to which the prevalent antipathy for Britain predisposes the public mind. Officialdom at Washington should take a tumble and suggest that the fire-eaters of the press moderate their contempt and ridicule for a nation that has sprung into the position of a political equal.

Fined Pugilistic Lacrosse Players

Brantford, June 14.—Prosecutions arising from alleged disorderly conduct at Hamilton-Brantford senior and Bespeler-Brantford junior lacrosse matches in this city last Saturday, took place in the police court yesterday morning, when George Walsh and Ed. Campbell of Brantford, Leonard Dindeno of Bespeler, and Isaac Hanhawk of Hamilton, were charged with fighting and causing a disturbance during games. All are players of the teams named, and pleaded guilty. Counsel urged that the scuffles were not serious, that they occurred in the heat of the game, and that in the past it had not been customary to bring actions in such cases. Magistrate Woodyatt held that disgraceful melees would not be tolerated here, and as a warning imposed a fine of $2 each on the players.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Never fill a lamp quite full, or when it is brought into a warm room the expansion of the oil will cause it to overflow, and the result will be decidedly unpleasant.

Soda used in the laundry should be dissolved before the garments to be washed are placed in the tub. Yellow stains, which soon form holes, are caused by soda touching wet linen.

Saucepans should be kept clean on the outside as well as inside. To prevent the smoke from sticking rub the outside of a new saucepan with fat before placing it on the stove. Wash with hot water and soda.

If possible leave a wet umbrella open to dry so that the silk will not rot or crease. If it cannot be left open, turn it upside down, so that the moisture will not collect at the ferrule end and so rot the silk while evaporating.

The colored frock or blouse that has become faded with frequent launderings or from wear in the sun may be bleached to a clear white by boiling in cream of tartar water. The correct quantity to be used to make the garment a pure white is a teaspoonful of the powder to a quart of water.

Perfumed Pillows.

Since those extra little pillows have become so frequently met with as a part of bed furnishings pine and lavender pillows have both become more popular.

Both of them when made for a bed are incased in strong muslin covers, over which the pretty little white slip is drawn.

For couches, of course, darker and more serviceable materials are used, often for pine pillows a deep yellow, embroidered, in a simple outline stitch, in brown or deep bronze greens. For lavender a light lavender, embroidered in a darker shade, or one of the pretty white cretonnes, covered with blossoms and stripes of lavender, makes an attractive covering, says Woman's Life.

If you are going away and can squeeze just one more thing into your trunk, tuck one of the regular baby pillows in. The pillows where you are staying may be stuffy and hard, and that little pillow is just the thing for a hammock or for the nap that you take in the old orchard stretched out upon rug or steamer blanket, or it may add much to the peace of your nightly slumbers.

Will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoops Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

I Took Pe-ru-na, Hardly Daring to Believe

So Writes Mr. Newhof, of Albany.

Pelvic Diseases in Men.

Many an invalid is dragging out a miserable existence with catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the bladder, or both.

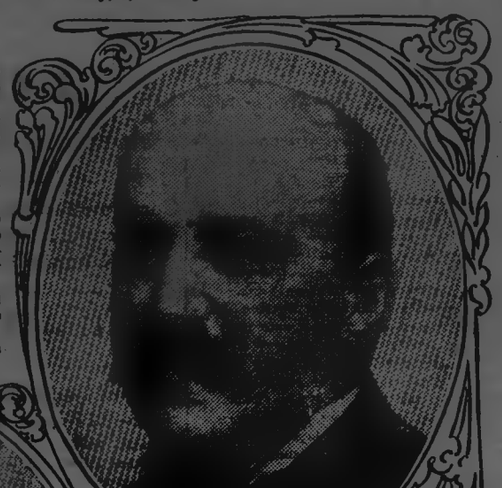
There is no disease equal to catarrh of the bladder in producing complete wretchedness, absolute despair, haggard misery and stubborn weakness.

An army of this sort of victims have one by one discovered that Peruna could be relied upon to relieve such cases.

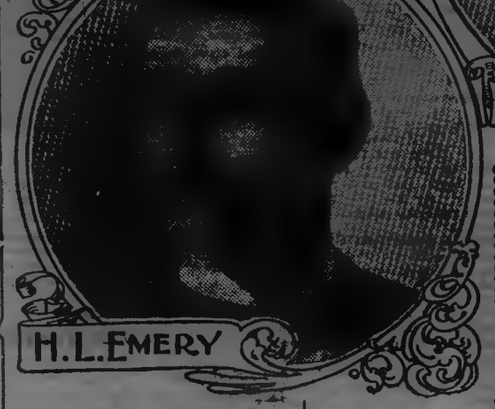
One man tells another man, and in this way the news spreads until in all parts of the country are to be found men who have been permanently liberated from the thraldom of catarrh of the bladder by a course of Peruna.

Many cases of catarrh of the stomach, kidneys and other abdominal organs have reported themselves as cured.

We give below two prominent testimonials which illustrate the benefit of Peruna in these cases.



CHARLES B. NEWHOF



H. L. EMERY

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 10 Delaware street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:

"Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said that it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced years. I took Peruna, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided, and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Peruna."

Catarrh of Stomach and Kidneys.

Mr. H. L. Emery, Vice Chancellor and Master of Arms, K. P.'s, of Omaha, Neb., writes from 205 North Sixteenth street, the following words of praise for Peruna as a tonic. He says:

"It is with pleasure I recommend Peruna as a tonic of unusual merit. A large number of prominent members of the different orders with which I have been connected have been cured by the use of Peruna in cases of catarrh of the stomach and head; also in kidney complaints and weakness of the pelvic organs.

"Peruna tones up the system, aids digestion, induces sleep, and is well worthy the confidence of sufferers of the above complaints."

Mr. David L. Jayoux, Chaplain Clarinda I. O. G. T. and Chaplain G. A. R., 988 Broadway, Oakland, Cal., writes:

"I am an old war veteran. I contracted severe bladder and kidney trouble. I spent hundreds of dollars and consulted a host of doctors, but neither did me any good.

"Finally some of my comrades who had been cured by Peruna advised me to try it. I at once bought a bottle, and found it helped me so much that I kept using it for nearly four months.

"Peruna has proven the best medicine I ever used. My pains are gone and I believe myself to be cured. I feel well, and would not be without a bottle in time of need for ten times its cost."

Mr. Robert E. Harvey, Treasurer Knights of Industrial Freedom, also a well known writer and lecturer, writes from 11 South Nicholas St., Chicago, Ill., as follows:

"I was in good health until about four years ago, when my back became lame and sore. The pains kept increasing, with severe twitches and slow exhaustive aches. Urine was highly colored and passed with great irregularity. I knew this must be inflammation of the bladder.

"Having read of Peruna I decided to try it. I found relief from the pain within ten days. The aches gradually diminished, and it was a blessed relief I can assure you. Within three months I was well once more. My appetite had returned, nervousness and irritability were things of the past, and for over two years now I have been a healthy man.

"I give all thanks to your Peruna, and believe that it is a blessing to mankind."

Giraffe a Skyscraper

Tallest of His Kind a Feature of the Great Menagerie.

A giraffe so tall that he stands as a skyscraper among others of his kind is one of the features of Adam Forepaugh and Sells' Bros.' excursion which comes to Peterborough on June 25th.

There are numerous other animals in the menagerie department of this show which are being exhibited for the first time in America. Prominent among these is a monster rhinoceros—one of the finest and fiercest specimens of his kind that ever came from torrid swamps. A hippopotamus of vast dimensions is another interesting curiosity displayed in a great tank. Besides these are llamas, the exen, water buffalo, gnous, nylghaus, black and white yaks, Philippine cattle, kangaroos, many kinds of deer, a full collection of the finest of the cat family, a strange man-like chimpanzee, a bloodsweating behemoth, South African wart-hogs, more than half the elephants in America and a caravan of camels and dromedaries. Every cage, den and pen is plainly placarded so that all may know what they contain, and uniformed attendants are at hand to answer questions.

As is the case with the menagerie, every other department of the show has this season been rearranged with a view to making a complete change in the methods of circus entertainments. A fortune has been spent in the creation of an absolutely new parade and one million dollars is the outlay in money represented by the great spectacle, "Fighting the Flames," which begins the regular programme. In keeping with all this magnificence is the character of the many arenic acts which comprise the most novel and greatest circus programme ever offered.

Two performances will be given in Peterborough, one at two o'clock in the afternoon and the other at 8 in the evening. The parade will leave the show grounds at 10 in the forenoon.

There is a section of the new parade of the Forepaugh and Sells' Bros.' circus devoted to what is called "A Fairyland Paradise." It is made up of golden floats with living groups presenting pictures of child-lore.

Three Points For Home Gardeners.

There are three important points for the amateur to remember in raising flowers from seed for the decoration of the home garden—namely: To select the good and well known kinds that grow most easily and to leave the "novelties" alone; to purchase the best seeds, from reliable seed firms only; to plant them in well prepared soil, at the proper depth and at the right season. And, adds the Good Housekeeping botanist, don't count much on freak or "sport" plants, so long as you can get pansies, zinnias, asters and the other old reliables.

Swimped For Sweet Charity.

America is not the only nation whose rich men give bountifully to public works. A French Jew has bequeathed 50,000,000 francs to public institutions, half of it to the Pasteur institute. His account of himself was touching and simple: "They say I have been miserly. They poke fun at my greed. What do I care? It pleases me to reflect that that greed will benefit the wretched and that, after all, it is for them I have worked."

HENRY CARTER MAY RECOVER

The Man Whose Back Was Broken Can Now Move One of His Feet Freely.

Toronto, June 14.—Lying on a bed in St. Michael's Hospital, where he has been for over nine weeks with a broken back and fractured wrist, Henry Carter seemed quite improved yesterday.

On the 10th of April while working as a brick mason, he fell with a falling wall at the Canada Foundry Company, sustaining injuries that at the time appeared likely to have fatal ending. During the past few days circulation has been coming back in his left leg, and with it the power of moving his left foot at will. His right side is still in a paralyzed condition.

Able to eat ordinary food, which his young wife has brought to him each day, he has been keeping up his struggle against the decline of his physical powers in a perfectly marvelous way. And though he has not been able to maintain his usual weight, is still hopeful that his recovery will soon follow the placing of his body in a plaster cast a few days hence.

Carter, who at the time of his accident was in the employ of Bibby Bros., contractors, came to this country a year ago last October, and was married only last year. His wife is beside sailing.

The bricklayers' union are doing everything in their power to assist the injured man. He is under the medical care of Dr. Ritchie, physician of the Canada Foundry Co., and of Dr. E. E. King.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 40,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

This company owns 4 claim (80 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section and only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

On Barton's Reef

By GEORGE ETHELBERT WALSH

Copyright, 1908, by George E. Walsh

A DEAD animal ain't giner'lly wurth more'n what his pelt will bring in the open market, minus the fees an' commissions of them rascally agents who come down here to swap trade with us an' get the lion's share, an' the jackass', too—me an' the rest of the hunters down here bein' mostly the jackasses—but a live animal is an onsartain commodity that has what Captain Kennelly calls "possibilities." I'm meanin' by that that an old diamond back rattler's skin an' teeth an' rattles ain't wurth much more'n $5 down here, but a live rattler shipped up north in a cage may bring $25, an', ag'in, it may be knocked down for an even hundred.

So Captain Kennelly ain't never been in the killin' bisness. An' I was brung up by Captain Kennelly! "Live an' let live," that's been our motto, an' we've waxed fat—the captain weighs 200, an' I ain't far behind—an' wealthy, not millionaires exactly, but middlin' well to do.

We ain't never regretted bein' kind an' consid'rate to the animals an' birds—never except once, an' then the captain said 'twas my fault. I ain't disputin' him in that, but there is room for a diff'ence of opinion.

We'd been up the Caloosahatchie one winter tryin' to bag snakes, birds an' other creepin', crawlin' an' flyin' critters when we got wind of a mighty big, sassy mountain lion rendoovoolin' up near Wadin' Landin'. The captain decided at onct that we'd bag the critter. Mountain lions was bringing pretty handsome prices then—the Floridy variety bein' a little underpriced, for they ain't no bigger'n a good size dog.

The captain an' I sailed up the Caloosahatchie an' went campin' on that big fellow's trail, an' before a fortnight we had him clip an' clean aboard the Marthy Ann, tied toe an' nail an' a-roarin' in a box on deck as though he'd like to eat us alive. We was mighty tickled at our prize, an' we figgered on a couple of hundred apiece when we landed him north.

The Marthy Ann warn't much of a sailboat, but she was a lubberin' old craft that did dooty for us for well nigh a dozen years. When we set sail down the Caloosahatchie the captain says:

"Steve, can't you take the Marthy Ann to Charlotte Harbor alone? You can hand the critter over to the railroad people there an' get a receipt for him. I want to get off at Fort Myers an' run up a spell to see Cousin Obadiah. He's real sick, they say."

I warn't goin' to stand in the way of the captain's seein' his sick cousin, so I answered with affermashun an' said I'd run back to Fort Myers in a couple of days an' pick him up. The captain was mighty pleased, but when I landed him at Fort Myers he sort of suspishioned somethin' an' said:

"You think you can manage it alone all right, Steve?"

"I'll land this old patriarch in Charlotte Harbor before night or I'll drown him in the gulf tryin' it," I answered promptly.

I didn't know that I was makin' a pretty sure guess of what I'd be doin' before sundown. I jest hove off from the dock an' turned the Marthy Ann's nose toward the gulf. I ain't much of a deep water sailor, but I knew the coast up to Charlotte Harbor tol'rably well an' I didn't have no misgivin's.

That lion was mighty quiet-like at first, but when we got away from the land an' he began to sniff the salt air of the gulf he sort of got uneasy. He was gettin' out of his element, an' he felt sort of homesick. Mebbe it was seasickness. I dunno which. Anyhow, he roared an' whined an' scratched to beat the band. He jest kept me company with his noise, an' I didn't have no time to get lonesome. Onct or twice he got so scratchy that I took a look at his cage to see if 'twas all right.

Barton's reef is jest ten miles sou'west of Charlotte Harbor—a nasty little, treach'rous shoal that sticks out of water at low tide an' keeps out of sight at flood. 'Tain't charted, an' sometimes a ship trips up on it an' jest nacherally rips herself to pieces tryin' to get off ag'in.

I don't know what made me forget Barton's reef, for I'd been round it a dozen times, an', come to think of it now, I'd been nigh wrecked on it onct or twice. I ain't got no excuse to make except that lion must have made me forgetful by his everlastin' roarin'.

First thing I knowed a puff of wind keeled the Marthy Ann over, an' before I could ketch her up ag'in we struck somethin'. It was only sand an' mud, but the keel stuck there, an' the next wind slambanged the old lubberin' craft clean over on her side. I wasn't lookin' for the shock an' pitched headforemost through the air an' landed 'bout twenty feet away.

When I went down into the water I expected to find bottom somewhere less than a mile or two, but the sudden way in which I stopped showed me that I was on Barton's reef. I was standin' on my head in 'bout a foot of water. There was some mud, an' that made sticky standin', but when I finally got my head out of it an' the water cleaned out of nose an' mouth the Marthy Ann had drifted away in deep water.

I ran after her, but she was holdin' her own so tantalizin'-like that I couldn't gain an inch. I swam reso' for some minutes, an' then to save my life I turned back to the reef. I could see the bare back of it jest shinin' above the gulf not more'n ten yards away. I ain't much of a swimmer, but I made double quick time to that reef.

I hadn't thought much 'bout that lion all this time, so excited was I over the loss of the Marthy Ann, but now I jest gasped for breath an' hove a sigh of relief. If I'd lost the Marthy Ann, I'd saved the lion. There he was crawlin' out of the water upon the reef as limp an' frightened as a water rat with a dog on his trail. His big cage was floatin' away with the tide, runnin' a close race for shore with the capsized boat.

I saw how things had happened. The Marthy Ann had dumped the cage an' lion on the reef, an' the blow had bust open the slats, an' there you are! The lion was free to go an' come. When I swam to the reef he had full possession, but he was so wet an' frightened that he jest sat there an' shivered an' roared.

"You great, big onery coward," I says, shakin' my fist at him. "You ain't got away yet, an' I'll keep you here until the captain comes for us."

The reef warn't more than fifty feet long and twenty wide, but there was room enough for both of us. I crawled up an' tried to dry my clothes. At first the lion noticed nothin', but roared for help. Then he got a sight of me an' slunk to the other end of the reef.

I pitched headforemost through the air.

"You keep there," I says, feelin' better by talkin' to him as if he was a human bein', "an' don't you come on my end."

We both felt better after we got dried off a bit. The sun was pretty hot an' it scorched the water up like a hot iron. First thing, then, that big critter began to lick himself, an' then he eyed me out of the corners of his eyes. I didn't partic'lar like the way he did it. It seemed as if he grinned an' then shook his head to show me that he warn't hurt.

Well, I suppose nothin' would have happened if the tide hadn't come up an' made Barton's reef look like a turtle's back. The water jest rose up higher an' higher, an' every minit we had to move closer together.

The lion didn't like gettin' his paws wet an' was for retreatin' toward me, an' I didn't fancy closer quarters with him an' jest stayed as near my edge of the reef as I dared.

Now, as I have remarked, the Floridy mountain lion ain't no kind of a fighter, but when he's cornered I've some respect for him. I saw right away that trouble was a-brewin'. When the reef got too small to hold both of us one or t'other had to git, an' I didn't fancy bein' the one to go a-floatin' adrift on the gulf in that latitude.

"Now, you great big yellow cuss," I said, addressin' his lionship, partly to keep up my courage, "I ain't huntin' for trouble, but if you seek it I'll do my best to make things mighty onpleasant for you on this little sand speck."

Right then a change come over the critter. He seemed to accept the challenge an' began to growl and crouch. I jest faced him an' got ready for his spring. But the tide comin' up from behind lapped a wave over his tail an' made him turn roun' like a shot. He crept an inch closer an' watched for things to develop.

We hadn't more'n five feet between us, an' I was tremblin' most as much as that big brute when somethin' bobbed up near the reef. We both looked at it, an' when I saw it was the lion's old wooden cage floatin' back ag'in I jest made up my mind to jump for it. It was a pretty hefty box an' big enough to carry me.

I edged away toward it, an' when it was as nigh as I thought it would come I waded out in the water an' made a grab for it. By lyin' slantwise on it, with my feet in the water an' my head 'bout three feet above it, I was tol'rably comfortable, an' I addressed myself to the maroonded critter ag'in:

"Now you kin have the reef an' all that goes with it. I'm off for the Floridy coast or a trip to sea. Anything's better'n bein' drowned on that reef or bein' chewed up by a cowardly lion."

I guess my words sort of startled him, for he growled an' whined an' seemed anxious to accompany me. He was sort of sorry at my desertin' him. At any rate he crouched down on the reef, his tail in the water an' his head mighty close to the other edge of the reef, an' then I saw him spring an' shoot through the air just like a skyrocket.

There was a crash an' disturbin' undulashion of the gulf. I saw stars an' sharks an' numerous other onpleasant things. When I got a grip on the floatin' box ag'in I was half drowned, an' that old lion was haugin' for dear life on the other side of it. He was 'bout as frightened as I was. His paws was within two feet of my hands, an' I could feel his breath fannin' my cheeks, but he warn't for fightin' any more.

We hadn't improved our positions much, for that wabbly old craft warn't built for two. Both of us couldn't keep our balance at onct. When the lion was up I was down, an' when I bobbed up above the gulf his head went under. We went seesawin' like this for some time, neither one able to catch his breath.

Then it occurred to that tarnal critter that I was tryin' to duck him, an' he began to hit out at me, snappin' an' snarlin' fit to give one the shakes. After pawin' some of the hide off my hand he got more brave an' tried to climb over on my side. That was his undoin', for the box tripped clean over an' landed both of us in the water. The box floated away, an' we had to make a swim for it.

I got there first, for I had begun to scent sharks. I dreaded 'em worse'n all the lions in Floridy. I jest yelled an' jumped up on the box an' tried to hold my feet in the air. I kicked an' splashed to frighten the lion away, but he was game. He came on like a paddle wheel, churnin' the water into a terr'ble foam.

He struck the box ag'in with a bang, an' over we went onct more, turnin' a clean somersault in the water. I went down pretty nigh to the bottom of the gulf an' then bumped up agin the box so hard that I had a headache for a week after.

The lion was there ahead of me, an' he took a turn at fightin' me off. I saw he was gettin' on to the game. The box was a good boat for one, but too small for two. One or t'other had to keep off, an' as possession is half the law the big yellow cuss was goin' to hold on to his advantage. I couldn't get a hold of the box without gettin' a swipe that ripped up a yard of human hide.

I saw somethin' in the water a little way ahead that made matters worse. It was a shark comin' to see what all the disturbance was 'bout. He was sailin' along like a revenoo cutter after harbor thieves. I knowed then 'twas a question of shark or lion.

An' I chose the lion! If I could knock him off, the shark might be satisfied with him an' leave me alone for a spell. I jest made for that box an' put up the fight of my life. It was give an' take, an' no quarter for the vanquished.

My, how we spit an' tore an' cuffed each other! It was like a cat an' monkey tied up in a bag. We didn't stand on any rules, but jest fought fit to kill an' never knowed how much we was tearin' each other to pieces.

But I hadn't forgot that shark. I jest kept a weather eye on him an' tried to twist the box roun' so he'd come up under the lion an' not on my side. I guess the battle would have gone hard with both of us an' the shark would had a dinner of lion meat an' human legs if rescoo hadn't come in the nick of time.

I heard a voice call over the water in the captain's drawl. "Hello, Steve! What you tryin' to do? Don't kill that lion. Part of him belongs to me."

I jest twisted roun' mighty scared, for I thought I must be a-dreamin', an' there was Captain Kennelly in the Marthy Ann, sailin' straight down upon us.

"Good Lord, captain!" I says. "I'm nearly tuckered out."

Then I dropped the box an' swam for the boat.

But, if you'll believe it, that old yellow critter was ahead of me. He just

My, how we spit an' tore an' cuffed each other!

leaped from the box to the deck of the Marthy Ann an' was ragin' an' roarin' up an' down it when I crawled aboard.

"Steve, this is bad work," said the captain. "I thought I could trust you better'n that. If I hadn't felt suspishous 'bout you an' come down jest in time to find the Marthy Ann floatin' away on her sides we'd lost our prize an' the boat too."

I didn't have breath for any reply then, but I felt mighty like explodin' an' sayin' somethin' that would hurt the captain's feelin's. But I didn't, an' later I forgot all 'bout it in the excitement of capturin' an' cagin' that old lion ag'in- the cause of all the trouble. He seemed to think he owned the Marthy Ann, an' we had a long tussle to convince him of his error.

Lynx at Waterloo

Waterloo, June 11.—Last evening about six o'clock, a large lynx was seen in the garden of Mr. J. B. Hughes, on George street, a prominent residential street. After an exciting chase, in which half a dozen persons participated, it was shot and killed. It measured five feet five inches stretched out, stood twenty-eight inches high and weighed thirty-six pounds. This is the second one that has been shot in Waterloo county within three days, the other having been shot in Galt on Sunday.

Partners of the Tide

...By...
JOSEPH C. LINCOLN,
Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

They stripped her, cutting away her tangled ropes and sails and taking them aboard the Lizzie. Everything movable, except of course the lumber, they transferred thus or threw overboard. It was a hard job and took them all day. Bradley was a tired man when he reached home that night, but he had to answer countless questions put to him by the interested old maids. He saw Gus for a moment or two and reported progress. Then he went to bed.

Next morning was clear and calm, and they were delighted to find that the wrecked schooner had gained a little and that the cable was slacker than they left it. They tightened it again with the windlass and then set to work throwing overboard the lumber on the deck. They rigged a tackle on the stump of the foremast and with the donkey engine swung great bundles of the planks overboard, while Alvin and Barney, standing on the floating timber, with the water swashing around the knees of their fishermen's boots, made it into rafts to be towed up to Orham.

That night they hired Ira Sparrow's fishing boat, the You and I, to tow the lumber rafts. She was a stout little craft with a naphtha engine, and, although not nearly so efficient as a tug, did the work after a fashion and was far and away cheaper. By hiring her they added Ira to their force.

For eight days they labored steadily; except on Sunday, when they merely sailed down to take up the slack on the cable. The lumber on the deck had been rafted to Orham, and they had begun to get out that in the hold. The Ruth Ginn was moving slowly through the sand, and every day showed more and more gain. The partners were in high spirits.

When the Lizzie, with the workers aboard, reached Ruth Ginn the next morning, Ira Sparrow, in the You and I, was there already, and the "chug, chug," of his naphtha engine was heard as he came rushing to meet them.

"Brad! Cap'n Es!" he hailed, as soon as they were in shouting distance. "She's shifted like time in the night! I swan, I b'lieve we can git her off this tide!"

This was such unexpected good news, for they had figured on another week at least, that the partners could scarcely believe it.

"Are you sure?" shouted Bradley, leaning over the Lizzie's bow.

"Pretty nigh sure. Look for yourself."

They shot up to the wreck, to find the cable, that had been left tight and rigid, hanging loose. An inexperienced eye could see that the lumber schooner had changed her position. Her bow was now almost in a line with the edge of the shoal and, even in the slack water of the last of the ebb, she was rocking appreciably in the cradle her hull had made in the sand beneath it.

"Great scissors to grind!" shouted Captain Titcomb. "She'll do it as sure as I'm a foot high! Tumble aboard there, boys—lively!"

They clambered up the side and fell to work like sharks around a dead whale. Bradley got up steam in the donkey engine. As soon as possible they started the windlass and hauled the cable taut.

"She feels it, boy; she feels it!" cried the captain. "Give it to her, every pound she'll stand. Now, then," he added, "while we're waitin' for the tide to turn we might 's well roust out a little more of the cargo. No use to lay back and let Providence do it all. The Lord helps them that helps themselves, as the darky said when he found the hen house door unlocked. Hatches off, men. Dive into it there!"

They rigged the blocks and tackle and began swinging bundles of mahogany strips from the hold over the side. The tide turned, and the water on the shoal grew deeper. The Ruth Ginn rocked in her sand cradle. Every little while they bore taut on the cable in order to take up every inch of slack.

It was exhilarating, exciting work, this fight with old ocean, and Bradley and the captain gloried in the sheer joy of it. They were winning and winning not only a goodly sum of money, but the first big prize that would demonstrate their ability to carry through larger and more important contracts. The forenoon passed.

"Cap'n Es!" suddenly bellowed Ira from the You and I. "She's movin'! Come up on your cable."

The captain jumped to the windlass, and Bradley to his engine. The cable tightened and slowly, inch by inch, wound back over the windlass barrel. From beneath the Ruth Ginn came a sliding, grating sound, the most welcome sound in the world to the wreckers. Bearse, picking up a heavy coil of rope from the deck, tossed it to Ira.

"That's the stuff, Alvin!" roared the captain approvingly. "Make it fast in the bows. Now, Ira, put your power on to that line."

The You and I leaped out into deep water and, with her naphtha engine coughing furiously, pulled doggedly at the new tow line. The grating under the keel of the lumber schooner grew louder; she quivered from stem to stern; the cable crept inboard faster and faster.

Then there came a shake, a roll that caused Peleg Myrick to lose his footing and tumble into the scuppers, and, with a triumphant wallow, the Ruth Ginn slid off the shoal. And from her deck and from that of the You and I went up a yell that scared the gulls fishing away over on the Razorback.

They drew her into the channel, well out of danger, and anchored her firmly, bow and stern.

"There!" said the captain triumphantly, "She'll stay there till we get a tug from Vineyard Haven. We'll go ashore and telephone from the life saving station for one this minute. No more work today, boys."

"Gus, do you really care?"

Bradley went that night to see Gus.

"Gus," he said, seizing her hand and holding it, "haven't you got anything to say to me?"

She did not look at him. "What shall I say?" she asked. "What do you want me to say?"

"Why, I thought you'd be glad that I've got the schooner off. I thought you'd say"—

"I am glad, very glad. And very proud. But I knew you would succeed. Hadn't we better go?"

But he would not let her go.

"I hoped you'd say more than that," he said disappointedly. "I was dreadfully blue the other night when Sam was here. I thought that, after all, perhaps I was making a fool of myself in giving up the city and trying to win out down here. It looked so small beside the great jobs Sam talked about. But when you spoke to me on the steps and told me you believed in me it all changed, and I swore to myself that I would win because you wanted me to. Gus, do you really care? Are you really glad?"

Then she turned to him, and he saw that her eyes were wet.

"What do you want me to say?" she whispered. "That I am more glad than I've ever been in my life before, and so proud of you, so proud because you were brave enough to make your fight and win it in the face of the whole village? And so ashamed of myself because I didn't encourage you as I ought when you first told me? I can say all that, Brad, and truly mean it."

"But Gus—oh, it's no use! That isn't enough. I haven't got any money, and I've only begun in my work, and I may fail, after all. But, Gus, will you wait for me? Do you care enough for me to wait and hope with me and marry me some day when I really win? Do you?"

He held her hand in both of his and waited, breathless, for the answer. But she did not give it; instead she looked at the window and through it at the waving beach grass and the blue sea beyond. And Bradley, gazing at her face, saw the tears overflow her eyelids and roll down her cheeks.

He turned white, and a great dread came over him. "Gus, don't you—can't you care for me?" he begged.

And then she turned and, leaning her head upon his shoulder, cried heartily and without restraint. "Why did you ask me? Why did you?" she sobbed.

"Because I had to. Gus, don't you love me?"

"Oh, Brad, I don't know. I think I do, but I'm not certain. I'm very, very proud of you, and I believe in you, but—oh, dear, I'm afraid of myself. I'm afraid of my temper; afraid I may change; afraid I don't really love you as much as I ought to."

"There isn't any one else, is there?"

She smiled tearfully. "No, Brad, there isn't any one else."

"Then won't you try to say yes? Perhaps you'll learn to care for me. Won't you say yes and try, dear?"

"Do you want me to say it, now that you understand just how I feel?"

"Yes."

"Do you want to take me just as I am—liking you better than anybody else in the world, but not—perhaps not really loving you as it seems to me a girl ought to love the man who is going to marry her?"

"Yes."

ON THE FARM.

HOW NATURE PROVIDES FOR US.

The most independent man on earth is the farmer, for he makes the earth yield him almost everything needed for life. He knows that as he sows so will he reap. He usually keeps strong and healthy from constant strife with Nature—in sunshine and in pure air. At night when work is done, he finds most refreshing sleep, such as only a tired man knows. In the same way that the earth yields food for man, so does it provide remedies for human ills. Thousands of households throughout the farming districts of the United States know the value of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is Nature's most valuable and health-giving agent—made without the use of alcohol. It contains native medicinal roots, and is the concentration of Nature's vitality as found in the American forests. This remedy has a history which speaks well for it because it was given to the public by Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., nearly forty years ago, and has since been sold by druggists in ever increasing quantities.

Dr. Pierce found that the bark of the Black Cherry-tree, the root of the Mandrake, Stone root, Queen's root, Bloodroot and Golden Seal root, made into a scientific, non-alcoholic extract by the use of glycerine, made the best alterative and tonic. The refreshing influence of this extract is at once apparent in the recovered strength of the patient—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which otherwise may poison the system. This alterative and tonic extract has been found to stand alone as a safe, invigorating tonic, as it does not depend on alcohol for a false stimulation, but is Nature's own method of strengthening and cleansing the system. It tones up the stomach and purifies the blood in Nature's own way. It is well known all over the world as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The name was given to this vegetable compound because one of the important ingredients was Golden Seal root. * * * Such an authority as Dr. Roberts Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal root, "very useful as a stomachic tonic. Cures catarrh of the stomach and headaches accompanying the same." Dr. Grover Coe, in his book Organic Medicines, speaking of Golden Seal root, says that "as a liver invigorator it has few equals." Further he says, "in chronic inflammation of the bladder we deem it one of the most reliable agents of cure. As a tonic in the convalescing stages of fevers, pneumonia, dysentery and other acute diseases Hydrastis (Golden Seal root) is peculiarly appropriate."

Dr. Coe continues: "We would here add that our experience has demonstrated the Hydrastis or Golden Seal root to be a valuable remedy in bronchitis, laryngitis, and other affections of the respiratory organs."

Prof. Hobart A. Hare, M. D., University of Pennsylvania, says of Golden Seal: "Of service in chronic catarrh of the stomach and bowels following abuse of alcohol, a tonic after malarial fever. Has a distinct, anti-malarial influence. Good in all catarrhal conditions, as uterine catarrh, leucorrhea, etc. Is a curative agent in chronic dyspepsia."

Prof. John M. Scudder in Specific Medication says of Golden Seal: "It stimulates the digestive processes, and increases the assimilation of food. By these means the blood is enriched, and this blood feeds the muscular system. I mention the muscular system because I believe it first feels the increased power imparted by the stimulation of increased nutrition. The consequent improvement on the nervous and glandular systems are natural results.

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription specially put up for woman's ills—for those distressing—dragging down ailments—peculiar to women—is also a temperance remedy that is best known by its cures. With Dr. Pierce's medicines, their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 31 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Shower of Fish

Independence, June 13.—At four o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the rain was heaviest, a large quantity of silver colored fish, which closely resembled mountain trout, fell from the sky. Although a few of the fish fell in all parts of the town, the fall was heaviest over the square in the centre of the town. So many of the fish fell there that the catch basins, built to carry the water to the sewers, were clogged and the water backed up and covered the sidewalks.

Various theories have been given to account for the fish being in the sky, but the most plausible is that they were sucked up by a tornado in the Rocky mountains and carried east. The fact that the fish resemble mountain trout adds to the plausibility of this theory.

The Lopsided Habit.

The girl was tugging her chiffonier across the room when a friend dropped in unceremoniously and demanded an explanation. "That's the third time you've changed that piece of furniture in so many months. I'd like to know the reason for such foolishness."

The girl gave the chiffonier a final shove into the corner and then said gaspingly: "In order that I may be beautiful on all sides, Sherlock Holmes is to blame for it. You knew he pointed out that the side of the body which the light struck the most clearly is always dressed the most immaculately. He showed that on that side the hair would be most artistically curled, the powder most carefully applied, the neckwear most painstakingly adjusted.

"And I've found out a lot more things he didn't speak of. On that side a woman will pencil her eyebrows more cleverly, will massage her face more thoroughly, will put in her side comb more neatly, etc. So every month I shove my chiffonier across the room that I may not become lopsided."

Sowing Up the Heart.

Several years ago when a fight occurred in Chicago one of the combatants received a stab wound in the heart. The first physician to reach the apparently doomed man was Dr. Daniel H. Williams, a negro practitioner, who succeeded in sewing up the man's heart. This was the first time any such operation was ever reported in the history of medicine. At the last account the patient in this remarkable case was still alive. Dr. Williams has since served on the Illinois state board of health.

WILL DO SPLENDID WORK

SIR ELDON GORST A WORTHY SUCCESSOR TO LORD CROMER.

Appointment as British Agent in Egypt Everywhere Approved—Trained by His Predecessor In Office—Right Man in the Right Place—Had Brilliant Career at Cambridge—Financial Genius.

The appointment of Sir Eldon Gorst as British Agent and Consul-General in Egypt, in succession to Lord Cromer, has everywhere been received with a chorus of approval, the general opinion being that the choice is the very best that could possibly have been made.

Sir Eldon is the son of the Rt. Hon. Sir John Gorst, and was born in New Zealand in 1861. He had a brilliant career at Cambridge, was 20 years in Egypt, was specially trained by Lord Cromer as a financier and administrator, was connected as British adviser with the most important departments of the Khedive's Government, assisted in negotiating the agreement between Great Britain and France, and completed his apprenticeship by three years' service in the Foreign Office as Under Secretary.

His eminent ability, firmness, experience and popularity in Egypt are frankly acknowledged, but he is described by censorious critics as a financier of the Milner type, who has been brought under the personal influence of his father-in-law, Mr. C. D. Rudd, one of Cecil Rhodes' working allies in South Africa. Lord Milner proved himself one of the most capable and original financiers in the civil service while he was in Egypt and in Somerset House, and his administrative work after the Boer war was so brilliant and so thorough that the ground was effectively cleared for the establishment of the Transvaal Government.

Has Every Possible Qualification.

If Sir Eldon Gorst, after being trained in the same school, has genius for finance and administration like Lord Milner's, the Khedive and his subjects are to be congratulated, and it is hardly credible that he has been incapacitated for broadminded service in Egypt by marrying the daughter of one of Mr. Rhodes' business associates. The black specks begin to dance before the eyes of Boer sympathisers whenever the names of Milner and Rhodes are mentioned.

Sir Eldon Gorst has every possible qualification for his new post, even to a thorough knowledge of Arabic, which he speaks fluently, and he will not be in hot haste to take up the political development of the country prematurely and to carry out nationalist ideals and representative institutions before the country is prepared for them.

Succeeding a Great Man.

There is no doubt that the close of a career like Lord Cromer's is a national much more than a personal event. Lord Cromer's half-century of public work includes thirty years of Egyptian service—and Egypt has not been ruled by so famous a ruler as he has proved himself since the time of Joseph. A signal fact about his career in Egypt is its level character; there has been little, if any, sensation about it. Lord Cromer strikes us as quite singular in discretion, sagacity; this, combined with a swift strength at critical times, makes indeed a notable man.

Britain's Shipbuilding.

While we admit the wickedness of feeling proud of our immense superiority in the production of merchant shipping, candor compels the acknowledgment that the sin is in us. Pharisees may say what they like on that head, but the average man must have chuckled with satisfaction the other day when he learned that whereas the British Isles launched 2,003,571 tons last year, the total output of all foreign countries was limited to 1,323,654 tons. Apart from patriotism there is solid reason for every true-born Briton to shout from the housetops at this gratifying proof of our shipbuilders' alertness and enterprise. There could be no clearer demonstration of the capacity of the United Kingdom to eclipse any and all foreign nations in the construction of war vessels also, whether of one type or another. And we happily enjoy the same superiority in regard to both cheapness and speed—a superiority which in the case of any great maritime war, would be bound to tell immensely in favor of white-cliffed Albion. So let us repent, in sackcloth and ashes, for our unpardonable naughtiness, while at the same time doing all in our power to render it hopeless for the foreigner to enter into rivalry.

His Opportunity.

Ardent Swain (to object of his affection)—For several weeks past I have been trying to speak to you, Miss Rosa, but you never gave me the chance of putting in a word. I therefore gladly avail myself of your temporary hoarseness to make you an offer of marriage.

Indemnity From States

San Francisco, June 14.—The Japanese residents of San Francisco intend to demand an indemnity from the United States Government for the alleged attack upon the Japanese restaurant and other acts of violence which they say have been inflicted on them. They hope, by diplomatic pressure to force the Washington Government to suppress anti-Japanese legislation in California.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

Recent Discoveries Under Continued Development Make Us Believe that an Advance in the Price of this Stock must take place at an early date.

The Gold Bond Company is a Colorado Corporation. Capitalized at 1,500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable, 800,000 shares in treasury.

Our holdings consist of four claims, three of which are patented, and all lie close to the Addison claim, which made the GOLDEN MESSAGE famous. One of our veins is an extension of the Addison, and shows the same character of ore as that now being taken out of the Addison shaft. Comparatively little work has been done on the Gold Bond group, but we have receipts from small shipments of the high grade ore showing values running as high as $24,000 per ton; the veins are from three to twenty feet in width, all good milling ore, with streaks of the extraordinary high grade running all through.

Remarkable Invention

FOR THE

CULTURE OF HAIR

THE EVANS VACUUM CAP is a practical invention constructed on scientific and hygienic principles by the simple means of which a free and normal circulation is restored throughout the scalp. The minute blood vessels are gently stimulated to activity, thus allowing the food supply which can only be derived from the blood, to be carried to the hair roots, the effects of which are quickly seen in a healthy, vigorous growth of hair. There is no rubbing, and as no drugs or chemicals of whatsoever kind are employed there is nothing to cause irritation. It is only necessary to wear the Cap three or four minutes daily.

60 DAYS' FREE TRIAL!

The Company's Guarantee

An EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent you for sixty days' free trial. If you do not see a gradual development of a new growth of hair, and are not convinced that the Cap will completely restore your hair, you are at liberty to return the Cap with no expense whatever to yourself. It is requested, as an evidence of good faith, that the price of the Cap be deposited with the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit Company, of London, the largest financial and business institution of the kind in the world, who will issue a receipt guaranteeing that the money will be returned in full, on demand without questions or comment, at any time during the trial period.

The eminent Dr. I. N. Love, in his address to the Medical Board on the subject of Alopaecia (loss of hair) stated that if a means could be devised to bring nutrition to the hair follicles (hair roots) without resorting to any irritating process, the problem of hair growth would be solved. Later on, when the EVANS VACUUM CAP was submitted to him for inspection, he remarked that the Cap would fulfil and confirm in practice the observations he had previously made before the Medical Board.

Dr. W. Moore, referring to the invention, says that the principle upon which the EVANS VACUUM CAP is founded is absolutely correct and indisputable.

An illustrated and descriptive book of the EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent post free, on application.

SELECTIONS

SEASONABLE NOTES.

Soft Silks and Satins Best For Wedding Gowns—Bertha Collar.

At present the great preference for all soft silks and satins is marked. This is especially the case in wedding gowns, as the soft satins drape and hang more gracefully. Of course these soft fabrics require more trimming than the others, but that also is the mode this season.

Lace veils are not in as great demand as formerly, for they are so hard to arrange artistically. Nevertheless a handsome lace veil is infinitely richer than one of tulle and if put on the hair in a fetching way will usually take care of itself.

Plain colored silk sunshades of good quality and with pretty wood handles are now offered at extremely reasonable prices. Some are marked as low as $1.50, while for another dollar one may get a beauty.

The bertha collar is becoming to every childish figure and in some form or another is this season an addition to nearly every frock. The models are without number, and they are formed from every material and trimmed with all sorts of lace and embroidery.

In all smart hat models the front brim is short and the back brim is long. This seems to be as universal as anything in fickle fashion's domain can be. It is so radical a change that it is not easy for the eye to become accustomed to it.

The simple little frock illustrated herewith is of that kind in which the youngster is happiest and which the wise mother provides in generous numbers. It is made of ring dotted batiste, with trimming of embroidery, but it is susceptible to infinite variation.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Among the New Pocketbooks—Corset Sachet—Hat Trimmings.

Long, flat pocketbooks with a strap on the back are made of pigskin, morocco, alligator, pin seal and walrus leathers. Some have little watches set into the corner.

For the front of the corset a heart shaped sachet bag filled with cotton and my lady's favorite scent is covered with flowered silk. This little affair is attached to one side of the corset, and after it is closed it is secured by a tiny gold safety pin. There are also oblong sachet pads designed to fit the sides of the corsets under the arms when such filling is required.

The new effect in hat trimming is to have a shower of two or three long plumes, the longest reaching to the nape of the neck of its fair wearer.

Cape wraps lead all the rest, and the daintiest little confections of lace and silk, to say nothing of cloth, will adorn the shoulders of femininity this summer. These little wraps are in light colored silks and for a walking costume match the gown in color, but not always in material. There are any number of attractive designs, but the most practical has a bodice very much on the shirt waist order, with plaits from the shoulders, both back and front, and the neck cut in a V shape. The sleeves reach to the elbow and are of the kimono order. Brown or black silk stockings are worn in the latest hosiery, clocked in groups between embroidered stripes.

The smart boy's suit sketched is of white galatea cloth, which has the double merit of looking well and being durable. Pale blue bands trim the sailor collar, and the tie is of black surahette. JUDIC CHOLLET.

TEA TABLE TRIMMINGS.

Little Dainties to Pique the Appetite at Afternoon Affairs.

Since the custom of taking afternoon tea is not only well established in this country, but now in danger of becoming an untimely feast, it is astonishing to note the numerous little dainties and extra trimmings which are being served to pique and delight the appetite. It is no longer merely a cup of tea and a slice of thin bread and butter that may be expected between 4 and 5:30 o'clock. Jam has been added to the list and often hot Scotch scones and English muffins. Beside the tea table proper there stands usually a sort of rack table, pyramidal in shape and having three shelves, one above the other and round like plates. Each one is covered with attractive china holding some fascinating biscuit or cake. Jam of one or two kinds is suggested in between them, and after the hostess has ascertained which jam and biscuit her guest prefers she spreads it for him herself before passing it on a small plate. This little attention appears very gracious.

Among the biscuits those of "health food" reputation are often found and the jam is spread over them to add to their somewhat questionable tastiness. Other hostesses have fine, small, flat wafers of whole wheat covered with chocolate in their own kitchens before serving. They are then above reproach to pass with tea. The biscuit itself is digestible, the chocolate tasty and nourishing. Biscuits covered with cheese, on the contrary, while highly agreeable to the taste, are avoided by those hypercareful about their diet.

Strawberry jam is undoubtedly the favorite for spreading on English muffins. Blackberry jam or guava is chosen to spread on the health food biscuits, especially those made of graham or whole wheat. Scotch scones are spread only through the middle with fresh butter. These scones are very similar to old fashioned soda biscuits and are invariably served hot. In size they are little larger than a quarter of a dollar. The number that some people can make disappear is therefore readily countenanced.

Wafer toast finds a place at afternoon tea. In making it the bread is cut as thin as possible, and it is then toasted until extremely crisp. It is eaten dry or with jam, but it is never buttered.

When cake appears at afternoon tea, the fashion rages for a rich pound cake showing through it many large raisins. Europeans invariably refer to it as "American plum cake" and regard it as a specialty of this country. In entertaining foreigners, therefore, it is perhaps the most acceptable cake to offer.

A Seasonable Dish.

Veal or beef is roasted in a pot, and when dished boiled asparagus is arranged on the same platter, a garnish of hard boiled eggs being placed on the vegetable. The sauce can be plain butter, seasoned with a little vinegar, pepper and salt, or a tartare-one.

How One Girl Rests.

"The first thing I do when I get home from the office is to change all my clothing," said the business girl.

"I know it takes time, but it pays. It not only saves wear on the office skirt and shoes, which amounts to a great deal, for there is no quicker way to get a skirt shapeless and shabby than to lounge around in it at home, but I do it even more for the rest it gives me.

"If you have never made a practice of it, you cannot guess what a rest it is to put on other shoes, to slip into another blouse and collar and skirt.

"When I have bathed my face and done this, I feel like another person. Even if I don't get a chance to lie down before dinner I am refreshed.

"And my office dress and shoes, all carefully brushed and ready for morning, are also the better for this extra relief."

Advice to New Housekeepers.

Do not furnish your house fully until you have lived in it awhile.

Buy at first only such furniture as you need for comfort. When you are settled, you can study the needs of each part of the house, and after you have fully determined what you want buy it when you see an advantageous chance.

Never decide hastily upon a piece of furniture. Purchase furniture for the future as much as for the present. It is true fashion changes in furniture from year to year, but it is only people of large means who can follow a fashion of this kind.

Plain, elegant styles are the sort that wear best and give the best satisfaction in the end, even though they are a trifle more expensive at first.

Pearls in Fashion.

Some time ago fashion decreed that the finger that was adorned with a ruby should not have its beauty further enhanced by a ring of diamonds, that turquoise should not mingle with emeralds and so on. Now, however, there is a new law, and the hand that carried one pearl ring must wear no other rings than those of pearls, says the Cosey Corner. According to the robe that is worn, the hands show a blaze of diamonds or soft toned pearls, all quite unrelieved and showing as little as possible of their gold or silver setting.

No Wonder Beef Prices Are Stiff

Medicine Hat, Alta., June 14.—All the witnesses at the Beef Commission agreed that there was no competition at all amongst buyers, who cut the country up into districts and were ordered not to interfere with each other. Trouble in getting cars on the date ordered was also a grievance, and the small shipper was shown to have no chance against the big corporations, which could send in whole train loads of cattle at once and get through passage to the seaboard, while the small shipper's stuff was usually hitched on to a way freight, and took much longer. The trouble in shipping to England was that the brokers purchased shipping space at about thirty shillings a head, and retailed it to the small shippers at from forty-five to sixty shillings.

London, June 14.—"Such a contingency as an outbreak of war between the United States and Japan is regarded by educated Japanese as almost inconceivable," cables the correspondent of the Times at Tokio. "If the Progressives are inclined to stir up agitation for the defence of Japan's treaty rights it will be aimed solely at discrediting the ministry, and in the interests of party politics. The Progressives themselves would take the lead in denouncing such a war if there was any real danger of such."

Severe Pains in the Groin

Trying Experience of a Well Known Citizen in St. John, N.B.

The case of Mr. Chas F. Olive, for years foreman in the "Gazette" of St. John, N. B., is a striking evidence of the power of Ferrozone.

No remedy has such a record for restoring sufferers from acute stomach and kidney trouble; it invariably does cure.

"For several years" writes Mr. Olive, "I have had kidney trouble and until quite recently I suffered torture. A few months ago my condition assumed a very serious form. I consulted several city doctors, used different pills, but without the slightest benefit. I suffered from an intense pain in the groin, and the increasing seriousness of my trouble prompted me to try Ferrozone. It gave me quick relief, and a half-a-dozen boxes cured. Ferrozone I can recommend as a specific for disordered kidneys."

Won't you try Ferrozone too, 50c. per box at all dealers in medicine.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

GASMES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

T. C. S. Cricketers Not Here

The Trinity College school team of Port Hope which was to have played the return match here this afternoon with the Peterborough Cricket Club have sent word that they will not be able to come.

Appeals Dismissed

The following appears in Osgoode Hall notes:

Re Peterborough Cold Storage Co. Wilson's and Ballagh's case.—D. O'Connell, Peterborough, for the liquidator moved on consent to dismiss the appeals. Appeals dismissed; each party to pay their own costs.

New Lacrosse Uniforms Here

The Peterborough Lacrosse team will play on the sward at Rosedale this afternoon in new uniforms. The sweaters are blue and white and the knickers will be white. The sweaters were ordered through F. A. Clarke & Co., and were issued yesterday. Fourteen of them have been bought in order to provide for the spare men.

Last Case Not Decided

His Honor Judge Weller reserved judgment in the case of English versus Black, tried at the county court. This was the last case on the docket and was not of great local interest, as the plaintiff resides at Hastings and the defendant at Campbellford. The case arose over an assignment in which both parties were interested.

A Lindsay Utopian

Lindsay seems to have some socialistic members within its community as the Post of that town is out with a letter advocating the erection at a cost of $25,000 of a communal building, where all citizens could go, whether rich or poor, and each individual feel that it was theirs, without charity and without feeling that they were under any obligation to anyone else; a place with reading, smoking, bath and other rooms; a place with an amusement hall, lecture room and auditorium, combined or separate; a place for all harmless and healthful games for old and young, males and females, either isolated or together; a place for social gatherings of a public nature; a place for appointments; a place kept clean, neat and comfortable, and, open continually from 6 or 7 a.m. to 11 p.m.

T. V. B. League Schedule

The Trent Valley Baseball League including Campbellford, Hastings and Roseneath clubs have met and elected officers and arranged the schedule as follows:

Hastings at Campbellford, June 13.
Roseneath at Hastings, June 18.
Campbellford at Roseneath, June 12.
Roseneath at Campbellford, June 27.

Water Short on Water Street

Residents along Water street bitterly over the inadequate water supply granted this main thoroughfare. It seems that the water carts make semi-occasional and rapid flights on Water street, giving the residents there, on an average, possibly one teacupful of water per diem. It is no secret that Water street residents have to keep their front windows shut daily to shut out the dust that daily blows in clouds.

Legal Fishing on June 16th

The open fishing season for maskinonge, bass, etc., begins on June 16th, the close season being from April 15th to June 15th, both days inclusive. The minimum size of any bass allowed by the regulations to be caguht and kept is 10 inches and maskinonge 24 inches. No person can legally capture and retain in any one day more than eight bass or four lunge. Fishery Overseer Watt will see that these regulations are observed.

Bob Heiderman and Bride Home

Mr. and Mrs Heiderman were greatly surprised, but they gave their friends a most enjoyable evening.

One of the Best

Government Surveyor of steamers, Mr. Shaw of Kingston, has completed the measurement of the new steamer Otonabee. To The Times he stated that this steamer is one of the best of its class he ever measured, and he has been many years engaged in this occupation. The hull is equal in strength and build to any of the larger steamers of the Great Lakes, in fact he said that it is almost fit for an ocean liner. The boat will run its first excursion on Wednesday evening next, when the Young Men's Guild of St. Luke's Church will enjoy an outing. The net tonnage, after deducting engine and boiler space, cabins and other portions is of sufficient tonnage to permit of a large number of passengers being carried.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retro-version or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

Mr. J. W. Latimer the well known commercial traveller, of this city has just returned from a month's trip through Manitoulin Island, the Sault and other western points. When interviewed by The Times yesterday, Mr. Latimer noted that in New Liskeard and the Cobalt district business is fairly booming. Mr. Latimer said he has had a splendid trip. He is now travelling for the Messrs. G. F. Foy Co., of Toronto. Mr. Latimer leaves on Monday morning for his next trip.

Likes British Columbia

Winnipeg, June 14.—On Tuesday, General Booth passed through here on his way to London.

Asked as to his impression of Canada on the tour, the General replied: "I have not changed my views since I was here last, but I have been greatly impressed by the prospects of British Columbia. It seems to me that there is a vast field there for thousands of people! That is, people of the right kind, and assisted in a rational way."

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—causes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

JAS. BOURNE BADLY HURT BY ELEVATOR

Serious Accident at the Matthews' Packing House Whereby Aged Carpenter is Most Seriously Injured

A most serious accident occurred Saturday afternoon at the Matthews packing house whereby Mr. James Bourne of Rink street, now lies in a precarious condition.

It seems that Mr. Bourne, who is about 78 years of age and a carpenter by occupation, was engaged in repairing a gate protecting the elevator shaft. This gate is suspended by ropes running through pulleys and is used to prevent anyone by accident stepping into the open shaft, after the elevator has left that floor either in its descent to a lower flat or up to a higher floor. Just previous to the accident the elevator happened to be on a higher floor to where Bourne was then working. The old man during progress of his work had partly climbed up the gate on the inner side of the elevator shaft, and for some reason had placed a board in the shaft on which to recline as he worked.

The engineer of the works having occasion to descend by the elevator called a warning down the shaft, saying, "Look out for the hoist" or some such words. Unfortunately, Bourne did not hear the cry, and continued his work. Of course the engineer, after giving his warning and starting the lift on its downward course could not see the man at work below in the shaft. When the bottom of the elevator got as far as where the unfortunate man was working it pinned him between the lift and the board crushing his head and chest so that blood spurted in all directions.

His head was twisted to one side and the nose was squeezed completely to the flat of his cheek. Some three or four ribs were broken and it is feared the ends of them were forced into the lungs. Dr. Scott the company's physician was at once summoned, and after doing all that medical skill could effect, had the injured man removed to his residence on Rink street. Bourne although so terribly injured did not lose consciousness, and when the horrified engineer raised the elevator and came to Bourne's assistance, the latter remarked, "I got a bad squeeze."

Whilst Mr. Bourne was doing as well as could be expected last night, at his age the results of his fearful squeeze are regarded with serious apprehension.

Freight Cars Tumble Into Niagara's Gorge

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 16. —A G.T.R. crew had an exciting mix-up on the big steel arch bridge yesterday morning about four o'clock. The men left the Lehigh Valley yards, on the American side of the river, with 41 empty box cars for the Canadian side. The Lehigh has no night yard inspector, and the accident that followed is attributed to that.

A brake-beam on a car about the center of the train was dragging. It ran some cars off the rails, and there was a general bump, bump, bump on the ties. This was noticed by an Erie engineer, who "whistled them down." Brakes were applied by the G.T.R. engineer, and the sudden stopping of the front of the train with the momentum of the cars in the rear caused the center cars, which were off the track, to buckle out and go over the edge of the bridge. Two of them shot out clear of the lower storey and plunged headforemost into the Niagara, 250 feet below, which at this point has a very strong current.

A third car stopped on the edge, then went over, striking the railing of the lower storey. When the railing was struck the car turned a complete somersault.

This morning not a trace can be seen of the missing cars, two of which belong to the Wabash railway and the other to the D.M. & R.R.

Memorial on the Ocean

Windsor, Ont., June 16.—A New York despatch says: A unique memorial service on the ocean was reported by the officers of the steamer Koenigen Louise, which arrived here yesterday. On the steamer's last voyage from Europe, Mrs. Prentice, formerly of Windsor, died from cancer, and by order of an Austrian immigration commissioner, who was on board, her body was buried at sea, in disregard of the protests of her daughter and other passengers.

As a result, her husband, Dr. Prentice, has begun an action claiming $250,000 damages.

On the outward trip of this voyage, when the steamer passed near the spot where the body had been put overboard, a large box of flowers was lowered over the side and set adrift over the unmarked grave in the ocean.

Chicago Theatre Burned

Chicago, June 16.—The Olympic theater, the oldest vaudeville house in Chicago, was practically destroyed by fire at midnight last night. The loss will exceed $150,000

The fire caused terror among the guests in the Union Hotel, which adjoins the theater on the east. All were advised to pack their trunks and vacate.

Crossed electric wires between the first and second galleries are supposed to have caused the fire.

Saved Million Lives

New York, June 16.—A cablegram from Chinkiang, dated June 13, received by the Christian Herald from its representative, who accompanied the relief steamship United States army transport Buford to China, and superintended the distribution of the cargo, says:

"All Buford cargo now despatched by mule inland and by junks up canal. Fleet of fifty-four junks fully loaded. Fevers terribly prevalent. Missionaries almost exhausted. Canal trip shows that reports of famine were not exaggerated.

"Relief afforded from all sources has saved one million lives."

Story Looked Suspicious

Ottawa, June 16.—A startling and tragic story in connection with the mysterious disappearance of a young man named Lavigne comes from Buckingham, Quebec. Lavesque, who was employed at the McLaren mills at McGregor Mills, in company with a friend named Evans, left the mills on the night of May 15 to walk round the lake 300 a point nearly opposite. Next morning Evans was picked up near the mills in a rowboat alone, and intoxicated. He stated that his friend had fallen overboard while crossing the lake during the night, and had been drowned.

The story was at first supposed to have been false, but investigations which have been made during the last few days prove that the two left the opposite side of the lake together on the night of the 15th in a rowboat to start home. Both were intoxicated.

Fierce Fight on Hunter Street

Douro Farmers Get Overdose of Foolish Water and Come to Blows

On Saturday afternoon about three o'clock two men from the township of Douro met in a Hunter street hotel, after having each had absorbed a number of alcoholic beverages, the total of which would probably be known to neither of the twain. In the bar of said hotel words were passed between the two that led to blows in short order. The fight soon was carried up Hunter street pavement where about Howell somewhat as described in an old school reader concerning how the "waters came down at Ladore." After one Douro man's home-like fist encountered the proboscis of the other, it was to paraphrase the Ladore rhym, the crimson stream at did speed, those present agreed that the blood did exceed the greed of Boss Tweed, or the milk vendors' (6 cent) greed o'er poverty's need, etc.

Both men shortly looked as though they had been through a steam thresher.

After the fight had been on for a few minutes friends of each gathered in their respective combatants and took them into the building and had their wounds attended to.

Shortly after the fight was over, P. C. McDonald, who had received an inkling of the affray, hustled at once to the spot. There was a noticeable absence of nearly all those who succored the future time warriors. This constable who seems to be an efficient addition to the force, at once proceeded to make enquiries and see that no chance of recurrence of the trouble should take place. License Inspector Stewart also was on hand within possibly three minutes after the fight took place. It is only fair, after giving these details to note that neither of the participants in this trouble had obtained their liquor in the Hunter street hotel, within possibly five hours before the trouble occurred. Their "fighting jag" had been absorbed elsewhere.

Local Man Goes Suddenly Insane

Leaves to Procure Whey at Smith Factory and Found Crazy

Saturday afternoon the friends of a young man living on the old Fraser property, near Jackson Park, called at the police station enquiring as to the former's whereabouts.

It seems the young man, shortly after dinner drove to a nearby cheese factory in the township of Smith, to procure some whey. As the distance is only short, and he did not return for some hours, his friends becoming anxious, called at the police station to make enquiries. A number of his friends made a systematic search for the missing man and late in the evening found him wandering about the country acting in a quite irrational manner. He was taken home and is quite out of his mind. It is not yet known what caused this sudden attack, as the young man has never before exhibited any symptoms of insanity.

24th Field Battery Now at Pottawawa

Local Soldiers Create Good Impression on all Who Saw Them

All day Saturday Peterborough bore the almost gala appearance of a garrison town, as the smart uniforms of the 24th Field Battery boys were paraded through the streets or covered our local artillerymen as they busily drove about attending to the 101 various things involved in entraining for the summer camp at Petawawa. The battery went on parade at the east ward armories at noon, and the artillery men were kept busy during the afternoon in fitting up the harness as it was necessary to arrange the equipment for sixty-four horses.

About four o'clock the battery paraded to the C.P.R. by way of Hunter and George streets, and entrained upon the arrival of the Campbellford contingent, getting away about six o'clock.

The battery was in command of Major Young and the other officers Capt. Hall, Capt. Leary and Lieut. McDonough. Veterinary Lieut. Blanchard accompanied the battery as did Sergt.-Major Fee, to whose able construction a good deal of the credit for the smart appearance of the battery is due.

The battery on arrival yesterday morning found everything ready for their reception and comfort, as Capt. Hall and Sergt. Jefferson left by the C.P.R. midnight Friday to have things in good shape for the Battery. The 24th will doubtless command the admiration of all at Pettewawa. They went in full strength, five officers, 99 men and 64 horses. The men looked spic and span in their bright uniforms, and are a fine lot of young men. Not a man of the battery, although most of Saturday was at their disposal for pleasure, was seen the worse of liquor. The horses taken were in good fit, but were mostly of heavier build than usually chosen for such purposes.

PREFERS DEATH BEFORE RIDICULE

Urchins' Taunts Drive Greek Priest to Suicide

FUN LEADS TO A TRAGEDY

Wore Hair Reaching to Middle of His Back, and Jokes of Boys Were Too Much for Him

London, June 16.—A pathetic account of the tragic death of a Greek priest comes from Cardiff, where early on Friday morning his body was recovered from the Glamorgan Canal. The victim, Marcus Cokolaras, came from Smyrna, and for some weeks he had been filling minor offices at the Greek church at Cardiff.

His host says that when he first came to England his hair reached to the middle of his back. Street urchins annoyed him considerably by laughing at him, and once, when he was in a coffee tavern in London, some youngsters surreptitiously tied his hair to the back of his chair.

When he came to Cardiff local youths also poked fun at him, and one day he mentioned the matter to his landlord, who suggested that he should have his hair cut. He did so, and ever since he had worried over it, because he could not return to his own country and hope to become the priest of a church there with his hair cropped. His host thought this had preyed on his mind, but neither he nor his wife suspected that he contemplated suicide.

At the inquest last night the jury returned a verdict of found drowned, there being no evidence to show how the man had got into the water.

Watchman Makes Stupid Burglary

Cobourg Sentinel-Star says;

On Friday morning Charles Holmbeck, former night watchman at the mill, appeared before P. M. Holland on a charge of breaking into the office at the Woolen Mill, on June 2nd, and the case was remanded until Monday, owing to Mr. Keith Holmbeck's lawyer being unable to attend. The evidence showed that Holmbeck had not punched the night-watchman's clock in the regular way for two hours that night, and in an endeavor to hide his neglect, broke into the office and punched the time card with a pin, but in his zeal punched from the wrong side as the card afterwards showed. Holmbeck, in trying to throw the blame for breaking into the mill, came down town and got Chief Ruse out of bed, claiming two men broke into the office, and that one of them hit him with a stone while being pursued. On examining the time sheet, Chief Ruse noticed the different punches and concluded that Holmbeck was his own burglar. The windows had been opened with a screw driver, the marks of which fitted a screw driver from the machine shop which he had used in breaking into the office. As the evidence pointed conclusively to Holmbeck's guilt, he was let go on suspended sentence.

Engineer Wainwright Writes to the Council

Says Foreman at Fire Hall Wanted Him to do Too Much Work

Mr. S. Wainwright, formerly engineer of the local fire brigade, whose contemplated resignation of his former position was noted in last week's papers, on Saturday wrote and posted his formal letter of resignation to the chairman of the Fire, Water & Light Committee of the City Council. In this letter Mr. Wainwright stated that the present foreman at the fire hall asked him to do work that was not only incompatible with the duties of an engineer, but, according to this side of the story absolutely impossible for a human being to perform. According to Mr. Wainwright's letter which will be read at the next meeting of the Fire, Water & Light Committee, the foreman ordered him, after he, Wainwright, had done nine hours' work on the steam crusher, to do fully half a day's work in the fire hall in the way of sweeping up, cleaning and other jobs that Mr. Wainwright claims no man is either expected or able to do after a full day's work. It might be noted in this connection that Chief Rutherford, when interviewed Saturday night by The Times, was non-committal in this particular instance, although he certainly looks after the interests of each and every member of his brigade. Mr. Rutherford declined to give any opinion for publication in this case but reading between the lines (if an Hibernianism might be used) the veteran chief seems to think that Mr. Wainwright was not need absolutely right.

It will be interesting to his friends and other members of the brigade to learn what action the committee will take, regarding Mr. Weinwright's letter.

Locals Outclassed at Rosedale

Peterboro Lacrosse Intermediates Lost by Score of 14—0

On Saturday the Peterborough Intermediate C.L.A. team journey to Toronto, and then journeyed back leaving their scalps hanging on the teepees of the Young Torontos. The game was delayed for about half an hour as the C.P.R. baggageman by mistake put off the baggage containing the uniforms of the local club at Myrtle.

When the teams lined up, Hackins of Newmarket was found in the nets for the visitors, while the famous Pat McDonough also figured on the same line-up. The local line-up was as follows;

Goal, Backus; point, Regan; cover, Denocher; defence field, Glover, Mein, Meagher; centre, McGrath; home field, Judd, McDonough, McLean; outside, Best; inside, Tracy; field captain, George Lynch.

Young Torontos rushed on the face-off, and after 1 1-4 minutes Stolery scored on a scrimmage from the side.

It was Young Torontos all the way, and Mara registered for the Rosedale boys in two minutes. Peterborough now had the ball in Toronto's territory for the first time, but Woods relieved on a combination to Beal, the latter scoring in 1 1-2 minutes.

Both teams checked hard, but finally in three minutes, on a pretty combination Lowes scored the fourth goal for Young Toronto. Peterboroughs were outclassed, score first quarter, Young Torontos 7, Peterborough 0.

Better play marked the second quarter, McGrath was hurt and went off for a short time. Regan was also hurt, as was Mara, but both were able to continue playing. Young Torontos notched three goals in 13, 4 and 2 minutes.

Score at half-time; Young Torontos 10, Peterborough 0.

By mutual agreement the last half was cut down to 12 minutes each quarter. Regan was unable to come on the third quarter and Murphy covered up. Young Torontos scored in 6 1-2 minutes. Score at three-quarter time; Young Torontos 11, Peterborough 0.

The total score at the finish was, 14—0 in favor of Toronto.

ALVERSTONE SINGS IN LONDON CHURCH

Chief Justice of England Possesses Splendid Voice

GOOD ENOUGH FOR STAGE

Member of Village Choir on Country Estate, and an Object of Great Interest to Tourists

London, June 15.—To see the usually stern and dignified Lord Chief Justice of England, dressed in soutane and surplice leading the choir in a London church is a spectacle at once interesting and unique.

Despite the cares of his great office and the large responsibility which it entails, Lord Alverstone assiduously attends the services at St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington, every Sunday, and takes his place among the somewhat humble members of the church choir. His lordship is an enthusiastic musician, and possesses a really magnificent voice. Indeed, if he were not the highest legal functionary on the English bench he could make a fortune on the operatic stage.

During the recess, when Lord Alverstone spends his time on his estate in the country, he invariably sings in the village church, which, it need scarcely be said, is almost invariably crowded by tourists and other strangers impelled by the natural curiosity of seeing the Lord Chief Justice in a position so opposed to all the traditions of rigidness and severity which environ the English judicature.

Steel Much Cheaper on the Market

New York, June 16.—The receivers of the Matthew Bros., Corporation, which failed on Monday, have decided to close the steel mill of the $7,500,000 plant on Staten Island, and have, in accordance with this determination, discharged 1500 steel workers.

About 7000 persons are dependent upon earnings of the discharged men and as the re-opening of the mill is problematical, most of the workers and their families will go to other steel centres to secure employment.

The reason behind the receivers' action in closing the mill was said to be their discovery that they could buy steel on the open market cheaper than they could manufacture it.

Leases Farm for Kaiser

Lexington, Ky., June 16.—Dr. Arnold Frank of Berlin, Germany, personal representative of Emperor William, yesterday leased the big stock farm of William Field, near here, which is to be a distributing point for horses to be purchased throughout the south for the use of German army officers.

The horses will be shipped from here to Germany.

BOTHA HAD DEAL WITH CABINET?

National Review Makes an Alleged Expose

REPATRIATION OF COOLIES

In Return it is Charged, British Government Consented to Guarantee Loan of $40,000,000

London, June 15.—In the June number of the National Review, there is a series of papers entitled "Greater Britain," and in one headed "South Africa," the writer gives the inner history of the Imperial guarantee of the loan of five million pounds to the Transvaal. It is an amazing story.

Swaziland, hitherto under Imperial protection, had previously been abandoned to Transvaal Boers as their own to work their will on, and, says the writer, "on his arrival in England General Botha was approached by the colonial office and asked whether he would not, in return for Swaziland and past favors, pledge himself to the repatriation of the Chinese coolies on their indentures expired. He replied he could not make any undertaking of the kind. When this answer filtered out and became known to the Liberal rank and file, a large number of the members of parliament, supporters of the ministry, signed a memorial stating that they would vote against the government if the licenses of the Chinese coolies were renewed. The ministers finding themselves in a tight place, not being willing to have their own decided and county supporters, and being unable to coerce General Botha, had a happy thought. The Transvaal was talking of raising a loan of five millions, they would pledge the credit of Great Britain, guarantee the loan, offer General Botha to save him one per cent. equal to fifty thousand pounds a year, on condition that the eight thousand Chinamen whose licenses expire this summer should be sent back to China. This is the shady bargain which under pressure of a party revolt has just been concluded, and in which the good name of Great Britain is disastrously involved. Every one who read the announcement of the guaranteed loan grabbed his eyes at the statement of financial help to our wealthiest and least indebted South African colony, and until the true story became known the whole transaction was a mystery.

"General Botha will apply the £,000,000 in giving doles to his own electors and on building a railway through Swaziland. The Cape and Natal, who drave, to raise their own loans at greatly higher rates than the favored Transvaal, will be severely hit by the new railway competition. As the ministers are men who are loyal to the principle of empire and who are incapable of cut-throat intrigue, the present colonial office has no use for them. It is possible that so corrupt a dealing, unparalleled in our time, should escape publicity and severe condemnation.

Springfield, Ill., June 16.—A federal grand jury last night returned an indictment against Rev. James R. H. Kaye, formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Lincoln, Ill., and now editor of the Home Herald, published at Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago, where he now lives, charging him with making counterfeit money.

Moulds for the manufacture of counterfeit dimes, quarters, half dollars and dollars were found in the basement of the hall, which Rev. Mr. Kaye occupied while pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lincoln.

When arrested he confessed to making the moulds, but explained that he was only experimenting with them to see if he could manufacture medals to be presented to the children of the Sunday school as rewards for getting new pupils.

700,000 Sawlogs Do Immense Damage

Huntington, W. Va., June 16.—Over 700,000 sawlogs, valued at $2,000,000, the largest gorge of timber ever known on a West Virginia stream, broke loose two miles up the Guyandote River last night and practically swept out everything in the river that came in its path.

Booms, fleets of timber, small craft of every description were carried before the gorge. A large iron bridge across the Guyandote river at its mouth, valued at $75,000, was destroyed and five massive stone piers built into the river to protect the boom of the Guyandote Timber Company were swept away.

For two hours the timber passed this city so thickly that people could have walked from shore to shore.

Numerous steamboats lying along the wharf were saved by going down the river ahead of the gorge, and in their journey knew distress whistles to warn people along the waterway.

Madman Attacks Police

Ottawa, June 16.—The chief of police of Eganville had a nasty experience with a lunatic at Pembroke yesterday. He was conveying a madman named Ryan from Eganville to Chapeau, Que., when the latter attacked him murderously, kicked him on the face and seized one of his hands with his teeth. With considerable difficulty Ryan was overpowered.

The constable's hand was badly chewed.

Wrong Food Makes Invalids

Little Quirks and Ails and Nature's Mild Requests to Right Some Wrong On must Heed the Complaint or Pay the Penalty

Modern folks have discovered a way to recover—by proper selection of food and drink.

Look carefully into the health of the individual who knows that "coffee don't hurt me" and you are almost sure to find some physical ailment or functional disturbance—perhaps a muddy complexion, weak eyes, incipient heart failure, kidney, liver or bowel disorders, or some form of weakness that shows plainly enough the cry for relief sent up from some organ of the body.

Dismissal of coffee and change to Postum brings relief and shows clearly that coffee hinders digestion. Failure in digestion means lack of good blood and therefore a lack of food for the nerve centers. Removal of the cause will allow Nature to right herself, and Postum contains Phosphate of Potash, Albumen, etc., from the field grains which unite to form the delicate gray matter of the nerves throughout the body.

Long-boiling (see directions on package) brings out the rich flavor and snappy coffee taste—free from the nerve-racking drug—caffeine—in coffee.

A 10-day's test of

POSTUM

BAD RAILS AND ACCIDENTS

In a single run between New York and Chicago the Pennsylvania flyer broke 20 rails. The steel men, while not denying the numerous breakages, say that the weight of the locomotives and cars has become too great even for the heavier rails that are now in use, and that to replace them with rails of the right sort would cost the roads a billion of dollars. An authority on track construction, quoted by the Scientific American, says that the rail that would meet modern requirements must weigh 115 pounds to the yard, have a six-inch base, and rest upon a nine-inch tie. The road-bed and track of today, it is said, are crude and inadequate; the T-rail, the softwood ties, and the small spikes should be abolished.

The Railroad Gazette is not satisfied with these explanations. The increased weight of the train upon the rails is not denied. But the Gazette asks why it is that the 56-pound rails of former times, many of which are still in use, stand the strain so much better than the hundred pound rails that have succeeded them in many cases. The Gazette uses very strong language, remarking upon the criminal willingness of the steel corporation and the companies allied with it to manufacture rails that cost human life; and the disposition, almost equally criminal, on the part of many high railroad officers to ignore the plain truths that are being brought before them by their superintendents and chief engineers.

It would appear that there is truth in all the explanations; the increase in weight of rails has not kept pace with the increase in weight and speed of trains; the track and road-beds have not been improved as other portions of the equipment have been, and there has been criminal dishonesty in the manufacture of rails, causing weakness where increased strength was required. A system of rigid inspection of rails is required in Canada, as well as in the United States, although the record of Canadian-made rails is good.

Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. Mayor of San Francisco Convicted

San Francisco, June 14.—Mayor Eugene Schmitz was last night found guilty of extorting money from keepers of French restaurants in this city.

This is the first formal conviction in the anti-graft campaign inaugurated several months ago.

Abe Reef, who was indicted for similar offences, pleaded guilty to the charges and appeared as a witness against Schmitz.

When the verdict was announced Schmitz sat unmoved with his left hand to his chin. He apparently did not understand, and asked Barrett, "What is it?"

"Guilty," said Barrett.

Schmitz's hand dropped to the table, but he showed no other sign of emotion.

Dinner in Seven Styles

London, June 15.—A rather curious bet between an Englishman and an American has just been made public. It was won last week by the former. The Englishman made a wager that he would give in London seven dinners typical of seven different countries on as many nights.

The continuous feast began with a real English meal, with turtle soup, meat roasted before a fire, and good English cheese. On the next night a French dinner in true Parisian style was given, and this was followed by a German repast, with kalbs-braten and Kaiserschmorren.

Then an Italian dinner was given, with minestrone, frito, misto and macaroni. A Russian dinner, preceded by a zakouska and followed by sturgeon took place on the next night and then a real old-fashioned American dinner of oxtail soup, Maryland chicken, stuffed peppers and sweet corn. Finally as a wind up of the week of "fine continued feeding" and Indian dinner was partaken of, with shirwa, several curries and mithaw.

Both men survived the ordeal, and the American giddily paid up for what he called his "experience."

An Official Murdered

St. Petersburg, June 15.—Col. Kotjaroff, deputy commandant of the port of St. Petersburg, was murdered this morning by a workman in the admiralty section of the city. The colonel was recently sentenced to death by the revolutionary fighting organization because he recommended a reduction of the working force at the admiralty works. The assassin was captured, but he is believed to have had accomplices who escaped.

A Riotous Prince

London, June 15.—The Paris correspondent of the Express says:—"I am informed by a personage closely connected with the German Court that the kaiser has personally degraded his cousin, Prince Frederick Henry of Prussia, boxed his ears, expelled him from the court army, and banished him from Germany. The Kaiser dictated this severe punishment on receiving substantial information that the prince was addicted to riotous living.

An Earthquake in Jamaica

Kingston, Jamaica, June 15.—An earthquake coming from the southwest occurred on the West Indies yesterday, resulting in the death of five native civilians at Santiago, Chili, and serious injury to 37 native soldiers near Kingston, Jamaica. A panic which occurred among the soldiers was intensified by a curious turbulence of the sea near the coast.

Hotel Where Charlotte Corday Stopped.

A good deal of old Paris is disappearing just now, and among the latest bits of the antique city to be threatened is the little spot upon which Charlotte Corday found a fleeting place of rest as she entered the city on her errand of death. It stands on the street which prior to the days of the revolution had been known as that of the Vieux Augustins. It now is the Rue d'Argout. The building is the Hotel de la Providence. Charlotte arrived in Paris from Caen on July 9, 1793, slept at the hotel on that and the following night and on the morning of the 11th walked quietly out of it to slay the monster Marat. The bedroom is still pointed out which the Norman heroine occupied, and some regret is felt that the place has to be demolished. But the march of progress is merciless. The buildings are needed to extend the Rue du Louvre, and soon human feet will tramp on the spot where the Norman heroine slept her last calm sleep of maiden freedom.

Saving a Hen's Life.

There have been nearly 6,000 cases of suffering animals, from an injured cab horse to a consumptive lizard, treated at the animals' hospital in Westminster, London, the last nine months. One of the latest inmates is a two-year-old hen which is suffering from a peculiar disease in the crop. The hen in the hospital is the last one of a family of nine, the others having died from the same disease. A unique operation is being resorted to by the doctor to save the hen's life. Every day a rubber tube is inserted in the bird's mouth, and its crop is filled with warm water. Then the hen is turned upside down, and the water is allowed to trickle out.

A Violin of Matches.

Karl Wagner, an upholsterer living at Munich, has constructed a violin entirely out of wooden matches. The instrument has a good tone, and the back is ornamented by a picture of the tower of the famous Frauenkirche. Wagner first made a model of the parts in cardboard and then glued over them the matches, which are perfectly joined. The cardboard was then removed and the parts put together. Ten boxes of matches supplied the necessary wood, and Wagner was engaged for a year on the work. He has presented the violin to his son, who is a promising musician.

A HINT WORTH TAKING.

Skirt Braid Put on In Fifteen Minutes by This Plan.

You can put a skirt braid on in fifteen minutes by this plan. Mark the line where your skirt is to be turned either by basting thread or use the line of chalk already marked if you have measured it by a skirt gauge. Put the bottom of your skirt into the machine, right side of goods up, before crossing the hem.

Lay the braid along on the part that is to be turned under, letting one edge always touch the marked line. Stitch it on the other edge, which you can do simply by holding it as you sew and without basting or pinning. When the hem is turned up the braid is in place and stitched at the top edge.

If liked better to be fastened at both edges stitch twice, once near the marked line.

A little more intricate is sewing braid on in a roll. Get a bit of goods and braid and mark the turning line with a pencil for a sample, as it will save the time needed to work it out later on to have both the sample and directions pinned to a blank page in your sewing book. Lay the braid along the marked line just opposite from the way you did before. It will lie up on the skirt this time instead of down. Stitch it along the marked line, slipping it down just a hairbreadth, so that your stitching will come just below the basting thread. When stitched turn the braid down, but not the cloth. You will have to baste it this time, as pressing it over would make it flat instead of in a "roll." Stitch it again at the bottom edge, and when the hem of the dress is turned up it leaves the roll at the bottom.

10 CENTS PER SHARE

This company was incorporated February 9th, A.D. 1907, under the laws of Arizona.

Capital stock 1,000,000 shares, full paid, non-assessable, par value $1, treasury stock 400,000 shares. Other stock pooled.

Officers and Directors

President ..... EDWARD T. PATRICK, Mine Owner and President of the Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Vice-President ..... JUDGE CHAS. L. HAYES, Mine Owner and Leading Attorney of Goldfield, Nevada

Secretary and Treasurer ..... ADAMS F. BROWN, Corporation and Mining Lawyer and Member of Mining Committee Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Depository ..... JOHN S. COOK & CO., Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claim (50acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bond and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and, will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. We would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

Partners of the Tide

...By... JOSEPH C. LINCOLN, Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

"I'm a queer girl, Brad. Grandma says I'm like her best china teacups—I must be handled carefully or there'll be a smash. I guess that's so. I don't trust myself. I change my mind five times a day. Do you want me to say yes in spite of all this?"

"I do."

"Then I will say it, and I will try to be what you would like to have me."

He bent his head and kissed her.

CHAPTER XII.

BRADLEY would have proclaimed his happiness through a speaking trumpet, but Gus begged that the engagement be kept secret for awhile. "Please let me feel a little surer of myself first," she pleaded, and Bradley agreed, as he would have agreed to climb Bunker Hill monument on the outside if she had asked him to.

The tug arrived the next forenoon, and the hull of the Ruth Ginn was towed up into Orham harbor. There she was anchored, where the getting out of the rest of her cargo would be a comparatively easy task.

They worked with might and main and, at the end of a month, the job was done. The last joist was laid upon the wharf. Obed Nickerson expressed himself as surprised and highly pleased.

Their share of the cargo's value amounted to $2,900, and, all expenses deducted, the profit to the partners was over $2,000.

"Not so mean for two greenhorns in a floatin' soup ladle," crowed the captain. "Brad, how's the Jeremiahs these days? Ain't anybody said 'I told you so' yit, have they?"

The underwriters' agent was their friend now, and, inside of another fortnight, he had put a job in their way that brought them in $400 more. She was a coasting schooner that had grounded off the Point, and her skipper had contemplated telegraphing to the salvage company, but, thanks to Obed's recommendation, the chance was given—for a much lower price, of course—to the Lizzie's owners. The vessel laid easy, with only her bows on the sand, and the anchors and cables got her clear in three days.

Then they went anchor dragging again and met with considerable success. All this was profitable, as well as good advertising, and the Lizzie's owners were doing well. But they were ambitious and yearned for the day when they might undertake bigger things. Captain Titcomb was for ordering a new and larger wrecking schooner immediately.

But Bradley, more conservative, counseled waiting a little longer. "No use saddling ourselves with a big debt to start with," he said. "'Dead horse' is the meanest animal to pay for that I know of."

But, although the captain agreed to wait a little longer before ordering the new vessel, he announced that he was going to keep his eyes open, and perhaps he'd strike a bargain some day or other.

* * * * * * *

One evening a little later Bradley and the old maids were in the sitting room. Miss Prissy was much better and had, for the first time, donned a wrapper and come downstairs to sit in the big rocker. Miss Tempy was reading aloud to her, and Clara was in the kitchen washing the supper dishes.

"'The earl bent his proud head,'" read Miss Tempy, "'and gazed into the clear blue orbs that met his own. "Claire," he murmured in a deep, rich tone that vibrated through the heavy air of the gloomy cavern; "Claire, my beautiful, my own, poor and humble your station on earth may have been, but henceforth, if we escape from the lurid flames of yonder volcano and the cruel blades of the merciless buccaneers, you shall no longer be the peasant maid, but my bride, my wife, mistress of Castle Craggyknoll; the peerless'"—

"What's that?" she exclaimed, breaking off suddenly.

"What's what?" asked her sister drowsily.

"Seems to me I heard somebody in the kitchen."

"Clara is there, isn't she?" queried Bradley.

"Yes, but—I thought—yes, there's somebody else. I do b'lieve it's a man! You don't s'pose she's got a beau? I'm goin' to see."

And, before the others could remonstrate, she put "the Comforter" on the table and started for the kitchen. They heard her cross the dining room and open the door. Then came an exclamation.

"Why, why!" she cried; and then, "Well, I do declare!"

"What do you s'pose 'tis?" asked Miss Prissy, now thoroughly awake. The kitchen door had swung to, but there was a great clatter of voices behind it. Miss Tempy was exclaiming and arguing; Clara Hopkins, who was visiting the old maids during the absence of her folks from town, apparently, was saying very little, and a third person, in a deep bass rumble, was explaining something or other.

"Land of goodness," cried Miss Prissy, "I hope it ain't the minister, and me in this old wrapper!"

The kitchen door was opened, Miss Tempy appeared beaming, and there followed her into the sitting room no less a personage than Captain Ezra Titcomb. The captain's face was the least bit redder than usual, but he was otherwise as suave and unmoved as if the time of his previous call had been but yesterday instead of four years before.

"Well, Prissy," he said, shaking hands with the invalid, "how are you tonight? Most ready to come on deck and take command? No, don't git up. Evenin', Brad."

Poor Miss Prissy! She patted her tumbled hair into the most presentable shape possible, hurriedly pulled the red and white knitted "afghan" over the wrapper and managed to gasp that she was glad to see the captain. Then she sat still and stared reproachfully at Miss Tempy.

But that lady was too excited to notice her sister's agitation. She fluttered about the visitor like a hen with one chicken, trying to hang up his hat, dropping it, blushing violently as she collided with him in the attempt to pick it up and generally behaving, as Miss Prissy said afterward, like a born gump.

"Set right down, cap'n," she pleaded. "We're reel glad to see you. What made you come to the kitchen door? I couldn't think who 'twas, could you, Prissy? Oh, my sakes!"

In her nervous haste she had pushed forward the big armchair that had once been the throne of Captain Darius, but which, owing to the infirmities of age, had for some time been kept in the corner for show purposes only. It had a weak leg, and when Captain Titcomb planted himself on the worn black oilcloth cushion the infirm member promptly bent inward, and the captain slid gracefully to the floor.

"Tempy!" exclaimed Miss Prissy in a freezing tone. Bradley laughed and ran to assist the fallen one. Miss Tempy, now in a perfectly helpless state, wrung her hands and stuttered.

"The idea of givin' him father's chair!" cried Miss Prissy. "Tempy, have you gone loony? I hope you ain't hurt, Cap'n Ezra. We never use that chair now. It used to belong to father."

Miss Tempy was heard to remark, feebly, that it looked "so like him." She declared afterward that she didn't say it.

About Flatirons.

Flatirons that are put away for a few weeks often get rusty, and the best way to prevent this is to rub a little warm grease over the surface and then wrap them up in brown paper. When taken out dip into hot water that has had a small piece of soda dissolved in it, rub dry and then put them to heat in the usual way. When they are ready to be used on the ironing board have a piece of brown paper with a little powdered bath brick on it and rub the surface of your iron with this. It seems rather a lengthy process, but it really does not take long to do, and housewives will be rewarded for the trouble they have taken by finding the irons delightfully smooth and easy to use, and when they are like this the work can be done twice as quickly.

The Baby Baskets.

Nothing is better for a baby basket than a wire dish drainer, either round or oblong in shape. They only cost 10 cents at any store where kitchen goods are sold. Cover the wire with blue cambric or blue satin first. Over that place white dotted or plain muslin, rather full. Make a deep ruffle edged with baby lace to fall over the outside. Cut out a piece of cardboard to fit the bottom. Cover it with a layer of cotton batting. Cover with the cambric and then the muslin.

Sprinkle sachet powder on the cotton batting if one cares to have the basket scented. Make little pockets and pincushion to fasten on the sides. Around the top edge sew beading

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

Can't Hold Down the Price MUCH LONGER

Recent Discoveries Under Continued Development Make Us Believe that an Advance in the Price of this Stock must take place at an early date.

The Gold Bond Company is a Colorado Corporation. Capitalized at 1,500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable, 900,000 shares in treasury.

Our holdings consist of four claims, three of which are patented, and all lie close to the Addison claim, which made the GOLDEN MESSAGE famous. One of our veins is an extension of the Addison, and shows the same character of ore as that now being taken out of the Addison shaft. Comparatively little work has been done on the Gold Bond group, but we have receipts from small shipments of the high grade ore showing values running as high as $24,000 per ton; the veins are from three to twenty feet in width, all good milling ore, with streaks of the extraordinary high grade running all through.

Takes Fit After Drinking

On Saturday a young man took a sudden fit of serious nature, whilst in a local hotel. It seems that the young man is not of late year a drinker of alcoholic beverages, but on Saturday took a few glasses of beer with the above result. He fell whilst in the fit and his head, during the fall fortunately struck a waste paper basket. Had his fall not been partially broken in this way, it was thought by those present he would have been killed.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.
The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenuous and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.
No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.
For something new, nice, economical and effective try a box of

Roller Rink Has Closed

The Charlotte street roller skating rink closed down at ten o'clock on Saturday evening for the season, after a most successful business, since the ice was cleared off in the early spring. Owing to the patrons preferring the delights of our beautiful parks during the hot weather this rink will not reopen until Sept. 1st. Mr. Sheridan will however keep the Ottawa branch rink open until the Home Comers' celebration, which meets at the Capital from July 27th to the 6th of August.

St. John's S. S. Excursion

It was announced at St. John's church Sunday school yesterday afternoon that their annual outing for the children will be held to Idyl Wyld on or about July 10th or 12th. Arrangements to secure the new steamer Otonabee will be completed this week. The selection of Idyl Wyld seemed to meet with unanimous approval, as this lovely spot, owing to its natural beauty and accessibility by the new boat renders it suitable in every respect for the children's excursion.

Rev. A. H. Brace in Campbellford

Rev. A. H. Brace, pastor of Park street Baptist church, was in Campbellford yesterday, and preached in connection with the re-opening service in the Baptist church there. This evening Rev. Mr. Brace will also participate in the continuation of the celebration of the opening of the church, and will give a lecture on "The Power of the Tongue," or "Woman's Magnetic Influence."
Rev. Mr. McClellan of Campbellford preached at the Park street church yesterday in Mr. Brace's absence.

No Light at Victoria Park

It seems a pity some better arrangements cannot be made for systematically and regularly having Victoria Park lighted at night. Last Saturday night, the night of all during the week when tired men, women and children would enjoy spending a few hours between the end of the week's work and say ten o'clock this beautiful public resort was in total darkness for several hours. Of course this may have been the "joke" of some mischievous boy, if so, a trip before the magistrate when such a joker is caught, would dampen his zest for such tricks and render the park safe and enjoyable. Surely some system of locking up the switches to prevent such tricks could easily and cheaply be installed.

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are effected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels

Local Heiresses to Irish Wealth

Mesdames Munden and May Claim Possession of Large Estate

It has been known for some time that two local men, Messrs. Charles Munden and Charles May have, through their solicitors been in correspondence with lawyers in Dublin, Ireland, concerning a large estate in which their respective wives are co-heirs. The estate runs into scores of thousands of pounds, and is largely composed of valuable mineral lands in Ireland. For some years the trustees of the estate have been searching for the heirs of the deceased Mr. J. H. Buchanan, who married a Miss Crawford. The two local gentlemen, Messrs. May and Munden married two sisters, the Misses Crawford, who it seems are in direct succession to a large portion of the inheritance. It was ascertained on Saturday by a Times representative that Mr. Dumble is acting in the interests of the local heiresses and is now in correspondence with the Irish trustees' solicitors.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year, at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.
A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.
A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section he bought near Regina, one year ago, he sold out recently for exactly twice what he paid for the land.
We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.
We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards
Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

THREE CHILDREN KILLED ON LINER

Mother Gave Them Potato Gin to Prevent Seasickness---Passengers in Gloom---Frantic Parent Tried to Jump Overboard

New York, June 18.—"Potato gin," administered as an antidote for seasickness, caused the death of three children who were passengers on the White Star line steamship Cretic, which arrived here from Liverpool and the Azores yesterday. The poison was given by the children's mothers, one of whom when the little bodies were buried at sea the following day tried to throw herself from the deck in a frenzy of grief.

According to the third table carried when the Cretic docked, the liner's passing was marked at times by piercing screams from the after cabin. A ship's officer notified Captain Kelly that three Portuguese children were ill and Dr. Herbert McMaster, the steamship's surgeon, hurried to the steerage.

He found Francesco Conti, five years old, dead and Maria Amorim, six years old, and Hasorin Angelica, of the same age, comatose in agony. Nothing that the physician could do seemed to relieve the children and within a few minutes both succumbed.

The next morning the cabin and steerage passengers were standing with uncovered heads while the bodies were being consigned to the deep when suddenly there was a hurried movement among the women grouped near the rail, and Mrs. Maria Angelica, mother of Hasoria, rushed to the side of the ship. Three sailors grabbed her, but with superhuman strength she threw them off and was half way over the rail before she was secured and pulled back on the deck, begging that she be allowed to follow the body of her child, she was carried below, where she was hysterical for several hours.

The effect of the tragedy upon the other passengers was most depressing. The usual concert held the day before arrival was dispensed with by tacit consent. The gin with which the children were dosed is said to be almost as harmful as wood alcohol, but has always been considered a sure preventive of seasickness by the Portuguese. Several bottles were thrown into the sea after the tragedy.

THIEF IN BARN DEFIED POSSE

Bowmanville's Chief of Police Had an Exciting Adventure, But Revolver Scored Over Club

Bowmanville, June 17.—Chief of Police R. Jarvis had an exciting adventure yesterday afternoon when, in answer to a telephone message from some enemies out in the country, he went out and arrested a man named W. Thompson who was molesting the neighborhood at buy in a barn, where he had ensconced himself. He had stolen a bicycle, an overcoat and a pair of trousers from Mr. McCullough, on the boundary line between Darlington and Whitby, where he had been working, and early yesterday morning came to Mr. Walter Cryderman's in Darlington, where he hired for a month, having ridden the wheel there.

He was traced to Mr. Cryderman's and on seeing that he was about to be surrounded grasped a large club and ran to the barn, where he went up to a platform of poles at one end, and defied the posse to touch him.

When Chief Jarvis arrived he found a body geared for a of men, but speedily mounted the ladder. His man was heavy, but awoke and seized the club before the chief could get near him. Jarvis pulled his pistol and ordered hands up. Thompson submitted quietly to arrest. Thompson is a native of Denmark, and has done six months already in the Central for theft. He will appear before Police Magistrate Hornby today for trial.

Wanted Crescent Instead of Cross

London, June 18.—The final session yesterday of the International Red Cross Society was faced with a poser from one of the delegates which did not admit of a compromise. Lieut.-Gen. Besim-pacha Pasha arose and announced that he represented the Mohammedans, and owing to the fact that the symbol of the cross opposed every religious belief of his people, he demanded that the organization in future be entitled the Red Crescent instead of the Red Cross, which had no good influence on the Mussulman world. This afforded the young scientific which has disturbed the calm of the conference since it opened. The members murmured protests and the president indignantly repudiated the suggestion, declaring that the Red Cross had been an unchangeable symbol under which their good work had always been carried on. Omer Pasha, however, insisted on his proposition and was then promptly ruled out of order.

Two Tramps Fell Over Niagara Bridge

Niagara Falls, June 18.—There is now reason to believe that two lives were lost when the three freight cars dashed off the railway arch bridge into the Whirlpool Rapids Saturday morning. The supposed victims are two unknown men—probably tramps. When the train of which the lost cars formed part was pulling out of Suspension Bridge yards two men were seen to board it and get into one of the empty cars which went down into the gorge a few minutes later. No one saw them leave the cars, it is doubtful if they got away. After their derailment the cars ran close to the railing of the bridge, and to jump then would be certain destruction. If the two men stayed in the cars they went with them in that awful leap to the Rapids, over two hundred feet below.

Outrage in Chicago

Chicago, June 18.—A dynamite explosion yesterday partially wrecked Cosimo Mirucchi's fruit building 64 Morton avenue, and spread terror throughout that section of "Little Italy." Forty-five persons were asleep in the apartments at that time but all escaped injury.

The outrage is said to the "Black Hand" in furtherance of a plot to extort money from Mirucchi.

The explosion shook a fearful noise, and people came running from all directions, while the frightened residents of the buildings jumped out of windows in their frantic scramble for safety. A large bore for powder was found in the rear of the building, and a man was seen running from there, immediately after the alarm. He was pursued and fired at by several policemen, but escaped.

Since May 30, when the last of a series of letters was received by Mirucchi three policemen have guarded the house each night. Except for an hour when the details were changed, vigilance was unrelaxed. It was during this time that the outrage was committed.

French Government Defeated on Vote

Paris, June 18.—The Government was defeated yesterday in the Chamber of Deputies on the sugar clause of the Wine bill, designed to prevent fraud. Premier Minister Clemenceau insisted on a supplementary tax of sixty-five francs per hundred kilos on sugar used in the manufacture of certain wines, but the chamber rejected the proposal by 304 to 256 votes, whereupon the session was suspended.

It is expected that the government will compromise on the lower rate suggested by the northern deputies.

City Officer Has a Grievance

Market Clerk McIlmoyle Thinks His Revenue is Unjustly Cut Off

It is well known to many of our local citizens and especially to those who frequent or have business on or about the market square, that the present market clerk, Mr. W. A. McIlmoyle, after paying $1080 for collection of the market tolls, or say $30 more than the preceding year's clerk, has according to him a well founded grievance against the city.

For years these tolls have been annually put up at public auction to the highest bidder, who on a fixed tariff of charges for weighing the various farm or other products sold on the square, or in the market building, and the highest bidder has to make or try to make a living out of the sum between his bid and his receipts. In years gone by notwithstanding that the then town was much smaller in population, the annual price paid for the collection of such tolls was only a fraction of what the market sells for now, still the annual revenue was vastly larger in amount than now received. In years gone by, Mr. McIlmoyle claims that the market clerk from year to year was allowed to get revenue from any legitimate source, provided no one was interfered with or bothered.

After this year advancing the amount paid to the city for the market tolls Mr. McIlmoyle claims that the first opportunity he got to get a few dollars revenue was nipped in the bud. He claims that being considered a dead beat by a "misery-go round" owner, or no much per week but that the council stepped in and passed a prohibitive decision on the show, which he says would only have run at certain hours and bothered no one.

Again Mr. McIlmoyle claims that the recent action of he police in having farmers' wives before the police court, charging them with selling light weight butter, has so insulted those whose butter was found to be full weight or over, that this resulted in driving many sellers not only of butter, but other farm produce, from the market to private houses or stores. In the latter case housewives are getting such light-weight goods as may be brought to the city and the revenues that he paid a large sum for materially cut down. Mr. McIlmoyle says that last Saturday's market fees were only about half those of the preceding Saturday, and blames this action of the police for his corresponding loss of money. In reply to a remark made by a bystander that those selling light-weight goods should be punished and that the police were authorized by the city bylaws to take such goods, Mr. McIlmoyle claimed that the police should ascertain the weight of goods offered for sale at the market before taking women to court whose goods were full weight. He will bring this matter up at the next meeting of the market committee and ask for equitable protection.

Peterboro Dragoons Off for Kingston

The Peterborough contingent of the Third Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, left for the military camp at Kingston yesterday, some sixty strong. A special train left the G. T. R. station at noon. The squadron was in charge of Capt. Johnson and the other officers who went were Lieut. Cleghorn, Lieut. Sanderson and Captain and Veterinary Officer Poole.

At Millbrook "B" squadron was taken on, Captain S. T. Mudd is in command of the Millbrook squadron.

Lindsay to Awake Dominion Day

The Lindsay Post says that Dominion Day in that town will be a worker. It goes on to say in part;

There have been received already five outside entries, and enquiries from as many others as to distance and prizes. The local runners should get in condition as quickly as possible. Knox, the Orillia athlete, who entered under the Central Y.M.C.A. colors, and captured most of the events, has been professionalized. He implicates two or three other Y. M.C.A. men who have been competing for money. He may be in Lindsay on July 1st. Sampson and Toms, Indians from below Peterborough, expect to clean up some of the big prizes.

Mother Bear Ties up Road

Ogden, Utah, June 15.—A mother bear in quest of her young tied up the Kemmerer division of the Union Pacific Railroad system, and incidentally kept two operators at Bryan, Wyo., prisoners in their sleeping apartments for hours.

A newly-arrived telegrapher foolishly invested in two cubs—the offspring of the mother, who for days had hunted high and low for them. As a last hope she peeped into the bunkhouse of the operators, who, fortunately, had seen her coming. Mother bear growled a little, but seemed content to wait, evidently not thinking that a great railroad might need the assistance of the operators in pushing transcontinental trains through.

A freight train crew, not seeing the semaphore in place, started to investigate. They found the operators waiting to be rescued. With the assistance of 200 Greeks, who were in wor kcars up the road a short distance away, the mother bear was driven off, after having disarranged the schedule of Mr. Harriman's railroad for hundreds of miles east and west.

POACHER CAUGHT; AFTER MACKEREL

First Capture Made by the Cruiser Canada

WITHIN ONE MILE OF SHORE

Had 100 Barrels of Mackerel Aboard ---Towed Into Halifax and an Armed Guard Put on Board

Halifax, June 18.—The first seizure this season by the Canadian fishery protection cruisers was made on Saturday, when the Canada captured the schooner Lewis E. Prescott, of Boston. An American seining fleet of about thirty sail was after the mackerel which were schooling very thick along this coast, the heat of the fish being close inshore. Capt. Knowlson, commanding the Canada, was cruising near the three-mile line. In the distance, off Shut-in Island, ten miles east of Halifax, he saw two vessels, one of which, he says, if not inside the line, was very close to it. The other, the Lewis E. Prescott, was two miles within the limit and not more than one from Shut-in Island. Using his glasses, he saw the crew taking mackerel.

The cruiser bore swiftly down on the Prescott, which did not attempt to escape. Capt. Knowlson boarded her and took the vessel as a prize. She had about 100 barrels of mackerel. The American vessel was towed into Halifax, her wheel removed and an armed guard placed on board. The Prescott is anchored off the dockyard. The department at Ottawa was notified.

The captain of the Prescott, Lewis Carrick, who is a native of Nova Scotia, does not deny that he was within three miles of Shut-in Island, but he pleads that he was not aware of his position. He may have been more than three miles from the main coast line, but his proximity to the island makes him liable.

Good Subject for Deportation

Mrs. Richards Again Arrested After a Drunken Spree

Mrs. Richards, whose face is familiar in the local police court and whose figure is marked more by adiposity than acquaintance with Pear's soap, is now a guest at Castle Nesbitt. Arrested again on Saturday she was yesterday remanded until 9 a.m. Thursday.

It seems that this woman and her son do not agree on all points. On Saturday this deportation from the classic shores of Albion got outside of more alcoholic stimulants than her thinking machine could control, so the son very sensibly relieved her of her bottle and the wherewithal to procure further supplies. She went to the son's home but was not welcomed; in fact every door was locked. Owing possibly to the not yet defunct jag, the woman then endeavored to enter through the window, breaking two panes of glass. The police were phoned for and she was placed under arrest. Her husband called at the police station yesterday and stated that his wife was not drunk.

"If you find your wife don't soon get out of town," said Chief Ruttan, "you will be sent to the Central Prison." After hearing this hint hubby sailed away.

It seems that if within existing laws such should be allowed, habitual drinking immigrants should be deported to the country where their habits were formed.

Mr. McNamara Out With Good Offer

Well Known Local Contractor Makes Advantageous Offer to the City

Mr. M. A. McNamara, a well known local contractor and a gentleman well known in the city, is now placing one of the finest parks within easy reach of the central portion of the town, not second to anything in Toronto on the market. Should the Exhibition grounds ever pass out of its present ownership, the city will then recognize the necessity of having some tangible control of Mr. McNamara's splendid property to the south of the city. Mr. McNamara offers to give a piece of ground absolutely free for exhibition purposes to the city provided the local street car company provide an adequate service free to his property. He also includes in his offer a free gift of park facilities to be street car company dependent on similar conditions. It seems that Mr. McNamara in making such an offer to the city and the street car company, should be classed among our local public benefactors. If considered by those acquainted with his generous offers, that both the city and the street car company would ultimately be the gainers by accepting his offer.

The property in question embraces a large number of acres of good ground, advantageously situated and embellished with a handsome grove of trees, near the Otonabee river. The ground is level and would make one of the finest driving parks in the country. All this can be obtained by an interview and understanding with Mr. McNamara.

Miss Ida Le Barge is Now Mrs. J. C. Wesley

A quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday morning in St. John's church, when Rev. Canon Davidson united Mr. J. Charles Wesley and Miss Ida LeBarge in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only a few friends and relatives. The bride was attended by Miss Shirley Wesley, sister of the groom, while the groom was supported by his brother Mr. Geo. Wesley.

The happy young couple left on the 11.15 C.P.R. train for Ottawa and points east. They will take up their residence in this city on their return.

Wharf Opened at Smithsons

The new dock at Smithson's Landing on the Otonabee River has been formally opened. The dock is about three quarters of a mile below Hall's bridge, or some eleven miles from Peterborough, and will be a great convenience to the people of Millbrook and South Monaghan, who make weekly trips to Peterborough. The new wharf is built of stone and square timber and cost about $1,000 Messrs. R. R. Hall, whose efforts went a long way to secure the wharf, Hon. J. R. Stratton and J. H. McClellan were present at the opening.

Local Merchant Went A-fishing

His Hard Struggle Before Landing the Capture

Yesterday morning early a well-known local merchant brushed the cobwebs from his eyes, took a raw egg with vinegar and a little tonic out of a vial marked "G. & W." and hiked for the boat house. He quickly had his canoe out and jumped aboard. After paddling some 32, more or less miles round the Little Lake he felt a tug at his rolling line. With a satisfied smile, he remarked to himself, "There's my reward for getting in early in the season, I tell you the early bird captures the game." He pulled and he hauled on this line. The prey was coy and seemed either to sulk at the bottom of the lake or dodge behind an impenetrable thicket of sub-aqueous weeds. At last however by exercise of much muscle and patience the merchant got this prey to the edge of the canoe, and hauled in, by a quick and experienced turn of the wrist, a water-worn, green visaged and decrepit cop hoot of the vintage of many years ago. On his way home the fisherman saw an acquaintance of his, with his wife hard in a manicuvonge about three feet long. His remarks will not be given here.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

Only two arrests were made yesterday afternoon. One was Thos. Beavis, who when picked up by P. C. McDonald on Simcoe street, was beyond all powers of conversation or intelligence. The other also gathered in at Victoria Park by the same officer, on requiring a partial condition of sobriety, said his name was Ryan and that after coming from Boston, the city of "Culchaw," he had sojourned awhile at Indian River. Both of these guests of the city in the hotel des cops will be able this morning, or so let it be hoped, to explain their shortcomings to his worship.

EVIDENCE DID NOT GIVE EXCUSE

For Dissolution---Even the Conservatives in Duma Agree With Committee That Socialists Were Not Worthy of Expulsion

Odessa, June 18.—It now appears that the mutiny here of the Black Sea fleet, consisting of eight battleships, eight cruisers, and a division of torpedo boats, whose crews in all numbered 5,000 men, was discovered just in time to prevent the planned bombardment of Odessa and the Caucasian coast towns, so as to incite the revolutionists and Caucasians to revolt.

The fleet came here June 12th for practice, and had just entered Odessa Bay when the commanding officer, Admiral Tserlinsky, on board the flagship Rostislav, seeing that the orders were not promptly obeyed, and knowing of the mutinous spirit animating the crews, suddenly signalled an order to disarm the guns and head back to Sebastopol where after troops had been sent on board the warships, several hundred sailors were disembarked and imprisoned.

St. Petersburg, June 18.—The chances of the proclamation of a general strike in answer to the government's coup d'etat are steadily increasing. The question is now under discussion of a secret conference of the central committees of the social democrats, which is being held in Finland, but a strong current of opposition is known to prevail, not only on the part of the moderate leaders, but also among the adherents of the radical majority. A fraction of the moderates urge that the government is now so strongly intrenched that a strike would be futile, and only weaken the prestige of the party and involve the sunk and file, and the industrial proletariat generally in a series of reprisals and immense pecuniary loss. The conference which is attended by all the members of the lower house, who have not been arrested, will probably content itself with issuing a series of proclamations addressed to the peasantry, the army and the navy, and the workmen, accusing the government of breaking faith with the country by altering the election law in defiance of the imperial pledges, and appealing to the masses to continue the fight to overthrow the existing regime.

DECLARE AGAINST STRIKE.

The social revolutionists at a conference held last night declared against the proposed strike and appointed a committee to draft a manifesto addressed to the peasantry, the army and navy, and the workmen. The national socialists and group of local members are also contemplating the issuance of manifestos to their constituents.

Telegrams from practically every city in the empire announce that the news of the dissolution of parliament was received quietly and with almost an entire absence of demonstration. Even at Odessa and Kiev no disturbances occurred. The prefect of police of Kiev issued orders that no demonstrations on the part of the revolutionists or revolutionists be allowed, and that no open discussion of the dissolution of parliament be permitted.

The order of Gen. Drachefiski, prefect of police of St. Petersburg, prohibiting hostile criticism of the government was copied almost universally throughout Russia by the governor-generals, and completely muzzled the liberal press.

The few newspapers appearing here yesterday made extremely guarded comments on the situation, the radical Russ contenting itself with expressing the hope that two election campaigns in one year will widen the political horizon of the people, and make them firm adherents of the idea of parliamentarism.

The Novoe Vremya, which has aligned itself with the reactionists, attacks the new election law as a half way measure affording the possibility that the revolutionary elements will begin be able to enter parliament.

His Hapless Honeymoon

New York, June 18.—Expecting an attack at any moment by an irate father-in-law, George F. Bronson Howard, a writer of magazines, left the White Star Line pier last night after the arrival of the Adriatic, from Southampton and Cherbourg, his honeymoon, which began suddenly last February, having ended in London, where, he says, his bride left him.

Mr. Bronson-Howard heard when the liner came into quarantine that W. W. Skinner, father of his wife, would be waiting at the pier, and rumor had it that shots might be fired in the hot discussion that was expected to follow the meeting of the two for the first time.

Mr. Skinner is a pier taking out the liners from Norfolk until they are safe in deep water, and when, in February, his daughter Dora ran away to England with Bronson-Howard, after a four days' courtship and a marriage at the "little Church Around the Corner," he was far from satisfied.

Mrs. Bronson-Howard wrote home to her mother from London that all was lovely, and this was true until, according to Mr. Bronson-Howard, his wife left him, and he was sued for her hotel bills. There was trouble enough in London, but he maintained that at any time he was ready and willing to pay his wife's bills under certain conditions.

Although the young man was detained at Boar before his baggage was released he was not molested.

Defence Witness Dies

Cape City, Col., June 18.—Charles King, an important witness for the defence in the Haywood trial at Boise, Idaho, died from neuralgia of the heart yesterday. Bloodhounds belonging to King were used in tracking, after the dynamiting of the Independence depot. An hour after his death a telegram came addressed to King summoning him to Boise.

Escaped From Devil's Island

London, June 17.—Late last night a woman shot a man on Oxford St. The bullet lodged in the man's foot. It was removed at the hospital where he stated that he was Edward Guerin, the Chicago burglar, who escaped from Devil's Island, and for whose extradition to France Lord Chief Justice Alverstone refused to grant a requisition Saturday.

Steamer Struck Submerged Rock

Holyhead, Wales, June 18. — The Irish express steamer Anglia with more than 500 passengers on board, struck a submerged rock in a thick fog yesterday morning. The passengers were greatly alarmed, but the officers maintained order, distributed the life belts, and prepared the boats for lowering. After half an hour the captain of the Anglia succeeded in getting her off under her own steam and landed the passengers. The bows of the Anglia were stove in above and below the water line, but her water-tight compartments saved her.

Appeals to English Kin

St. Louis, June 18.—"Lord" Frederick Seymour Harrington, under sentence to hang July 25 yesterday took steps to have his real family connections acquainted with his predicament.

To Percy Trevelyan, of Ontario, Ont., he gave two unanswered documents at the Clayton jail, embodying an appeal to his relatives in England.

Trevelyan refused to divulge the identity of the persons to whom Harrington appealed. He stated, however, that a great effort will be made in Harrington's behalf when the appeal is presented.

ONTARIO WHEAT AND MANITOBA WHEAT

About the poorest economy our farmers can practice is to give up raising their own wheat, and to spend their money for Manitoba flour. It is down right extravagant, for they lose money both ways. In the first place there is a steadily growing demand for blended flours, which are milled of Ontario wheats and Manitoba wheat.

Flour, milled of a certain kind of wheat, can be as good as a blended flour. For instance, Ontario wheat lacks strength although it makes very fine white bread and light pastry. Manitoba wheat makes a big loaf that is very nutritious, but the bread is very coarse and yellow. But a blended flour—containing both Ontario and Manitoba wheat—supplies what each single kind of wheat lacks, and contains the good qualities of both.

Then, look at it another way. If our own farmers buy Manitoba flour, they are making another province rich at the expense of our own. The money, which they earn in Ontario, is turned over to the farmers and millers of Manitoba.

What all our farmers, and what all our housewives, should do, is to get together on this flour question. Every farmer in Ontario should raise winter wheat—as big a crop as his farm will justify. He should not only raise Ontario wheat, but he should also make it a point to buy a blended flour, made of this same home-grown wheat.

The money is made here—the money should be spent here and kept here.

Our women folk can help this cause along by using a blended flour for all their baking. The more they use, the greater will be the demand for Ontario wheat. As this increases, naturally the farmers will go in more for wheat. Everybody will thus share in the rejuvenation of a failing industry, and rejoice in the greater prosperity of our farming population.

WOULD HAVE ALL OR NOTHING

Governor Hughes has vetoed the bill passed by the Legislature of New York to compel the payment of the same salaries to women, as to men engaged in teaching in the public schools of New York City. He takes the ground that there is no reason why the principle of similar remuneration to men and women for similar service should be applied to teachers in New York and not to those in Albany, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo and elsewhere in the state. Nor is there any reason why it should be limited to school teachers. If sound, it should be applied in our state hospital service, in our charitable and reformatory institutions and generally through the civil service of the state." The argument is a familiar one. It generally is found doing duty every time a serious attempt is made to introduce an important reform.

Some people are always insisting that in the matter of reform we must have all or nothing, and usually they are the very people who want nothing. If such arguments were always allowed to prevail it would be impossible to make a beginning in any reform. The teachers, of course, will continue the fight. It is possible to carry the law over the veto by a two-thirds vote of the senate and assembly, and this they will attempt to do.

The Sovereign Bank Is Successful

Temporary Difficulties Are Admirably Overcome.

Whilst the Sovereign Bank of Canada has since its inception held the confidence of the financial men of the Dominion it has recently had some difficulties, which, by change of some of its leading officials, in the adoption of various changes of system and management have been successfully overcome and this Bank again fully reinstated in public confidence. At the fifth annual meeting of the shareholders the chairman in a manly and straightforward manner fully and satisfactorily explained the temporary difficulties that had been encumbered and showed that such had been met and provided for. He noted that Mr. Jemmett, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a most able and skilled financier, had been appointed General Manager, and that Messrs Cassels and Mackenzie secured as Inspectors, have been making a thorough examination of the Bank's affairs. Such losses as were made arose through accounts that had not been authorized by the Directors. Former President Macdonald had tendered his resignation, as he could not devote sufficient time to the Bank's affairs. Mr. Aemilius Jarvis has accepted the Presidency and is now getting the bank to a high state of efficiency. A thorough investigation of the Bank's assets has been made and they are now given to the shareholders in a safe and conservative basis. Story Looked Suspicious

Ottawa, June 16.—A startling and tragic story in connection with the mysterious disappearance of a young man named Levesque comes from Buckingham, Quebec. Levesque, who was employed at the McLaren mills at McGregor Mills, in company with a friend named Evans, left the mills on the night of May 15 to walk round the lake to a point nearly opposite. Next morning Evans was picked up near the mills in a rowboat alone, and intoxicated. He stated that his friend had fallen overboard while crossing the lake during the night, and had been drowned.

The story was at first supposed to have been false, but investigations which have been made during the last few days prove that the two left the opposite side of the lake together on the night of the 15th in a rowboat to start home. Both were intoxicated.

Will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, foul breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoops Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

It was moved by Mr. Randolph Macdonald that Mr. Aemilius Jarvis take the chair. On taking the chair Mr. Jarvis appointed Mr. Jemmett as Secretary, and Messrs A. C. Macdonell and R. H. Temple were elected scrutineers. Mr. Jarvis then said:—

President's Introductory Remarks

Before asking the Secretary to read the Directors' Report, it seems advisable that I should explain why I am your Chairman today. Until very recently I have not been a shareholder in this Bank, except to a very small extent, and I have not in any way been interested in its affairs. Upon my return from England in April last the large foreign interests which held stock in the Bank represented that they were not satisfied with the way in which it was being managed, and they intimated that they would like me to take the active Presidency. It was also stated to me that Mr. Macdonald, your late President, had expressed himself as anxious to be relieved of office, feeling that special attention at the moment was necessary, and that he had not the technical knowledge nor had the time to devote from his business, which takes him away from Toronto for long periods of time, to properly look after the Bank's affairs.

Apart from the dissatisfaction with the management, they stated that the Bank's methods had caused great irritation to the other Canadian Banks, who were in consequence not very friendly towards it, and they felt that owing to my close connection with a number of banking institutions I might be able at the present moment to bring about a better feeling with the other Banks.

My first duty on taking office was to ask the Board to appoint Mr. Jemmett of the C. B. of C. as Joint General Manager, and Mr. Stewart was at once given leave of absence. Subsequently Mr. Stewart sent in his resignation, which has been accepted, and Mr. Jemmett has been appointed General Manager. Mr. Gassels and Mr. Mackenzie had already been secured as Inspectors to make a quick report of the Bank's affairs, and from the day on which Mr. Jemmett assumed his duties he, together with myself and the Inspectors, has been continuously engaged in a revaluation of the Bank's entire assets. Had not Mr. Cassels and Mr. Mackenzie possessed some knowledge of the Bank's affairs it would have been impossible to have accomplished this work in the time allotted to us, namely, the period between the first of May and the present date. I am glad to say, however, that by constant work almost night and day we are now able to lay before you the true position of the Bank. In doing so I wish to say that I fully realize the gravity of what we've found it necessary to do, and the keen disappointment you will feel. The facts are that the Management was too anxious to build up a business quickly, and you are now to feel the effects of over-zeal and losses which have been incurred through unauthorized advances.

In the course of my investigation I find that some of our largest losses are in accounts never authorized or never reported to the Directors; in fact, in some cases the Directors were kept in total ignorance of their existence, never having heard of them until brought to their attention by us.

Without further comment, therefore, we will enter on the formal business of the meeting, and I will call upon the Secretary to read the Directors' Report.

REPORT

The Directors beg to present to the shareholders the Fifth Annual Report, covering the year ending 30th April, 1907, together with a statement of assets and liabilities as on the 31st May, 1907. For reasons which will be apparent as we proceed, the Report this year deals also with events which have occurred since the closing of the books on 30th April last.

During the past year it became evident that the affairs of the Bank demanded more time than the then President could give, and he expressed his desire to be relieved of the Presidency at the end of the Bank's year. At a meeting of the Board, held on the 1st May last, his resignation was accordingly accepted. At the same meeting Mr. D. M. Stewart resigned from the Directorate, and Mr. Aemilius Jarvis was elected to the Board to fill the vacancy thus caused. Mr. Jarvis was subsequently elected President in place of Mr. Macdonald, who consented to remain on the Board, and was elected Vice-President. Mr. J. M. Dunn of London, England, who was here at the time in the interest of the Dresner Bank, was also elected a Director.

It was represented to Mr. Jarvis that the duties of the Presidency would take up a considerable portion of his time, and that it would therefore be necessary to make his remuneration sufficient to compensate him for this. A resolution confirming this arrangement will be submitted for your approval.

The new President at once found it his duty to strengthen the Executive, and on the 6th May Mr. F. G. Jemmett, who had for 22 years been in the service of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and for the last five years Secretary of that Bank, became Joint General Manager, Mr. Stewart being at the same time granted leave of absence. Mr. Jemmett's first duty was to make as complete and exact a valuation as possible of the assets of the Bank, and the results of his valuation are given in his Report to the Board, which is as follows:—

GENERAL MANAGER'S REPORT

The President and Directors,

The Sovereign Bank of Canada:

Early in May last you offered me the position of Joint General Manager of this Bank, and on the 6th of that month I entered on my new duties, which, owing to Mr. Stewart's having been granted leave of absence, involved my taking at once full charge of the Bank.

Apart from the general supervision of the daily business of the Bank, the first task awaiting me was the valuation of the assets placed in my charge, and as there was an interval of only five weeks between the day on which I began work and the day set for the Annual Meeting of shareholders, I have had to devote myself to this valuation to the exclusion, as nearly as possible, of everything else.

In the very short time at my disposal it would have been impossible for me to have arrived at a definite conclusion without the invaluable assistance of the Chief Inspector, Mr. Robert Cassels, whom I have known for many years, and with whom I had for some time been intimately associated in the work of the Head Office of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. It is owing to the unwearied and intelligent aid of Mr. Cassels and of Mr. Mackenzie, the Inspector, both of whom entered the service some little time earlier than myself, that I have been able to complete my valuation by this date.

In the valuation of assets, amounting to $25,000,000, it is obvious that there is room for a wide difference of opinion, but when a distinct element of doubt is clearly present in any particular asset, the only right course for a conservative banker is to take the safe view of it, and to place a definite value only on that amount which can, without reasonable doubt, be recovered within some reasonable time. Any conjectural value which an asset may have—any value which rests entirely on the ability of some person to do something he hopes he may be able to do, and which if he has good fortune it is perhaps not unreasonable to think he may be able to do—should be clearly disregarded. The value, therefore, which has been placed on the Bank's assets is the value which we feel certain can be recovered not in all cases at once, but by the exercise for a reasonable time of care and patience.

The results of my examination made on the lines which I have indicated are as follows—

I have to recommend that there be written off for bad debts $700,655.91, for depreciation in securities $150,607.95, and for reduction in Bank premises and furniture $48,109.25. In addition to the foregoing the sum of $541,194 should be set aside in Contingent Fund for accounts which are in liquidation, or in which there is a large element of doubt, and a further Contingent Fund of $800,000 should be provided in respect of certain unsatisfactory advances, the outcome of which is at present by no means clear. To do this it will be necessary to appropriate the whole of the Rest Fund, leaving the Bank with a paid-up capital of $3,000,000. After this has been done there will remain $25,252.50 to carry forward in the Profit and Loss Account of the current year. There is no question that this result will be a great disappointment to the Board, and it is with much regret that I find it my duty to advise you to this effect. My course, however was clear—to take the facts as I found them, and to inform you as promptly as possible of the real condition of the Bank.

It would at the moment be of little use, and would be extremely distasteful to me, to enter into any criticism of the previous administration, or to try to account for the large losses which have occurred. The depreciation in securities is perhaps not more than should be expected in a year in which values have shrunk as they did last year, and I should hope that under favorable conditions a considerable portion of the amount written off should be recovered.

In the very nature of things a new Bank without a history to guide it is almost certain to incur losses which an older Bank would avoid. These considerations apply with special force in this particular case. The Bank has in the past been too ambitious. It has piled up its figures at an extraordinary rapid rate, and it has paid the natural penalty for attempting to grow too fast, and for departing from the beaten paths of experience, which in banking more than in any other business it is most necessary to follow. But the losses which have been made are far too heavy to be explained in this way, and I ought, perhaps to say that in many cases loans have been made for which sound banking principles offer no apparent justification, and under methods directly contrary to those which will be followed by the present management.

If my report is adopted the figures of the Profit and Loss Account and of the General Balance sheet of the Bank will be as follows. It will be observed that the Profit and Loss statement is as of 30th April, with my adjustments made as an addendum. The general balance sheet is as of the 31st May:—

Toronto, 31st May, 1907.

So far as the future of the Bank is concerned, I have no hesitation in saying that its prospects are of the best. It will have a fully paid-up capital of $3,000,000 which we may be certain is absolutely intact, while in the special Contingent Fund it has, I hope, the nucleus of a Rest Account, which a trust will within the next few years begin to assume respectable proportions. We have throughout Ontario and in part of Quebec a large and valuable business. Our country branches have as a whole been well selected—although we think it altogether likely that some of them will have to be closed—and our country Managers undoubtedly have the confidence of the farming and mercantile community. Our deposits have shown remarkable growth, and at the moment they amount to over $15,000,000, of which over 90 per cent are of a thoroughly normal and healthy nature. Their growth has naturally been checked to some extent by the recent feeling of uncertainty, but now that this has been removed, now that we know our exact position, and that our assets on their present valuation are on as sound and clean a basis as any Bank could possibly desire, I have no doubt that the Bank will again make steady and continuous progress, and that the esteem in which it is held throughout the country districts will year by year increase. The Bank has its own distinct sphere of usefulness, and in working along safe, sound and conservative lines it will do its full share in contributing to the prosperity of the districts in which it is represented.

F. G. JEMMETT,
Joint General Manager.

Toronto, 8th June, 1907.

The results of this examination were a most painful surprise to your Board, but after the figures had been carefully revised by your President and considered by the Board, they deemed it necessary to confirm Mr. Jemmett's recommendation.

A by-law will be submitted to you reducing the Capital, and authorizing the necessary application to the Treasury Board for the confirmation of your action.

Mr. Stewart's resignation of his position as General Manager has been submitted to the Board and duly accepted. Mr. F. G. Jemmett, the Joint General Manager, has been appointed General Manager in place of Mr. Stewart.

You will observe that the Profit and Loss Statement submitted herewith is that of 30th April last, being the end of the Bank's year, with the additions of the adjustments made by the new Executive. The Statement of Assets and Liabilities is, however, as of the 31st May instead of the 30th April. This change has been made principally for the reason that as the President and General Manager only assumed their new duties on the 1st and 6th May respectively, they could not possibly deal with the figures for the 30th April, a date before their responsibility began. In addition to this, it is felt that as the 31st May and 30th November are the dates on which a number of the other Banks close their books for the half-year, it is better that we should conform to the more general custom. A by-law will therefore be submitted for your approval changing the date of the Annual Meeting from the second Tuesday in June to the second Tuesday in July. The only practical effect to the shareholders will be that they will receive their dividends in March, June, September and December, instead of on the present dates, and that the dividend payable in December next will be for four months instead of three. The dividend for the current three months on the capital will be paid on the 16th August as usual.

AEMILIUS JARVIS,
President.

President's remarks in moving the adoption of the Report:—

You have heard the Report of the Directors, in which is embodied the Report of the General Manager, and it is now my duty to move the adoption of this Report.

It may seem to some of you that it is expressed in very formal and cold-blooded language, but the Report, as you will understand, is the document in which the actual facts are recorded. For myself personally I wish to express to you my very sincere regret that it should have been necessary to lay this Report before you, but with the facts as they are we had absolutely no alternative. I can only hope that the progress which we confidently expect to make during the next few years will in course of time repay you all for the losses which you have made.

It may be thought by some that our valuations have been too drastic, but I unhesitatingly affirm that not one dollar has been treated as bad or doubtful that we do not honestly believe to be so. The basis of valuation has been that where we have no security whatever, and little or no prospect of recovering the debt, we have considered it bad and written it off. Where there is inadequate security and doubt as to the success of the particular business or venture upon which the security is based, or where the market price is at present against us, we have considered it doubtful and placed it in Contingent Account. There is no doubt in my mind at all that with an improvement of values and an easing of money a considerable portion of the money that has been placed in Contingent Account will be ultimately recovered, but we should be misleading you if at the present moment we did not provide for the worst.

Owing to the lack of time and the necessity for ensuring that the information did not become known outside, and used to the disadvantage of the shareholders at large, we have not printed this Report, but have had only a few copies typewritten. It will, however, be printed as quickly as possible, and a copy sent to each shareholder.

I now beg to move the adoption of the Report, which will be seconded by the Vice-President, Mr. Macdonald. Before, however, the question is put to the meeting, the General Manager will say a few words.

Mr. Randolph Macdonald seconded the adoption of the Report, and in doing so spoke as follows:—

In seconding this Report which has been submitted to us, I feel very keenly the unfortunate position in which we find the Bank to be. As former President of the Bank I do not for one moment wish to evade any responsibility.

The captain made light of the accident and selected another seat, carefully testing it beforehand. He at once began to talk about the weather and Miss Prissy's illness. But the older sister interrupted him as soon as the opportunity offered.

"What made you come to the back door?" she asked.

There wasn't an instant's hesitancy in the captain's reply:

"Oh," he said lightly, "it's rainin' a little, and I thought I wouldn't muss up them floors of yours. I know them floors of old," he added, and laughed heartily. He continued to talk about the floors and seemed to think his fear of soiling them a great joke. Miss Tempy, who was a trifle more rational by this time, laughed with him, but Miss Prissy seemed still curious.

"You used to come to the dinin' room door, even when it snowed," she said.

"Yes, but I had on my sea boots this time, and they're so big I tote ha'f the road along with me. Reminds me," he added hastily, just in time to cut off another question, "of what the old man—my dad, I mean—said about a colored cook he had aboard his ship once. Dad said that darky's feet was the largest live things without lungs that he ever saw out of water."

Bradley thought he had never seen his partner so willing, even anxious, to monopolize the entire conversation as he was that evening. He cracked jokes and spun yarns without stopping to rest. Clara came in, after a little, and seated herself quietly on the sofa. She, too, seemed a trifle nervous, but the sisters did not notice it. They were hypnotized by their caller's lively tongue and laughed like girls. Miss Prissy grew more like herself every minute.

"Don't go, cap'n," she pleaded, as the visitor pulled out his watch and rose from the chair. "I declare, you're better'n the doctor!"

"Much obliged, Prissy, but 'twas too much of a good thing that busted the the cider jug. Two opposition doctors in one house would be like the two Irishmen fightin' for the pig—'twas an 'elegant row' while it lasted, but it killed the pig. No, I must be gittin' on. I left my umbrella out in the kitchen. Clara, bring the lamp, will you, please?"

Clara rose and started for the kitchen, but Miss Tempy intercepted her.

"I'll git your umbrella, cap'n," she said.

"No, no, you set still! Clara knows just where 'tis; she put it away."

"Well, I guess I can find it. You needn't come, Clara. Yes, here 'tis. Good night, Cap'n Titcomb. I—I hope, now you've found the way, you'll call again some evenin'. Bradley 'll be glad to see you, and so will Prissy and—and—I. Good night."

The captain walked briskly down to the gate. Then, as the door closed behind him, he paused, wiped his forehead with his coat sleeve and drew a long breath.

There was jubilation in the old maids' room that night.

* * * * * * *

On Tuesday of the following week this telegram came:

Boston, Mass.

Bradley Nickerson, Orham, Mass.
Come my office immediately.
ALPHEUS COOK.

"Humph!" grunted Captain Titcomb. "Short and crisp, like the old woman's pie crust, ain't it? Well, Brad, I guess you'd better go."

Bradley agreed with him and hurried home to pack his grip. He took care to tell Gus. She rejoiced with him over the triumph they both felt sure was coming.

"You're succeeding, Brad," she said. "Everybody is talking about it. I'm prouder of you than ever."

"But when will you be willing to have me tell people that we're engaged? Mayn't I do that now, Gus?"

She paused, and his hopes rose, but then she shook her head. "It wouldn't be fair to you," she said. "Sometimes I feel that I almost—well, like you enough to be content to stay in Orham all my life and work for you and with you. I'm trying hard to feel that way. But at other times it seems as if I must get away to where the people talk of something besides their neighbors' affairs; where there are great things being done and where the world moves. You think I'm inconsistent, don't you?"

"No, it is dull down here, and most of the folks are rather narrow, I'm afraid. Gus, you know what my business means to me. Well, if it will please you and you will come with me, I'll give it all up, even now, and go back to the city and try it there."

She smiled tenderly. "You're a dear, good boy," she said, "but do you suppose I should ever be happy again if I let you do that?"

The railway journey to Boston had only one incident worth notice. At Buzzard's Bay the Boston train meets that bound down the cape. There was some delay at the station, and Bradley stepped out on the platform. He was walking up and down smoking when somebody shouted: "Hello, Brad Nickerson! What are you doing here?"

Brad turned and saw Sam Hammond.

"Well!" he exclaimed, shaking hands with his old seat mate. "Where are you bound—Orham?"

"Yup. How is the old graveyard anyway?"

"Pretty quiet just now. Most of the summer folks have gone home. You on another vacation?"

Sam laughed. "Kind of vacation a fellow hands out to himself," he answered. "The wrecking company and I had a row. They tried to put top men's work on me, and I wouldn't stand for it. So I told 'em to go to the devil. It put 'em in a hole, all right, but nobody's going to walk on my neck if I know it. I'm going home to loaf for awhile. I need a rest anyway. Then I'll go back to New York and hook on with another crowd. There's plenty of 'em want me, but they can wait. How's all the girls? Gus Baker pretty well?"

They talked for a few minutes longer. Sam asked how the anchor dragging trust was getting on. Then the two trains started. Bradley leaned back in his seat in the smoker and meditated. Somehow a conversation with Sam always made him "blue." He wished the fellow was not going to Orham.

Next morning, bright and early, he walked into the "coal king's" office. An important young man with a pen behind his ear disdained to notice him.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

Armories Level to be Raised

The grade of the new armories will be raised a foot, instructions to this effect having been received last week from the Department of Militia. This is owing to a protest made by the Board of Education. The grade at present is some 18 inches lower than that of the new Collegiate Institute. The raise now authorized will be welcome news to all interested in having these two public buildings on the Central park erected on nearly the same level.

Homeseekers' Excursions

If you think of making a trip to Manitoba or the great North-west Provinces this summer, you should make a point of securing, from the nearest C. P. R. agent, a free copy of that railroad's booklet giving information about the popular Homeseekers' Excursions. These excursions are well known money savers, and this year are more attractive than ever. Increased traffic has meant a larger number, nine of them this season, of which, at the time of writing, seven have still to run, leaving Toronto July 2, 16, 30; August 13, 27; September 10 and 24. Special trains are used, carrying colonist and tourist sleepers, berths in the latter at small additional charge. Tickets are issued from the Ontario stations at remarkably low rates, ranging from $32.50 round-trip to Winnipeg to $42.50 round-trip to Edmonton, and embracing all important points in the North-West. They are good to return within sixty days, stop-overs permitted. Ask nearest C. P. R. agent for particulars, or apply direct to C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

THE SOVEREIGN BANK

When Mr. Holt resigned the position of President I was very loathe to assume the President's duties, preferring to remain Vice-President, feeling I was not possessed of the necessary Bank training, and having large contracts of my own to carry on could not devote the time needed. However, the Board desired that I take the position, and ever since then I have devoted as much of my time as I possibly could to looking after the affairs of the Bank, and have faithfully and honestly endeavored to carry on the work to make it a successful institution. It was found, however, that having the Executive offices in Montreal, and the General Manager residing there most of the time, that it was impossible to give that constant supervision to the affairs of the Bank that was necessary, and it is only fair to myself and the Directors to say that many large loans were made and accounts opened without my knowledge, or the knowledge of approval of the Board, and in some cases it was months afterwards before we became aware of them.

Our late General Manager was so successful in organizing the Bank, and had succeeded in getting such a large amount of business, that the Board and myself naturally placed a great deal of confidence in him, and apart from a considerable depreciation in our securities, which we naturally expected, did not realize the position until a full investigation was made by the present General Manager.

I have gone over the figures presented by the new Executive and embodied in the Report, and I second the adoption of that Report, yet I believe and hope that the accounts will prove very much better than the Report would indicate, and with the present excellent organization and healthy business, with such a large amount of deposits, confidently believe that we will be able to realize a large share of the amounts which the present Management have considered it necessary to take. It is, however, good business now, and we are, as it were, cleaning the slate to provide for every possible loss. This, I see is sure, has been done, and, as I stated before, though I think they have made more provision for bad debts than is necessary, yet it will redound to the credit of the Bank in other years.

In concluding I can only express again my regret that the Statement was not more satisfactory. But with the active, energetic and business-like President, who has a Bank training, and with the careful, assiduous and able General Manager, whom we have been so fortunate to secure, the Sovereign Bank will now take its place as one of the most prosperous and leading Banks of the country.

Before putting the motion to the meeting, the President asked the General Manager to say a few words, and Mr. Jemmett then said:—

Now that my Report to the Directors and the Directors' Report to the shareholders have been read, it is not necessary that I should speak to you at any length. There are, however, one or two points on which I think it is well to say a few words.

In the first place, I want to express to you my personal regret that it should have been my lot to make a report on your property which cannot but be regarded by you all as most disappointing. For the facts as I have found them, I have, of course, no responsibility. The tasks which I had was to take these facts, ascertain what they really meant and what the assets of the Bank were actually worth, and to place before the Board as quickly as possible the results of my examination.

This, I have done, and my figures are before you. As I've said in my Report, I am sure that the Bank is now on a thoroughly sound basis, that you know the worst of it, and that you need have no apprehension regarding the future. If the present prosperity continues—and at the moment there seems little reason to doubt it—it is possible that from the amount which has been placed in the first Contingent Account some recoveries may be made, but the shareholders' wisest course will be to consider the whole of that amount will be required to liquidate the debts against which it has been provided.

The position of the Special Contingent Account is a little different. This account is provided mainly in order to meet possible losses on certain accounts which from a banking standpoint are in a very unsatisfactory condition. The full account of the advances in these accounts could not possibly recovered at the present time, while the ultimate course of recovery is not yet within sight. It is quite possible, however, that the securities held against some or all of these debts may before long work into a better position, and that in the course of time they may enable us to liquidate the whole or the greater part of the debts against which they are respectively held. If this should prove to be the case, we should be able to transfer from time to time a substantial portion of this Contingent Fund into a Rest Fund.

We are now making a new start. We have a paid up Capital of $3,000,000, all of which is absolutely intact. We have deposits amounting to more than four times our Capital, and in these and in the excellent business connections at home and abroad which we have, we possess an extremely valuable asset.

The country branches as a whole have been well chosen, and many of them have a business which is far more valuable than I could have anticipated. We have in our country Managers a loyal and enthusiastic body of men, who, during the last few months have shown very clearly that they possess the confidence and esteem of the different communities in which they are the representatives of the Bank.

In the fresh start that we are making, all this will count very heavily in our favor. The staff will, I am sure, turn again to their duties with the relief of knowing the exact position of the Bank, while the shareholders will, I trust, feel that with the ordinary good fortune the value of their property should increase considerably during the next few years. And in order that this may be the case I trust that the individual shareholders, who are the owners of this property, will continue in the future to do all that they can to assist their Bank. Remember that you are the owners, we are only the managers. And I therefore wish to make it a personal request to every one of the Bank's shareholders that they will in every legitimate way promote the interests of their own Bank. That they do their own banking business with us may, I hope, be taken for granted. But in many ways, direct and indirect, the influence which our shareholders have in their different localities may often be of great advantage to the Bank. I hope that this influence will always be used in our favor, and that the shareholders will feel it their duty to join hands with the officers of the Bank in helping on in every way the progress of their own institution.

A ballot was then taken on the adoption of the Report, and it was declared by the scrutineers to be carried unanimously.

It was then moved by Mr. Randolph Macdonald, seconded by Senator McMillan:—

That By-law No. 8 to authorize the Directors to apply to the Treasury Board for permission to reduce the capital stock of the Bank by $1,000,000 be and is hereby adopted.

A resolution was then submitted changing the date of the Annual Meeting of the shareholders from the second Tuesday in June to the second Tuesday in July.

It was moved by Mr. G. C. Martin, seconded by Mr. Stanley Mills, That the Head Office and all branches be regularly inspected at least once during each year, and that the Chief Inspector, in addition to his annual reports to the General Manager and Board of Directors be instructed to make a separate report direct to the President, and furthermore that at each Annual Meeting of the shareholders the President make reference to this resolution and state that he has received and examined such reports.

On the motion being put, the General Manager stated that what the mover had in view was already in force in one shape or another in every well conducted Bank, and that there was not the least objection to the resolution being passed. The motion was then carried unanimously.

On motion of Mr. W. E. McNaught, M.P.P., seconded by Mr. Randolph Macdonald, the meeting then proceeded to elect Directors for the ensuing year. On a vote being taken the scrutineers declared that the following gentlemen had been elected Directors:—

Aemilius Jarvis, Randolph Macdonald, A. A. Allan, Archibald Campbell, M.P., Hon. D. McMillan, Hon. Peter McLaren, W. K. McNaught, M.P.P., A. E. Dyment, M.P., Alexander Bruce, K.C. The meeting then adjourned.

At a subsequent meeting of the newly-elected Board Mr. Aemilius Jarvis was elected President for the ensuing year. Mr. Randolph Macdonald First Vice-President, and Mr. A. A. Allan Second Vice-President.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada

LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us, that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

MICHAEL FALLON ON TRIAL FOR BURGLARY

Prosecution Ends and Two Witnesses for Defence Heard With Most Contradictory Evidence Adduced

Yesterday afternoon the young man Michael Fallon, who was committed for trial by Police Magistrate Dumble, a few days ago, on a charge of attempted burglary, was heard before his Honor Judge Weller.

It will be remembered that this young man was arrested in his bed by the police a day or two after Dr. Nimmo's residence, Harvey street, was entered by a burglar, who on being discovered by Miss Nimmo, who turned on the electric light, fled through a large pane of glass in the parlor.

Miss Nimmo gave practically the same evidence as at the preliminary hearing (and was put through a stiff cross-examination by Mr. O'Connell for the defence. Miss Nimmo when replying to questions for the defence kept a perfectly cool and collected attitude both personally and physically. Her description of the burglar's actions were most concise, including her identification.

Mrs. Nimmo then went into the box and gave practically the same testimony as at the police court trial, which has been published in these columns before.

P. C. McDonald the next witness, said he was with P. C. Newhall on Friday, about midnight, and arrested the prisoner who was in bed at his home on Edinburgh street. P. C. Newhall after warning Fallon to be careful, asked him where he had been that night and also what the prisoner had done with his moustache. Prisoner said he had never had moustache. After taking prisoner to the station, they took him to the Nimmo house to have him identified by Miss Nimmo. Witness had taken careful notice of a footmark in the soft ground where the burglar jumped from the window when making his escape. He noticed the mark of the right heel of a boot the inner side of which gave evidence of being somewhat worn. Prisoner's right foot fitted at the station corresponded with his surroundings.

P. C. McDonald then went on to describe the process of identification by Miss Nimmo of the prisoner.

Mr. O'Connell asked P. C. McDonald, "Do you think that evidence of the worn boot heel is much of an identification?" "I do," replied witness, "I have seen that means used often during my experience." Mr. O'Connell in a rather sarcastic way said, "Oh, but you have not had a very long experience as a policeman, have you." "Only 16 years and a half," responded the officer. Smiles from the court. Witness went on to say that when it was suggested at the station that the officers were going to take him to the Nimmo's for identification, he, the prisoner, seemed quite willing.

After this P. C. Newhall gave evidence which practically corroborated that of his brother officer.

It might be mentioned that Judge Weller, whilst P. C. Newhall gave his testimony as to making the prisoner several possibly "leading" questions, after his arrest, although the prisoner had gotten fair warning that his words might be used against him, told him that in his opinion policeman should not use any questions the answers to which might tend to incriminate the prisoner. Chief Power seems to be of the opinion that no officer may ask such questions, provided neither threats nor offers of gifts nor promises be employed.

THE DEFENCE.

Mr. O'Connell who had made a good fight for his client, and who during the evidence for the prosecution, seemed to be handling an almost impossible case for defence, then called upon Mrs. Donovan the mother of the prisoner, at whose house he was arrested at midnight Friday. This witness swore that Fallon, the prisoner had gone to bed with his clothes on at about three o'clock that afternoon and had not left his bed until eight or nine o'clock the next morning.

Her evidence was closely corroborated by Mrs. McCormick, a sister the prisoner. As it was too late to finish the case that day, his honor enlarged it until this afternoon.

There was only a sprinkling of spectators present at the trial. Mr. Johnston of Dumble & Johnston, acted as stenographer at the trial.

Higher Rates for Free Patients

A Raise Necessary in Ward Rate For Keep of Hospital

Mr. John Crane, secretary of the Nicholls Hospital Board, has received the following letter which speaks for itself;

Dear Sir, —I beg to inform you that at the session of the Legislature of Ontario, for 1907, the Charity Aid Act was amended, so that the clause now relating to free patients now reads,

"But no person shall be deemed a paying patient by reason only of the payment by any municipal corporation to such institution, of any sum which, together with the amount contributed by such patient or on his behalf from other sources will not exceed each week the sum of $4.90."

Until further notice this Department will regard patients paying $4.90 and less per week as free patients under the terms of the Act.

This change in the law was approved April 20, 1907, and will come into effect on and after May 1st, 1907.

I have the honor to remain,
Your obedient servant,
R. W. (BRUCE SMITH,
Inspector.

It might be noted that heretofore the government grant was fifty cents a day for free patients. The Nicholls Hospital will place the new rate in operation on the 17th inst.

Decoration Day a Week Earlier

Local Oddfellows Will Pay Respects to Their Dead on June 27th

The two local subordinate lodges of Oddfellows, viz., Otonabee and Peterborough, in joint session have decided to celebrate Decoration Day this year on Thursday, June 27th.

A new feature of this year's celebration is, that instead of taking the whole afternoon of Decoration Day for the ceremonies, it is the intention to have the procession leave the city at five o'clock, instead of two, as has been the custom in the past. The merchants will be asked to close their stores in time to allow those who are members of the order to assemble at Central Park at five o'clock.

Decoration Day this year will be held only one week later than usual. For some years it has been held on the third Thursday of June, but the backward spring prevented that arrangement being carried out this year.

Mr. Frank Wise, the superintendent of the Little Lake cemetery, considers that everything will be in readiness if the present warm weather continues.

More than ninety graves of deceased members of the Oddfellows Order will be decorated this year. During the past year three deaths have occurred, all members of Otonabee Lodge.

JAPANESE HATE THE AMERICANS

Old Friendship Entirely Gone in Mikado's Realm

WAR IS A POSSIBILITY

California Affair is Most Serious, Says the Rev. L. B. Schreder, for Twenty Years a Resident of That Country

London, June 19.—"I fear," the Rev. L. B. Schreder said today, "that the entente sentimental between Japan and America has been dissipated, and that a mingled feeling of distrust and hatred is beginning to take the place of the former friendship of Japan for American and the Americans."

erican, knows Japan well. He has lived

The Rev. Mr. schreder, who is an American twenty years and has been president of the West Japan college the last five years. He enjoys the confidence of the highest Japanese officials, including the emperor, and he thinks the situations that have grown out of the California troubles are more serious than is generally believed.

WILL AVENGE INDIGNITIES.

"Japan is not looking for trouble," said Mr. Schreder, "but she entertains the same feeling of zealous stewardship for the welfare of her citizens as America has for hers. Perhaps she is more sensitive on this point than on any other. That is why I believe the moment she is convinced the people of any other country are attempting to belittle, insult, and maltreat the Japanese she will be willing to resort to means to avenge the indignities.

"You must remember in dealing with the California problem that it is not long since the innate hatred of foreigners in Japan caused the inhabitants of that country to look upon visitors with suspicion, and to deny them ordinary courtesy. The feeling still pervades the more ignorant portion of the population.

"The California affair, therefore, is all the more dangerous because the anger of the Japanese on account of it has been greatly stimulated by reversion, so far as the Americans are concerned, to the old feeling of hostility towards foreigners.

HINTS AT POSSIBILITY OF WAR.

.....Up to the present time the intelligent Japanese have, admitted frankly that they owe their advancement more to America than to any other country. Now they are silent on that point, and where open threats against America are not heard, they are sulky.

"Unless conditions are made easier in America for the Japanese, I fear there will be painful developments—whether in the form of war or not I will not undertake to say.

"The Japanese cannot understand that the people of California are only a handful compared to the entire American nation. They say they have no treaty for the protection of the Japanese with California. Their dealings are with the American government. It seems a pity that, while England and France are growing nearer to Japan all the time, America is falling in her esteem."

Regulars Passed Through Yesterday

Peterboro's First Visit by Regular Troops in Many a Year

Some of those of our local citizens who do not take The Times or read the evening papers were somewhat surprised Monday night when they saw many bronzed faces and manly forms covered in khaki uniform walking about the town. These it is not necessary to inform our readers were members of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, B. squadron, who after a march from Toronto, some 56 men and 80 horses strong, camped that night at the Exhibition Grounds, en route to Petawawa via Lakefield, Young's Point, Apsley, etc. This is the first time that Peterborough has had an regular troops within her borders to stay over night. The officers of the battery were given in yesterday's issue.

They broke up camp yesterday morning at 11 o'clock and marched up through the city on their way to Young's Point, where they spend the night. Thence they go to Burleigh Falls, Apsley, (to Hastings county, and through Ontario to Petawawa Camp, which is expected to be reached on the 30th, when they will join the other troops encamped there. Many scores of citizens impelled by curiosity or loyalty paid a visit to the encampment of the visiting battery.

"BILL" ANTHONY'S WIDOW MARRIES

The State Treasurer Married the Wife of One of the Heroes of the Maine---Became Acquainted Through Correspondence

New York, June 19.—Julius Lauer, State treasurer, whose marriage to Mrs. William Anthony (in Brooklyn, was announced yesterday, it is now learned, has become the husband of the widow of the courageous "Bill Anthony," an enlisted man of the United States Marine Corps, who became famous during the Spanish War. The life of Mrs. Hauser has been unusually romantic.

When the Maine was blown up in Havana harbor, Anthony, then a corporal of marines, reported to Admiral Sigsbee, then captain of the Maine, and with a salute announced;

"Sir, I have the honor to report that the ship has been blown up and is sinking."

This brave deed became a household topic, and among the scores of letters that Anthony received in praise of his act was one from Miss Adela Maude Blanco, a clerk in a dry goods store in Brondway.

Anthony answered this letter, as he did all of the others; but Miss Blanco wrote a second time. A correspondence followed, photographs were exchanged, and eventually, when he had shore leave, he met Miss Blanco.

Within two months they were married, the bride being the present bride of Mr. Hauser. The wedding of Anthony took place October 13, 1898, at the parsonage of the Seventh Street Methodist church, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. F. H. Smith.

Anthony was promoted to a sergeantcy shortly afterward, but on the expiration of his term of enlistment left the service and became an actor, playing the part of a hero in a war drama.

When the patriotic feeling over the war subsided, Anthony found himself thrown out of employment and from a life of comfort he and his wife were forced into penury and finally into poverty. In a fit of desperation, on the morning of Nov. 25, 1899, he committed suicide in Central Park.

Mrs. Anthony at the time was visiting relatives in the country with her son, named William Anthony, then five months old.

She was left friendless, and with practically unanimous accord philanthropic persons began to raise funds for her comfort. On Jan. 20, 1900, the first of these entertainments were given at Chickering Hall. Shortly afterward a dance was given at Tammany Hall, at which General Wesley Merritt presided. The money raised, a few thousand dollars, went to build a home for the young widow at Oakwood, L.I. She went to live there, and later met Mr. Hauser.

Mr. Hauser's home is at Sayville, L.I., being not far from Oakwood, and the widow and widower, Mr. Hauser having lost his wife some years ago, became acquainted. The friendship culminated in the marriage last night.

SIX SUMMER SCHOOLS FOR SPECIAL TRAINING

Ottawa, Peterborough, Toronto, Hamilton, Berlin and London

The Toronto News of yesterday's date contains the following;

The News understands that the Provincial Government has practically decided upon the location of the six summer schools provided under the legislation of the past session for a training course for Separate School teachers and members of the Roman Catholic educational and religious communities. Keeps Her Bloomer

Paris, June 19.—Countess de la Guerinjere has abandoned the profession which, by precept and practice, has been declared suitable for women—that of cab driving.

La Guerinjere, who is a legitimate countess, was one of the first women cabbies in Paris, and for a time was kept very busy, for when not handling the reins she was being interviewed and photographed for newspapers. Now she has abandoned the box, but wishes to preserve the bloomers and Newmarket which an enterprising tailor made for her.

La Guerinjere claims these as her personal property, but the cab proprietor from whom she hired the vehicle she drove contends that they of right belong to him.

The case is to be heard before a justice of the peace, who will require the wisdom of Solomon to settle it.

Parent Loses Both His Children

A despatch received from Lindsay last night, says; Immediately after the death of his year-old child, a telegram came to Mr. P. Whitney of this town, giving the sad intelligence of the drown of his eldest son, Philip at Aurora, Ontario.

Concerning the above a despatch from Aurora, says;—Philip Whitney, an employe at the Metropolitan power house, was drowned in Bond Lake yesterday afternoon. It seems that he was in a canoe and by some means upset or fell into the water, but it is not known exactly how the accident happened. When he was seen he had already sunk once or twice, the water was deep, and no one of those who saw him could swim he was drowned before their eyes within a few yards of the shore.

Where the Thaws Are

Pittsburg, June 19.—Mrs. William Thaw will remain at her Pittsburg home throughout the summer, making weekly trips to New York to visit her son, Harry K. Thaw, in the Tombs prison. This announcement was made yesterday by an intimate friend who is authorized to speak for Mrs. Thaw. It is emphatically denied that Mrs. Thaw has rented a house in Park avenue, New York, for the summer. Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will remain in New York all summer, to be close to her husband, but the Thaws will not gather in New York until just before the new trial.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie and Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Copley Thaw are now in Switzerland, and contrary to report, will remain there until August. They will then visit the Countess of Yarmouth at her home in England, and will come to New York to be present at the trial. The countess has not yet decided as to whether she will come to New York for the next trial of her brother.

Seven Hang Same Day

Jefferson City, Mo., June 18.—If the sentences imposed by the supreme court are carried out, seven men will be hanged in this state Thursday, June 27. These men are: John King, a St. Louis negro who killed a negro woman; Harry Vaughn and Edward Raymond, St. Louis convicts, and George Ryan, a convict from Kansas City, who killed two prison officers in an attemp to escape from the penitentiary; John and Ameleck Brooks, brothers, who killed an innocent party during a drunken quarrel in Iron county; Tom Clay, a Boone county negro who killed another negro in a saloon fight.

County Council Met Yesterday

Yesterday at two o'clock the regular June session of the County Council opened with Warden McNulty in the chair. No other business was done beyond declaring the session open, as the councillors and warden wished to attend the Ennismore picnic, which they drove out to during the afternoon.

Those present were Warden McNulty and Councillors Porter, Fife, Darling, Brenalt, Scott, Killen, Thompson, Maher, Johnston, Shaw, Booth, Oben, Dr. Burgess and Hales.

A night session was held yesterday evening at eight o'clock, when Warden McNulty delivered his address.

American on the 57th Regt.

Last night the gallant boys of the 57th Regiment, looking epic and span and almost in full regimental strength, met at the George street armories and held a good parade and practice march. Shortly after eight o'clock the brass band marched up George street to the armories where the regiment gathered and fell in. A Times representative happening to be beside a couple of American visitors on route to Stony Lake, accidentally heard the following in a nasal and high pitched accent. "Say, them Canuck soldiers do suttingly take the cake on show and their marching. If it wasn't for the scrap our ancestors had with the red coats at Bunker Hill I'll be dummed if I wouldn't give them boys a cheer. This town suttingly has a 'brigade' to be proud of."

Ennismore Once More to the Front

Yesterday afternoon the famous Ennismore annual picnic was held in Tara Grove in that township. A large number of local citizens drove out to the township and attended the event. Among others present were the County Council who adjourned their June session in the court house, especially to attend. There must have been fully one thousand people present, one and all of whom had a splendid time. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, the priest of Ennismore, had spared no trouble or expense to have the picnic a success. The dinner and supper provided were most excellent and admirably served.

Mr. W. Redden of this city, was chairman of the event. The speakers, who were listened to with close attention were, Warden of the County McNulty, Messrs. Ed. Elliott, county treasurer, C. C. Thompson, C. Hughes Charles of the Bank of Commerce, J. R. Hall, M.P., Rev. Father McColl of St. Peter's Cathedral, Alderman Phelan, T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., J. R. Stratton, ex-M.P.P., and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.

Local Battery Now at Pettawawa

The local battery, the 24th, with their 103 officers and men have got comfortably settled at Petawawa. Everything about the camp presents a lively and mostly military appearance. Wooden buildings are being erected including, a hospital, general officers, messes for men and officers, also extra stables for horses. The officers have now three mess quarters for the different corps and batteries. The horses are stabled in tent lots, the stables having open fronts, but being well covered above, which are very clean. The early bugle call sends the men off to clean up their horses and their resting quarters each morning.

On arrival of the batteries, waggons, convey them to the camp. The 24th Battery's tents are located at the rear end of the grounds, which are covered with a new growth of trees and plants.

Next to the days from Peterborough is the Kingston artillery contingent. Those remembering that cleanliness is next to Godliness have the privilege of washing their garments in an open wooden trough, through which clear water runs continously.

There are 20 targets, with ranges at 200, 300, 600, 600 and 800 yards now ready. A telephone connects both the firing parties and the markers. The ranges have not as yet been used, but on the arrival of the militia, an instructor will be on hand.

Great Respect to Local Man's Friend

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Tooley have returned from their sad errand to Toronto, where they went to pay their last respects to the deceased wife of ex-Ald. Stewart of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Tooley were the guests of Mr. Stewart. Mr. Tooley yesterday noted that the funeral of his departed friend, was one of the largest and most impressive he ever attended. Besides scores, if not hundred of private conveyances, the funeral cortage contained 56 hacks, several cabs. Two cabs and a hack were required to convey the multitude of floral designs of all kinds sent by sympathising friends, including hand some designs from the Free Masons, Orangemen and other lodges and societies. The funeral which started from 140 Morris street, was of great length.

Mr. Adam Dawson has Passed Away

Ex-Alderman of This City and Well Beloved Friend Has Gone

Yesterday a visible cloud of mourning marked a good many of our citizens, particularly those of the older generation, when the lamentable, but not unexpected news of Mr. Adam Dawson's death during the afternoon became generally known. This widely respected citizen passed away at his home at 483 Donegal street at 2.30. The late Mr. Dawson had been confined to his room for the past seven weeks. Some time ago it was generally known that Mr. Dawson could not recover. He was a prominent builder and contractor, and served for several years in the City Council with credit both to himself and the city. He was a prominent Mason, and life long member of the Anglican church.

The deceased was 69 years of age and leaves a wife, two sons and four daughters to mourn his loss in conjunction with hundreds of close friends in the city. Last night an enquiry from Mr. A. Comstock elicited the fact that the funeral arrangements were not then known.

Cremated Himself Alive

Copenhagen, June 19.—A London owner of the sect of Christ Iphersen, who was a religious fanatic, became obsessed by admiration of the reformer Huss and determined to perish as Huss perished. He shut himself up in his residence at Palster, drenched his clothing with petroleum and set it on fire, cremating himself.

Says Sea Leaks Cause Quakes

Montgomery City, Mo., June 18.—Dr. Thomas Jefferson Jackson See, astronomer of the United States Naval Observatory at Mare Island, Cal., now in this city visiting his old boyhood home, says he has discovered the one common cause of earthquakes—the leakage of the ocean bottom, which gives rise to steam beneath the earth's crust.

He also points out that the chief danger of these agitations is along the seacoast.

"It seems to be clearly proved," said Dr. See, "that the earth is not contracting, but that the effects of cooling of the globe are insensible. Th earth may be slightly expanding. San Francisco is not likely to have another earthquake in a hundred years."

Dr. See was formerly a professor in the University of Chicago. It is reported that Dr. See next week will wed Miss Frances Graves of this city, formerly a St. Louis post office employe.

Reply to Pope's Censure

Rome, May 31.—A group of Italian priests have issued a remarkable open letter to the Pope. It is a daring reply to the censure uttered by His Holiness in his allocution on April 17 against the most modern school of ecclesiastics, and it accuses the Pontiff of violating the rights of conscience in his treatment of Father Murri, who was suspended from the priesthood for criticising the Vatican's policy and other priests. The letter contends that Catholicism should abandon its archaic position, and, by recognising the claims of science and democracy, regain its hold on mankind. It vindicates the right of young men in the church to a certain amount of liberty in their work for her, this vindication being based on the opinion that Leo XIII. that the future of the church depends upon them. Certain pontifical appointments to high dignities are strongly criticised.

THE ROAD TO SUCCCESS

No more striking and worthy example of up-to-date philosophy, followed by timely common sense advice, will be found than that which appeared in a recent edition of the Chicago American in a thoughtful, well written article on "the demon of unrest." The illustration pictured a young man, impelled in a difficult, rocky ascent. A demon was standing on his back vigorously urging him on with a whip in his strenuous journey upward. The application gave the rocky ascent as the way of life, with the young man anxious to reach the top, his efforts being the result of the lashings of the whip in the hands of the demon, which represented unrest, discontent or ambition.

It was a forceful way in which to put a common truth, and there was a world of meaning in the accompanying comments. Whenever you are dissatisfied with what you do, whenever you plan better deeds for the future, the invisible, unconquerable, all-absorbing passion of unrest, discontent or ambition is lashing your sides. When you cease to feel his blows your days of growth and upward climbing are about done. Every man who is dissatisfied with himself, or things as they are, will accomplish something if he has the right kind of discontent—the kind which instils ambition to succeed. Man came out of a mystery into a few years of conscious life, and he will be going out of this life soon enough. He should use the few years at his disposal, grow all he can, change all he can, and achieve all he can. Mental restlessness should be encouraged. Contentment means stagnation, and stagnation is death.

WAR AND CONQUEST—JAPAN'S STRANGE IDEA

Japan has modernized herself so miraculously in the short space of the lifetime of a single generation that one has come to expect from her opinions and proposals fully as progressive and enlightened as any advanced by the most civilized nations of the West. This is particularly true of the sphere of international politics and diplomacy. It is, therefore, little short of amazing to learn from a Washington despatch that Japan has suggested as a question for The Hague conference the adoption, as a tenet of the law of nations, of this principle—that at the end of a war each belligerent should be entitled to retain permanently such territory of the enemy as is occupied at the time of suspension of hostilities.

No European or American power would seriously consider such a proposal for a moment, and none would dream of putting it forward for discussion. It is at least a century behind the time. It is hopelessly, utterly incompatible with the whole trend of international practice and thought since the Congress of Vienna, with the constant solicitude concerning the preservation of the balance of power and the equilibrium of the political world.

What would have happened to Europe if the Japanese proposal had been recognized law in 1870, during the Franco-Prussian war? Paris would have become Prussian and France would have been wiped out. And what would have happened if Napoleon had been able to apply that doctrine? Where would Germany, Italy, Austria, the Netherlands be now?

Of course the situation has radically changed. In these days of powerful alliances and groups of powers no nation can hope to destroy another by conquest. Perhaps Japan thinks the idea has lost the danger it might have had before and that the prospect of losing territory would even operate as a peace factor. But the fact remains that the formula has a mediæval look and sound, and that war for conquest is regarded as a thing of the past. An age of arbitration and international courts, an age of great peace movements, of democracy, nationalism and open doors is not an age that will discuss the title to territory based on the mere arbitrament of the sword.

Two Tramps Fell Over Niagara Bridge

Niagara Falls, June 18.—There is now reason to believe that two lives were lost when the three freight cars dashed off the railway arch bridge into the Whirlpool Rapids Saturday morning. The supposed victims are two unknown men—probably tramps. When the train of which the lost cars formed part was pulling out of Suspension Bridge yards two men were seen to board it and get into one of the empty cars which went down into the gorge a few minutes later. No one saw them leave the cars. It is doubtful if they got away. After their derailment the cars ran close to the raising of the bridge, and to jump then would be certain destruction. If the two men stayed in the cars they went with them in that awful leap to the Rapids, over two hundred feet below.

SKIDDOO WITH OLD CLOWN

Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Want No Musty Tricks

Old clown ideas have been relegated to the dusty past by the merry bunch of forty buffoons with Forepaugh and Sells Bros.' shows, who are introducing this season novel tricks in circus foolery and the newest of funny stunts, spreading over the countenances of spectators the smiles that linger long.

Clowns from abroad have also been brought over to add novelty to the comedy element, and a score of bar and trapeze travesties, roller skating burlesques on a new plan and grotesque gymnastic stunts help to prolong the laughter. There is more comedy in this big circus today than can be squeezed from all other shows combined, and it is of the genuine and lasting kind.

When the Forepaugh and Sells Bros. shows exhibit in Peterboro on June 25 everybody will be surprised at its remarkable growth and improvement. It now stands monarch of all in size. No other circus has one-tenth the novelty that is displayed, and none of them can produce one act that will compare with any of fifty to be seen with this great organization. To give the parade a novelty and splendor that would distinguish it from all others one million dollars was spent. And the management did not stop here. Another fortune was spent on the introductory spectacle.

This latter feature is the reproduction, true to the real, of the burning of a city and the battle with the flames and rescue of women and children by a battalion of professional firemen, with engines, hose carts, stand pipes, hook and ladder wagons and ambulances. This spectacle is the most thrilling and beautiful ever produced.

Tiger Rides a Zebra

Wild beasts in a steel arena, in the most wonderful animal act ever presented, is a feature this season of Forepaugh and Sells Bros.' circus. In this act a tiger rides on a zebra's backband a bear does a wrestling act with his trainer.

Will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoops Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

BIG GIRLS WERE SPANKED

Bristow, Iowa, June 18.—Because he had the courage to spank six girls, averaging 18 years of age, Professor D. L. Correll, head of the public schools here, has been re-employed with an increase of salary of $1,800 a year.

Half a dozen girls threatened to demoralize the school by misbehavior, and the professors threatened to resign rather than resort to severe measures. The school board told Professor Correll to subdue the young women, and they would stand by him. Correll accepted the order, and at the first sign of insubordination executed his spanking stunt. He has had no more trouble, and at the last meeting the school board made substantial acknowledgement of his disciplinary work.

Appeals to English Kin

St. Louis, June 18.—"Lord" Frederick Seymour Barrington, under sentence to hang July 25, yesterday took steps to throw his real family connections acquainted with his predicament.

To Percy Tressider, of Ottawa, Ont., he gave two voluminous documents for the Clayton girl, embodying an appeal to his relatives in England.

Tressider refused to divulge the identity of the persons to whom Barrington appealed. He stated, however, that a great effort will be made in Barrington's behalf when the appeal is presented.

Free from Alcohol

Since May, 1906, Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been entirely free from alcohol. If you are in poor health, weak, pale, nervous, ask your doctor about taking this non-alcoholic tonic and alterative. If he has a better medicine, take his. Get the best, always. This is our advice.

We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our preparations. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend "Who'd you wish to see?" he asked after a dignified interval.

"Mr. Cook—the older one," answered Bradley.

"He's busy now; likely to be busy all the morning. What do you want to see him for? Won't I do?"

"Don't know, I'm sure," replied the wrecker gravely. "I'll speak to Mr. Cook about it. You see, he was the one that sent for me, so"—

"He sent for you! Oh, excuse me. I wish you'd said so sooner. Sit down, please. What name, sir?"

"Nickerson, sir."

The young man, much less important, hurried into another room and returned at once.

"Mr. Cook 'll see you, sir," he said, opening the gate. "Step right into his private office, Mr. Nickerson."

The great Mr. Cook was seated behind his big carved desk. The whole outfit looked rather formidable. He stared at Bradley over his glasses.

"Sit down," he commanded. "Got my wire, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, what's your lowest price for the anchor and chain of the Liberty, which I understand you have buoyed, delivered on the Orham wharf? Lowest, mind. No trimmings!"

"Five hundred dollars."

"All right, you may take it up. I'll give you four hundred cash for the job. Go ahead, and work quick. Good day, Nickerson; glad to have met you."

He swung around to the desk and picked up some papers. But Bradley did not go.

"Excuse me, Mr. Cook," he said. "Our figure was five hundred, not four."

"Humph! Well, five's robbery. Four's what I'll pay."

"All right, sir. Sorry we can't trade. Good morning."

"Hold on there!" shouted the owner of the Liberty. "Do you mean you won't raise the anchor?"

"Not for less than five hundred."

"Split the difference. Make it four-fifty?"

"No, sir."

"Oh, well, hang it, go ahead! Five hundred, then—only don't bother me any more."

But Bradley still hesitated. "There is just one thing more, Mr. Cook," he said. "That chain has sanded in every day since it has been on that bottom."

"Sit down," he commanded.

We may not be able to get up the whole of it. We warned your tugboat skipper who was down there to look matters over. We'll do our best, though."

"Oh, you'll get it. I'd be willing to bet that you'd get up the everlasting foundations if you made up your mind to. Say, Nickerson" Mr. Cook put his hands in his pockets and looked quizzically at Bradley. "If you get sick of anchor dragging any time, come and see me. Have a cigar to smoke as you go along. Good day."

Bradley was happy. He felt that when Cook & Son should have future wrecking contracts to give out Titcomb & Nickerson might be considered as bidders to be reckoned with.

CHAPTER XIII.

"THERE!" exclaimed Captain Titcomb ten days later, when the last section of the Liberty's chain had been laid on Orham wharf. "There, that child's born, and his name's Adoniram! Now, then, Brad, what next—more anchor draggin'?"

Getting up that chain with a hand windlass was a tough proposition, but they had done it finally. The calm weather helped them here, for, though the heavy links had sanded somewhat, they managed to work the last one loose after a struggle. Again the partners had longed for the much talked of schooner with an engine, but this time it was Bradley who did most of the complaining. The captain merely looked wise and winked knowingly. "Keep your head to wind'ard, son," he remarked. "May be I'll have a s'prise party for you some of these days." Bradley didn't know what he meant, and the captain wouldn't explain.

In reply to the question concerning what was to be done next the junior partner, who was sitting on an overturned salt mackerel tub aboard the Lizzie, asked a question in his turn.

"Cap'n Ez," he said, "do you remember that schooner loaded with tar that foundered on the flats off Calebs's point last March? The one we located when we were dragging for Anderson's anchor that time?"

Captain Titcomb nodded. "Yup," he said. "She b'longed to a Boston firm, seems to me. Let's see—what was their name?"

"Colton, Lee & Co. They are on Commercial street. Well, I went in to see 'em when I was up to Boston."

"You did?"

"Yes. That tar has stuck in my mind ever since you told me about it. It was in barrels, you see, and it's harder than Pharaoh's heart naturally, so the salt water hasn't had time to hurt it any to speak of. Obed told me that the schooner was insured and the cargo wasn't. So I thought I'd go in and see the owners. Well, they'd pretty nearly forgotten about the tar. I suppose it had been charged to profit and loss long ago. We talked, and I told 'em that I might perhaps be able to save a few barrels—only a few, of course. The upshot of it all was that I bought the whole cargo, 840 barrels, just as it lies on the bottom, for $25 cash."

"You didn't?"

"I did. It was $25 more than they ever expected to get at that. Now, cap'n, our agreement was that no new move should be entered into without the consent of both partners. This deal was so 'all in the air,' as you might say, that I didn't say anything about it until I'd seen the owners. Now, if you feel that we can't raise enough of the stuff to pay for the trouble I'll let the twenty-five come out of my pocket and call it a fine for being too smart."

"You shan't do no such thing. We can git out enough of that tar to make that up twice over, even with the back number rig we've got. But if we had a divin' kit and a diver I'd be willin' to bet we could save two or three hundred barrels, maybe more."

"That's what I thought. So I spent nearly three hours cruising up and down Atlantic avenue and rummaging in ship stores and such places. And, Cap'n Ezra, I know where we can buy a complete fit out second hand—pump,

PHONE ETIQUETTE.

The Undignified "Hallo" Seems to Have Come to Stay.

"How do you ever stop a conversation with a girl over the telephone?" asked a worried young man the other day. "Grace X. called me up last evening to tell me that she had heard from somebody I was interested in, and then we talked along in a desultory way, while I was wondering how I was ever going to get into my dress suit and call for Ethel in time for the opera, and Ethel dotes on the overture. I didn't think it was my place to say 'goodby,' and Grace evidently had nothing pressing on hand and felt sociable, and there I was. At last she seemed to reflect that I might have something to do besides gossip with her and she rang off, but I was fifteen minutes late at Ethel's. The matter was not made better with her when I explained that I had been detained by Grace at the telephone."

It is the place of the young lady to stop the conversation. The younger should always wait for the elder of two men or two women to end it.

And beware how you call the name of your unseen friend until you are sure. The other day a young man responded to a ring and, after a moment's talk, exclaimed, "How good in you, Emma, to call me up!" Coldly came the rejoinder, "This is not Emma; it is Gertrude." Strained relations marked the rest of the interview.

The undignified "Hello" seems to have come to stay. Nothing better has been proposed in place of it, but when we can substitute "Good morning" or "Good evening" let us do so.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

The Gold Bond Company is a Colorado Corporation. Capitalized at 1,500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable, 500,000 shares in treasury.

Our holdings consist of four claims, three of which are patented, and all lie close to the Addison claim, which made the GOLDEN MESSAGE famous. One of our veins is an extension of the Addison, and shows the same character of ore as that now being taken out of the Addison shaft. Comparatively little work has been done on the Gold Bond group, but we have receipts from small shipments of the high grade ore showing values running as high as $24,000 per ton; the veins are from three to twenty feet in width, all good milling ore, with streaks of the extraordinary high grade running all through.

Edmonton Man Hurt on Yacht

Mr. T. Kostchuit Hugasson, electrical engineer of Edmonton, who is a guest of Mr. G. B. Preen, manager of the Brinton Carpet Factory, met with a painful accident Monday evening, whilst on Mr. Preen's yacht. His ankle was accidentally struck by the set pin on the shaft and badly cut. He was taken to the Nicholls Hospital where he will have to remain for a week.

Clerk of Weather Fools Public

That rain storm, at about supper time last night failed to do its duty. It simply scared 47 different shades, not including artifical rouge, from the faces of girls who happened to be out in new summer toggery, without quitting down the mercury, to a single thermometer, even one degree. When the clerk of the weather pulls from his drawer of probabilities a down pour of rain like that of last night without handing out the usually concomitant depression of temperature, he ought to quit his job.

In the shooting gallery at Jackson Park last night quite an exciting match was in progress between a local lady and her husband at target No. 6. After hubby was made to (see) cheap by the superior marksmanship of his wife, the latter than shot against a friends of her husband, and contest him as a hawk would a heron when a-wing. As soon as the moving pictures begin in the park Messrs. Yeates will hold a series of shooting matches for both ladies and gentlemen, particulars of which will be advertised in these columns.

Rev. Dr. Marsh Makes Discovery

Rev. Dr. Marsh, the Peterborough county astronomer, at seven o'clock Monday night made a measurement of the sun spots, and found that they had increased to 91,160 by 34,050 square miles, instead of 20,000 x 40,000 miles wide as thought heretofore. It is anticipated that in the course of a few days there will be a great disturbance, but in the meantime there may be some magnetic disturbances on the earth. Rev. Dr. Marsh made a number of photographs of the spots during Saturday and Monday.

Dr. Blanchard Could Not Go

Mr. W. H. Blanchard, the well known veterinary surgeon, called at The Times office yesterday afternoon to contradict a statement that appeared in the local press to the effect that he had accompanied the 24th Field Battery to Petawawa. He noted that stress of business prevented him going away this year. Those acquainted with Dr. Blanchard's military service in the South African war can easily understand that nothing but important business could deafen his ears to the call of trumpet and horse hoofs.

Preacher Asks For Kiss

Atlanta, Ga., June 18.—The admitted attempt of the Rev. George Barnwell, pastor of the Edgewood Baptist church, to get a kiss from pretty Mrs. Clara Loudon, wife of the Sunday school superintendent, today caused a riot at a meeting of the congregation called to consider the matter.

The preacher called at the Loudon home at night, according to Mrs. Loudon, and said to her: "My, how sweet you are! Give me a kiss," and then tried to take the kiss he asked for.

Mrs. Loudon dodged the parson. She told her husband when he returned and the trouble began. Soon the 800 members of the church were split into Loudon and Barnwell factions.

Today a great church meeting was held to consider the matter, at which the preacher's friends were in majority. When Loudon realized this he walked to where the Rev. Mr. Barnwell sat, slapped the preacher's jaws, and denounced him as "a wolf in sheep's clothing." Several blows were struck and a free fight was narrowly averted.

The women of the congregation are almost a unit for the Rev. Mr. Barnwell, he is noted for eloquence.

New Line to Muskoka

Canada's greatest railway, in building a line to connect Toronto with the main transcontinental track at Sudbury, has incidentally given us a new route to the Muskoka Lakes district, over which fast passenger trains will be running after Saturday, June 22nd. Bala, which is reached in three and a half hours from Toronto, will be the Lakes terminus this summer, and there steamers of the Muskoka Navigation Company will connect with trains, carrying travellers to all points on Lakes Muskoka, Joseph and Rosseau. The roadbed is heavily laid and well ballasted, train equipment is new and handsome, and excellent time is made. In addition to the local trains there will be two flyers to the Lakes; the Lakeland Limited and Sunrise Express, and two flyers southbound, the Queen City Flyer and Twilight Limited. Through sleepers will run to and from Toronto, Buffalo, Pittsburg and New York, and of course, a splendid equipment of parlor cars, dining cars, and luxurious day coaches. C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C. P. R., at Toronto, will be glad to mail full particulars of trains and handsome Muskoka folder, or same may be obtained free from local C. P. R. agents.

Str. Otonabee's First Trip Tonight

This evening the fine new twin screw steamer of the Otonabee Navigation Co., will make her virgin bow to the fresh air and scenic beauties of Peterborough, or to get to print allotment of facts make her first local excursion.

This evening the Otonabee will leave the Wolfe street wharf at 8 o'clock, the east ward wharf at 8.10 and the street railway wharf at 8.30, returning, after calling at the intermediate wharves, to the Wolfe street wharf at 11 p.m. Tonight's excursion is run under auspices of the Men's Guild of St. Luke's church. The new steamer, a description of which has already been given in The Times, will be lighted by a 4000-candle power light and 100 16-candle power incandescent lamps, thus ensuring not only absolute protection to whild or maid, but the ability to fully see and appreciate the beauties of our southern lake route.

Homeseekers' Excursions

If you think of making a trip to Manitoba or the great North-west Provinces this summer, you should make a point of securing, from the nearest C. P. R. agent, a free copy of that railroad's booklet giving information about the popular Homeseekers' Excursions. These excursions are well known money savers, and this year are more attractive than ever. Increased traffic has meant a larger number, nine of them this season, of which, at the time of writing, seven have still to run, leaving Toronto July 2, 16, 30; August 13, 27; September 10 and 24. Special trains are used, carrying colonist and tourist sleepers, berths in the latter at small additional charge. Tickets are issued from the Ontario stations at remarkably low rates, ranging from $21.00 round-trip to Winnipeg to $42.50 round-trip to Edmonton, and embracing all important points in the North-West. They are good to return within sixty days, stop-overs permitted. Ask nearest C. P. R. agent for particulars, or apply direct to C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients — Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or billiousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical writers and practitioners in all sections of the country who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompained with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on his section he bought near Regina, one year ago, he sold out recently for exactly twice what he paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here, too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

VOL XXXV. NO. 145 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 20 1907 PRICE TWO CENTS

ADDITIONAL ARC AND INCANDESCENT LAMPS

Will be Recommended to the City Council by the Fire, Water and Light Committee---Two New Hydrants

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council met last night with the mayor, Chairman Alderman Johnston and Aldermen Bradburn and Morgan present.

Mr. Harry Carveth, contractor on the new fire hall, complained that he had been charged $33 insurance for a carpenters' risk during the time work was under construction. This he thought was unfair on the part of Architect Buckwell. According to the contract, it transpired that Architect Buckwell had followed the proper course in billing Mr. Carveth for carpenters' risk.

Mr. Carveth apparently had not read the contract, and was surprised that he was responsible for his portion of trades insurance on new buildings.

The committee decided that Mr. Carveth had no grievance in this direction whatever.

Mr. Carveth's bill for additional carpenter work in connection with the fire alarm system, and in making changes agreed upon since the new fire hall was constructed, was ordered to be paid on certificate of the chairman.

NEW HYDRANTS.

The committee will recommend a hydrant on Water street between King and Charlotte; one at corner of Hunter street east and Concession.

NEW LAMPS AND CHANGES.

The committee will recommend that an arc light be placed on Bolivar street top of rising hill, an arc lamp corner of King and Peawell streets; on Charlotte, west of St. Thomas; change one from corner of Charlotte and Park to foot of Downie street; a long arm on lamp on Park at head of Gilmour; an incandescent lamp at corner of Belmont street and Homewood avenue, and an arc lamp at Homewood avenue, 600 feet west of Babb's lane; to remove arc lamp at corner of Downie and Hunter and place four incandescents between Roman Catholic church and Park street; on Hunter; an incandescent on Downie between Brock and Murray; four incandescents on Stewart, between London and Smith, one incandescent each on Division and Union streets; one incandescent on Mark, opposite church, and one on Robinson at elevator on railway crossing; take one incandescent from Roger and Sophia and place one on Mark between Hunter and Douro; at Bethune and Lake streets, to put a long arm; to put a long pole for lamp at south end of Stewart street.

BEDROOM WORK.

The Parnell brothers, drivers in the fire hall, asked a dollar a week each for making the beds in the fire hall. The mayor thought these men should have been more reasonable in the face of them have recently received an increase of $2 a week.

This matter was left in the hands of the chairman, to make as reasonable terms for these duties as possible.

TO PAY DOCTOR'S FEES.

The committee decided to pay the doctor's fees of $5 for attendance on Will Metheral, who was injured while in discharge of his fireman's duties at the Peter Hamilton fire.

WAINWRIGHT'S RESIGNATION.

Engineer Wainwright of the fire department having left his position without a moment's notice, the city is now without an engineer. Foreman Packenham reported that Wainwright refused to drive the second rig to a fire in the absence of its driver, but jumped on the first rig with the volunteer firemen. Wainwright refused to obey Foreman Packenham when directed to take his instructions in this matter, and quit at once.

Ald. Morgan offered that the trouble originated from the engineer having too many duties.

It transpired from the interpretation of the by-laws that Foreman Packenham had no jurisdiction over the engineer when going to a fire; under such circumstances the engineer would be under the instruction of the fire chief.

Foreman Packenham contended that in spanking rigs to a fire he had full control; and should one of the drivers be absent when an alarm was rung he would be within his rights to order the engineer to drive either one of the rigs.

Wainwright is still working for the Board of Works on the steam road roller, although he has not reported for duty at the fire hall since June 14th.

Ald. Morgan thought Wainwright should appear before the board and explain his grievances; the Board of Works to be present and also Mr. Packenham, chief of fire brigade, and Street Commissioner Evans.

Ald. Morgan moved on this direction, and the motion carried.

OPENING OF FIRE HALL.

The new fire hall will be formally opened at an early date by the mayor, the public being invited to inspect the premises; and in the evening a smoker and concert will be given.

The Mayor moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That the sum of $100 be granted the fire brigade for the expenses connected with the opening of the new fire hall.—Carried.

Ireland's Hopeless Claim

Professor Goldwin Smith thinks that the collapse of the Birrell Bill is pretty sure to be the end of "devolution." Otherwise the Irish members would have moved an amendment, or brought forward a counter measure of their own. It will henceforth be understood that what they stand for is nothing less than "nationality," that is independence. That Great Britain, however torn by faction, and by revolutionary and anti-patriotic aims of the Labor party, will ever consent to disintegration can scarcely be believed, even after the passing by the House of Commons of Gladstone's insane bill. Nor if separation did take place would it likely be lasting. Causes of quarrel would be almost sure to arise, and the end would be reannexation by force. Neither Gladstone nor anyone else has attempted to forecast what the state of an independent Ireland with its dominant priesthood, its revolutionary politicians, and its Protestant and essentially British Ulster would be.

Address to Mrs. Rev. Dr. Crothers

At the June meeting of the W.M.S. of George street church, the following address was read by Mrs. Alex. Morrow to Mrs. (Rev.) Crothers, which sufficiently explains itself;

Dear Mrs. Crothers,—

It is with deep regret that we realize that this is the last regular meeting of our auxiliary that we will have you with us.

During the three years we have been favored with your presence you have been an inspiration to us in leading us to see more of the grandeur of the work God has called us to do in our Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church of Canada. You have been at all times so faithful, so kind, so self-denying and yet so genial that you have won an abiding place in our hearts.

It would have been our wish to have given you a certificate of life membership in our auxiliary, as some little expression of our love, but as you are already in that relationship, it is our pleasure to do that for your daughter, and we ask you to accept this membership pin from us, and with it our heartfelt wishes for the continued health and happiness of yourself and your dear ones.

Our prayers go with you that you may be made a blessing in the new sphere of usefulness to which you are called.

That you may be kept in the secret of his presence all through life's journey is the desire of your friends of the Peterborough Auxiliary.

Mr. John R. Corkery Wins Two Medals

Local Man Gains Great Distinction at Ottawa University

In the report of the examinations in the University of Ottawa, published in the Ottawa Journal, the name of Mr. John R. Corkery of this city, a son of the deputy postmaster, appears as one of the most successful students. In the intermediate examinations for the degree of "B.L." he was successful, as was also another Peterborough boy, Francis McDonald. Mr. Corkery was also the winner of two medals of honor.

Yesterday morning the convocation was held in St. Patrick's Hall.

Local Police Should Get Busy at the Parks

It is now up to the police to get busy at Victoria Park. There are two grievances to be encountered and prevented at this popular public resort. To begin with the lighting system is sadly abused. As noted in Monday's issue the lights went out for several hours Saturday night.

Again about, without exaggeration, one day in four, if not more frequently the lights in this park turn out the city's lamps during the whole time that "Old Sol" is spreading his beneficent rays on this mundane sphere, when the lights should be switched off.

It seems as though mischievous boys or if men, contemptible caricatures of humanity, seem to delight in turning the lights of this park on in the sunshine and turning them off when darkness sets in. This article is not intended to throw any onus on the police, as they cannot camp at this park to watch. Still some arrangement should be made to control the main switch at Victoria Park.

Again Messrs. Moylan Bros. complain that boys interfere with the watering hose at this and centre the watering hose at this and Central Park. If the police department is worth the price of its uniform, yet stobe salaries, the members should be able to prevent some of these nuisances. In making this "break" we fully understand that the city has not a sufficient force for its population. Still if the police do not adjust and prevent nuisances, to whom can the ratepayers look for help.

Sewers Failed to Carry the Water

Rivers Ran Down George Street Carrying Refuse on to Pavements

During yesterday's storm the heaviest rainfall seen there during a similar period for years, and during which some inconsiderable hail fell, the George street sewers or sewer traps were absolutely inadequate to perform the work required of them. The water ran in miniature rivulets down both George street and Brock, Hunter and other cross streets. Water sometimes fully ten or twelve inches in depth ran down the main thoroughfare. So deep were these new born creeks that the iron gratings in the street crossings, beneath which surface water is supposed to flow to the trap, not only ran over the gratings but in such quantities that street refuse was piled high above the crossings next the pavements and on the gratings. In fact several George street merchants were seen after the rain, at first stopped out with their rubber hose, firing water on the pavements in front of their respective places of business to clean the mud and sand refuse off. One or two stores on the east side of George street had their cellars flooded by water that should have found an outlet via the sewers.

LIKE OPIUM EATERS

Coffee Drinkers Become Slaves

"The experience, suffering and slavery of some coffee drinkers would be almost as interesting as the famous 'Confessions of an Opium Eater,'" says a Boston man;

"For twenty years I used coffee at the breakfast table and incidentally, through the day. I craved it as a whiskey drinker longs for his morning bracer. I knew perfectly well that it was slowly killing me, but I could not relinquish it.

"The effect on the nervous system was fearly alarming and my general health greatly impaired. I had dyspepsia, serious heart difficulty, and insomnia. When I would lie down, I would almost suffocate. My doctor assured me it was due to the action of caffeine (which is the active principle of coffee) on the heart.

"I persisted in its use however, and suffered many (just as drunkards do. One day when I was feeling unusually depressed, a friend whom I met, looked me over and said; 'Now, look here, old man, I believe I know exactly what's the matter with you. You are a coffee fiend and it's killing you. I want to tell you my experience. I drank coffee and it ruined my nerves, affected my heart, and made me a sallow, bilious old man, but through a friend who had been similarly afflicted, I found a blessed relief and want to tell you about it. Try Postum Food Coffee, a gruteful, delicious beverage, full of nourishment, that will satisfy your taste for coffee and feed your nervous system back to health, rather than tear it down as coffee has been doing.

"I took my friend's advice, and within a week from that time, my digestion seemed perfect, I slept a sweet, refreshing sleep all night, and my heart quit its quivering and jumping. I have been steadily gaining in health and vitality right along."

"There's a reason."

STATE GOVERNOR ON RECIPROCITY

Putting on Duty is Merely a Habit

MAD FOT ZEAL IN SELLER

Buyer Abandoned to Tender Mercies of Monopoly, Combination and Greed

Pittsburg, June 19.—Governor Albert B. Cummins, of Iowa, delivered the principal address last night at a meeting of the Pittsburg Board of Trade. He spoke on "Reciprocity," and Wm. R. Corwin, secretary of the New York Committee of Tariff League, New York, made an address.

Governor Cummins characterized the placing of duties upon many things as an American habit, and said;

"I stand just as firmly and as persistently for a reduction in some of the duties in order that the home buyer may be protected as I do for reciprocal arrangements that will enlarge our sales abroad.

"I am for tariff revision and for tariff reduction as a measure of justice to the buyers of protected commodities. It seems to me that we have gone mad in our zeal for the seller and have abandoned the buyer to the tender mercy of monopoly, combination and greed.

"The people have borne excessive tariff with marvelous patience, but they will not bear it in silence, and little by little they are coming nearer to their own. The way is beset by many difficulties, but they will be overcome, and it will not be long before a Congress will convene that will be as swift to give them the relief to which they are entitled as the congresses of the last few years have been resolute in denying."

Robert Jewell is Adjudged Insane

County Magistrate Edmison Holds an Afternoon Session

Yesterday afternoon at three o'clock County Magistrate Edmison held a special court to determine the sanity of one Robert Jewell.

Mr. Wm. Foster the first witness, father-in-law of Jewell, said he had known Jewell some five years. Jewell had lived with him. He had been in the township of Smith for about a year. He had noticed that Jewell was quite insane at times, particularly last Saturday evening. Jewell is married and used to live near the Cordage Works. He first noticed Jewell being mentally deranged about two months ago, since when he has been steadily getting worse. For some time Jewell has frequently complained of pain in the head resulting from an accident. The first act of insanity that was witnessed, was when he would feed his witness' pigs with whey from the factory he would keep on pouring it into the troughs until it ran away over the ground. When told not to do this Jewell would proceed with the waste. Jewell has threatened to take his witness' life, and on choke him several times. Jewell has lately been very temperate as to liquor.

The next witness testified to Jewell coming to this house Saturday night, and although near home, did not know his house, where he then drove him.

Still another witness testified to Jewell's erratic actions.

The magistrate rather assured the friends of the poor fellow Jewell, by saying that in his opinion Jewell would be cured in possibly three months.

Two local medical men had previously examined Jewell, and had handed in their certificates as to Jewell's insanity in which it was noted that he did not only threaten Foster and others, but had said he was going to drown himself. There was no possible doubt but what the poor fellow is at least temporarily deranged. If as examined by him, and as noted above, he has had an accident and his head thereby injured, it is possible that a piece of the skull may be depressed upon the brain and by a trepanning operation, as is very commonly shown, the piece be removed he will possibly regain full control of his mind.

Strange Freak of Lightning

During Yesterday's Storm a Circle of Stars Seen at Brock and George Streets

Yesterdays heavy and steady downpour of rain is probably worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to this county alone. In conversation with three prominent farmers, two from Smith and one from North Monaghan, all detained by the storm, a Times representative, then in an inquisitive and enquiring mood learned beyond dispute that a half million of dollars would be a conservative estimate of the benefit done by the rain of yesterday, supposing it had reached every part of this county.

Yesterdays rain was a Godsend, and this is said reverently to the heat baked citizens of Peterborough by clearing the atmosphere, apart from the material benefit to gardens and lawns, (At the corner of Brock and George street the lightning preceding the almost deafening and worst of the many thunder claps, a most peculiar electrical phenomenon was seen by some eight or ten citizens. Just to the east of the main entrance to the Matthews Packing Company's store, at the corner mentioned, below the electric light wires, for possibly three or four seconds a vividly bright and dazzling constellation of sparks, almost in a perfect circle were seen. So bright and intense was this freak of the lightning that two or three of those seeing it, instinctively jumped into a nearby doorway in whose shelter they stood. It was thought by those who saw it that the flash must (have struck a pole on the north-east corner and split into this circle of stars instead of as is usual following the wet pole to the ground;

New Line to Muskoka

Canada's greatest railway, in building a line to connect Toronto with the main transcontinental track at Sudbury, has incidentally given us a new route to the Muskoka Lakes district, over which fast passenger trains will be running after Saturday, June 22nd. Bala, which is reached in three and a half hours from Toronto, will be the Lakes terminus this summer, and there steamers of the Muskoka Navigation Company will connect with trains, carrying travellers to all points on Lakes Muskoka, Joseph and Rosseau. The roadbed is heavily laid and well ballasted, train equipment is new and handsome, and excellent time is made. In addition to the local trains there will be two flyers to the Lakes; the Lakeland Limited and Sunrise Express, and two flyers southbound, the Queen City Flyer and Twilight Limited. Through sleepers will run to and from Toronto, Buffalo, Pittsburg and New York, and of course, a splendid equipment of parlor cars, dining cars, and luxurious day coaches. C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C. P. R., at Toronto, will be glad to mail full particulars of trains and handsome Muskoka folder, or same may be obtained free from local C. P. R. agents.

Burglars Again at Work Here

It seems that all the burglars or "boughers at burglary," are neither dead nor in gaol yet, as at three o'clock yesterday morning, two men entered the residence of Mr. Shaughnessy, east ward, and ransacked everything in one of the rooms. Two of Mr. Shaughnessy's daughters who were sleeping in the room were greatly frightened. One of them heard the midnight mechanics climbing the stairway, and saw them enter the door. The burglars wore the proverbial half masks, so could not be identified. One of the men stood on guard at the bedroom door whilst the other searched the dresser and clothes closet. Nothing was found to be missing, however, as they overlooked where some money was kept.

Mrs. Shaughnessy heard the front door open and then steps on the stairs but thinking that some of the boys were coming in, took no notice of the occurrence.

WROTE TRUTH ONLY IN PUBLIC INTEREST

The Counsel for Mr. Crooket Contended That Such Alleged Libels Are Necessary That the Government May be Purged

Fredericton, N.B., June 20.—In the civil cases, Emmerson-Crocket libel suit yesterday morning Mr. J. D. Hazen, appearing for the defendant, Jas. Crocket, presented, in behalf of his client, the following pleas;

That the defendant was not guilty.

That he should be dismissed and discharged because the alleged libel concerning the Hon. Mr. Emmerson was true.

That the true was in the public interests and for the public benefit.

That such matters should be made known so that the government could be purged of men whose charicters were of a degrading and disgraceful quality.

ASKED FOR A DELAY.

Hon. Wm. Pugsley, on the part of the Crown, asked the court to proceed with the civil business in order that he and his colleagues might have time to prepare a demurrer against the last-named plea.

Mr. Hazen then explained, that, owing to the number of witnesses brought from a distance the case ought not to be delayed.

Mr. Pugsley argued that there would be no unnecessary delay in proceeding with the case.

His Honor Judge Landry said that he was willing to proceed with the Emmerson-Crocket libel suit yesterday morning Mr. J. D. Hazen, appearing for the defendant, Jas. Crocket, presented, in behalf of his client, the following pleas;

That the defendant was not guilty.

That he should be dismissed and discharged because the alleged libel concerning the Hon. Mr. Emmerson was true.

That the true was in the public interests and for the public benefit.

That such matters should be made known so that the government could be purged of men whose charicters were of a degrading and disgraceful quality.

ASKED FOR A DELAY.

Hon. Wm. Pugsley, on the part of the Crown, asked the court to proceed with the civil business in order that he and his colleagues might have time to prepare a demurrer against the last-named plea.

Mr. Hazen then explained, that, owing to the number of witnesses brought from a distance the case ought not to be delayed.

Mr. Pugsley argued that there would be no unnecessary delay in proceeding with the case.

His Honor Judge Landry said that he was willing to proceed with the at 2.30 in the afternoon the libel suit would again be taken up.

He thought that the crown should be ready at least by tomorrow.

A TRUE BILL RETURNED.

Judge Landry, in addressing the grand jury, said; "Your duty will be to look carefully into the evidence presented to you and to see whether or not there is sufficient in the evidence to warrant your presenting a true bill, which it will be brought before the petit jury. You will listen to the one side presented by the crown. If you should find, however, that there is not sufficient evidence to warrant you in bringing in a true bill, you should not do so, in order that no unnecessary expenses should be put upon the county, and no person should be put upon trial who has not done such acts as will entitle you to find a true bill. It is your privilege and right to find upon the facts presented. There does seem to me to be enough evidence to find a true bill upon. Use your own judgment in this matter, not a knowledge based upon anything superficial."

The jury then retired, and later in the afternoon returned a true bill.

Game Birds Fought at Parisian Soiree

Paris, June 19.—Paris was shocked last week to learn that the chief attraction at a soiree given by a fashionable matron the other day was nothing more nor less than a cockfight. There were only two birds and one of these were killed. Several thousand francs changed hands.

It appears that the son of a prominent member of the diplomatic corps was boasting over the tea table about the qualities of a certain gamecock he had brought from Mexico. A gentleman former present said he thought he had a bird that could beat it. The hostess said she had never seen a cockfight and was just aching to witness such a festival.

The upshot of the matter was that a cockpit was set up in the conservatory and fifty guests were invited to watch the contest. Of course it was never intended that the matter should become public. Now, the Paris Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, threatens prosecution.

NEW LOCAL LIGHTHOUSES

Mr. R. R. Hall M. P. has Procured Great Advantages for Steamboat Men on These Waters

Through the zeal of Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P. for West Peterborough, as well as the action of Mr. J. B. McColl M.P. of East Northumberland and Mr. Geo. Grant, M.P., the former lights which have done service on the Cornwall canal, and which have been replaced by others, have been brought to Peterborough. One of these lights will be placed at the entrance to the Otonabee river at Rice Lake on a pier built some distance out in the lakes. This will be seen for many miles and will be of great service to steamboat men as well as those making for the river in skiffs or canoes. The second light will be placed at the entrance to Clear Lake just above Young's Point where such a beacon has been much needed. The third lamp is to stand at the head of Clear Lake to pilot vessels into the intricate channel leading to Stony Lake. The other one will be used near Gamebridge at the entrance to Lake Simcoe.

These lamps are very brilliant with powerful reflectors and will be a Godsend to those engaged in navigating the waters mentioned. Both our local member, Mr. Hall, and the other gentlemen named above will gain the gratitude of those interested for their good work done.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 20, 1907.

AN OBJECT LESSON

The trial of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, charged with conspiracy at the murder of Governor Stunenburg, of Idaho, a couple of years ago, has at last been opened in earnest in Boise. Its chief interest for Canadians and colonists in the circumstances that it affords a striking example of the superiority of the British judicial system over what is followed in the United States. Since the arrest of the prisoners charged with the commission of the crimes there has been wrangling and public discussion of the case from one end of the Union to the other. Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone are either guilty or not guilty of the crimes charged. To allege that they are the victims of a monumental conspiracy, and that in consequence they will not get a fair trial, is to strike at once at the very roots of the judicial system prevailing in the country where their case is being heard. We do not say that there are no grounds for believing that they are the victims of a great conspiracy, and that they will not get a fair trial. We know nothing about it, and for the purpose of this comment care nothing about it. We simply take the position that a situation of the gravest peril is created where it is seriously suggested that the courts of the United States can be manipulated so that prisoners on trial for criminal offences may be unfairly treated. The whole fabric of the government system is placed in jeopardy by the admission of such a possibility. Here in Canada we rejoice in the grand-pound conviction that the wheels of justice turn with unvarying partiality; that there is no strain upon our judicial system, and that as far as the human mind can determine exact justice is meted out to all, rich and poor, in our courts. Then again our system, in contradistinction to that which obtains in the United States, tolerates no vexatious delays in dealing with criminal cases. The machinery of the law works with inexorable precision, and no "manoeuvring" no matter from what high or influential source it may emanate, is successful in retarding for the smallest fraction of time the turning of the wheels. It is right and proper that we should ponder on these things at this time. We are not sufficiently appreciative of the circumstance that we are free here of such miscarriages of justice as have created a situation in the United States that confronts almost every man who carry a revolver in his hip pocket for self protection. If some of the youths of the city, who have perhaps no third opportunity to appreciate as they might the advantages which accrue from their citizenship, read these lines let them glance at the next British flag they see flying, and try to realize to the full that that little piece of bunting is what guarantees them liberty and protection to a degree not equalled by any other nation on the face of the globe—liberty, which is real liberty, not a mockery; protection which means that the might of the British Empire will be expended in demanding justice for the humblest of its citizens. Then let them turn their mind's eye to the Moyer-Haywood trial at Boise, where the very atmosphere vibrates with rumors of bribery, trickery and deceit, then let them thank God that a kindly fate has decreed that they should be British subjects.

Dowager Duchess of Roxburghe Robbed

Utica, N.Y., June 19.—Young college students who for years have passed their vacations acting as waiters at the hotels along the St. Lawrence River, are to be banished from that profession up that way—at least the good-looking ones—because as the hotel proprietors say, they are too much given to flirting with the girl guests. Mr. Crossman at Alexandria Bay, Ont., has instituted the reform says:

"I have engaged fifty Swedes, none of them any to progressing, but while they are short on good looks I expect they will be long on their duties as waiters. College students are too much given to cigarette smoking and flirting with the girl guests to suit me. I have cut them out. Late getting of soup down guests' necks and loss smashing of dishes by feather-brained waiters are some of the things I want."

Mayor Schmitz Was Formally Removed

San Francisco, June 19. — Mayor Schmitz was formally removed from office at a meeting of the supervisors yesterday afternoon, supervisor Gallagher was named as acting-mayor in his place. The ground on which Mayor Schmitz was removed is that owing to his incarceration in the county jail following his conviction on a felony charge he is no longer able to perform his public duties.

Mr. Gallagher will not hold the position of acting mayor for more than a few days. The resignation of certain members of the supervisors will make room for the appointment of a responsible citizen, who will take Gallagher's place as acting mayor.

Anarchists Congress

Rome, June 19.—The Anarchists here obtained permission from the police to hold a congress, which was inaugurated yesterday, and is now going on. Many delegates are in attendance. The building where the congress is held is decorated outside with black and red flags. The program, which was published yesterday, contains an affirmation that Anarchists are hostile to almost religion, which, like governments and capitalism, represents authority. Hence efforts must be made to promote irreligion among the rising generation by the fault of nature, truth, beauty, labor, liberty and love.

London Hotels Crowded

London, June 19.—The incursion of pleasure-seeking Americans this season continues at such a rate that mere sleeping accommodations for the visitors in London has become hard to find. All the first-class hotels have long been filled. The Cecil, Savoy, Carlton, Ritz, and other hotels receive cautious telephone by cable and by would-be guests in person for admission, but find it impossible to accommodate them. The overflow has taken refuge in the smaller commercial, family, and temperance hotels, and private boarding houses, all of which are able to dictate terms and they do not miss the opportunity.

Beware of Mercury

You May be Using this Harmful Drug and Not Know it.

A favorite method of administering this deleterious drug is in cathartic pills. Beware of "quick-result" articles, they may do more harm than good.

Drastic cathartics will weaken the strongest. With old people they are a positive menace to life.

Merely to restore normal bowel action and gently stimulate the liver is all that the wise physician recommends.

To keep the system pure and clean, nothing is so efficacious, as the vegetable pills of Dr. Hamilton, which are composed of such herbs as mandrake, butternut and dandelion; they contain not an atom of any substance that could injure even an infant.

By their certain action on the Liver Dr. Hamilton's Pills cause bile to be secreted which forms the stimulus that moves the bowels; this is nature's own method and the best one.

Mr. R. Hambly, of French River, Ont., writes as follows; "I was inclined to bilious attacks and frequently was too ill to work. Most remedies purged and weakened my bowels, but Dr. Hamilton's Pills gently stimulated my liver, and by strengthening the stomach made a perfect cure. My health has been just splendid since I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills from your druggist or storekeeper. 25c per box or five boxes for $1. By mail from W. C. Polson & Co. Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

British Imports Show a Big Increase

Ottawa, June 19.—A report of the Department of Trade and Commerce shows that during the twelve months ending March 31st last, Canada's exports to the United States increased by $20,145,508 or 12 1-2 per cent., while the exports to Great Britain increased by $8,930,931, or 7 per cent., as compared with the preceding twelve months. On the other hand, imports from Great Britain increased by $16,089,287 or 24 per cent., while imports from the United States increased by $45,791,452, or 23 1-2 per cent.

During the twelve months, Canada's total exports amounted to $273,206,606, an increase of $32,082,966, or 12 1-2 per cent. The total imports were $340,374,745, an increase of $46,046,636, or 22 1-2 per cent. The total trade for the twelve months was $613,138,996, an increase of $92,128,996. Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physician's test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc. surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

This company owns 4 claims [illegible] the best proved mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 [illegible] two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty [illegible] claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about two and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bond and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section and only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work, goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. We would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

pipes, diver's suit and the whole business in A1 shape, so far as I can see—for $350. Just for a flier I paid $10 and got an option on it for a week."

"No? You didn't? Brad Nickerson, here's where the old man takes his hat off. You've got me beat, hull down. I'll be askin' you for a mate's job yit. Three hundred and fifty! Dirt, dog cheap!"

"I'm glad you feel that way, cap'n. Of course a diver 'll be expensive. The salvage company will charge us anywhere from $15 to $20 a day for a good one. And there's where I'm afraid the whole speculation falls down. We don't know how that tar lies, whether the hull's broken up, whether the barrels are sanded over or not. It might take so long to get it out that we'd lose money."

The captain, with both hands jammed into his pockets—his beckets, he called them—was pacing up and down.

"I've got your diver, boy!" he cried. "That is, I've got him if you say the word. Five dollars a day, too, instead of fifteen."

"Where in the world"—

"Right here in Orham. And he's had plenty of experience. What's the matter with Sam Hammond?"

"Sam Hammond! Sam—why, Cap'n Ez, what are you talking about? Sam told me himself that he'd come home to rest. He's going back to New York in a little while. He wouldn't work for us!"

"Wouldn't, hey? Brad, 'twas the feller with one leg that was too religious to dance. Sam's out of a job. Maybe he fired the boss; maybe the boss fired him. All I know is that he told me last night he'd dive for us at $5 per. Course he'd only do it to help us out, but that's all right. I don't care if there's a hole in the bag so long's the cookies are inside."

And so that is how Samuel Hammond, late of the Metropolitan Wrecking company of New York, came to enter the employ of Titcomb & Nickerson, to whom he had contemptuously referred as "anchor draggers." But if Bradley supposed for a moment that Sam would change his patronising attitude because of the move he was much mistaken. Mr. Hammond laughed when he boarded the Lizzie, asked facetiously if "this was the vessel or only the long boat?" and poked fun at the whole outfit generally. He gave each member of the crew to understand that he was only doing this for awhile to help out Brad. He said that puttering around this way was such a change for him that it was the best fun of his vacation.

He took pains to make his position plain in the minds of the townspeople. Captain Jabez Bailey told Bradley in a confidential whisper: "It's mighty good of Sam to turn to and help you and Ez out of a hole. I hope you appreciate it." Bradley said he appreciated it fully.

Even Gus was inclined to view the matter in that light. Sam saw to it that she did. He called at the Baker homestead pretty often, and when Bradley was there treated the latter in a jolly, good fellow sort of way that couldn't well be resented, but which had always in it that aggravating flavor of pitying patronage.

Bradley felt that he was placed in an awkward and humiliating position. He told Gus so plainly.

"Gus," he asked, "do you think it's fair to allow Sam to call here as he does?"

A more experienced ladies' man—Captain Titcomb, for instance—would not have selected this particular evening to bring up this particular subject. Gus was in one of her uncertain moods. She had refused to be serious before, and she was not serious now.

"Why, Bradley Nickerson!" she exclaimed, with a laugh. "I do believe you're jealous!"

"No, I'm not jealous exactly. But why do you let him come here?"

"Brad, don't you trust me?"

"Of course I trust you."

"Then why are you suspicious or what are you afraid of?"

This very direct question was embarrassing. Bradley felt certain that he had good reason to be suspicious of Hammond's intentions, but he knew he had no actual proof that would warrant his saying so. He stammered and could reply only that he didn't like the fellow's calling so often.

Bradley went home injured and resentful. He made up his mind that Gus shouldn't have another chance to call him "jealous." He could show her that there were others who didn't care.

He plunged into business deeper than ever. The diving outfit came from Boston and worked well. They visited the sunken tar schooner, and Sam made his first dive. Captain Titcomb, who understood the apparatus, worked the pump. Sam reported that the tar seemed to be in good condition, and that, for the present, they could get up a number of the barrels through the hatchway. Later they might have to blow away a part of the hull.

So every fair day they worked over the wreck. Sam, in the diver's suit, clambered down into the submerged vessel's hold and attached the barrels to the tackle. Then, by the aid of the windlass, they were hauled up and swung aboard the Lizzie. By the first of October they had already got out over 300 barrels, and Sam said that he saw no reason why all of the 800 might not be secured in the course of time. The tar speculation was already a very profitable one, and the credit belonged to Bradley.

* * * * * * *

There was to be what the posters called "a grand select subscription ball" at the Orham town hall on the evening of Oct. 10. Gus had expressed a desire to go to the ball, and Bradley had subscribed—that is to say, he had paid $2 for a ticket admitting "gent and two ladies."

He dressed for the affair when the evening came with no very pleasant anticipations. The relations between Gus and himself had not improved since the disagreement over Sam's visits.

The partners were expecting a check from New Bedford in payment of the first shipment of tar, and, as it was early when Bradley finished dressing, he determined to go down to the postoffice before calling for Gus. Captain Titcomb was out of town. He had not told where he was going, merely observing that he wanted a couple of days off for private business. What the private business was he did not state.

The expected check did not arrive on that mail, and as Bradley came down the postoffice steps some one laid a heavy hand on his shoulder. He turned with a start.

"Why, hello, Cap'n Ez!" he exclaimed. "You back again?"

The captain hooked his arm into that of his companion and led the way through the crowd of loungers on the sidewalk. Bradley protested.

"Cap'n Ez, wait till some other time. I must"—

"Shut up! I'm so full of steam I'll bile over in a minute. This ain't foolin'; it's bus'ness."

He dragged his puzzled partner along the sidewalk and across the road to the Traveler's Rest. Then he led the way upstairs and into his own room.

"Now, Brad," he said, "you know mighty well I've got somethin' important to say or I wouldn't have snaked you up by the coat collar this way. But never mind that. If you ain't interested enough to"—

"You know I'm interested, Cap'n Ez. Only do hurry!"

The captain locked the door, again.

WEDDING ETIQUETTE.

Hints For Church and Quiet Home Ceremonies.

When a bride is married in a traveling dress, the number of bridesmaids should be limited to one.

If the bride goes away on her wedding journey right from the church, friends do not expect to be invited to the reception.

Only the nearest relatives and a few intimate friends receive invitations to the reception if it is to be a small one.

The bridal bouquet may be dispensed with and a prayer book carried or not, as desired.

There is no rule against either bride or bridesmaid carrying a bouquet. Whether she does or not is merely a matter of personal inclination on her part.

The custom of proposing healths at the wedding breakfast or tea has almost died out. In any case only those of the bride, bridegroom and bridesmaids are proposed.

The bride provides her trousseau and her presents to the bridegroom. These are her only expenses.

Her father pays for flowers to decorate the church, if any are used. He also pays the choir if the service is a musical one and provides the carpet and awning that are used on the pathway to the church door and carriages.

The bridegroom buys the bride's flowers and pays for the carriage in which he takes his wife away. He also pays the minister's fee and usually gives a small gift to his best man and each usher.

Tablespoonfuls.

Sixteen tablespoonfuls of any ordinary liquid, except molasses, make half a pint.

Breastworks.

Toward the close of the civil war the men on both sides became so expert in erecting temporary fortifications that in a few minutes an entire regiment halted in an open field, would disappear from view behind the breastwork thrown up by the men.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

MUCH LONGER

Recent Discoveries Under Continued Development Make Us Believe that an Advance in the Price of this Stock must take place at an early date.

The Gold Bond Company is a Colorado Corporation. Capitalized at 1,500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable, 800,000 shares in treasury.

Our holdings consist of four claims, three of which are patented, and all lie close to the Addison claim, which made the GOLDEN MESSAGE famous. One of our veins is an extension of the Addison, and shows the same character of ore as that now being taken out of the Addison shaft. Comparatively little work has been done on the Gold Bond group, but we have receipts from small shipments of the high grade ore showing values running as high as $24,000 per ton; the veins are from three to twenty feet in width, all good milling ore, with streaks of the extraordinary high grade running all through.

Watery Blood

Nerves are Weak
Face is Pallid
You Lack Strength
You Look Sickly.

Until You Ironize and Fortify the Blood There's No Hope of Cure.

Thousands of tired workers need the invigoration, the strength, the nerve-force which Ferrozone can supply.

Ferrozone imparts strength because it nourishes.

Ferrozone is able to nourish because it supplies to the blood the elements it lacks.

Once the blood is vitalized, its tonic influence is circulated to every nook and corner of the blood, carrying new life with it.

Cases on record prove that Ferrozone builds up when else fails. Mr. Alonzo W. Douglas, of Woodbridge, Ont., says: "I desire to state the results I derived from the use of Ferrozone. Two years ago I was stricken with pneumonia. So severe was the attack and so reduced was my strength that my life was despaired of. I had the very best medical attention, but made no progress towards recovery. When reduced to practically a skeleton, a kind friend told me of the remarkable powers of Ferrozone. An improvement began almost at once. I gained steadily in weight and strength until Ferrozone made me a new man. I will gladly answer inquiries from other sufferers if they care to have further particulars about my recovery. Ferrozone deserves its great measure of success."

When a man in Mr. Douglas' low condition can be quickly cured, aren't the chances good for you? Don't fail to try Ferrozone. Price 50c. per box at all dealers.

Hastmore Town Hall Struck

The prosperous township of Hastmore does not seem to hold a patent on impossibility of the electric fluid striking somewhere within her borders, as the gown hall was on Tuesday night struck by lightning. At about 5.30 the tower of the building was struck by lightning, and considerably damaged, but not set on fire. The loss by damage is covered by insurance. Still the good folk of Hastmore do not raise a kick as the good done by the concurrent rain fully compensates for all damage done.

About Monkeys

Tuesday's Circus Will Have a Number of These Animals

"When a monkey sleeps he picks out the highest perch he can find," said Keeper Patterson of the Forepaugh-Sells menagerie. When the only home of the monkey was a forest he lived always in deadly fear of the lion, and a live monkey is the choicest kind of a meal for the king of beasts. Although the monkey is a rather wise boy, and knows that in so far the lions are securely caged, the fear of the lion is born in him, and this accounts for his finding as high a perch as he can to sleep on. The lioness, when free from family cares, is prone to lie on its back, with its legs stretched up straight in the air and paws pendant. The lion, when the excitement of the days is gone, stretches itself out flatly on its side with paws turned in and twitches and throbs during its slumber a good deal like a dog. Gorillas and chimpanzees sleep with their hands over their heads. Bears, which have no fear, sleep in any position. The same is true of wolves. Animals of a cunning or cowardly nature, however, are always on the alert, even when asleep. A seal sleeps like a human being. It stretches out at full length, and enters dreamland on its back, stomach or side. Once in a while a seal will sit up with its head bent down on its chest, fast asleep in the water, with his ears under, so, as is his custom, in his active state, that he may hear the approach of an enemy, sound traveling with great distinctness under water. Elephants sleep upright like a horse, and fitfully. They are keenly alert to the slightest noise, but quick to sense things. If they can see the subject, they do not rattle easily, but if it is something weird sounding and out of sight, they need the reassuring voice of their keeper. With the elephant the voice is everything. They have the same feeling for a friendly, sincere voice that a natural musician has for the sound of a musical voice. The menagerie department of the Forepaugh-Sells shows which exhibit here Tuesday next, has been, it is said, greatly added to during the past winter.

A Jewel Robbery

London, June 19.—The Dowager Duchess of Roxburghe, while entraining at King's Cross Station in London for Scotland, left her jewel case on the seat of the car while she went to the platform to buy a newspaper. The case was stolen in her absence. She did not discover her loss until she reached Doncaster, thus giving him (the) a good start. The contents of the case have not been made known, but it is stated they were valued at many thousands of pounds.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up the treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, because the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skilful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

Homeseekers' Excursions

If you think of making a trip to Manitoba or the great North-west Provinces this summer, you should make a point of securing, from the nearest C. P. R. agent, a free copy of that railroad's booklet giving information about the popular Homeseekers' Excursions. These excursions are well known money savers, and this year are more attractive than ever. Increased traffic has meant a larger number, nine of them this season, of which, at the time of writing, seven have still to run, leaving Toronto July 2; 16, 30; August 13, 27; September 10 and 24. Special trains are used, carrying colonist and tourist sleepers, berths in the latter at small additional charge. Tickets are issued from the Ontario stations at remarkably low rates, ranging from $12.50 round-trip to Winnipeg to $42.50 round-trip to Edmonton, and embracing all important points in the North-West. They are good to return within sixty days, stop-overs permitted. Ask nearest C. P. R. agent for particulars, or apply direct to C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last December, resold through us within three months at $10,00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making home improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

BOY SAYS GIRL PROPOSED TO FIRE BARNS

Belleville Amazed By the Story of a Lad Not Ten Years Old---Girl of 16 Said to Have Suggested Burning Many Buildings

Belleville, Ont., June 21. —Hardly anything else is being talked about in this city but the discovery and arrest of Dorland Foote, the nine and a half year old incendiary, who has admitted several times since taken into custody to having set fire to several places within the past three months. The boy is as bright as a dollar, quick-witted, good natured, and was a special favorite of all the neighbors in the vicinity of his home. He is an adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. John Forde, poor but respectable, and hard working people, both his parents being dead. His foster parents reside two doors from the first place destroyed yesterday afternoon by the boy. Within a radius of ten yards he has confessed to setting four fires, the last two being most disastrous, entailing a loss of probably $8,000.

Sergeant Hayes, who suspected the boy, took him over the scene of the different fires, and the boy showed exactly how he did his work. He was armed with matches, he says, and yesterday he went in the rear of the officers' stable, struck a match and threw it blazing into the hay in rear of the horses. As soon as he did this he ran to the city hall, about 150 yards distant, and was there when the alarm was sent in, and he stood and eagerly watched Chief Newton ring the fire bell. Sergeant Hayes then took the boy to the scene of the fire at the Queen's Hotel, where the largest barns were burned, and which extended to the stables and kitchen of the Victoria Hotel. He showed the officer how he had set that barn on fire by throwing lighted matches in the rear door, which tallied exactly with the description given by those who first saw the blaze. He then showed where he had set fire twice to piles of straw next to Jenkins' livery and sales stables, but these were discovered and put out. The boy admits he did this all alone. There were three other suspicious fires in the vicinity, but the boy denies all knowledge of their origin.

A young girl named Amy Stewart, alias Browne, 16 years old, was taken in custody by the police as an accomplice. The boy said the Stewart girl incited him to do the deeds.

In the police court yesterday morning, before Magistrate Masson and Crown Attorney Anderson, young Foote told a remarkable story. He said a few days before May 24th the girl Stewart proposed to him that they burn all the barns and frame buildings along the east side of the river between the lower bridge, a distance of 200 yards. Both of them, he said, set fire to the Jenkins' livery stable twice, but each time the fire was extinguished. He said he alone set fire to the Queen's dilapidated stable, and the fire station, without the knowledge of the girl.

At one o'clock the magistrate and crown attorney adjourned the case till Monday, allowing the boy to go with his mother and the girl with her mother till then.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

At yesterday's session of the police court the old case against a young man named Harry Raymond, was at last on trial after many enlargements of the case charged with assaulting and committing bodily injury to young Stevens a son of Mr. George Stevens, the east ward junk dealer.

Mr. Poussette appeared for the crown as Mr. R. E. Wood was out of town, although the latter gentleman appeared later on. Mr. Kerr made a good fight for his client, the prisoner and won out.

At the preliminary hearing young Stevens swore that he had brought his horse and wagon into the yard and that Raymond had taken a whip and bothered Steven's horse. Witness told him to desist. Raymond continued to bother the animal which became fractious. Witness jumped off the wagon and got into a "mix-up" with Raymond. A clinch occurred. Both fell, when Raymond jumped on his Stevens' leg and broke it. He heard the bone snap. Raymond also bit him several times.

The magistrate then asked Mr. Kerr whether he wanted his client to be tried summarily by him or held over for the higher court. Mr. Kerr, after a short talk with his client deciding to be tried summarily.

Mr. Harry Morgan, the first witness, said he arrived at the scene of the fracas just after it was over. Young Stevens was lying on the ground and Raymond was walking round him evidently in a very excited state. Raymond was using bad language but he did not hear him make any threats. Stevens told him his leg was broken and big witness felt that the bone protruded.

Mr. Eldridge Wescott the witness called to the box, but Mr. Poussette did not want to ask him any questions, however, Mr. Kerr examined him. He said he had hired Raymond as a driver. On the second day after being him Raymond was "a little full, but not too bad." Raymond was tickling Stevens' horse with a whip. Stevens told him to stop or he (Raymond) "would be sorry." Stevens then jumped off his rig and struck Raymond in the face. Raymond struck him back. Raymond then said, "Take it easy!" but Stevens replied, "No, I'll be ——— if I do, I can lick you!" Witness then said, demonstrating his report by motions worthy of My dear Gaston de Paris, "They then clinched and Raymond gave Stevens a swing and if I was on my dying bed I heard the leg go snap!" When Stevens said, "My leg is broken," witness told Raymond not to strike him as Stevens' leg was broken. Raymond did not hit Stevens after that. Stevens, sr., then drove up and told Raymond he could lick him. Stevens, jr., drew a revolver, and pointing it at Raymond, said, "There's your death, you can take your choice." but his father told him to put it away.

Mr. Poussette asked him, "Is Raymond any connection or relative of yours?" Witness replied, "Oh no, not in any way gentlemen. Well by the by, he's married to my daughter." Audible smiles through the court. Charles Wescott, son of the last witness corroborated the preceding evidence.

The prisoner in the box, said the whole thing was a few minutes scrap between him and Stevens. That Stevens pulled a gun on him and that he did not hurt Stevens after his leg was broken.

The magistrate then dismissed the case.

Magistrate S. R. Armstrong presided at yesterday's police court in the absence of Mir. Gamble. The first case called was that of eight boys, including two Hollands, two Ahearns, two Le Barn, Armstrong and Brisbin charged with stealing nuts from a C. P. R. Car, the nuts being the property of the Quaker Oats Co. The case was enlarged until 2 p.m. next Wednesday, June 26th. The boys ran in size from that of a lusty cockerel to one about 15 years old. The four youngest wept bitterly when placed before his worship.

About a baker's dozen of young men pleaded guilty to not having paid their poll tax for statute labor tax for last year. They were each compelled to pay their $1 tax with 90 cents costs, thus bringing in quite a nice little sum for the day's expenses. One young man pleaded not guilty saying he belonged to the 57th Regiment. However, as he had only attended one drill during the year, this excuse did not go, so he had to pay up his $1.90. Still another young man had rented rooms for two months during the year but no taxes. He also had to fork up $1.90.

Harry Dunsford was charged with assault, but complainant after paying witness' fee did not go, so he had to pay expenses of the court $1.20, was allowed to withdraw the charge.

Visiting Moulders Cordially Met

Port Hope and Cobourg moulders Peterborough was visited yesterday morning by excursion from Port Hope and Cobourg, under the auspices of the Moulders Local Union No. 199. Nearly five hundred were in the party by special G.T.R. train a few minutes after nine o'clock. They were met at the station by the Peterborough Moulders' Union No. 191, headed by the 57th Band, who marched in a body from the Lake (Hall) George street. A procession was formed, and with the band playing they marched to Inverlea Park by way of Charlotte street, George and Smith streets. At the park, Mr. Hugh Robertson of the Peterborough union, welcomed the visitors to Peterborough and referred to the kindly manner in which the local union had been treated on visits to Cobourg to the past. Officers of the visiting union replied on their behalf.

The various moulding shops in the city were closed yesterday and the employes were given a holiday, and shared in the festivities of the day. They exerted every effort to give the visitors a good time, and apparently succeeded.

The visitors left for home at 8.30 o'clock last night.

Kingfisher Attacks Two Local Boys

Unprecedental Fight Between a Bird and Two Little Boys in the Market

Yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock a combat between a savage kingfisher and two small boys took place in the market building that whilst almost incredible is absolutely true, as demonstrated by the names of two of the participants appended.

It seems that Mr. McIlmoyle, the market clerk sent his son Allen and another small boy named William Fair to the market building to sweep out and make ready for the reception of farmers' wives who will do business there Saturday morning. As the boys were busy cleaning up they saw a kingfisher enter through a broken pane of glass to the east side of the room. The bird had evidently come from the river close by and finding its usually free progress arrested by plaster covered walls seemed to go frantic. It made a sudden swoop at the Fair boy and, with outstretched pinions, long sharp beak and harsh tones of vengeance, attacked him viciously. The boy, fearing that his eyes might be torn out tried to escape the bird's attack, but the kingfisher pursued him. At last the bird in one of its attacks happened to run against young Fair's hand, his three-inch, sharp pointed, steel like bill was plunged into the flesh of young Fair's first finger on the right hand, inflicting a severe wound. The bird then turned on young McIlmoyle, who at once caught hold of a broom to defend himself. As the kingfisher swooped down at him young McIlmoyle, by a quick stroke luckily managed to hit the bird, falling it to the floor and thus possibly saving his eyes. The boy afterwards brought the dead bird's body to the market weigh scales.

Illegal Sports Before the Beak

A number of residents of the village who enjoyed fishing before the season opened, may now look forward to having to pay for their sport. The inspector has cited a couple of them to appear on Saturday to answer to this charge and more will follow. There is not a great deal of sport in yanking fish out of the [illegible] when you can do it about as easily as picking up chips in a basket, and when one man isn't satisfied with less than a dozen at a time at this kind of fishing, he is a poor sport. As most of the range below the dam come up at this season, this kind of fishing will soon spoil one of the best waters on the continent, and the sooner a stop is put to it, the better.—Hastings Star.

Mrs. Richards Given a Warning

It is now to be hoped that Mrs. Susan Richards, a recent but seemingly undesirable acquaintance to the ingly undesirable acquisition to the population of Canada, who brought from England not only a love of drink but a sloppy style of garb, will brace up and decide whilst a 'Art of bitter, Mate,' may be still right in Billingsgate, Clerkenwell, Cheapside or wherever she hails from, may be all right there, that the distilled essences of Canadian barley or corn, when sold in a glass receptacle marked "G. & W.," "Seagram," or "Did you say Conby?" is too strong for her individual use.

This lady was in the police court yesterday, and the magistrate remarked;

"You were here almost every other day," he added.

The lady replied the few days that she had spent in jail had been a lesson to her, and she would never appear again.

"You may go, but if you ever come up again you'll go to prison" was the magistrate's decision and off she went, with her usual. "Thank you, sir."

Cobourg After Midland Traffic

The Cobourg World; Work is now being pushed as fast as money and men can do it on the slip at the center pier. Following this, work will be begun on the Langevin pier. It is expected that when the work on these nears completion, steps will be taken towards the construction of a new, up-to-date passenger station and freight sheds for the G.T.R. The old round house will be cleared away and the present freight sheds demolished. On the site of the latter will be erected an up-to-date passenger station. The culvert between the north end of George street and the present freight shed, will be covered over and the hollow all levelled up. The tracks are to be shifted a little south and a freight shed of cut stone and pressed brick built on the site of the present passenger station and casting room. It is expected that Cobourg will ultimately be the southern terminus of the Midland railway. It is understood that in Port Hope a new station will be built near Ridout and a cut made across to the Midland line. A second ferry boat is being constructed to operate out to Cobourg-Rochester route with Ontario.

WILL SUE FOR SMITH FORTUNE

Claimant Says She is Daughter by Early Marriage

WANTS EIGHT MILLIONS

According to Woman's Story "Silent" Smith Was Married in Texas in 1866

New York, June 20.—A claim for eight and one-third million dollars from the estate of the late "Silent" Smith is soon to be made in a New York court.

Mrs. Simon Dufreche, of New Orleans, is the claimant on the ground that she is the daughter of Smith, born to him and Ellen Garger, after a romantic marriage in 1866, in Texas. She claims to have absolute proof that her father was the reticent millionaire, who died last March in Japan. Three prominent lawyers have been retained to fight her case.

No cloud comes over Silent Smith's memory because of his first marriage, if it proves true there was one. Ellen Gargen, the woman who is now declared to have claimed him as a husband long before he was married to Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart last year, is dead. She died about 1890.

The story on which the claim is based is as follows:

"In the spring of 1866 Ellen Gargen, then a girl of about 16 years, was living on a farm in the county of Caemron, Texas. About that time appeared a youth in his teens named James Smith. His antecedents were not known then nor are they now.

CHURCH RECORD OF CHRISTENING.

"The two were married by a priest, it is said, Young Smith perhaps for the same reasons as had actuated the marriage at that particular time, took his bride away from Caemron County immediately. They went to New Orleans where the young husband obtained work. They lived in a very small frame house in humble circumstances.

"On January 2, 1867, their daughter was born. On February 24, she was christened in the Jesuit church. The Rev. Father J. H. Duffe performed the ceremony. The child received the name Sarsah Ann Smith. On the record at the church which is still in existence, that name is inscribed.

"Sometime during that same year, 1867, this young James Smith left his wife and went to England. His reasons for doing so are a matter of conjecture. It is not known, either, whether or not he sent her any money for her support.

"Smith wrote to her though. She received many letters from him, all of which she preserved and which are now in the daughter's hands. They covered a period of eighteen years, from 1867 until 1885, and every one inquired as to the welfare of the child. He sent to her photographs of himself, too, it is said. She had pictures of him also which were taken before he went away.

PHOTOGRAPHS AS EVIDENCE.

"These photographs bear a striking resemblance as to general features to "Silent Smith." Of coarse, allowance must be made for the change of appearance that a man undergoes between boyhood and middle age, but even without making that allowance, the pictures are pronounced to be likenesses to a recognizable extent of the man who died worth twenty-five millions after a most mysterious life.

After her mother's death, about 1890, Sarah Ann Smith married Simon Dufreche, who is a descendant of an old and well known French family of the middle class type so familiar in New Orleans. She is now the mother of three children, the eldest of whom is just past ten.

There is one seeming discrepancy in Mrs. Dufreche's story. That is that James Henry Smith, when he died, was generally supposed to be not much more than fifty years old. Some of the meagre chronicles of his life place his age at fifty-three, others at fifty-six. Assuming he died at fifty-three, he would have been only twelve years old in 1866. Taking fifty-six as the correct figure, he would have been only fifteen.

None of the books of biography in which are enrolled names and histories of men wealthy or prominent in this country's affairs contains any information about those three points in Silent Smith's life. He did not speak of his boyhood, his father or his native place. Asked directly for information, he refused it. And those who knew him knew that he never volunteered anything about himself.

Four Montreal Boys Deep in Crime

Montreal, June 20.—Although only ten years of age, Linse Lighthouse may almost be regarded as a hardened criminal. A week ago he was charged with burglary and allowed out on bail. But this impending trouble had no effect on Linse, for along with three other boys he was arrested last night in a vacant house on University street. The boys had burst open a door at the back of the premises and on being discovered were busily engaged stripping the house of its lead-piping.

The four youthful burglars were arrested and this morning lodged in the police court cells preparatory to appearing before Judge Lafontaine in the Arraignment Court. A few minutes after ten o'clock a large number of persons had assembled in the corridor separating the cells from the Arraignment Court. The four boys eventually dressed the intervening passages and considerable astonishment was created when it was observed that a couple of the youngsters were unconcernedly smoking cigarettes. They threw the stumps away at the threshold of the hoist and stepped, with smiles upon their faces, into the presence of the judge. They pleaded guilty and were remanded for sentence.

Pretty Wedding in Ops Township

Miss Grace E. Cornell Becomes the Bride of Mr. Melville Cornell

A very pretty wedding was celebrated on Wednesday at the residence of Mr. D. H. Cornell, "Maple Villa," in the township of Ops, when his daughter Miss Grace E. Cornell became the bride of Mr. Melville Cornell. The ceremony was consummated in the parlor under a floral bell. The bride was becomingly attired in cream chiffon voile over taffeta silk. She was given away by her father. The bride entered the room whilst the well known strains of Mendelshonn's march was ably rendered by Mrs. Ivory. After the wedding ceremony was over, Mrs. W. R. Widden of Lindsay, in fine voice, sang "Oh Isle of Dreams."

The bride's "going away" costume was brown broadcloth with a hat to match of panama and brown trimmings. The groomsmen present to the bride was a gold necklace. Amongst the numerous and valuable presents was a married cheque.

Horse at Hastings Horribly Hurt

Hastings Star says that a resident of Alnwick township, from near Roseneath, came into town on Saturday, which, it turns that should have been in an infirmary. Not only was its mouth badly lacerated, but the reins were plumb stained near the bit, and its flanks were ripped in streaks, as though it had fallen on a barbed wire fence.

Notice was brought to the animal by a crowd who noticed it in the hotel yard, and Constable Lynch placed the horse in a stall to await the owner, who gave the explanation that the horse had run into a barbed wire fence.

Peterboro Wins the Ball Game

Good Exhibition of Baseball at Riverside Park

Yesterday afternoon some four hundred lovers of baseball, including many ladies gathered at Riverside Park to see the game between the locals and the Port Hope bunch, leaders of the Midland League. The game was of the see-saw order, and it was anybody's game, until the last innings. In the ninth Port Hope went to bat with the score 8—8, but could not break the tie, but when the locals went in with a do or die spirit, and succeeded in bringing in the winning run, making the Peterborough team winners by a score of 9—8. The batteries were; Peterborough, Burns and Burridge; Port Hope, Pethick, Surplus and O'Neil. Burns had ten strike-outs, Pethick 2, and Surplus four. Mr. Wareham of this city fulfilled the duties of umpire with satisfaction to both parties. The locals are improving every game, and the infield especially, is one of the strongest that has played under the Peterborough colors for years. Boulter the new man at short, being a decided acquisition to that sum. Chris Graham pulled off a nice trick on one of the Port Hope bunch when he tagged him off first with a ball that was supposed to have got away from him. Corney Burns twirled the leather sphere in a way that mystified the heavy hitting Port Hope bunch.

Visitors by Auto Have Gone Home

Mr. Jas. B. Kelso of Rochester, N. Y., an old Peterborough boy, who with his wife and children arrived in the city about ten days ago in their private auto-touring car, after a trip round via Hamilton and Toronto, left yesterday afternoon for home via Belleville and Kingston. Mr. Kelso as noted before in The Times is owner of a large and successful laundry business in Rochester, involving the erection and occupation recently of five large brick buildings. yesterday expressed himself to The Times as delighted with the progress and success of Peterborough, his old home. Mr. Kelso will if possible revisit this city later on in the fall to have some fishing. The party will sleep in Belleville tonight, proceed to Kingston for which city they will take steamer to Charlotte N.Y. home.

TROOPS FIRED ON BY FRENCH MOBS

Serious Disorders in Wine-growing Districts of Southern France---Grave News Reaches Premier

Paris, June 21.—Late last night Premier Clemenceau received grave news from the Midi, the district of the discontented wine-growers, where the exasperation of the people is increasing. Messages to the Premier came indirectly by way of Lyons, indicating that the wires had been cut.

The Argelliores Committee has been reconstituted, a third committee being named in case the members of the second committee also were arrested.

It is now certain that Marcelin Albert has not been arrested, and it is admitted that the police have no idea of his whereabouts.

SET BLAZE ON FIRE.

Narbonne, France, June 21.—A violent mob from the outlying villages gathered last night. They poured petroleum over the door of the sub-prefecture, which they set on fire, but were driven off after repeated charges by the troops. In the course of the firing the manifestants fired revolvers, but no one was hit.

The disorder was augmented by the absence of lights, the mob having cut the electric cables. In other parts of the town barricades were erected. These were stormed by the troops, and torn down, only to be set up again by the rioters.

FOUGHT TROOPERS.

Montpellier, France, June 21.—Serious rioting broke out here last night lasting all evening. The mob attempted to burn down the door of the prison and rescue the prisoners. The troops were turned out but were received with volleys of stones and bottles. Troopers were pulled off their horses and clubbed. A prominent police official was seriously wounded by a broken bottle. Many soldiers were less seriously injured.

CONSIDERABLE BLOODSHED.

The State banquet which was to be given tonight in honor of the King of Siam has been countermanded, in consequence of the bloodshed. The newspapers report another attempt to burn the sub-prefecture at Narbonne. Gendarmes fired from the upper storey, and the attackers fled.

It is also announced that here has been further shooting in the streets of Narbonne, and that many persons have been wounded.

Many wine-growers continue to pour into Narbonne, and threaten to set fire to the hotels occupied by army officers. Fresh troops are arriving there.

Farmers' Excursion a Huge Success

The New Str. Otonabee Makes a Successful Trip

The Farmers' excursion to Lily Wyld yesterday, was largely attended. The new steamer Otonabee made her initial trip and acted splendidly. About 300 people attended from Peterborough, while probably 200 more were picked up at various stopping places along the route. The steamers Water Lily, Rainbow and Monarch also brought large crowds from points on Rice Lake.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy acted as chairman, and made an ideal president. Speeches were delivered by Mr. Lonbrie Wilson, Provincial Superintendent of Agricultural Fairs, Toronto; Mr. Jas. Barnhard, North Monaghan; Mr. Joshua Smithson, Otonabee; Mr. Jas. Roberts, Emerick; Mr. Berry and Rev. Mr. Johnston.

A resolution was unanimously adopted setting aside the 3rd Thursday in June each year as the date of the annual Farmers' picnic in future. This date henceforth will be known as "Farmers' Day" in this district.

The steamers left with their loads of human freight at six o'clock, the Otonabee arriving home about 11 o'clock. It was an ideal day and every one enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

House of Refuge Only for County

County Council Decides to Take in no Patients From the City

The County Council now in session has decided definitely, to accept no inmates to the House of Refuge from either the city or from other municipalities. There are only, seventeen inmates at the Home now and it has been rumored that the county would accept some of the city's poor. The councillors however talked the matter over for more than an hour, from every point of view and decided that the county will have enough to do to look after its own.

The people there are all old and unable to do very much, particularly the women. This makes it hard for the matron. The superintendent is handicapped by being unable to know when or how much work can be done by the residents.

The following resolution was passed,—

The council deem it advisable not to accept any inmates from outside municipalities, owing to unforseen difficulties which may arise, during establishment of the institution, and the difficulty in procuring help to take care of the people. (The majority of them, requiring special attention, but we hope in the future to be able if there are not too many from the county, to relieve the city of some of their aged, by way of admitting them upon terms, satisactory to both municipalities when the time comes.

R. N. SCOTT,
Chairman House of Refuge Committee.

Living Statuary

London, June 21.—Despite the influence or character of the opposition to living statuary exhibitions and the example of other cities suppressing them, the Theater Committee of the London County Council has decided not to interfere with the representations. The question was discussed at several committee meetings and all the members expressed a special abhorr of the posers. Many of the committee strongly supported the purity, contingency, but the majority in favor of the posers was large. The campaigners will now probably appeal to the council over the committee's head.

Sees Nation of Idiots

Minneapolis, June 20.—In just 900 years from now every man, woman and child in the United States will be an idiot, according to statistics presented before the national conference of charities and correction by Dr. J. H. Kellogg of Michigan. Dr. Kellogg allowed no exceptions. He held up the awful future before the conference and unfeelingly flaunted before them the awful vision of an idiotic nation. Dr. Kellogg chose the State of Illinois as a working basis and deduced this startling result:

FIGURES ARE STARTLING.

Here are some of the figures used: Insanity has increased 900 per cent in fifty years. If the present conditions prevail until 1959 there will be five times as many cases of Bright's disease as now, six times as many cancer patients. Within that year 15,000,000 persons will die in the United States, 4,500,000 will be sick all the time, 5,000,000 Americans are sure to die of heart disease. One-half of the sickness, he said, could be avoided by use of proper attention to hygiene.

Dr. Kellogg, after presenting this woeful picture, left the conference in a dazed condition and took a train immediately for the East.

DISCUSS STATE CONTROL.

A discussion of the relative merits of state boards of control and state boards of charity precipitated a lively discussion. William Rhinelander Stewart, president of the New York Board of Charities, represented the boards of charity side of the argument, while L. A. Rosing of the Minnesota State Board of Control, represented the new idea used in Iowa, Minnesota and other states.

In the afternoon the members of the conference took an excursion to Lake Minnetonka.

"Next Friends" Make Another Move

Concord, N. H., June 21.—Another petition in the already complicated litigation surrounding the suit in equity brought by the "next friends" of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, to secure an accounting of the property of the Christian Science leader, was filed in the Merrimack Superior Court by counsel for the "next friends" asking that the question of their good faith be determined immediately and in advance of all other proceedings.

MEN OF AFFAIRS

Need Proper Food to Supply the Brain

A medical journal comments on the restless brain worker of our large cities and refers to the fact that he thinks the knows as much about the needs of the brain, when he is tired and shows brain fag, as a trained practitioner.

He is inclined to spur up the tired organs by some stimulant or perhaps quiet his complaints with some narcotic and this plan goes on until suddenly he collapses. For brain fag is a sure sign that the elements that compose the brain are being more rapidly used up than replaced by the food.

There is really a choice of but two pathways for an active brain worker—a man of affairs—when he shows symptoms of breaking down. Either he must quit work or he must have food that will replace the structure of brain and nerve centres as rapidly as they are used up each day.

Chemical analysis of the particles thrown out through the pores of the body shows that after continued brain work, a large portion of secretion contains phosphate of potash. It is known that when this element is furnished by the food in proper quantities, the system unites it with albumen and from that compound makes the gray matter that fills the nerve centres and the brains.

This is an especial feature of the food known as Grape-Nuts, a delicious, ready-cooked and predigested breakfast food.

A definite and well understood gain in brain power and physical strength will set in after Grape-Nuts has been used eight or ten days, and sustained or continued brain work can be carried on if a reliance is placed upon this food in connection with the ordinary food of the day.

About Female Ailments

Not Hard to Cure if Properly and Promptly Treated.

Ask any intelligent physician what causes nine-tenths of all female diseases, even including anaemia, nervousness and consumption.

Back comes the answer quick and sharp "Constipated Bowels."

There is scarcely a single female ailment that had not in its earlier stages symptoms of constipation.

How much better off the system is without the poisonous accumulations caused by constipation. How much clearer the complexion, how much fresher one feels when the system is pure and clean.

Think it over yourself.

Isn't it apparent that a bowel regulator and liver stimulant like Dr. Hamilton's Pills is sure to do good?

Gay spirits, good looks and happy health have returned to many a sick woman through Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Better get a few boxes today; gnarly vegetable, free from injurious ingredients, healthful and antiseptic. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will assist you in a thousand ways.

As delay is always dangerous, your plain duty is to follow the example of Mrs. F. Rowe, who sends the following letter from Gravels, Port Au Port, Newfoundland; "Four years ago I got kidney and bladder trouble. I thought it was 'female trouble' and treated it accordingly. Even my doctor in St. John said it was so.

"In reading about Dr. Hamilton's Pills I noticed symptoms like mine and I bought six boxes. These pills went right to work on my sick condition and helped me from the first. My supposed female trouble, which was bladder disease, was cured. My weight increased eight pounds and never before was I as well as today. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont.

THE DUMA AND THE COUP L'ETAT

There is no doubt as to the legality of the czar's action in dissolving the second duma, as there was no doubt of the legality of the decree which dismissed the first assembly. The bureaucracy's "fundamental laws" took good care to deprive the duma of real independence; they not only provided for dissolution at the pleasure of the czar, but left the question of the time of new elections and the convoking of the next duma entirely to his discretion. To the mere dissolution, therefore, objections can be made only on the score of wisdom, expediency, sincerity, but not of legality.

However, the present dissolution, unlike the first, is accompanied by an actual coup d'etat, an abuse and usurpation of power, a flagrant violation of the "constitution" Russia is supposed to enjoy. The fundamental laws expressly declare that the suffrage system shall not be changed in any particular without the consent and affirmative action of the duma itself; the manifesto which undertakes to explain the decree of dissolution announces the "grant" by the autocrat who still regards himself as an absolute ruler free to take away what he has given, in part if not entirely—of a new electoral law, one which, in the opinion of the bureaucracy, may be relied on to prevent "the submergence of the educated classes by the uneducated masses." The general expectation is that the new suffrage law will disfranchise whole classes of the working population, including the peasantry, and whether these are going to submit to the loss of their new hard-won rights or resort to terms and outrage evoke will, we fear, show soon enough.

The fair-minded observer will agree with the leaders of the constitutional democratic party—the party that labored so earnestly and intelligently to tame the extremists and enforce a policy of sanity, conservatism and concession—that the dissolution is a blunder and another proof of bureaucratic fanaticism, blindness and arrogance. The duma, when elected, was unquestionably "red," the government's repression and stupidity having made it so; but its actions from the first have given evidence of honest determination to meet the government half way and save the constitutional principle. The government prefers various charges against the duma, and the head and front of its offending was the refusal to expel instantly fifty-five of its members, social democrats, whom the ministry accused of conspiracy to commit high treason. But no parliament on earth would have granted this demand for exclusion on the evidence presented, which was flimsy, vague and stale. The other counts of the indictment are either trivial or manifestly inconsistent with the very nature of parliamentary government.

The fact is, the government wants a subservient, obsequious, obedient duma, and regards all independence of speech and thought, all open criticism, on the part of deputies as evidence of disloyalty and treason. The selfish bureaucrats think too much freedom was given to the people in a moment of panic and weakness, and hope to revert to the substance if not the form of absolutism. But they will fail, and the victims of the reactionaries will be short-lived and illusory.

THE FRENCH CRISIS

There is a curious situation in the wine-producing district of the south of France. Half a million people swore with uplifted hands to demand the resignation of all mayors and town councillors, and to refuse to pay taxes until the government affords relief. Some of the mayors have already resigned. Of late there has been an educational campaign against the use of adulterated wine, and the government has taken steps for the suppression of the manufacture of fraudulent wines. The temperance movement has also been making some progress while statistics show that the wine-producers are suffering from the growing competition of beer. Altogether the wine-growers find themselves in a bad way; but it is very doubtful if even the government, were it so inclined, could restore the old conditions.

New Line to Muskoka

Canada's greatest railway, in building a line to connect Toronto with the main transcontinental track at Sudbury, has incidentally given us a new route to the Muskoka Lakes district, over which fast passenger trains will be running after Saturday, June 22nd. Bala, which is reached in three and a half hours from Toronto, will be the Lakes terminus this summer, and there steamers of the Muskoka Navigation Company will connect with trains, carrying travellers to all points on Lakes Muskoka, Joseph and Rosseau. The roadbed is heavily laid and well ballasted, train equipment is new and handsome, and excellent time is made. In addition to the local trains there will be two flyers to the Lakes, the Lakeland Limited and Sunrise Express, and two flyers southbound, the Queen City Flyer and Twilight Limited. Through sleepers will run to and from Toronto, Buffalo, Pittsburg and New York, and of course, a splendid equipment of parlor cars, dining cars, and luxurious day coaches. C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C. P. R., at Toronto, will be glad to mail full particulars of trains and handsome Muskoka folder, or same may be obtained free from local C. P. R. agents.

Human Remains That Might Trouble

Three More Skeletons Dug up During Excavation Work at Armories

Still ghastly mementos of man's mortality keep being unearthed during excavations for the new armories. As these last mortal remains of departed humanity keep coming to view, it is perhaps luck, that the departed cannot tell some of the tales of bygone events which occurred whilst the bones now being brought to light were to the garb of fleshly humanity could tell. Should such revelations be disclosed, possibly some of those who, in the city, occupy the center of the pavement and look askance at those presuming to use the same sidewalk might want a sudden vacation, "for health's sake," in the wild wild woodland.

Still apart from this philosophy, on Tuesday two skeletons were dug up, together with coffin plates in a partial state of preservation. One of the skeletons was that of a young girl, and on the skull the hair still remained.

The best preserved coffin plate bore the inscription "Mary Coughlin, died April 4, 1842, aged 60 years." Another plate bearing the words, "Daniel Sherly, died 28th J—— 184—, aged 79 years."

will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on Either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak, vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, foul breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

Victoria Sealers Are Not Satisfied

Ottawa, June 29.—Victoria sealers are up in arms against an arrangement made by the Dominion Government with Russia relative to the claims for illegal seizure preferred by the owners of the sealing schooners, Carmelite Vancouver Belle, Rosie Olsen and Maria, and the "warning out" of the schooners Maud S., Ainoka and C. H. Tupper, by which these last named vessels lost their season in consequence. Two other schooners also were seized, the Willie McGowan and Ariel, but the Russian Government paid over $40,000 to those interested in lieu them in payment for the illegal seizure.

The claims of the others are still unsettled, and a strange position has arisen regarding them. Russia agreed to pay $44,761 compensation for the seizure of the schooners Carmelite and Vancouver Belle, if the other claims would be withdrawn, and the Canadian representative at the conference held in London with the Russian delegates agreed to a settlement on this basis.

Protests have been made by the owners and those interested in the schooners, other than the Carmelite and Vancouver Belle, who were unwilling to be sacrificed to allow of a settlement by which their claims were to be set aside, while those of the owners of other vessels seized under similar conditions were compensated.

In the case of the Maria and the Rosie Olsen it is learned that Russia holds they were seized justifiably.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claims (80 acres) of some of the best proved mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, the Red Top and Jumbo and Laguna the richest in the world, and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated, and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zeon group in the Diamondfield section and only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield, with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

But this is not one-third of the value of this stock, for we have discovered at a depth of twenty feet

...By... JOSEPH C. LINCOLN, Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1903, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

Then he took a bundle of papers from his overcoat pocket and, selecting a card from among them, said impressively, "Brad, what have you and me been prayin' for for the last three months or more?"

"I don't know," he replied. "Do you mean a big job?"

"I mean somethin' that'll give us the tools to do a good many big jobs with. I mean a new, up to date wreckin' vessel." He leaned across the table. "Brad, my son," he said slowly, "I've got that very craft."

"You've got her?"

He tossed the card on the table, and Bradley picked it up. It was the photograph of a good sized, two masted schooner—a wrecking schooner, and of modern build; so much was plain.

"Look at her!" cried the captain. "Ain't she a dream? And that tintype don't begin to do her justice. Now, Brad, that schooner's the Diving Belle, built in New Bedford two years ago and cost eight thousand to build. No sham about her; built for wreckin'; good seasoned timber, tackles, patent windlass, nice, light, roomy cabin, anchors, sails, all complete—and a first class sixteen horsepower gasoline engine. And, son," Captain Titcomb raised his fist, "you and me can buy the whole blessed outfit for $5,000 cash!"

The fist fell on the table with a bang. Bradley gasped in delighted wonder.

When Captain Titcomb really enthused over a subject he was a wonderful talker. Now, shaking a forefinger in his companion's face, he talked so fast that Bradley forgot everything except to listen. The schooner had been built for one Abijah Foster of Vineyard Haven. She had been engaged in the wrecking business for two seasons along the south Jersey coast, and then her owner died. His widow was the only heir, and she needed money. The vessel had been bought by a Nantucket man, but when it came to paying the price there had been a hitch that resulted in the collapse of the deal.

Bradley was now as wildly jubilant as his partner. He asked innumerable questions, but the captain had an answer ready for each one. He had with him a rough plan of the schooner's rig, a photograph of her cabin, a drawing of her engine. These were laid on the table, and they moved from one to the other, the captain explaining, pointing and arguing. The passing of time was forgotten entirely.

"Ain't she a dream?"

The junior partner awoke from his trance with a start. And just then, in the sitting room below, the cuckoo clock struck 9.

Bradley turned white and then red. Nine o'clock! And the grand march at the subscription ball was to start "promptly at 8!" And Gus had looked forward to this evening for over a month!

It is doubtful if, even now, he could tell much about his trip from the captain's room to the Baker cottage. He ran most of the way. Over and over again he reproached himself for his forgetfulness. Gus had called him neglectful and selfish once before. What would she say now? He scarcely dared knock on the dining room door.

But whatever he may have expected to hear when that door opened, what he did hear was certainly a distinct surprise. Grandmother Baker, her head enveloped in a shawl, peeped out and said:

"Gus said if you called to say that she didn't wish to interfere with anything so important as your business matters. You see, Sam Hammond stopped here about he'f past eight and said he'd seen you and Cap'n Eri go into the Traveler's Rest together. So Gus went to the ball with him."

The subscription ball was nearly half over when Bradley came up the stairs of the town hall. He tossed his ticket in at the window and absentmindedly checked his overcoat and hat. Then he stood in the doorway looking at the dancers. For almost an hour he had been walking up and down the sidewalk opposite the hall, unsuccessfully hating himself one minute and fiercely scorning his injured pride the next. Twice he turned to go home, and each time he turned back again.

The waltz quadrille was the particular dance then going on. Bradley glanced over the crowded floor. He caught sight of Sam Hammond dancing with one of the Rogers girls. Opposite them in the set, he noted vaguely, were Captain Titcomb and Clara Hopkins.

He spoke with Captain Titcomb but [illegible]

but smiling, came strolling toward him.

"Hello, Brad!" he exclaimed. "Got here, didn't you?" Then, glancing at the young man's face, he added: "Havin' a good time? Hope our stoppin' to talk didn't make any diff'rence?"

The answer was noncommittal.

The subscription ball, extras and all, came to an end at 3 o'clock. By this time Bradley was once more repentant and humble. When Gus came out of the cloakroom he went to meet her, resolved to abase himself and plead for forgiveness.

"Gus," he stammered. "Gus—I—I—mayn't I walk home with you? You know I"—

But as Bradley's anger had cooled, his fiancee's had arisen.

"Thank you," she answered, and every word was crusted with ice. "Mr. Hammond was gentleman enough to escort me here, and I presume he will see me home."

Bradley accompanied Miss Rogers to the parental gate. It wasn't a hilarious walk. The young lady said to her older sister later on:

"Julia, I honestly believe he didn't speak one word from the time he left the hall till he said good night. I had to talk for two, or I should have gone to sleep on the way. He may be good looking enough, but Gus Baker can have him for all me. I'd as soon come home with a wooden Indian."

And Bradley, in his own chamber, stared out of the window at the light in Gus' room and vowed that he would not get down on his knees to that young lady again; let her have her

NEAR A GAS FAMINE.

New York Had a Narrow Escape in the 1902 Strike.

Few householders in New York city who were buying coal during the great strike of 1902 will ever forget that emergency. It was indeed a time to try men's souls—when no one knew whether the price of coal would become prohibitive the next week or the next month.

People were making all sorts of experiments with fuel—bricks soaked in oil, compressed peat and other things which had never been used for fuel before. The coal men did their best to husband the resources of the city, but as time went on they began to talk of refusing to sell to theaters and other places of amusement and of doling out the remaining supply in such proportions as to meet the need of all who would actually suffer without coal and let the loss fall on people who could stand it. It seemed as if the population were about to be ranged in two camps, the strikers and the struck, the struck being, as usual, the consumer.

In the memories of New York gas men there is an interesting little chapter of unwritten history which has to do with that strike. It never even happened to get into the newspapers, and no one suspected at the time how near the great city was to one of the most terrible crises it has ever known.

At the time of the settlement of the strike there was less than two weeks' supply of coal in the possession of the gas company and no more coal in sight.

Two weeks more and it would have been exhausted.

Four million people would have found themselves facing an unusually severe winter without an adequate supply of coal, without gas and with the price of oil and the price of oil stoves both higher than in ordinary times.

What is more, the order went out to close all sales departments where ranges and gas appliances were sold as soon as the strike assumed a threatening aspect. The men in control of the gas plant realized that if the people who had money to spare rushed to purchase ranges and heaters of all kinds and used gas altogether in their houses there might not be a sufficient supply to see the city through the strike and that every resource of the company must be carefully guarded against a possible period of actual famine. That this care was justified is shown by the fact above stated—that even with every possible precaution the available supply of coal would have been made to last only two weeks.—Gas Logic.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

The Gold Bond Company is a Colorado Corporation. Capitalized at 1,500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable, 500,000 shares in treasury.

Our holdings consist of four claims, three of which are patented, and all lie close to the Addison claim, which made the GOLDEN MESSAGE famous. One of our veins is an extension of the Addison, and shows the same character of ore as that now being taken out of the Addison shaft. Comparatively little work has been done on the Gold Bond group, but we have receipts from small shipments of the high grade ore showing values running as high as $24,000 per ton; the veins are from three to twenty feet in width, all good milling ore, with streaks of the extraordinary high grade running all through.

You'll Grow Steadily Worse Unless the System is Better Nourished.

Nothing will build you up with the certainty of Ferrozone. Thousands it has cured who never hoped to be well—and here is ample proof—substantiated by one of Nova Scotia's prominent clerics.

"Before taking the first box of Ferrozone," writes Mrs. Annie Jeffry, of Sandy Cove, N. S., "my condition was deplorable. Though I employed the most skilful medical aid, I grew steadily weaker. In fact, I was in such a low condition that it was impossible for me to walk across the room. My heart was very weak, and I suffered from terrible palpitations, which the doctors said were from troubles peculiar to women. Friends urged me to try Ferrozone, and I bought six boxes. When I had used the third box my old-time vigor and strength returned. The palpitation ceased, my appetite increased, and I got a good rosy color in my cheeks. It would be impossible to speak too highly of Ferrozone. All weak women should use it. I hope many suffering sisters will use Ferrozone, for it will surely cure them."

Rev. J. C. Morse, D.D., pastor of the Baptist Church, Sandy Cove, bears witness to the recovery of Mrs. Jeffry, and writes: "This is to certify that Mrs. Annie Jeffry is a lady upon whose word you can depend. I have known her since childhood, and believe her to be a truthful, honest woman." This adds additional force to the testimony of Mrs. Jeffry, and gives assurance to other sufferers that Ferrozone does what is claimed for it. Three weeks' treatment costs 50c., or six boxes for $2.50 at all druggists.

Lindsay Post on Light Butter

The Lindsay Post says: Fifteen farmers' wives and daughters appeared in Peterborough police court the other morning on the charge of selling light weight butter on the market. Twelve were convicted and fined two dollars each, in addition to having their butter confiscated. Not long ago several hundred light-weight loaves were taken from the rigs of the city bakers. In Lindsay some light weight butter artists were allowed to go unpunished, and in one case at least the condemned butter was sold as full weight to one of our druggists.

New York Suffered From Severe Heat

New York, June 21.—Great heat prevailed here yesterday, and several deaths occurred.

The police reported two heat prostrations in Manhattan, both men, who were taken to Bellevue Hospital for treatment. One of them died soon after his arrival. Three deaths resulting from the effect of the heat were reported at Brooklyn police headquarters last night. The maximum temperature yesterday was 88.

Chicago, Ill., June 21.—Chicago sweltered yesterday in 90 degrees of heat. In the crowded districts there was much suffering, but cooler weather last evening brought relief. Five deaths from the effects of the heat were reported.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Homeseekers' Excursions

If you think of making a trip to Manitoba or the great North-west Provinces this summer, you should make a point of securing, from the nearest C. P. R. agent, a free copy of that railroad's booklet giving information about the popular Homeseekers' Excursions. These excursions are well known money savers, and this year are more attractive than ever. Increased traffic has meant a larger number, nine of them this season, of which, at the time of writing, seven have still to run, leaving Toronto July 2, 16, 30; August 13, 27; September 10 and 24. Special trains are used, carrying colonist and tourist sleepers, berths in the latter at small additional charge. Tickets are issued from the Ontario stations at remarkably low rates, ranging from $22.50 round-trip to Winnipeg to $42.50 round-trip to Edmonton, and embracing all important points in the North-West. They are good to return within sixty days, stop-overs permitted. Ask nearest C. P. R. agent for particulars, or apply direct to C. B. Fosler, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

A Good County Council

The present County Council now in session seem to contain the brightest lot of administrators that this county has had in many a year. Their deliberations are marked by sound argument and expressions displaying their thorough knowledge not only of this county's needs, but a wide acquaintance with public affairs of the whole Dominion. It is to be hoped that the county will hereafter make as happy a choice in their council as those who now administer her affairs.

Kirkfield Lift Look Open July 6

The great Kirkfield lift lock will be officially opened on July 6th. The government will be represented by Honorable Rudolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General. The details of the programme have not yet been fully decided upon, but the function will be a most impressive ceremony. The opening of this lock will throw open for navigation a stretch of water 160 miles in length, from Lake Simcoe to Healey Falls, and it will then be possible for steamers to navigate from Peterborough or lower ports on the Otonabee and Rice Lake direct to Orillia and Barrie.

FOUR PERISHED IN BURNING STEAMER

Four Members of the Crew of the "Crystal City" Were Hemmed in Below the Deck Like Rats in a Trap

St John, N.B., June 22.—Four men burned to death and half a dozen other persons badly hurt is the record of a disaster at Cole's Island last night, when the steamer Crystal Stream was totally destroyed. The Crystal Stream was an old New York side-wheeler, brought here five years ago to run on the St. John River, and Washademoak Lake. She was this year in command of Capt. Fred Milbre, D. J. Purdy, M.P.P., of St. John, is the principal owner. The steamer, which makes two trips a week, was last night lying on the west wharf at Cole's Island, fifty miles from St. John, on her down trip to this city. Hay is now twenty-four dollars a ton, and as up-river farmers are selling all they can spare, the steamer was heavily loaded with this very inflammable freight.

Shortly after one o'clock fire was discovered on the upper deck. It had evidently caught in the hay from a spark from the smoke stack. With frightful rapidity it spread through the light freight, and before the members of the crew could be awakened the whole steamer was in flames.

Most of the men were sleeping in the lower deck below the freight, and were hemmed in by the fire like rats in a trap. As soon as the men on the upper decks were aroused they endeavored, but without any success to extinguish the flames, turning their attention also to those of their comrades who were below decks.

The steamer was cut away from the wharf and shoved off, but drifted in towards the shore and burned the big new bridge at Cole's Island.

Strenuous efforts were put forth to rescue the men who were below, and it was not until the rescuers were unable to approach even the side of the steamer that the task was given up.

NAMES OF THE DEAD.

Below the decks were Wm. Logan and Allan Logan, two brothers, belonging to Land's End. The former was a fireman, the latter a deckhand. Fred Smith, of Shannon, Queen's county, and a fourth man named Baxter, both deckhands. These four were burned to death, and this morning their charred bodies were found in the ruins. Allan Logan was a married man, Engineer Wentworth Roberts, and the stewardess, Mrs. Chase, both belonging to St. John, were quite seriously burned, while Capt. Milbre and other members of the crew sustained painful injuries.

Later reports state that Herbert McAlary, the mate, and H. P. Belyea, the purser, are both badly burned. The steamer cost $22,500, and is insured for half her value.

Stole Half Hatched Eggs and Sold Them

John Donnelly Commits One of the Smallest Thefts on Record

Yesterday morning County Magistrate Geo. Edmison held a session of the county police court when a young man named John Donnelly, some 20 years of age, was charged with stealing several dozen of eggs from Mrs. Manley of Otonabee township. The prisoner was remanded until Tuesday at eleven o'clock. Donnelly informed the court that he would make restitution for the eggs stolen and was given until Tuesday to get the money. If he pays up it is likely that he will be let go.

The charge against Harold Scott, another youth supposed to have been implicated in the theft, was withdrawn. Crown Attorney Wood and Constable Cochrane found that there was not sufficient evidence against him to proceed with the charge. He was called as a witness for the crown.

Several witnesses gave their testimony which demonstrated that Donnelly and Scott had been travelling through Otonabee township early in May, selling varnish which they manufactured themselves, and for which they would take eggs when cash was not forthcoming. About the second of May they called on Mrs. Manley, who resides on the Keene road some six miles from Peterborough, and according to her evidence Donnelly made the eggs 10c a dozen seven cents setting in the hen house, and also took about three dozen dozen fresh eggs.

Mrs. Manley testified that they came to her place and Scott tried to sell her some varnish. She did not take any although the young man offered to take eggs as payment. After Scott left the house she saw Donnelly make three visits to the hen house before driving off, and when she went to the barn a few minutes afterwards she found that the eggs were gone from under the seven setting hens and that the fresh eggs were also missing.

Mrs. Manley's daughter gave evidence along much the same lines.

Mr. Warne, a farmer, near Ayr, gave evidence as to the young men selling him varnish and remaining for dinner. The day afterwards he noticed that eggs were missed from under a setting hen.

Mr. Skaiver, a general store keeper at Keene, said that Donnelly and Scott had tried to sell him a case of eggs, but he discovered that a large number of them were rotten, and declined to buy.

Miss Noyes, a clerk in a general store at Adamdale, not far from Keene, told how Donnelly and Scott had come to the store. Donnelly informed her that there were 21 dozen in the case, and she bought them on this understanding, paying 10c per dozen. After the two young men had departed, she discovered that there were no eggs in the bottom of the case, about six dozen being missing. Many of the eggs were also bad and her employers deducted $2.40 from her wages on account of the bad purchase. The eggs were purchased early in May.

Harold Scott then in the box told of the varnish business being carried on by Donnelly and himself. Both sold the varnish and divided the proceeds. He knew nothing of Donnelly stealing any eggs, but stated that some persons to whom they sold varnish paid for it with eggs. Donnelly sold the eggs to the lady at Adamdale.

Mr. D. O'Connell, who appeared for the accused made a strong plea on his behalf.

The magistrate however gave his opinion that Donnelly was guilty.

Mr. O'Connell then noted that the prisoner's past record had been beyond taint, and said that Mr. Timmons of Belleville, a former employer of the prisoner offered to pay Donnelly's costs in full. The final result was he'd over until Tuesday for final settlement.

WHEAT CROP 120-000,000 BUSHELS

Two Hundred Reports From Reliable Sources in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta Indicate a Tremendous Yield This Year

Winnipeg, June 22.—The Winnipeg Commercial today will publish nearly 200 reports from bankers, boards of trade and general merchants in the three provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, showing that the prospects are better at this date than at any time in years for a large crop.

The average growth in Manitoba is ten days late, but is rapidly catching up.

The average growth in Saskatchewan and Alberta is ahead of last year.

The decrease in the wheat acreage is under Manitoba is 10 per cent., but there is a large increase in the oats and barley acreage.

The increase in the wheat acreage of Saskatchewan and Alberta is 30 per cent.

From a reliable source it was stated that the Saskatchewan government will show 40 per cent. increase in the acreage of all crops.

A conservative estimate of this year's crop is 120,000,000 bushels of wheat for the three provinces.

It was stated by a Pilot Mound farmer sold six cars of wheat for October delivered at 80 cents.

Hay in all the provinces is likely to be a short crop, although the weather is improving conditions.

The whole country is having ideal growing weather.

Manitoba conditions are no longer an indication of general prospects.

Money collections are better.

More Regarding Victoria Park

Correspondent Thinks Onus of Lighting Should be Established

(To the Editor of The Times)

Sir,—I have seen two or three articles in your paper regarding the lighting, too often by day, and the darkness too often by night, of Victoria Park.

Last night although from 1500 to 2000 people, a majority of whom were young girls, gathered in this park, this central and popular place of public amusement was in total darkness until exactly 9.13 p.m. It is time, for the protection and honor of the girls of this city, that the council decides whose duty it is to see that this park is made safe by adequate lighting.

The lack of light and consequent danger to women, as in no way attributable to the electric company furnishing the power but to either a misunderstanding or stupidity on the part of those who should see that the police or whomsoever should do so, make their duty and perform that duty by turning on the lights every night, and seeing that the lights are not turned off during the hours that the public enjoys their few hours of fresh air at this park. It may, to those who do not "read between the lines," seem as though Victoria Park were being made of a "hide-hill," but, let any one's child or sister enter a park where the noise of the band combined with the talk of the hundreds present would shield the attempt of any blackguard who might insult such girl, would such a man, if he be worthy the name condone such or designate anyone calling attention to such a matter "a crank," or "bigot." Whilst the old motto of the "Star of the Garter Order," is "Honi soit qui mal y pense." I think that protection is better than any false fory of prudery, or, as is really invited, under present conditions, trouble. I am Sir,

Yours truly,

"FOR THE GIRLS."

NOT WARNED BY RUSSIA'S FAILURE

United States Making the Same Mistake in Far East Policy

SITUATION IS ANALAGOUS

New York Paper Warns Governmen Against Danger of Keeping Fleet in Atlantic

New York, N.Y., June 21.—The Herald says: "Whatever may be the declarations of the peace delegates now assembled at The Hague, it is indisputable that the world in general is distrustful of the Japanese-American situation. Some justification exists for this feeling. It is true the United States desires peace, but, is such a desire sufficient to guarantee that peace will be maintained? The recent history of the Far East supplies a very categorical reply in the negative to that question. Only a few years ago Japan and Russia were principles in a controversy somewhat analogous to the one now involving the United States and Japan. During the negotiations with Japan, Russia continued to send insignificant detachments of naval and military forces to the Far East just as the United States is now doing. Judging in the light of later events, it is evident such a policy was suicidal.

At the present moment the United States is repeating Russia's mistake. Instead of concentrating the entire American navy in the Pacific, where it might prove efficacious in maintaining peace and would certainly be invaluable in the event of war, the Washington administration is keeping American battleships in the Atlantic, where they are not needed. Common sense compels one to regard such a policy as calculated to provoke the very result which the United States desires to avoid, as long as Japan appears to be in a situation of overwhelming superiority in the Pacific she is not likely to adopt a more conciliatory attitude toward the United States, and the despatch of American cruisers to the Far East two or three at a time is more liable to excite Japanese susceptibilities than to soothe them."

THE RECALL OF AOKI.

Washington, June 21.—United States State Department officials and members of the diplomatic corps were much interested in a statement in a Tokio newspaper, the Hochi, that the Japanese Government would probably recall Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador, and is considering the appointment of Baron Kaneko as his successor. Officials of the Japanese embassy say that the progressive party has taken the San Francisco disturbance as a pretext in an effort to bring about the downfall of Viscount Aoki, and it is asserted here that Marquis Ito had been inimical to Viscount Aoki for many years. It was stated authoritatively tonight that "If the Japanese Government has any intention of recalling Viscount Aoki, the news will not be first announced to the world through the columns of the Hochi;" and that "Ambassador Aoki does not attach any credence to the report."

THE BELIEF IN TOKIO.

Tokio, June 21.—There are strong indications that Ambassador Aoki will be recalled. There is an inclination to connect the rumor of his reported coming recall with Premier Saionji's audience with the Emperor this morning, after the cabinet council.

Whose Duty Is it to Light the Park?

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—In your paper and also in some of our evening issues I have seen several pieces relative to the lights at Jackson Park. Now the day before yesterday the electric lamps in that park burned all day long. This may be none of my business, although I am a taxpayer, that is if the city does not have to replace these lamps I understand however that our taxes do go towards paying for this useless though petty expenditure. What I want to find out however is not the pro-rayune matter of the purchase of a few lamps, but whose duty it is to see that the lamps, which seem to burn by day, but are too often out by night in this park. A friend of mine spoke to three of the local police one day or two ago, and was told by them that there is no by-law or other authority for compelling the police to look after the lights in this park, and that the Horticultural Society is in full charge of it.

It may seem a trivial matter to ask your space for, thus writing about the lights in a small park. Still as the father of a family, I think for the protection of the young girls of our city, the matter of lighting this park should be settled. The city should at once determine whose duty it is to attend to this matter.

Victoria Park is the most central public place for general outing and fresh air that the city possesses. Thus the council should, in protection of the lights and pleasure, let alone any underhand dangers, of the women of this city, see that arrangements be made, whereby the duty and responsibility of lighting this park be placed definately.

Yours truly,

FATHER.

Strawberries Are Scarce

Reports show that the past winter has been rather hard on strawberry plantations, and it is expected that the general crop will be rather below medium. Mr. Frappe of River Valley, has about four acres that give promise of an abundant yield. With no prolonged drought or heat blight the pickings should amount to the thousands, and is likely 40 or 50 pickers will be required to handle the crop. Mr. Frappe ships mostly to Peterborough, but to supply the local demand orders may be sent at Mr. G. W. Anderson's store.—Stirling News-Argus.

Splendid Music at Victoria Park

Last night the 57th Regiment Band gave a splendid concert in Victoria Park before a large and delighted audience, by permission of the colonel and officers of the regiment. The following program was rendered;—

March—"St. Louis Exposition."
Overture—"Bohemian Girl."
Whistling serenade
Euphonium solo, "The Vocal Choir."
Bandsman Crouk
Grand March—"Indienne."

PART TWO.

March—"Gilmore's Triumphal."
Comic Opera—"The Explorers."
Mazuka—"Amusette."
Selection—"Flirtation."
Final—"My Old Kentucky Home," with variations.

Poem From the Hastings Star

The Hastings Star contains "a piece" of poetry in its last issue, that leaves the reader thereof in doubt as to whether that last cigar last night went of his head or whether the "Poet" suffers from "D. T.s." This effusion is entitled "The Trent." We append a few lines verbatim, and our readers can solve the above conundrum for themselves:

"But the rapids splashing, foaming,
As the night trails off the gloaming—
Woos them back the sleepy burghers
Heedless of the smiling sun
Past a grave strewn cove she sorrows
Azure from the morn she borrows,
Softened sunsets seal her sea dream
As her waters journey on."

New Local Paymaster

Recent militia orders contain the following paragraphs of local interest;

"Authority is granted for Major W. D. Johnston, R.O., to be attached to the 3rd Dragoons, during annual training as paymaster with pay of that appointment.

"It is notified for general information, that the musketry course, commencing at Rockliffe, June 4th, is hereby cancelled. Officers and non-commissioned officers, who have applied for this course, may make application for the full course, commencing Sept. 5th."

London Beggars do Well

London, June 22.—Begging has long been illegal in England, and offenders are liable to various terms of imprisonment. Nevertheless, thousands in London alone evade the law, and live an comfortable fashion on the weak compassion of the workers.

The annual report of the London Mendicity Society just issued states that it is probably no exaggeration to say that more than $500,000 is annually given high-hazard to beggars on the streets of London, and that probably the average beggar earns more than the average workman.

The society, which exists to investigate the begging business, to help deserving cases and to assist in punishing incorrigibles possesses 79,330 records of street beggars.

Green Turtle Gets a Finger

New York, June 22.—There is no future for taking by green turtles once their anger is aroused, according to Special Officer Mannhait, of the steamship Bradfords belonging to the United Fruit Company's fleet, which came in yesterday from Montego Bay, Jamaica.

Mannhait was minus a finger and the cargo of twenty huge green turtles had been depleted by one when the liner tied up at pier 3, North River. The loss of the finger was caused by its own ri's attempt to break up a row between Mr. and Mrs. Green Turtle, of Crate No. 9, and illustrated the old warning to outsiders to steer clear of family jars.

When the unequal combat between man and turtle was finished there was a dead turtle. The passengers dined on turtle steak, while the ship's surgeon took care of the officer.

Condemned to Death

Sebastopol, June 22.—The assassin of Col. Gutzeakoffsky, assistant harbor commandant at Sebastopol, who was murdered here on June 15, has been condemned to death. He was tried by a regular court martial but procedure was as expeditious as that of the abolished drum-head court martial.

Funeral of the Late Adam Dawson

Interred With Masonic Honors in Little Lake Cemetery Yesterday —Large Attendance of Masonic Brethren, Bricklayers and Masons, and Friends

The funeral of the late Adam Dawson took place yesterday afternoon under Masonic auspices. The respect and esteem in which the deceased gentleman was held was testified to by the length of the funeral cortege, which was unusually large even for society events of this sad nature. A large gathering of Masons, members of both local lodges, walked in a body, and also about fifty members of the Masons' and Bricklayers' Union; besides these orders, his worship, Mayor R. F. McWilliams, the city aldermen and officials, and many friends and acquaintances were in attendance to pay fitting respect to a citizen, whose life had been of such an exemplary nature as to command the esteem of the whole community. The deceased gentleman was a faithful member of the City Council many years.

On the way to Little Lake cemetery the remains were taken into All Saints' church, where the beautiful funeral service of the Anglican Church was conducted by Rev. W. Major, rector, assisted by Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's, and Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's church. The sacred edifice was filled by a sympathetic congregation. Rev. W. Major read the prayers and Rev. Canon Davidson the lessons. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt gave a beautiful and touching address in memory of the deceased, whom he eulogized as a faithful and consistent christian, who had given the city good and highly appreciated service on its council board, and whose memory will be gratefully cherished for his honesty and integrity in all secular affairs. In conclusion, the reverend gentleman assured the bearers that the departed brother had in his exemplary life set an example worthy of emulation.

At the grave Rev. W. Major, who is also chaplain of Peterborough Lodge, A.F. & A.M., conducted the Masonic ceremony. The beautiful and impressive Masonic burial rites were conducted by Wor. Bro. J. D. King, Master of Corinthian Lodge, assisted by Rt. Wor. Bros. R. B. Wood and Alex. Gossage and Wor. Bro. D. Walker. Wor. Bro. D. Burnet officiated as director of ceremonies.

The pall bearers were,—V. Wor. Bro. H. C. Wach, V. Wor. Bro. J. J. Laidlaw, and Wor. Bros. F. E. Hendrie, M.P.P., D. Walker, I. A. S. Hay and C. H. C. Rogers.

The floral tributes to deceased's memory were very beautiful and in great number, the carriage being required to convey them to the cemetery.

In the death of W. Wor. Bro. Adam Dawson, the Masons mourn the loss of a faithful and esteemed member of Corinthian Lodge of thirty-three years' standing, whose memory will live green in the hearts of his Masonic brethren many years to come.

Bridgeton's Mystery

Bridgeton, N.J., June 20.—"You'd better watch Minnie." This warning contained in an unsigned letter to her brother, Harold Vennell, was found on a pocketbook on the body of Minnie Vennell, aged 22 years, who was drowned Tuesday night in Sunset Lake, near here. From what is said by Vennell and Mrs. Sadie Murphine, with whom the brother and sister lived, the warning was justified. Vennell said yesterday that his sister had complained to him that she had been attacked by two young men while boating on the lake one evening last week. She had screamed "Murder," and one of her male companions had tried to choke her. She was rescued by persons in other boats.

Meanwhile George Evans, the young glass worker, who took the girl on the fatal boat ride, remains in his parents' house, apparently not under surveillance by the officials, who unofficially seem disposed to accept the accident theory. Although they are investigating the case. They say no arrest is now contemplated.

Motor Engines for Rockies

Winnipeg, June 21.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, says the company is considering the introduction of electric engines in the Rocky Mountains.

In an interview here yesterday he said: "We have not yet definitely decided to place the electric locomotive anywhere along the line, but, if we do instal them, soon, it will be at the points of British Columbia, where the heavy grades are. The estimates from the tests so far made, show very little difference between electric and steam, with our present volume of traffic. The electric locomotive is slightly more expensive but, of course, with an increase in traffic, the difference would be in favor of the electric locomotive.

"I think we have a sufficient water supply to generate all the power that we would need in the event of inaugurating the electric system."

Devotion to Duty Brought a Knighthood

London, June 21.—That goodness and faithful devotion to duty in the humbler ranks of life does not always go unrewarded was amply demonstrated recently when King Edward requested that Mr. John Kirk, secretary of the Ragged School Union of London, England, should be brought before him. In obedience to the command Mr. Kirk, accompanied by the Marquis of Northampton, appeared before his Majesty at Buckingham Palace on May 23rd last. When he made his obeisance the king conferred the honor of knighthood upon him, and he is henceforth to be known as Sir John Kirk. This is an honor richly deserved, and has given great pleasure and satisfaction to thousands of the king's subjects who have known and appreciated the Christian character and devotion of Sir John during his forty years as visitor and secretary of the Ragged School Union. In addition to knighthood, friends in all parts of the country subscribed to a testimonial, and a cheque for a sum sufficient to keep him and his wife in comfort for the rest of their days was presented to him. Sir John Kirk is still in the early sixties, and has no intention of giving up his present work or position.

Son of Zulu Prince In This District

The Lindsay Watchman-Warder says: It will be interesting news to people of this section to know that they have a real live prince visiting them. Prince Cete-wa-yo, son of the great Zulu chief of the name, came up on Wednesday from Lorneville to Cambray, and on Friday will visit Coboconk. Prince Cete-wa-yo is going through this district prospecting for valuable metals. The prince has passed through a full course in mineralogy. Prince Cete-wa-yo was educated by the Queen. He is a well-informed Mason and a member of the Foresters.

Susan Richards Gets a Month

At yesterday's police court a woman who seems bound to make herself cheaply notorious, by getting drunk on every occasion possible, and who when drunk becomes pugilistic, was given a months board and lodging in the stone house over looking Victoria Park. The woman in question, Mrs. Susan Richards, although having been warned at her last appearance in the court, a few days ago, that her next escapade might mean six months behind the bars, on Thursday succeeded in getting a well developed jag aboard, she went home and proceeded to make home howl round her back shed. She was warned that the police were coming and fled through the back gate to Charlotte street. She then went in the residence of a Mrs. D—on that street where her daughter lives. Here she got—into an altercation with Mrs. D—resulting in Susan having one of her eyes put in mourning. It is to be hoped that her month on the hill will go Susan not only sobered up but clean personally.

Ottawa, June 22.—A charming little romance was consummated in Ottawa on Wednesday, Mary Ellen Spratt and Joseph Donnelly were children together at St. John's, Nfld., and in their childish way vowed to be true to one another. After school days they were parted and saw nothing of one another until a few weeks ago, when, by strange chance, they met in Ottawa. They were married by Rev. Canon Chase and left to spend their honeymoon in Toronto.

Two Injured Men are Convalescent

We are pleased to note that the two men hurt on Thursday, whilst at work on a new house being erected for Mr. Fred Stobdale, on Homewood avenue, are doing as well as could be expected. It seems that Jacob Carr, an employe of Adam Hall and Andrew Torrance, a bricklayer's helper, were on a scaffold, the former measuring the roof for an eavestrough and the latter carrying a hod of brick. In attempting to pass one another the supports of the scaffold gave way, and it fell so that the two men were precipitated some twenty feet to the ground. Mr. Carr was somewhat seriously injured, his hip being hurt and his ankle sprained, while one of his arms was rather badly cut. He will be laid up at least a week. Mr. Torrance received a bad cut in the head.

Soldiers In Revolt

Paris, June 22.—A battalion of the Seventh Infantry Regiment, stationed at Agde, in the department of Herault, has deserted with its arms and ammunition, and joined the insurgent wine growers at Beziers, the headquarters of the regiment. The mutineers, who mostly were recruited among the wine growers, number about four hundred men.

They marched into Beziers, which has about 50,000 inhabitants, with drums beating and colors flying, and are now camped in the principal square of that city with stacked arms. The deserters tried to enlist the sympathies of the remainder of the regiment stationed at Beziers, but, failing to do so, they promised to eject them from their barracks.

The soldiers replied that they had no desire to kill the generals, but were determined to return to Beziers.

A detachment of gendarmes tried to bar the road, but, after the mutineers had fired a volley in the air, they were permitted to pass.

Is Cabrera Dying?

Mexico City, June 22.—"President Estrada Cabrera, of Guatemala, is dying."

This startling statement was made last night by Jose D. Gamez, who is in this city as the confidential agent of President Zenaya, of Nicaragua.

Mr. Gamez claims to have received information from an unquestionable source to the effect that President Cabrera is suffering from blood poisoning which followed the extraction of a tooth.

Those who know believe that Cabrera, in taking his position, is recklessly wreaking vengeance upon his enemies. Nothing is known in official circles of Cabrera reported illness.

Umbrella Stealer Gets a Month

John McIntyre was given a free pass with no return coupon, good until a month goes by for Castle Nesbitt. John is in the business of mending umbrellas, but unfortunately, it seems a certain kind of magnetic influence connects his digits with umbrellas that do not belong to him, or which have not been passed on his hands voluntarily by their owners for repairs. Mr. R. A. Elliott swore that the accused came to his house in Sherbrooke street, and was given an umbrella to repair. He was to bring it back the next day but failed to connect. McIntyre stated that he was drunk at the time and did not know what he was doing. Some boys, he said, had stolen an umbrella from him. This statement seemed somewhat shady even for a "bumbershoot" dexter, so he will be a guest of the county for 30 days.

Burglars Get Fifty Thousand

Paris, June 21.—During a dinner last night skilful burglars entered the sleeping apartments of Mme. Otto Steffens, in Amsterdam, in the residence once occupied by the late Dr. Evans, the dentist, at 43 Avenue of the Bois de Boulogne, and succeeded in carrying off jewels valued at $50,000. There is no clue to the burglars.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 22, 1907.

A GREAT CRIMINAL.

The man Alfred Horseley, alias Harry Orchard, the self-confessed assassin of ex-Governor Steunenberg and perpetrator of a series of murders so foul that his evidence against himself is almost incredible—this man gives us in Canada something to think about when he declares that he is a Canadian, says the Ottawa Journal. It appears from a despatch from Brighton, Ontario, that he operated a cheese factory near that place for a number of years, failed to make it pay and went west in 1890.

In the witness box in Boise, Idaho, where Haywood of the Western Federation of Miners is on trial on a charge of complicity in Horseley's crimes, Horseley confesses to a long series of cold-blooded murders and attempts at murder, for all of which he says he was paid by Haywood and his associates of what was known as the "inner circle." The motive was the removal of all men, mine operators, mine workers, magistrates and others who seemed to stand in the way of the realization of the ambitions of Haywood and his circle to become a ruling force in the Western States and eventually to control the union labor movement of the whole country and the whole continent.

Horseley seems to have been an expert maker of bombs. With one of them he blew up the house of Steunenberg, in whose death Haywood is charged with complicity. Others he dropped into mines and slaughtered them by the pair or the dozen. He varied his methods with strychnine and the shotgun. He did not get all the men he went after, but he got enough of them to entitle him to recognition as one of the most remarkable survivals of the dark ages.

And this arch fiend in human shape—or this greatest and most stupid liar in history—is a Canadian. We shall hear of that from abroad. In the noisome notoriety which he has achieved the name of Canada will be associated. His existence is a blot upon the name of Canada. But we can draw a lesson from it. Of Canadians abroad hitherto we have heard nothing but good. In every profession which the peoples of the English-speaking world delight to honor, Canadians in all parts of the world have excelled. In all good works in all parts of the world Canadians are employed. We hear of this and are like to thank God that we are not as other men. This man Horseley is thrust into the glare to remind us that we have the bad with the good among us and that with us as with others eternal vigilance alone is the price of safety.

THE COMING FIGHT ON THE LORDS

Very strong language has repeatedly been used by the British premier, Campbell-Bannerman, and other members of the present government with reference to the house of lords. The king's speech foreshadowed some action on the "unfortunate differences" between the two houses, but failed naturally enough, to indicate the line of attack. Some partisan critics of the government have sneered at its vague words and asserted that nothing whatever could be done.

At last the ministry has given notice of the resolution that the premier is to move in the commons later in the month, this declaration being, it is understood, the opening of the hostilities.

The resolution states that in order to give effect to the will of the electors "it is necessary that the power of the other house to alter or reject bills passed by this house should be so restricted by law as to secure that within the limits of a single parliament the final decision of the house of commons shall prevail."

These words may seem a little obscure, but substantially their meaning is that while the lords should retain the power of vetoing bills, this power should be exercised only once on any given bill, and that if the commons pass a rejected bill a second time, with or without immaterial amendments, it should become law. The theory of this resolution is that one veto insures deliberation and thorough consideration of the subject in question, while two amount to defeat in the commons and the people and to practical abolition of the popular house as a lawmaking body.

The resolution itself speaks of restricting the lords' power "by law," and therefore the upper house will have to act on a bill aimed at its own authority and prestige. Suppose it refuses to curb itself, to pass any bill restrictive of its powers? It is hardly necessary to say, in view of recent developments, that this contingency has not been overlooked by the ministry. The resolution is doubtless the first move. English history contains striking illustrations of the power of a resolution passed by the commons. The weapon was used in the great struggle for franchise reform, and with effect and success. Whether existing conditions are such that it can again be employed victoriously time will tell. The ministry evidently means business.

TWO LEADERS ARRESTED

Montpellier, France, June 21.—Marcelin Albert, the leader of the wine-growers movement, was arrested and brought here in custody yesterday.

M. Ferroul and the wine growers' committeemen who were arrested at Argelliers, arrived here yesterday and were placed in jail. A formidable escort of dragoons and gendarmes prevented all possibility of a rescue and the jail itself was guarded by a regiment of infantry.

As he was being taken into the jail M. Ferroul exclaimed, "This is the happiest day of my life. The Government was obliged to send 10,000 soldiers to arrest one man."

THE BEST FRIENDS OF PE-RU-NA ARE THE MOTHERS AND CHILDREN

Pe-ru-na Should Be Kept In Every Household

Where There Are Little Children.

Peruna should be kept in the house all the time. Don't wait until the child is sick, then send to a drug store. But, have Peruna on hand—accept no substitute.

Children are especially liable to acute catarrh. Indeed, most of the affections of childhood are catarrh.

All forms of sore throat, quinsy, croup, hoarseness, laryngitis, etc., are but different phases of catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peruna, if taken according to printed directions, is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. It does not produce temporary results, but it is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh.

Mrs. F. Brockman, 813 Meade street, Appleton, Wis., writes:

"I have never had a return of the catarrh, which had made me so miserable and unhappy before I began taking Peruna.

"I would not be without it in the house, now.

"I have a baby boy, two years old, to whom I give Peruna for a cold, and my husband also takes Peruna.

"I thank you and wish you well."—Mrs. F. Brockman.

No Doctor Required.

Mr. Edward Otto, 927 De Soto street, St. Paul, Minn., writes:

"I cannot say enough for Peruna. It has done great work in my family, especially for my oldest boy. We had doctored with three or four different doctors and they did not seem to do him any good.

"We gave up hopes of cure, and so did they, but we pulled him through on Peruna.

"We had several doctors and they said they could do no more for him, so we tried Peruna as a last resort, and that did the work. Since then we keep it in the house all the time, and no doctor is required."—Edward Otto.

There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years.

Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any narcotics.

The Benefit Which the Children of the United States Have Received From Pe-ru-na Can Never Be Put Into Words.

The chronic ailments it has prevented, the suffering it has mitigated, will never be fully recorded.

But at least this much can be said that the coming generation owes a great debt to Peruna, for it is in the tender years of youth that slight ailments are liable to develop into lasting disease, thus blasting the whole career of the individual.

The mothers who are bringing up their children to-day to believe in Peruna are speaking from their experience.

These children brought up to believe in Peruna from the start, will, when they become heads of families themselves, use Peruna with unquestioning faith.

A Child's Life Saved.

Mr. G. H. Farmer, New Martinsville, W. Va., writes:

"Our little son, Harry, is well and healthy now and we think if we do as you directed us, he will keep his health and grow strong.

"We know that our little son's life was saved by your wonderful medicine, Peruna, and we shall always praise Peruna and use it in our family when needed.

"Should we have any more catarrhal trouble in our family, we shall always write to you for treatment."

Mr. W. F. Doring, Mt. Vernon, Mo., writes:

"I have used Peruna to my entire satisfaction and am exceedingly well pleased with the results, having suffered greatly with catarrh of the stomach."

Mrs. J. C. Sterling, 133 Brown Avenue, Norfolk, Va., writes:

"My little boy, Meredith, suffered with indigestion so badly he could not eat anything without it making him very sick, so I thought (as many others have) that I would try Peruna, and it worked like a charm.

"Now he eats anything he wishes, and I would not be without it for anything.

"My other little boy, Alfred, two and a half years old, has taken it and received as much benefit from Peruna as his brother.

"I hope my testimonial may be of some benefit to others, as I feel as though I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. J. C. Sterling.

Mr. Howard Andrew Sterner, 424 Canal street, Reading, Pa., writes:

"I have Peruna in my house all the time and won't be without it. It is good for children when they take a cold or croup. It cured my baby boy of croup.

"I have introduced Peruna into six families since I received your last letter, and four have seen relief already."

—Howard Andrew Sternor.

Pe-ru-na Protects the Entire Household.

As soon as the value of Peruna is appreciated by every household, both as a preventive and remedy, many lives may be saved and thousands of chronic lingering cases of catarrh may be prevented.

When Sickness Comes to the Little Ones

It Is the Mother Who Chiefly Suffers.

She suffers even more than the child who happens to be sick.

Her sympathy is deeper than that of any other member of the family.

The mother looks forward with dread to the torrid heat of summer, thinking of her children and the many liabilities to disease that are before them.

Spring and summer are sure to bring ailments, especially among the little folks.

It does not take a mother very long to discover that Peruna is the best friend she has in time of illness among the children.

A Multitude of Mothers

Have discovered that Peruna is their stand-by, and that in many of the ailments of spring and summer to which the children are subjected, Peruna is the remedy that will generally quickly relieve.

Whether it is spring fever or stomach derangement, whether it is indigestion or bowel disease, a catarrhal congestion of the mucous surfaces is the cause.

Peruna quickly relieves this condition of the mucous membranes. Its operation is prompt, the children do not dislike to take the medicine, it has no deleterious effects in any part of the body.

It simply removes the cause of the disagreeable symptoms and restores the health.

Peruna is a household remedy for all catarrhal ailments of winter and summer, acute or chronic.

The mothers all over the United States are the best friends that Peruna has.

Mr. C. Hallock, Antwerp, Ohio, writes: "My daughter Allie, after taking three bottles of your Peruna is entirely cured of catarrh of the head of two years standing. We have used Peruna as a general tonic as well as for catarrh and are well pleased with it and recommend it to any body who has catarrh."

The Mothers Hold Pe-ru-na in High Esteem,

Not only because it has cured them of their various ailments, but because it promptly rescues the children from the throes and grasp of catarrhal diseases.

We have in our files many testimonials from mothers whose children have been cured by Peruna. However, the large majority of mothers who use Peruna, we never hear from.

But we do hear from a great number of mothers who are so overjoyed at some special good they have received from Peruna that they cannot restrain their enthusiasm. They are anxious to share these benefits with other mothers.

HE IS CORRECT

Dr Hamilton Proves That Piles Are Caused by Constipation and Strong Cathartics.

Knowing the frequency with which people suffer from this ailment, Dr. Hamilton made an exhaustive study into the cause of piles.

He found that the lower part of the bowels is like a network of blood-vessels, and if subjected to persistent pressure, a section will bulge out and form what is commonly known as piles.

The only effective mode of curing this trouble is the regular use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which can be taken before retiring. Next day will bring wonderful relief.

"I suffered up to about the limit of human endurance with piles," writes Miss Landers, from Cornwall, Ont., "I was employed in a factory here, but for a while had to give up work till I got better of this trouble. I read in the Montreal Herald about Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and after using them for two weeks was cured. I can recommend these pills very highly; there are none better. They at once relieve and prevent a constipated condition of the bowels, and from my experience can be depended upon as a perfect safeguard against piles. Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, I am sure, would be a benefit to every girl or woman."

Take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and your system will be regenerated, revitalized, and made proof against disease.

Good for men, excellent for women, and most effective for children. All ages and both sexes find Dr. Hamilton's Pills a marvelous medicine. Although active, they do not gripe or cause inconvenience, but thereby maintaining a high still they cleanse and purify the standard of health. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, or by mail, from N. C. Polson and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

A SPLENDID EXHIBITION

The Forepaugh-Sells Circus a Famous Aggregation.

Next Tuesday will be exhibition day for Forepaugh-Sells circus. Tuesday the rare, unique and wonderful things that have been promised on paper will become a reality. The airy riders who, in diaphanous skirts, have been pirouetting on the expansive backs of tremendously speeding circus horses—on the bill boards—will be seen in all the gorgeousness of tulle and seductive smile; the elephants will copy their pictured acts of comedy and go them one better. Captain Webb's two companions of trained seals and sea lions will show the wondering world that when it comes to learning new tricks the circus seal is a dyed-in-the-wool expansionist; the contortionist will proceed to disentangle himself from the knots he tied in his responsive limbs last year; the acrobatic family, in attire at least, fresh from the ball room, will turn dizzy somersaults in defiance of long dresses and swallow tail coats, and the clown will work off his time honored comedy on the confiding audience. There is nothing on earth in the amusement line like the circus. It is the people's show par-excellence. The expert knows what is coming every minute of the show, but he wouldn't have it changed for worlds. The very conventionalism of much of the performance is what makes it so delightful. The merit in a big circus such as that of Forepaugh-Sells is the fact that everything in the show is the very best of the kind. There must inevitably be riding acts, but the riders are the leaders of their profession. There must be acrobats, but the acrobatic artists and aerialists are gathered from the wide-world, and are the best that money can secure. It is this superiority, in the quality of the performers that makes the Forepaugh-Sells circus the great institution it is. It is a colossal affair, but mere immensity would not suffice without a great artistic performance to sustain the public interest. A great deal of preliminary interest has been aroused by the coming of the show, and circus day will be a great day in every sense of the word.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those acid-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Bares Princess' Life

Berlin, June 21.—Among her many trials, self-invoked and otherwise, one of the most exasperating the Countess Montignoso, formerly the crown princess of Saxony, was forced to undergo was the visit she endured last fall from Frau Kremer.

That woman was sent from the Saxon court nominally to wean the beautiful baby girl, Princess Monica, from her mother so that she would voluntarily go to Dresden. But she used her mission to act as a spy upon the countess, of whose movements, conduct, eccentricities and follies she kept a diary, which is now being published in the newspapers here. The whole tendency of this diary is to present the countess in the most unlovely light, as alike deficient in motherly love, decency or honor of any kind as well as the victim of a diseased vanity.

In speaking of the former princess' tastes, the diary says:

"She has several albums filled with newspaper extracts about herself, including the jokes made at her expense after the Giron affair. The care of these albums and the pasting in of fresh extracts is the employment I noticed being attended to continuously.

"The princess is very proud of her albums with the newspaper cuttings. She says she is collecting them that her children may inherit them. She does not seem to regard them as in any degree shameful, and whether they are rude or not does not seem to affect her. All she insists on is that they be true." A poor witticism at her expense, even an obscene one, does not disturb her. In fact, she seems highly amused at them. The princess had some very coarse methods of expressing her disgust at the untruths told about her in the papers."

Piles get quick and certain relief from Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. Please note it is made alone for piles, and its action is positive and certain. Itching, painful, protruding or blind piles disappear like magic by its use. Large nickel-capped glass jars 50 cents. Sold by all dealers.

New Line to Muskoka

Canada's greatest railway, in building a line to connect Toronto with the main transcontinental track at Sudbury, has incidentally given us a new route to the Muskoka Lakes district, over which fast passenger trains will be running after Saturday, June 22nd. Bala, which is reached in three and a half hours from Toronto, will be the Lakes terminus this summer, and there steamers of the Muskoka Navigation Company will connect with trains, carrying travellers to all points on Lakes Muskoka, Joseph and Rosseau. The roadbed is heavily laid and well ballasted, train equipment is new and handsome, and excellent time is made. In addition to the local trains there will be two flyers to the Lakes; the Lakeland Limited and Sunrise Express, and two flyers southbound, the Queen City Flyer and Twilight Limited. Through sleepers will run to and from Toronto, Buffalo, Pittsburg and New York, and of course, a splendid equipment of parlor cars, dining cars, and luxurious day coaches. C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent, C. P. R., at Toronto, will be glad to mail full particulars of trains and handsome Muskoka folder, or same may be obtained free from local C. P. R. agents.

Partners of the Tide

...By... JOSEPH C. LINCOLN,

"Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1903, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

New York gentleman if she wanted him. Then he thought of that other dance and how happy he had been because she had given him the waits that Sam asked for. And he went to bed utterly miserable.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE next morning he was more miserable still, having had time to think it over. But he resolved that no one should guess his feelings from his appearance. Therefore he was, at the breakfast table, outwardly calm, although a little more quiet than usual.

Bradley had little appetite. He drank his coffee, and then, with an excuse that he was in a hurry, left the table and, putting on his cap, went out.

He was, to all appearances, in high spirits when he reached the wharf. He dreaded meeting Captain Titcomb and Hammond, but he made up his mind they shouldn't know it. So he chatted with Barney and Peleg, laughed loudly at the flimsiest jokes and whistled as he stood at the Lizzie's wheel and steered her out of the harbor.

They worked at getting out the tar until 3 o'clock, when, at Captain Titcomb's suggestion, they quit for the day, and the Lizzie came back to her moorings. Then the crew went ashore, and the partners shut themselves in the cabin to once more discuss the project of buying the Diving Belle. The photographs and sketches were exhibited, the captain argued and enthused, and Bradley did his best to forget Gus and to be interested. He succeeded partially.

The junior partner agreed that the Vineyard Haven schooner was a wonderful bargain, but he disliked the idea of going in debt for a part of her, as it seemed that they must do.

"You see, Cap'n Ez," he said, "we've got altogether less than $4,000 between us if we put up every cent we've made. We shall have to borrow at least another thousand, and I hate to. In a year, if things go as well as they have, we ought to be able to build a new vessel and pay for every stick of her. And yet," he added, "it seems a shame to let this chance go by."

The captain glanced at his companion and drummed with his fingers on the table. When he spoke there was a hesitancy in his manner.

"We can't let it go by," he said. "We'd never git another like it. Now, Brad—now, Brad"— He stopped and drummed again. Then he went on without looking up. "I don't know's I mentioned this afore, but all my money ain't been put into this wreckin' deal yit. You see, I own some shares in that big craub'ry bog of the Ostable folks. Must be about $1,500 wuth altogether. I cal'late maybe I ain't spoke of this to you afore, have I?"

"Well, no, you haven't," answered the astonished Bradley dryly.

"No. I presume likely it—cy—must have slipped my mind. Well, I'll sell the bog shares and put up what's needed to finish buyin' the Divin' Belle. You can pay off your part as we earn it. Is it a go?"

"All right," Bradley said finally; "I'll agree, of course. If you're willing to risk it, I ought to be."

"Good! We'll take a day off tomorrer and go up to the Haven and look her over."

The partners started for Vineyard Haven in the early morning. The captain talked most of the way, for which Bradley was thankful. He didn't feel like talking. They found the Diving Belle lying at the wharf, and Captain Titcomb watched his companion's face as they stood on the stringpiece looking down at her.

They bought the schooner. It remained only to bring over the check and take away the schooner, and this they did a week later. Meanwhile Captain Titcomb had performed another miracle. He had hunted up a man who had expressed a desire to purchase the Lizzie and after two days of bargaining, during which time the captain had twice pretended to give it up and return to Orham, had sold him the old schooner for $750; also he sold his shares in the cranberry bog.

There was a good sized crowd of townspeople on the Orham wharf when the Diving Belle slid smoothly past the harbor mouth and up to her moorings. There was a splendid breeze, but they wouldn't have used the sails for any consideration. The sight of the moving pistons in that wonderful sixteen horsepower engine, the enchanting smell of the gasoline, the muffled drumming of the propeller under the stern—these were brand new, unadulterated joys of proprietorship that no mere item like the saving of unnecessary expense could induce them to forfeit.

Captain Ezra put in the most of his spare time "improving" the new purchase. Bradley told him it seemed like the Thomas Doane days to smell paint and trip over a bucket of water and a swab every little while.

Orham was just then in the throes of a burglar scare. Two houses in the village had been broken into, and the natives were talking of calling an indignation meeting for the purpose of expressing their opinion of the selectmen. Then a steam yacht belonging to a summer resident, which lay housed over for winter in the harbor, was boarded and ransacked.

It was on the day following this robbery that Captain Titcomb began tinkering with the cabin door. This door and the sliding hatch above it had been fastened with a padlock. The captain's first move was to block the hatch so that it would slide back but a little way. Then he sawed and hammered away at the door.

"There!" he cried in triumph after two hours of hard work. "Brad, come here! S'pose one of them mean sneak thieves tries to bust into that cabin. He can pry the staple off that padlock easy, can't he? Yes, but the way that hatch is now 'twon't open fur enough for him to climb down; he's got to open that door. And that door's got on it a three dollar patent lock that can't be opened without the key, and no ten cent whistle down the barrel key either. The key that'll open that has ince edgin' on it. You hear me! And I've took off the knob on the inside of the lock so it can't be worked that way. Now, when we want to go home we haul to the hatch and lock it with the padlock. Then we jest slam the door. Click! There you are! A spring lock. How's that for high? Thunderation! I've left the key inside!"

Luckily the key was lying on the top step of the cabin stairs, and they were able to reach it with a fishhook on the end of a stick.

Getting up the tar with the aid of the patent windlass and the engine was simply fun. They took out all they could bring up through the hatchway and then began blowing out the side of the hull with dynamite. The explosive was stored in the Diving Belle's hold forward behind a bulkhead with only one small manhole in it and was carefully boxed in to prevent accident.

Bradley's whole interest in life now centered in his work. Gus he had not spoken with since the night of the dance; had, in fact, only seen her at a distance. Sam, while on board the schooner, was pleasant and, to all appearances, as friendly as Bradley would let him be, but from Captain Jabez and from other considerate and gossip loving souls the junior partner learned that Hammond was now a regular caller at the Baker cottage.

CHAPTER XV.

OCTOBER had been a month of exceptionally pleasant weather, but in the night of Nov. 1 Bradley woke to feel the old house trembling and to hear the rain thundering on the roof overhead and rattling against the windows.

While he was dressing he heard voices in the road below and, opening the window, saw Jim Rogers, the fish peddler, sitting in his wagon with the rain sluicing from the peak of his sou'wester and carrying on a shouted conversation with Mrs. Baker.

"What did you say 'twas, Mr. Rogers?" screamed the old lady, speaking through the closed blinds of her chamber window.

"The Freedom—big six masted coal barge. She's high and dry on the Razorback. Hawser parted. The tug's tryin' to git her off now, but Cap'n Knowles telephoned Sam Hardy that 'twan't no use."

Bradley didn't hear the last part of the conversation. He struggled into his clothes, and then, putting on his oilskins, ran out of the house and down the road.

THAT SPRING FEVER.

Annual Garden Debauch of the Suburban Looking Man.

Gayly the suburban looking man entered the seedsman's place and said, "Take this order, please."

"Yes, sir," from the polite clerk with the pencil in hand and a facial expression emulating that of the spaniel that awaits his master's throwing a stick into the water. You could in imagination see the clerk wag his tail.

"One package of cauliflower seed"—

"Yes; but, you see"—

"Shut up! Put down what I order. One package of cauliflower seed—got it? All right. Two packages of cabbage seed"—

"Yes; but you buy plants already"—

"Did you get my order to shut up? Continue taking down what I say and don't volunteer any information—three packs of radish seed, two papers of lettuce seed, one peck of onion sets, a quart of seed peas, half a peck of bush beans"—

"Wait a minute. Now, go ahead."

"That's all."

"Well, where do you want it sent?"

"Sent? Sent nothing! Do you suppose I want all that stuff littering up my library or kitchen or attic? Of course I don't. I've no time for that sort of thing. I just have the gardening fever each spring the same as any other gotrammed idiot, and the only way I can reduce my temperature is to go and order a lot of rubbish like this, pay for it, feel like a fool and go home cured. How much does it come to? Hurry or I'll miss my train."—Judge.

Idle Mrs. Giles.

"Your young wife appears to be rather blue of late," ventured the country doctor to Farmer Giles.

"Yaas," drawled the old farmer with the bunch of rabbit skins under his arm; "she is one of those city gals, and I'm afraid she hasn't enough to occupy her mind."

"Think not?"

"Waal, no. After she has milked ten cows before breakfast, and cooked breakfast for the plowmen, and fed the pigs and chickens, and started washing, and put dinner on, and put up preserves, and shelled a bushel of peas, and done some ironing, and put supper on, and done the darning, and patched for the household, and peeled a couple of pounds of apples for tomorrow's dinner, why, she hasn't anything more to do until bedtime. I think I'll l'arn her how to make our own oil cake for the cows, so her mind will be more occupied. Yes, sirree, the only way to keep a wife smiling and happy is to keep her mind occupied."—Tit-Bits.

Tommy Knew.

"Which one of your fellows was here last night, sister?" said the irrepressible Tommie at breakfast.

"I'll not tell you," replied the young lady.

"You don't have to tell me. I know."

"No, you don't know, either."

"I do. It was the feller with the beard. Your chin's all scratched up!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Colored Embroideries.

Tepid water with a good soap and a pinch of salt in it is a good way to clean colored embroideries. Care must be taken not to rub the soap into the embroidery, and when it has been gently pressed rinse it out in a basin of clean tepid water. It must be wrung out carefully and then placed right side down between two clean cloths and ironed while still wet.

White China Silk Blouses.

Never wash white china silk blouses in hot water. It will turn them yellow after they have been laundered a few times. A lather should be made from white laundry soap, and in this rub the waist lightly. Then rinse in warm water to which a little ammonia has been added. A last rinsing in bluing water will help to keep the silk white.

For the Kitchen.

Very useful in the kitchen is a table or wide shelf covered with zinc where hot cooking utensils may be placed when taken from the fire. It will be a great saving to your enameled sink. Zinc is easily kept clean by daily washing with soap and hot water.

Smelling Salts.

Do not throw away your smelling salts when the liquid has evaporated, leaving them dry, and you think you have had them so long a time that they are no longer of any use. Renew them. That is, pour over them some perfumed ammonia—violet, lavender or whatever the salts may have been originally.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

The Gold Bond Company is a Colorado Corporation. Capitalized at 1,500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable. 800,000 shares in treasury.

Our holdings consist of four claims, three of which are patented, and all lie close to the Addison claim, which made the GOLDEN MESSAGE famous. One of our veins is an extension of the Addison, and shows the same character of ore as that now being taken out of the Addison shaft. Comparatively little work has been done on the Gold Bond group, but we have receipts from small shipments of the high grade ore showing values running as high as $24,000 per ton; the veins are from three to twenty feet in width, all good milling ore, with streaks of the extraordinary high grade running all through.

This company was incorporated February 9th A.D. 1907, under the laws of Arizona.

President ..... EDWARD T. PATRICK.
Mine Owner and President of the Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claim (80acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidentat and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bond and Daisy Mines near the Zinn group in the Diamondfield section and only in ridgelines to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in acquiring the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the rich profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

Mobs a Specialty.

Mr. Converse's office was the sort of A B C class in stage craft where ambitious young men and women were given a chance to participate in mob scenes, court balls, hunting parties, etc., at a salary ranging from 50 cents to $1 a performance.

Converse had been in the business many years, had amassed a comfortable fortune and could point with pride to the fact that many a girl or lad who had started with him in the mob scene of a big production was now drawing a good salary as leading man or woman or was even starring.

Some one had told Betty Vincent of this fact, and so she hung on to the hope of an opening at the Converse office with the despair of a girl who finds herself compelled to earn her living without any particular preparation and who thinks the stage offers the one field where experience is not necessary.

"TAKE OFF THAT LACE THINGUMBOB AND CARRY IT HOME WITH YOU."

Day after day Betty smiled and said "Good morning" to Allen, and day after day Allen watched the roses fade in her cheeks and the circles deepen around her pretty violet eyes. He saw, too, her brave struggle to keep up appearances. One day the little fur toque she wore would be covered with ribbons, again it would blossom forth in somewhat faded violets, and another day a home curled plume would fall from its left side. Allen had been handing aspirants at the Converse office just long enough to read the signs aright.

Then came a morning when he took Betty, all smiles, from the sixth floor to the first. She was the sole passenger on his car, and he ran it down very slowly.

"Yes, thank you. I'm to go on in the big ballroom scene in 'The Love of a Princess'—a dollar a night, and it will be all clear because I can wear my grandmother's wedding dress. It's a lovely brocade"—

The car came to a stop, and passengers crowded in. Betty disappeared in the crush.

"Humph!" muttered Allen to himself, giving the lever a sort of unreasonable jerk. "Have to provide their own costumes. That doesn't look as if the management was rolling in money. Guess I'll look it up."

By night Allen knew all about the company and the management of "The Love of a Princess." He wanted to hunt up Betty, who he knew would come no more to the Empire building. Then he changed his mind and, instead, glared at the manager of the company, who rode at times in his car.

"Let her have her fling," he said to himself. "She's got to have it, and so talking of mine will convince her."

Nevertheless that night when Betty came out of the big hall where the rehearsals were being held Allen was waiting for her.

She looked surprised, but he tucked her arm through his in brotherly, protecting fashion.

"You might as well get used to stage door admirers," he said, with a laugh. "Get to have 'em, you know. Anyhow, I live up your way, and it's no time of night for a girl to be out alone."

That was the beginning of his curious guardianship. When the rehearsals were transferred from the hall to the theater he was more vigilant than ever, and somehow he so ingratiated himself with the old doorkeeper that he was permitted to sit back on a pile of stage "props" and watch the rehearsals. Sometimes Betty wondered why he was so grave when they started homeward. She did not know that the worldwise Allen had ushered in this same theater for many months and knew a "frost" when he saw it; even in rehearsal. But he did not contradict her when she rattled on about the wonderful things she intended to do for her half invalid mother on that $8 a week, for "The Love of a Princess" was to have two matinees a week.

The night of the dress rehearsal Allen sat watching her with hungry eyes. Almost he wished that he had tried for the position of "walking gentleman" just to promenade the stage with that vision in soft old lavender brocade on his arm. Then his eyes snapped, and when Betty came off he whispered:

"Take off that lace thingumbob and carry it home with you."

Betty looked surprised, but she had learned to defer to his suggestions, and so, when she came out in her long, rough coat and fur toque she carried the lace bertha under her arm.

"That is what makes the dress look so pretty," she urged. "It's real lace."

"Yes, I saw that," answered Allen, "but some five cent a yard stuff will do for stage wear, and if some of them got wise to the fact you had real lace they'd cop it and pawn it. Say, you don't know anything yet about life behind the scenes."

At first Betty had felt inclined to resent Allen's espionage, but he was a good looking chap, and she soon found, especially after the first night, when he was the only one of the "extra ladies" to receive flowers—violets that must have cost several dollars—that his regular attendance upon her made her the envy of many fellow players.

The papers gave the new production bad notices, but the audiences continued large, especially in the orchestra, and Betty remained hopeful.

"Paper," said Allen in disgust as he watched the audience gather on Thursday night. And he was right. The house was being filled on passes. "The Love of a Princess" was a failure.

But Betty, watching the big audiences, could not be persuaded—not until Saturday night came, when the company was called together and dismissed without salaries.

Betty was very quiet and white when she came out, her grandmother's frock under her arm.

"It's all over," she said sadly. "You were right. And—and we didn't even get one week's salary. There's all my car fare, and my new slippers, and a bill at the druggist's. Mother's cough has been so much worse"—

Allen's firm clasp closed over her trembling hand.

"There, there, don't you worry. I saw it coming before the first night even, and my brother, who's got a good thing in the Daniels Realty company, is going to put you in there to mind the switchboard. Tomorrow's Sunday, and he'll take time to show you how to run it, so when you start in Monday you won't seem green. It's eight a week to start and something better ahead, 'cause you've got a pull, see?"

"Oh, you are so kind to me! I don't see why"—

Betty was half sobbing.

Allen looked down upon her drooping head in speechless amazement. Girls certainly were queer things, he argued. Hadn't he shown her plainly enough? He cleared his throat, but his voice remained husky.

"Don't you know—ain't you seen—that I loved you—loved you from the first day you came into my car? But I wasn't going to tell you just yet—not until I got a better job. The first of the year I'm going into the advertising line with that firm on the tenth floor, and then— say, have you seen those model flats up on West Eighty-seventh street? I think that sunlight from the south court would be grand for your mother, and if you get an advance and the advertising business pans out we might"—

Goodness, was she never going to stop crying? Was this the way girls always behaved when men proposed to them?

Suddenly the brocaded dress fell at his very feet, and before he could pick it up Betty's two hands clasped on his arm, and her eyes, raised to his, shone like two violets bathed with dew.

"Oh, Allen, you are perfectly grand! If the princess had had a love like yours, the show never would have closed."

And then— But never mind. Some policemen are very tactful, and the one who was strolling their way turned his back and picked up the brocade dress that was rolling straight for the gutter.

"Fox Hunting" in 1700.

Two or three hundred years ago any one who said he had been "fox hunting" would have laid himself open to a misconception of which there is no longer danger in a modern November. According to the "Dictionary of the Canting Crew" (about 1700), "he has caught a fox" meant "he is very drunk," and this is what a writer meant in 1650 when he observed that "whoever loses good wine hunts the fox once a year." "Foxed" signified drunk, and to "fox" a man was to make him so. Pepys records that he "almost foxed" Dr. Thomas Pepys with Margate ale. Was the original idea that of playing a foxy trick on a man? Or, as one passage half suggests, that of painting his nose a foxy red?—London Chronicle.

A Plea For Poetry.

If poetry be a relic of barbarism and science the highest expression of human thought, let us by all means remain barbarians to the extent at least of being emotionally moved occasionally. Let us hope that the time is far distant when man will become merely a cold, calculating, scientific machine so admirably constructed that emotionalism, love, human sympathy and similar relics of barbarism will have no place in his mentality.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

California Gallantry.

They tell me the story of a well known gentleman of San Francisco who, charging through all the smoke and flames and litter on the first day of the terror, came upon a fashionable lady of his acquaintance trudging along the middle of the street in her bedroom slippers, with a window curtain thrown over her shoulders. He stopped his automobile to offer her his assistance, explaining at the same time that the auto was all he had saved out of the wreck, and even that had been commandeered by the soldiery.

"I, too, have lost all," she sighed.

"All but your beauty," said he, with a courtly bow.

"And you all but your gallantry," she retorted, smiling.—Sunset Magazine.

A Dress For Europe.

Henry Watson leaves the value of a single yard in half bale of silks, ribbons, lace and other "leftovers" from dressmaking, which may be useful for padding or for some other purpose.

WHAT IS MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN MOTHER LOVE?

A mother's worries are many. She sometimes forgets her own bodily discomforts because of her overpowering love for the child. She becomes broken down, sleepless, nervous, irritable and feels tired from morning until night. Many mothers of experience can tell you that at such a time they have been relieved, benefited and strengthened and put into proper health by taking a prescription which their mothers had told them was the only woman's tonic to be taken at such times. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has enjoyed an enviable reputation for over a third of a century. In all that time it has sold more largely in the United States than any other tonic for woman's needs, and today its sales are greater than ever.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open, honest statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

ALCOHOLIC TONICS.

A great many women feeling the need of a tonic take a cocktail, whisky, or what is just as bad, some widely advertised compound, containing a large percentage of alcohol. Doctor Pierce's medicines are guaranteed to be entirely free from alcohol or narcotics—made of roots which cannot harm the most delicate system but have a wholesome, lifegiving, tonic-effect upon the system. Tonics made largely of alcohol interfere with the digestion of certain foods, and as doses increase the alcohol absorbed gets into the blood and shrinks the red blood corpuscles. As the blood feeds the nerves the nerves get improper nourishment and the mother becomes nervous. As the nerves suffer so does the skin.

Better stick to a health-giving tonic that has in the past third of a century sold more widely than any other.

OPEN AS THE DAY.

What Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of. Its ingredients are: Golden Seal root, Lady's Slipper root, Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root, Chemically Pure Glycerine.

Hobart A. Hare, M. D., University of Pa., says of Golden Seal—"Good in all catarrhal conditions, as uterine catarrh, leucorrhœa, etc." Prof. John King in the American Dispensatory says of Black Cohosh root—another important ingredient in "Favorite Prescription:" "By its special affinity for the female organs, it is an efficient agent in suppression, in dysmenorrhœa it is surpassed by no other drug, being of greatest utility in irritative and congestive conditions of the appendages, characterised by dragging pains, etc."

Prof. King says of Unicorn root, "have found this plant to possess a decidedly beneficial influence in cases of lassitude with weakness or dull pain in the renal, or lumbo-sacral (small of the back) region. It is one of our most valuable agents, acting as a uterine tonic, and gradually renewing abnormal conditions, while at the same time it imparts tone and vigor to the reproductive organs. Hence, it is much used in leucorrhœa, amenorrhœa, dysmenorrhœa.

A PARTICULAR PLACE

removed by it is the irritability and despondency that often attends these troubles. In those cases in which there is pelvice fullness, the aching, bearing-down organs feel as if they would fall out of the body. Its action here is very decided."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation of the bowels, loss of appetite, coated tongue, sour stomach, windy belchings, "heartburn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

Persons subjected to any of these troubles should never be without a vial of the "Pleasant Pellets" at hand. In proof of their superior excellence it can truthfully be said that they are always adopted as a household remedy after the first trial.

One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are cathartic. They regulate, invigorate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, take one each day. To relieve the distress arising from overeating, nothing equals one of these little "Pellets." They're tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules, scarcely larger than mustard seeds.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Over 1000 pages and illustrated. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

But where a bag is used the coveted piece is sure to be down at the bottom, so that it is necessary to dump out the entire contents of the bag every time something is wanted out of it. Therefore it is better to devote a spare drawer in a bureau to scraps. Here the various rolls of laces and ribbons, each wrapped and pinned into tight bundles, may be spread out so that each one may be easily recognized. A box for buttons, old fringes and the like may be included among the contents of the drawer, which proves a boon to all who have tried it.

Monograms on Linen.

"The custom of marking linen with indelible ink, practiced not many years ago by fashionables, has completely passed. Down to glass and pantry towels, household linen must now have an embroidered monogram," said a linen expert. "Tablecloths at present are marked with two monograms, one at either end of the cloth or diagonally at opposite corners. Sheets and pillowcases have a large embroidered monogram placed back of the hemstitching, drawn work, embroidery or lace insertion which decorates the edge."

To Make a Pretty Collar Case.

A pretty collar case is made by taking four pieces of cardboard a little longer and wider than the collars. Cover two pieces with figured silk and two with plain. Put a piece of perfumed wadding between each plain and figured piece and overseam, take the two pieces after they are overseamed together and tie at the back with narrow ribbon and at each end. These cases are nice to keep the collars smooth and in order.

Remarkable Invention

FOR THE

CULTURE OF HAIR

THE EVANS VACUUM CAP is a practical invention constructed on scientific and hygienic principles by the simple means of which a free and normal circulation is restored throughout the scalp. The minute blood vessels are gently stimulated to activity, thus allowing the food supply which can only be derived from the blood, to be carried to the hair roots, the effects of which are quickly seen in a healthy, vigorous growth of hair. There is no rubbing, and as no drugs or chemicals of whatsoever kind are employed there is nothing to cause irritation It is only necessary to wear the Cap three or four minutes daily.

60 DAYS' FREE TRIAL!

The Company's Guarantee

An EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent you for sixty days' free trial. If you do not see a gradual development of a new growth of hair, and are not convinced that the Cap will completely restore your hair, you are at liberty to return the Cap with no expense whatever to yourself. It is requested, as an evidence of good faith, that the price of the Cap be deposited with the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit Company of London, the largest financial and business institution of the kind in the world, who will issue a receipt guaranteeing that the money will be returned in full, on demand without questions or comment, at any time during the trial period.

The eminent Dr. I. N. Love, in his address to the Medical Board on the subject of Alopaecia (loss of hair) stated that if a means could be devised to bring nutrition to the hair follicles (hair roots) without resorting to any irritating process, the problem of hair growth would be solved. Later on, when the EVANS VACUUM CAP was submitted to him for inspection, he remarked that the Cap would fulfil and confirm in practice the observations he had previously made before the Medical Board.

Dr. W. Moore, referring to the invention, says that the principle upon which the EVANS VACUUM CAP is founded is absolutely correct and indisputable.

An illustrated and descriptive book of the EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent post free, on application.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Four Montreal Boys Deep in Crime

Montreal, June 20.—Although only ten years of age, Lince Lighthouse may almost be regarded as a hardened criminal. A week ago he was charged with burglary and allowed out on bail. But this impending trouble had no effect on Lince, for along with three other boys he was arrested last night in a vacant house on University street. The boys had burst open a door at the back of the premises, and on being discovered were busily engaged stripping the house of its lead-piping.

The four youthful burglars were arrested and this morning lodged in the police court cells preparatory to appearing before Judge Lafontaine, in the Arraignment Court. A few minutes after ten o'clock a large number of persons had assembled in the corridor separating the cells from the Arraignment Court. The four boys eventually crossed the intervening passages and considerable astonishment was created when it was observed that a couple of the youngsters were unconcernedly smoking cigarettes. They threw the stumps away at the threshold of the hoist and stepped, with smiles upon their faces, into the presence of the judge. They pleaded guilty and were remanded for sentence.

Owing Money, Were Held in Slavery

Victoria, B. C. June 21.—Under instructions from the British Admiralty, the Shearwater proceeded to the Galapagos group of islands to inquire into a state of slavery which was said to exist there. The alleged slaves were British subjects, natives of the West India Islands. The Galapagos islands belong to the republic of Ecuador in South America.

It appears that nearly a year ago some thirty West Indians made their way to the Galapagos Islands, which they were engaged to work for a period of six months. Their work consisted in making the primitive bread upon which the natives of the country live. The wages paid were exceptionally low with the result that the West Indians, in order to be able to exist, had to draw their money in advance. At he end of the six months it was found that the West Indians owed their employes a certain sum of money which they were unable to pay. They were then informed that they would have to continue working until they had wiped off the deficit, and that then their services would be dispensed with, and they could return to their homes. The representations made by the West Indians were, to the effect that when they had completed the work for their taskmasters they would then have no money to take them back to their own country. They moreover complained that they were badly treated and were in many respects slaves.

Captain Allgood, of the Shearwater, has reported to the admiralty the results of his observations, and the conditions under which the West Indians are held at the Galapagos Islands, and it is expected that the British Government will order the men to be deported from the islands back to the West Indies.

TO MARK LINEN.

How the Algerian Stitch is Utilized For This Purpose.

Nothing gives the good housewife keener delight than a good supply of house linen, though it must be owned that the linen cupboard is not such a feature in this country as in Germany, where it is the housewife's pride, and with its piles of snowy linen, each set tied up in broad blue or pink ribbon and the shelves edged with crochet or some sort of decoration, according to the position of the owner, it is certainly a delight to any woman's eyes.

It is well to add to the linen store as opportunity offers, as this saves a big outlay all at once. It follows, too, that nice linen should be nicely marked. There is a great art in doing this with the needle, and many pretty stitches and designs can be found and followed.

The letter sketched is worked in what is known as Algerian stitch, and by the accompanying diagram you will be able to see how it is done. It lends itself also very well to monograms. But if your linen is washed at a laundry it is best to have these worked designs supplemented by the name written legibly in marking ink. Although laundries have their private mark, mistakes are sometimes made which are not easily set right without the full name, as initials are so often duplicated in a long list of customers.

Homeseekers' Excursions

If you think of making a trip to Manitoba or the great North-west Provinces this summer, you should make a point of securing, from the nearest C. P. R agent, a free copy of that railroad's booklet giving information about the popular Homeseekers' Excursions. These excursions are well known money savers, and this year are more attractive than ever. Increased traffic has meant a larger number, nine of them this season, of which, at the time of writing, seven have still to run, leaving Toronto July 2, 16, 30; August 13, 27; September 10 and 24. Special trains are used, carrying colonist and tourist sleepers, berths in the latter at small additional charge. Tickets are issued from the Ontario stations at remarkably low rates, ranging from $12.00 round-trip to Winnipeg to $42.50 round-trip to Edmonton, and embracing all important points in the North-West. They are good to return within sixty days, stop-overs permitted. Ask nearest C. P. R. agent for particulars, or apply direct to C. B Foster, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

ATTRACTIONS OF EASTERN CANADA

Intercolonial Railway's Series of Booklets

ATTRACTIONS OF MARITIME PROVINCES FOR TOURISTS OR SPORTSMEN

Well Illustrated and Excellent Printed Booklets, Which Should be Read by All.

(The Toronto, Ont., Globe, June 5)

Eastern Canada possesses attractions for the tourist and sportsman unsurpassed by any other portion of North America. Glowing skies, magnificent coast scenery, behind which lurk lovely harbors, rivers leading to lakes which Frechette calls "sapphires dropped from the caskets of fairies;" forests of pine, spruce, waving birch and "quivering poplar," dark cedar and brilliant maple, and withal the cool air, which is life to the weary resident of the city who is fortunate enough to visit this land. For the sportsman these rivers and lakes abound with fish of all descriptions, and in no part of America is there so much game, moose, caribou, deer, bear, etc.

For the lover of history and romance there are also many interests. Long before the Pilgrims landed on the gusty coast of New England ventures some fishermen from St. Malo and elsewhere in the old world came to ply their calling in the northern waters, which Jacques Cartier named the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Bale des Chaleur in 1534, and around the coasts of which, now forming the shores of the Province of Quebec and northern New Brunswick, linger the shadows of romance, fame and glory.

To present a few of the attractions of this beautiful summer land, which notwithstanding the thousands who travel over the road each year is yet a veritable terra incognito to the average tourist and sportsman, the passenger department of the Intercolonial Railway has prepared a beautiful and useful series of booklets. For general information this series is far in advance of anything of the kind ever presented to the public by this railway before, and should be in the hands of everyone seeking rest and sport.

The first of these publications is entitled "Tours to Summer Haunts." It is a pamphlet of some hundred pages, printed on coated book paper and generously illustrated with artistic half-one reproductions of scenes incident to the text, with sub-heads in marginal indent, supplementing which is a schedule of tours and excursions from Montreal to the principal points of interests in the Maritime Provinces. The text details the character of the country, the historic and scenic points of interests and facilities offered to votaries of rod and gun, all interesting and instructive reading for even those who have no opportunity of visiting the places described. Then follow "Fishing and Hunting," "The Hunting Grounds of the Micmacs," "A Week in the Canadian Woods," Big Game of the Southwest Miramichi" and "The Maritime Express," all of which are eminently practical subjects, indicated by their respective titles.

"Fishing and Hunting" has the game laws of the different provinces compiled in addition to tabulated information concerning the varieties of game and fish to be found in each locality along the whole line. It is a splendid effort to present desired information in concise form, and meets the requirements admirably.

"The Hunting Grounds of the Micmacs" presents to its readers a short historical reference to the tribe for which it is named, and directs the lovers of rod and gun where to find victims. It is an admirable little handbook, readable and full of information.

"A Week in the Canadian Woods" and "Big Game of the Southwest Miramichi" informs the hunter and tourist of the attractions of the territories indicated by the names.

"The Maritime Express" is really an annotated time table describing the locality of each station and giving valuable information regarding business, sport and other data necessary or desired by travellers from Montreal to the eastern termini of the road.

The booklets are legibly printed, well illustrated with half-tones and each has a full four-page map of the country traversed by the railroad.

Dressing Windows.

Nothing spoils the appearance of a house more than window shades of a hue which does not correspond with the paint of the woodwork or which are carelessly left one raised, the other lowered.

Lace curtains should be pinned carefully into place for a week or two after they are first hung until they settle into the proper lines. Otherwise they soon get dragged out of shape and have a most untidy, ungraceful drape, which is particularly noticeable from the outside.

A woman would do well to view the effect from the opposite side of the street after putting up her window draperies, for she must remember that she should regard the external appearance of her house quite as much as the inside, and curtains are fundamentally intended as shields from curious eyes without.

To Make Pretty Hands.

A little time to make the hands beautiful need not be grudged even by the busiest woman when it is said that beautiful hands are worthy instruments of beautiful acts. The soft, moist skin that makes the hand of a woman so soothing to the fevered brow, so inspiring to the tired, nerveless hand which it clasps, cannot be obtained or preserved without due observance of hygienic laws and devotion to cosmetics. Excessive heat or cold is not only as destructive to the beauty of the hands as to the beauty of the face, but if long continued may so affect the network of the nerves as to mar the delicacy of the touch. In washing the hands the temperature of the water should be a matter of care, and tepid water only should be used. Care should be taken to dry the hands thoroughly before exposing them to the air. Next to good homemade soap pure castile is best for washing the hands.

A Comfortable Negligee.

The negligee illustrated is of white china silk made square neck, the yoke being made of wide strips of lace. A short jacket effect of lace and tucked silk extends from the underarm seams to the front. The gown proper falls from the yoke, with two box plaits down the middle of the front. Two insertions of lace are formed around the skirt. The back has three box plaits extending into a train, the whole hanging straight from the yoke without the fullness formed in front. If so desired, a ribbon belt may tie with long ends in front or a large bow with ends join the jacket effect in front instead of the two buttons, with knots of ribbon on either side.

Are You a Woman Needing Strength?

Not long ago you were able to enjoy life.

You had vigor, strength, ambition—did everything with zest and pleasure Upon you cheeks was the hue of health, in your eyes the sparkle of vim and animation.

Today—all is a drudge.

Not actually sick, but if your work were less imperative, how gladly you would rest.

You are breaking down.

Nervous system is out of gear.

Digestive powers are weak.

Blood lacks nourishment.

Just one thing to do—Build up—Win back your health with Ferrozone.

No remedy restores so fast, builds up so permanently, instills such vigor or surplus strength like Ferrozone.

A case showing how Ferrozone acts is illustrated by the following from Mrs. H. Wright, of Enfield, N.S.

"Six months ago I experienced a serious illness. It commenced with splitting headaches, dull pains through my chest and shoulders. I found it hard to get satisfying sleep—would roll and toss and in the morning felt tired all over. Then I grew nervous, lost flesh, got pale and had heavy dark circles under my eyes. My strength got so low I couldn't do housework. I was worried and unable to eat and feared I would not get well. Ferrozone braced me up in a few weeks. It seemed to supply wonderful strength. I gained in flesh, looked better and was able to sleep. In all I took twelve boxes of Ferrozone and my cure was complete."

If Ferrozone doesn't help and cure you—then nothing ever will; your druggist sells it in 50c. boxes—Better try Ferrozone.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

Takes Defeat With Good Grace.

The Millbrook Reporter takes the defeat of its own home team in a philosophical manner that is really charming this hot weather, as for instance: "Our Lacrosse club crossed sticks with the Peterboro players in a pleasant game on Thursday evening last and made a close bid for a tie, only failing by one goal. Better luck next time boys."

Mr. G. V. Clementi Heard From

The many friends of Mr. G R. Clementi, generally known here as "Dod," will be pleased to learn that he is so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to attend to work again. Yesterday a local relative of Mr. Clementi received a letter from him dated from the Albany Hotel, Denver, Col., in which the writer stated he was on a business trip embracing San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Oregon, and other Pacific Ocean points.

American Likes Rice Lake

Mr. U. J. Matson of the Dubois & Butler Brick Co., of Dubois, Pa., is spending a few weeks at Rice Lake. Mr. Matson since his arrival in this part of the county has made a host of friends. Mr. Matson is enthusiastic in his opinions as to opinions as to the beauty and health giving properties of Rice Lake and it among charming sumer resorts.

One of the events of importance connected with Thursday's great excursion to the city by the Iron Moulders of Cobourg, which was not noted in the papers of that date was a contest for a bath tub and a $14 clock. Photos of Kirkfield Lift Lock

Mr. Fred Roy has returned from Kirkfield, where he was taking several photographs of the Kirkfield lift lock, for the Trent Canal department. He reports that everything is in readiness for the opening on Saturday, July 6. He secured five large views of the lock, and also of the government tug "The Bob Hall," the first boat to make the elevation. The ascent is nearly fifty feet. The towers are not built of concrete as in the case of the Peterborough lock, but are entirely of iron.

Man Who Found Hours Fly Slow

Yesterday was the longest day in the year, and also the first day of summer, i.e., according to Hoyle, or whoever the weather sharp is that regulates such chronological periods. Whilst it may or may not have been the longest day of the year, it seems, judging by a conversation overheard by a local citizen, that it must have been in his computation a lengthy period of time as early yesterday he told a friend that he tried to put a note through a local bank in the morning to meet a certain indebtedness of his. The manager wanted a few hours to think and investigate. Shortly after 3 o'clock he told a Times representative that "Yesterday was the longest day I ever put in. That ——— manager could not see any sense but at last I showed him I was good for the amount, so he put through my note for $1200. I tell you it was a hot and long day."

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. "There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Advisor is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Railway Conductors in Court

A Grand Trunk conductor and a similar employer of the C. P. R. were each charged with blocking traffic on local streets over th elegal time, at yesterday's court. Mr. W. H. Moon appeared for the C. P. R. conductor. Although it was shown that each conductor had allowed streets to be blocked by their respective trains, there were mitigating circumstances which impelled the magistrate to allow them both to go with a warning. It is about time that the railway conductors of each line learn that the streets belong to the public and not to the railroads.

ROYALISTS HAD HAND IN UPRISING

Members of Local Clubs Among Those Arrested for Fomenting Disturbances in France--- General's Report of Mutiny

Paris, June 23.—Premier Clemenceau was able to give his colleagues at yesterday morning's meeting of the cabinet a generally hopeful report of the situation, the belief being that the worst is over.

The ministers decided that under the circumstances and in view of the bloodshed, it would be out of harmony with his own and public opinion for President Fallieres to attend the coming festivities at Royan and Bordeaux, where he intended to review the fleets and attend a reception on board the United States armored cruiser Washington. The arrangements for the president's visits have therefore been cancelled, as well as all the ministerial engagements at festive functions in the immediate future.

During the discussion of the events in the south the minister of justice mentioned that among the persons arrested were members of loyalist clubs, thus bearing out the cabinet's claim that a great deal of politics is mixed up in the movement.

GENERAL'S REPORT OF MUTINY.

Gen. Baillaud's report of the mutiny of the battalion of the 17th Regiment of Infantry at Agde has reached War Minister Picquart. The former attributed the mutinous conduct of the soldiers to the terrorism of the day.

mob of roughs of the district, who, Gen. Baillaud said, even attempted forcibly to prevent the mutineers entering the barracks at Beziers after their surrender. The mutineers returned to their barracks yesterday.

With the exception of the conflict between troops and rioters at Montpellier, where order was restored in the early hours of the morning, the night passed without any disturbance in the south.

The action of the chamber of deputies yesterday in supporting the government has proved influential in restoring calm.

The bishops in the disturbed districts are ranging themselves on the side of the "Pacificists" and are exhorting the people to avoid conflicts with the troops and to cease destroying railroad property and making attacks on giverment buildings.

BILL IS PASSED.

The chamber of deputies yesterday passed practically unanimously all the clauses of the Wine Frauds Bill previously adopted separately, thus enabling the government to put the measure into immediate effect and remove the principal grievances of the wine-growers.

The remainder of the clauses of the bill will be taken up without delay.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

Daniel Maher, when asked yesterday morning at the Police Court "Are you guilty of being drunk in a public place?" replied "Yes my Lord, I guess I was." $2, paid.

A local hotelkeeper was charged with selling liquor to a man who was drunk. Mr. Haverson, counsel for the Hotelkeepers' Protective Association for his client pleaded not guilty. Mr. Wise, caretaker of the Little Lake Cemetery, went into the box. Inspector Stewart acted as prosecutor and asked Mr. Wise "What are the habits of J. McDonald," the party to whom the liquor was alleged to have been sold.) Mr. Haverson claimed this was an improper question, quoting a decision of Judge Chadwick and also Judge McGibbon. The magistrate agreed with this argument. Mr. Wise said McDonald is addicted to the use of liquor. A. Barbeau said that about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon he saw McDonald at the corner of George and Charlotte Sts. He was staggering a little. License inspector then went into the box and said that the hotelman in question is the holder of a license. On Tuesday evening he saw McDonald drunk and staggering. He went into the bar of said hotel with two other men. Witness followed into the bar. McDonald and his friends were served with schooners of beer. Witness stood behind them as they drank. Then the three went into a little room back of the bar. McDonald was drunk. P. C. Newhall said he saw McDonald drunk Tuesday evening.

Mr. Haverson then claimed that no case had been made out. The inspector had called neither the men who had drank with McDonald nor the bartender. There was no evidence to show that the bartender could tell the man was drunk.

The magistrate noted that there was no getting around Mr. Haverson's argument. The case was then dismissed as there was no evidence to show the barkeeper could judge the man was drunk.

Still another hotel man was tried on a similar case. The first witness, Mrs. Bridget Coursey, said she had notified the hotelman not to give her son Patrick any liquor. She followed Pat into the bar and saw him served with a glass of beer. "Was it beer, lager, whiskey or what was it he got?" was asked. She replied, "The divil a one of me knows, but I guess it was beer; anyway he was full when I got a hold of him at the saloon."

Inspector Stewart then said on Saturday, 15th inst., he had seen Coursey drunk.

The case resulted as that of the former bootman, i.e., no tangible evidence was adduced as to the bartender being able to determine that the man was drunk when selling him the liquor. The case was dismissed.

Lightning Struck Same Spot Twice

That lightning will strike the same place twice was demonstrated during Saturday's thunderstorm. A year ago a chimney on the residence on Smith street, was struck by lightning and considerable damage done. The same chimney which of course had been repaired in the meantime was once more struck by a bolt of the electric fluid during Saturday's storm. Many bricks were knocked out and other damage done. Mr. McMullen, the local milk vendor, happened to be driving past at the time and distinctly heard the crash, while nearly a block distant. At the instant the chimney was struck his horse was knocked off its feet, either by concussion or a shock from the bolt which struck the house, or by another stroke of lightning. The animal suddenly fell to its knees and seemed too dazed to get up. For some seconds Mr. McMullen thought the horse had been killed. He did not see any immediate flash near the horse, and considers it was the first mentioned stroke that knocked the animal down.

Press Club Outing Was Postponed

On Saturday the scribes who gather in, write, or as it is sometimes uncharitably hinted invent the news for our local papers, shortly before noon decided, notwithstanding the heavy thunderstorm then gathering to go out and all on the Peterborough Press Club excursion per steamer Otonabee to Ely Wyld Cliffs bungalow for the pleasure seekers of the day the steamboat company must decided not to run the boat on her afternoon trip owing to the heavy rain. Thus the scribes had to postpone their trip and get busy hunting up items for today's papers.

Conductor Stops a Runaway

Mr. John Cocks in Akward Position on Saturday Afternoon

Some excitement was caused at the corner of George and Charlotte Sts. at four o'clock Saturday afternoon when Mr. John Cocks by good judgment and hard work prevented a runaway. Mr. Cocks was driving from George street west along Charlotte street, when the horse became frightened at a street car. The animal at once dragged the buggy with Mr. Cocks in it, on to the pavement to the south of Messrs. Demeterz' store. It rush d along the pavement for perhaps one hundred feet. Then the horse, rig, and man jumped from the foot high pavement to the road. At this juncture Mr. Cocks broke one of his reins, whereupon the outfit started in a circle until a street car conductor pluckily ran out and captured the frightened animal which was trembling with fright. No damage was done further than the rein being broken. That a frightened horse, which is running away along a high pavement, and only controlled by one "ribbon" did not get away, was due to the conductor's pluck in stopping it.

No Lights at Victoria Park

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—I am glad to see that you and also the Review published a letter signed "Father," in which the writer complained about the dangerous way in which our most popular and easily accessible park is left in total darkness about three nights out of the week. There seems to be some misunderstanding as to whose duty it is to attend to having the lights turned on there by night. This is too serious a matter for either a misunderstanding as to responsibility, or carelessness on the part of some one. If no individual is really responsible, the council should see that someone is appointed. The matter involves two difficulties, the exclusion of hundreds of people, who would enjoy this park after the hot hours in store or factory during the day, but the more important one that of the positive danger that exists by keeping the park in darkness. There is no use waiting until some terrible trouble takes place in that place. These lights were again turned off for hours Saturday night, the evening of all in the week when young working girls could otherwise enjoy the park.

King Wants Temperance

London, June 22.—King Edward opened yesterday a new hall and presented prizes at Wellington College, where one of the sons of Prince Louis of Battenberg is being educated.

In presenting a cup to the winner of the athletic contests competitions, his Majesty said pointedly and emphatically:

"I hope you will drink nothing else strong out of it."

Sun Spots are Still in Evidence

Ottawa, June 24.—The group of spots on the sun this summer is still being watched with interest by local astronomers. They are still quite plain, and photographs of the sun's surface showing them were taken yesterday and today at the Dominion Observatory. The spots are, of course, getting further towards the edge of the sun, due to its motion, but they do not seem to change much in size or shape, although that is often the case with sun spots.

Just what will happen cannot be stated definitely yet. The spots will probably disappear on Monday or Tuesday.

They may turn up again on the sun's surface in about fifteen days or they may disappear never to be seen again. The Journal has already published the details as to their appearance, causes and approximate size. The most interesting fact about the group is that they are much larger than sun spots generally are and can be seen quite plainly through the telescope at the Observatory.

A REVOLUTION IN PORTUGAL

King Has Evoked Hostility of His Subjects

HATE GOVERNMENT

King Has Taken Immense Pains to Ensure Loyalty of His Soldiers---Censor is Busy

London, June 23.—Indications that Portugal is moving towards a revolution increase in significance and seriousness. It may be recalled that Prime Minister Franco, after the dismissal of the parliament early in May, instituted a government by decree, the king sanctioning the measure. There has since been constantly growing irritation among the populace, whose hatred of the arbitrary proceedings has developed into open hostility, which is largely centered upon the king and the royal family.

King Carlos has long abstained from appearing at public functions with the view to avoiding an inevitable demonstration of anger. He has also taken measures, including personal visits to the military centers, and concessions to the troops to insure the loyalty of the armed forces of the country.

It is difficult, if not impossible, to get direct news from Portugal, the government having made the censorships, which exists even in normal times so severe that nothing derogatory to itself will pass on the telegraphs. Practically all reports come by way of Madrid, where it is the tradition to magnify everything detrimental to the neighboring monarchy. In the Spanish capital a revolution in Portugal is now declared to be imminent.

Norway Has Labor Troubles

Ottawa, June 23.—A report to the Trade and Commerce Department from Commercial Agent Sonsum at Christiana, Norway, says: "Strikes and lockouts have prevailed at nearly all the wood pulp mills in southern Norway since the middle of May, and there are no prospects of an immediate settlement. Several thousand hands are idle. One of the largest mills, the Borregaard, has laid off its 2,500 men, until the dispute is settled."

Young Burglars Caught in Act

Three Boys Found in Cressman's Store Yesterday

What seems like a briefaced and literally "daylight" robbery was fortunately frustrated yesterday afternoon. A clerk in the employ of Mr. A. W. Cressman happening to have occasion during Sunday afternoon to enter the store, heard a noise and suspecting burglary walked quietly towards the rear of the shop screened by piles of drygoods. He discovered three small boys and at once grabbed them. The boys, as can easily be understood were badly frightened and made no attempt to escape. They had entered the store from the rear where carpenters engaged in making improvements to the premises, had seemingly left the place insecurely barricaded. Their names were taken and the youthful culprits will probably be brought before the court.

Kaiser Wants U. S. Friendship

Berlin, June 23.—The Kaiser is leaving little undone to win American friendship. It is announced that he is sending to the Harvard and Columbia universities presents of three valuable works, one a fine copy of the works of Frederick the Great in 21 volumes, another a copy of the works of Adolf Menzel, the painter, and the third a copy of the volume on the ornaments of Frederick the Great's arms. The latter is a well-known subject in which Ambassador Tower takes keen interest.

The deceased who was 28 years of age was a daughter of Mr. Geo. W. Powell. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, a young son, Vernon Wentworth, her father and mother, two sisters, Misses Beale and Marison Powell, and two brothers, Roy and Morley Powell.

The late Mrs. Skitch was born in Cobourg, and moved to Peterborough eighteen years ago. She was a member of George street church.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at three o'clock from 231 Dublin street to Little Lake cemetery.

Mr. W. Parnell's Complaint Answered

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—In your issue of a few days ago which contained a report of the City Council meeting, you say that the Parnell Bros., of the Fire Brigade, who recently asked for a raise in pay, as we were making the beds at the Fire Hall, had recently received a raise of $2 per week in wages. Your report went on to say that Mayor McWilliams objected to the raise we asked for, as we had shortly before got a raise of $4 per week. Now, in the first place there are no Parnell Brothers on the brigade but two cousins of that name. This does not materially affect what I complain about but what I do take exception to in your statement that the Parnells recently got a raise of $2 a week. This is incorrect. What we got was $50 a year or a raise, or less than $1 a week. By reporting that we got a raise of $2 a week or $104 a year you very much prejudice our chance for a further raise that we consider is fully justified under the extra work placed upon us.

Yours truly,
W. PARNELL.

In reply to this we might say that Mr. Parnell has misinterpreted our report. What we did say was this: "The Parnell brothers, drivers in the fire hall, asked a dollar a week each for making the beds in the fire hall. The mayor thought these men should have been more reasonable in the face of them having recently received an increase of $2 a week."

What was intended was that the Parnells, whether brothers or cousins, between them got a raise of $4 a week. To use the Mayor's words "The Parnell boys had recently received an increase of practically $2 a week."—City Hall Editor.

Gaynor and Greene Case

Huntsville, Ala., June 23.—On application for Greene and Gaynor, the Savannah contractors, who are under sentence for defrauding the Government, Judge Selby, of the United States Court of Appeals, has granted them leave to enter a motion for a rehearing of the case. The Court of Appeals recently affirmed the sentence of the lower court. The application for rehearing will be formally entered when the Court of Appeals convenes in September.

Leads Gypsy Life

London, June 24.—Touring with a caravan is the method of spending a holiday chosen by Lady Arthur Grosvenor, of Broxton Old Hall, Chester, a relative of the Duke of Westminster.

It is explained that Lady Arthur Grosvenor finds travel by caravan without attracting the attention of the inquisitive and intrusive a very pleasant method of seeing the country.

Her ladyship's traveling equipage includes four horses, four dogs and two bulls, and it is stated that she dresses as a gypsy, with the rose she has adopted.

Part of the holiday will probably be spent at the Dolgelly district.

Lady Arthur Grosvenor was one of the latest subscribers to the Gipsy Lore Society.

She is the daughter of Sir Robert Sheffield, and was married in 1893. Her husband is aged 47, and he is the nephew of the present Duke of Westminster.

Provided For His horse

St. Catharines, June 22.—The late Mr. Thomas Cook, of this city, who died two years ago, was known all over the Niagara Peninsular, and so was his old gray horse, "Whiskers." Knowing the old gentleman's kindness of heart, his numerous friends will not be surprised to learn that the following codicil to his will has been found in the registry office.

"I now desire to make provision for be proper care and maintenance of my gray horse, "Whiskers." Now I direct my trustee to place my said horse—if he be in my possession at my decease—in the care of some humane and capable person to be properly cared for and properly maintained without work for the remainder of the life, and have such veterinary attendance as may be necessary; and I further direct my said trustee to deduct from the annual income of the residue of my estate such sum of money each year as will answer the expense of such care and maintenance and attendance. The instructions were carried out to the letter. Dr. Clark lived and died a bachelor.

For Part of Canal

Ottawa, June 24.—The Department of Railways and Canals has awarded a contract to John Riley of St. Catharines for the construction of the proposed canal from Holland Landing to Newmarket.

KOREA LOSES HER FAMOUS PAGODA

Japan Steals Memorial of the Kingdom's Former Greatness and a National Treasure---Armed Japanese Tear Building to Pieces

Nagasaki, Japan, June 23.—Korea has lost one of its most famous and cherished memorials of a splendid past. Fancy, if you can, the surreptitious removal of General Grant's tomb from the suburbs of the American metropolis, or even the spiriting away of the Washington obelisk from the capital of the Republic. Imagine the inhabitants of London waking some morning to find that during the night Nelson's pillar had disappeared from Trafalgar square. Something parallel to this has occurred in the Korean capital. A prominent Japanese nobleman has succeeded in abstracting from Seoul one of the most ancient and sacred of the nation's treasures—the beautiful white marble pagoda of Pisogduk.

This exquisite example of old Korean architecture was ideally situated in an umbrageous suburb of Seoul, where, for nearly a thousand years, it has stood, admired as the most enduring monument of Korea's ancient splendor. Three centuries ago the famous Japanese warrior Hideyoshi invaded Korea and attempted to carry off the Pisng-duk Pagoda as a trophy of his campaign in the Hermit kingdom; but an allied force of Koreans and Chinese repulsed him, and he was obliged to return to Japan without the prize. From that time this gem of Korean art has not ceased to be an object of Japanese ambition, and now the outcome of the war with Russia has made her overlord of Korea, the treasure has at length fallen into Japanese hands.

The details of the unique incident are interesting. In January last Viscount Tanaka, a minister of the Imperial Household, was despatched by his Imperial Japanese Majesty on a special mission to represent the emperor at the marriage ceremony of the Korean crown prince. While at the court in Spain, the Viscount expressed a desire that the Pisng-duk pagoda should be presented to him to take back as a gift to Japan, but the king of Korea resolutely held out against the proposal, maintaining that as presenting a monument of the nation's former greatness belonged to the whole people of Korea, and could not be thus disposed of. With this refusal the matter rested for the time. It turns out, however, that during the past few weeks the pagoda has disappeared.

Enquiry elicited the information that on February 18 a force of armed Japanese appeared at the pagoda and proceeded to take the building to pieces, the work occupying about eight days. As soon as the structure was razed to the ground the marble blocks were loaded on carts, conveyed to the nearest station, and sent by train southward. The affair remained for some time a mystery, but it is now stated that when the emperor of Korea refused to acquiesce in the proposal to present the Pisng-duk pagoda to Viscount Tanaka, the latter got a Korean official to give a formal permission for the removal of the shrine.

Steel Passenger Cars for the Canadian Pacific

It is announced that the C. P. R. Company will replace their wooden cars with cars of steel. The increase in cost will be about 35 per cent, but the change is likely to be profitable in the long run. The Pennsylvania Railway Company will place 2,000 steel passenger cars on their line.

It is to be hoped that the change will be made as rapidly as possible on all the railways of Canada. It will very materially reduce the risks of railway travelling. There are, of course, head-on collisions of such violence that the most strongly constructed car is no safeguard against them. But there are other cases in which the difference between a strong and a weak car is all-important. Then there is in the wooden car the danger that the passenger may be imprisoned in the debris and burned to death. The steel car, with steel furnishings, would render this impossible.

Great advances have been made in recent years in the construction of fire-proof buildings of steel and concrete, brick, or stone. The amount of combustible material is reduced to a minimum, and there is hardly any danger of the inmates meeting one of the most horrible of deaths. In ships, bridges, and other structural works steel is taking the place of wood. Wood is becoming scarcer and dearer, and this from the above point of view is not altogether to be regretted.

Ether Thru Keyholes a Trick of Burglars

New York, June 24.—The confession yesterday of Chris Schang, a 19-year-old prisoner at the jail in Mineola, L.I., will prove, the police believe, the undoing of the gang of burglars which for months has terrorized the wealthy colonies of Nassau and Suffolk counties.

Under the "third degree" pressure, Schang named his accomplices, suggesting others under arrest, and said that they got loot valued at between $50,000 and $60,000.

About $20,000 worth of powder, including paintings, statuary, silver and bric-a-brac, was recently recovered at a Freeport hotel and the police expect to get the remainder of the missing goods on Schang's information.

According to Schang, the series of burglaries was conducted in a systematic, business-like way with startling success.

In describing the methods employed, he said that when he and his two accomplices entered a house they would invariably squirt ether through the keyholes of the bedrooms in which persons were sleeping, so that the occupants might be affected by the fumes and the robbers would conduct their operations without being disturbed.

After carrying their plunder from a house, he declared, they would bury it in some convenient place and return the next night, dig it up and take it to the hotel.

Canadian Woman Was Too Patriotic

Detroit, June 23.—A matter of patriotism to their respective motherlands stood between William J. and Aoni W. Ruopke, according to the story told on the stand in Judge Donovan's court yesterday. "My wife is a Canadian and I am an American," said the husband. "She said she didn't like this country, wouldn't live here, and under no circumstances would have children on American soil. She declared she was too good a Canadian for that. I replied that I was too good an American to have my children born under the British flag. We quarrelled, and on March 1, 1904, she went to Winnipeg, Man., where I later followed and found her. I offered to give her a good home in this country, but she wouldn't come, so I left her there." The husband was given a decree on the spot for three years' desertion. They were married in Cleveland in 1902.

13 Have Been Drowned up North

New Liskeard, June 24.—The body of John Thompson of Toronto, who was drowned on June 3rd at Temiskaming Falls on the Quintz River, about 15 miles from here, was found last night by Walter Chordie, one of the party the young man was with when he lost his life. The body will be taken to his home at 608 Dovercourt road, Toronto, on this evening's train. The body of Marcus Orr, Thompson's chum, has not been recovered.

The body of Baptiste Odjick, the Indian drowned on Mountain Lake, Montreal River, four weeks ago, was recovered yesterday.

So far this year has been a very bad one for drowning accidents in Temiskaming. The treacherous waters of the Montreal have claimed five victims since navigation opened a month ago, the Abitibi, six men, and the Quintz River two men.

Is Proud of His Job

Windsor, June 23. — Magistrate Hartbert's court was packed when the first of the eight hotelkeepers charged with violating the liquor law were placed on trial.

Stokes and Cameron, the Toronto liquor detectives, swore that they were served with liquor by the bartender of the British American on Sunday, June 2. The case was postponed to permit the bartender to procure witnesses from Ridgetown to prove that he was in that town all day.

When one of the detectives in reply to the question if he was not a government spy on hotelkeepers replied that he was and he was proud of it, a storm of hisses and cries arose in the court room for a moment.

How few realize that twenty-five per cent. of all disease has its origin in some interference with the function of elimination.

The whole body exists by reason of the transfusion of fluids through its component parts.

Up to a certain point the body has power to reject to destructive elements, but this power is limited.

When it happens that the body is loaded with wastes and poisons which it can't eliminate, fermentation, decay, and germ life run riot through the blood.

NO HARD TIMES COMING

It is gratifying to learn from so authoritative a source as the manufacturers of Canada that there is no probability of a decreasing demand for manufactured goods.

The Canadian Manufacturer, the organ of the Manufacturers' Association, recently undertook to ascertain the opinion of the large manufacturers of Canada as to the probability of the present activity in manufacturing continuing. Questions put by the journal mentioned and the answers received will be found in the issue of the Canadian Manufacturer of May 17th:

"Will the present activity in manufacturing in Canada continue? Are the present preparations for increasing business justified? Will the market support the expansion? Will there not be a general collapse sooner or later? These were some of the questions the Manufacturer asked.

"Characteristic of the replies sent to The Canadian Manufacturer in response to an enquiry as to future prospect was confidence in a continuation of the forward movement," says that journal. "The temporary tightness of the money market has weighed on the minds of the Canadian manufacturers. They are busier than ever before, paying higher wages, planning for greater business, and receiving a more ready market for the output of their factories than ever in their history. Some few expressed the wish not to have their opinions published, but in every case they maintained a tone of confidence and saw little reason to fear a cessation of activity. In one or two instances a reaction is expected, but the consensus of opinion seem entirely opposite to the thought."

Replies from East and West are printed and they are almost unanimous in expressing the opinion that there will be no early cessation in manufacturing development.

THE ARCH CRIMINAL

The career of Orchard, or Horsley, if his present story is true, is a very remarkable one, even among notorious criminals. His criminal career is one of the blackest in all history. He told of having committed eighteen horrible and coldblooded murders. The whole horrible tale is told as if it were about some trivial common-place happening. There was no emotion apparent. The witness was at all times in full possession of himself and is so anxious to get the truth out that he will correct the examining lawyer, should his questions seem to lead in the wrong direction.

His versatility, likewise in crime, is a striking feature in the man's career. Murder does not appear to be his exclusive speciality. He confesses to the desertion of his wife and children, to bigamy and to theft and gambling. Nothing seems left from his career to complete his character as an all-round miscreant. Neither does his motive seem to be money, the getting rid of rivals, malice, or in obedience to passion temporarily excited. For none of his victims had ever wronged him. One was killed in order that he would have something to show for the money which had been furnished him, and another was assassinated to produce an effect upon a convention. The history of the man prior to his entering on his career of crime is instructive. Horsley made a profession of religion and joined the Methodist church in the village of Wooler, Ont., where he spent his earlier life. He had not been long in the church, when he withdrew, feeling that he was unworthy of a place as member and he would not play the hypocrite by remaining. He made, how deliberately, or after how many fruitless struggles we can can never know, his choice between the service of God and the devil, and, having made it, he found it impossible to profess the one while following the other. And this seems to be the real explanation of the unemotional character of his demeanor. Through all the frightful amount of crime which he wacked, this one great teardrop virtue of a love of the inflexible and unadorned truth, remained with him; a strong testimony that even in the lowest depths of crime there is always while life lasts, some spark of the Divine, some strand of good, by which, if a man can but see it and take hold of it he may win back his way to a better life.

MUST BE ENFORCED

The ultimate success of the Lemieux Labor Act, says the Monetary Times, depends largely upon its strict enforcement in these early days of its existence. It matters not whether one hundred or one thousand men are affected by it. The Act must be respected and obeyed. There will, perhaps, be some bitter feeling at first. The Government do not desire to interfere between employers and employes. Their object is to prevent the disorganization of any particular industry. The disputes of a handful of the community should not be allowed to unset the business equilibrium of the whole Dominion. Everybody expects, that, after unsuccessful arbitration, fighting must follow. But in these progressive days arbitration should come first always. The trouble at the Texada copper mines has been settled amicably. The Labor Act brought the parties together, and, although they met in a police court, the new legislation was successful.

...will mail you free, to prove its merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoops Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

Rod and Gun for June

Boating and Summner Resorts are the subjects uppermost, just at present, in the minds of all of us, whether we can get away from the city's grind to the supreme delights which these thoughts conjure up before our visions, or have to remain with our noses kept pretty close to the grindstone. In either case there can be no more welcome visitor than the June number of Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor at Woodstock, Ont. The next best thing to taking a trip ourselves is to read the experiences of others and enjoying through them some of the exhilaration to be obtained from boating and summer visiting in Canada. If we are numbered amongst the fortunate ones there is no finer companion than this number of the Magazine, which doubles our enjoyment at the prospect before us, and gives us just the right kind of entertainment whatever may be the nature of the outing. Canoeing, yachting, camping, fishing, shooting, exploring, mountaineering, motoring on land and water, with trap shooting and sporting gossip are all to be found within its pages. A notable contribution is the experience of a young Canadian in East Africa—who shot two lions in one night—a record of which any big game hunter might well be proud. Whatever the leading feature of any particular issue of the Magzine may be, readers are always assured that its main subjects, of which they can never hear too much, are not neglected and they can depend upon finding the various phases of outdoor life within the Dominion given ample treatment in this leading organ of Canadian sport.

Atlanta, Ga., June 22.—A special to the Journal from Jasper, Fla., says W. W. Barton, a carpenter, shot and almost instantly killed his wife, three children and himself, at his home there Wednesday night. One victim, a child five years old, survived long enough to tell that Barton did the killing.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 6,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, re-sold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

Partners of the Tide

...By...
JOSEPH C. LINCOLN,
Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

Bradley's objective point was the postoffice. He wanted to see Hardy and learn the particulars, but Captain Titcomb was there before him. They met at the door. The captain's eyes were shining.

"Come on, Brad!" he said. "I was jest goin' to send for you. I know all about it."

He told the story as they walked to the wharf in the pouring rain. It was as Rogers had said. The great barge, twin sister of the Liberty, was on her way from Boston to New York under tow. The storm had come up unexpectedly, and the hawser had parted. Now she was fast on the Razorback shoal.

"Crimustee!" exclaimed the captain. "Won't she be a job! Brad, Brad, if you and me could only have the chance!"

Alvin Bearse, who boarded nowadays at the house of a relative in Orham, was already on board the Diving Belle when the partners reached her.

"She's hard and fast for sure," muttered Captain Titcomb when they reached the hulk. "Five thousand tons of coal inside of her and this no'theaster drivin' her farther on every minute. I swan to man, Brad, she's there for awhile! No tug—nor three tugs, fur's that goes—can haul her off. 'Member what I said when the Liberty come so near landin' where she is? It's an anchor and cable job, and we can do that as well as anybody and cheaper than the big fellers. If they'll only let us try! By crimustee, they've got to!"

That evening the train brought representatives of three large wrecking companies to Orham. The younger Mr. Cook came also. The partners saw him, but he would give them no satisfaction. "You must come to Boston tomorrow if you want to bid," he said. "But I tell you frankly, price isn't the only thing—we must be satisfied that the job can be carried through." It was evident that he didn't believe they could handle it.

But Bradley and the captain were certain they could handle it if the chance was given them. Seventy men, at least, would be needed, and to house and feed them was the problem. The Boston Salvage company had lighters and barges for this purpose and they had not. But there was the big shanty at the Point, the one in which the picnic had been held. Thirty men had lived and slept there before. By building new bunks and slinging hammocks twice that number at least could find room. The rest must occupy other shanties or come up to Orham at night. The partners schemed and figured until nearly 4 o'clock in the morning.

One of them must go to Boston that day. The captain said Bradley ought to go because Cook knew him, but the junior partner didn't agree.

"You go, Cap'n Ez," he said, with decision. "You're a better bargainer than I am, and it'll take a good talker and a clever trader to land this job in the face of the competition. Go, and good luck be with you!".

So the captain went on the first train. He promised to telegraph as soon as a decision was reached.

But no telegram came that day. All the next forenoon Bradley hung about the station waiting. The noon train arrived; no captain, and still no word. He determined to wait until the evening train arrived, and then, if the captain didn't come, to telegraph. But the first man off the train was Captain Titcomb.

"Didn't get it, hey?" asked Bradley.

"Oh, I got it! Yes, I got it! Now, don't ask any more questions here. Come on down to my room."

He was silent all the way to the Traveler's Rest and, for a man who had just secured the greatest contract of his business life, seemed strangely downcast. When they reached the room he locked the door and threw his overcoat and hat on the sofa.

"Well," he said slowly, "I made Boston all right and stood for Cook & Sons' under full canvas. I hailed the young squirt with the hay on his upper lip and asked him if the old man was in. 'What do you want to see him for?' says he. 'Son,' says I, 'you trot along like a good little boy and tell the old man that the feller that's goin' to git the Freedom off Orham shoal is out here.' That kind of fetched him over with a slat, and he went in and told Cook. In a minute out he comes and pilots me into the skipper's stateroom.

"I cal'late Cook was expectin' to see another feller. 'Are you from the Salvage company?' says he. 'No,' says I, takin' a chair; 'my name's Titcomb. I'm from Orham. My partner's a young feller name of Nickerson. He's the one you picked out to lift the Liberty's anchor that time.' Well, that way of puttin' it made him laugh, and he told me to go ahead and spin my yarn, only be quick. I spun it, but I ain't sartin that I was quick. I never talked so afore in my life, though I've been it once sence. When I hove anchor fin'lly he says, 'Cap'n, there's nothin' the matter with your nerve, is there?' I told him no, I hadn't had to take physic for it. 'Well,' says he, 'I'd like to give you the job, but you ain't big enough. This ain't anchor draggin'.'

"Then I got after him again, told him about the new schooner, drew a diagram of the shoal and made it plain jest how she'd got to be got off if 'twas done at all and that we could do it as well as anybody else in the world and a whole lot cheaper. At last he told me to come in and see him again late that afternoon.

"I was round on time, you bet! The hay lip chap told me the old man had gone for the day, but that he'd left word that 'twas no use our firm didn't big enough for the job. Says I to 'hay lip,' 'Where's the old man live?' He didn't know, bein' a good liar. I asked him in an interested sort of way if he was dead sure where he lived himself and went out to paw over the directory. Inside of an hour I was on an electric car bound for Brookline and Cook's home.

"Pretty soon down comes Cook in a swallertail coat. He looked mad. 'Is it you?' he says. 'Didn't you git my message?' I told him I'd got it, but that 'twouldn't be fair to him to let that end it. Pretty soon young Cook come in, and he listened too.

"Fin'lly the old man says, 'Well, Titcomb, what's your figger?' I told him what you and me had agreed on. He seemed surprised, I thought. Then he and his son went into the next room and talked. When they come back he says, 'Titcomb, you've got the perseverance of the devil or that partner of yours.' Put you in good company, hey, Brad? 'Your price, I don't mind tellin' you,' he goes on, 'is lower than any one else has given. If you were a bigger concern I guess I'd give the job to you. Anyway, you come in and see me tomorrer.'

"Well, this mornin' I was at his office when the doors opened. And there I set until after 2 this afternoon. A feller from the Salvage company come in while I was there, and so did one from the South Boston tug people. They went into Cook's room and come out again. Fin'lly the old man sent for me. He and his son were there together. 'Titcomb,' says he, 'I'm a fool, and I know it, but I'm goin' to let you try to git the Freedom clear.' That wan't all he said. He went on to tell me that in givin' us the job he was riskin' a brand new vessel worth $80,000. 'Mind,' he says, 'I b'lieve you can do it if anybody can, but I won't risk another cent. I won't pay by the day. I'll give you $15,000 when she's off the shoal and towed to Boston, but I won't pay a red until she is. It's got to be a contract job, payment on delivery of the goods.'"

"What do you want to see him for?" says he.

THE NAVEL ORANGE.

Probable Origin of This Delicious Seedless Fruit.

Boys and girls are all fond of oranges, of course, and especially of those that have no seeds, for this particular kind is usually larger, juicier and of a finer flavor than others, says the Chicago News. They may not know how this orange happens to be seedless.

The seedless orange is also called the "navel" orange—not "naval," as some persons believe—for the reason that it usually has a little protuberance on the blossom end, the end opposite to the stem. In other words, it has a navel. How the species originated is not definitely known, but it was probably an accident. Nature tried to produce twin oranges perhaps, but one of the twins survived merely as a sort of kernel imbedded in the skin.

It is strange that a distinct species should spring from such an accident, but nature does stranger things than that. This orange with the little protuberance was noticed, of course, and examination showed that the seeds had not been developed. It was quite evident that the formation of the protuberance, or "navel," as it soon came to be called, had prevented the formation of the seeds by using up the nutriment that the seeds would save required. Cultivators at once caught the idea and gave their special attention to the production of the seedless fruit.

It is believed that the navel orange originated in Brazil, and it was from that country that our agricultural department imported some of the trees several years ago and budded them on trees at Riverside, Cal. The experiment was in every way successful.

Trick With a Cent.

Open the hand naturally and place the cent on the palm and then ask some one to brush it out with a whisk broom. After repeated efforts it probably will be suspected that the cent is fastened in your hand in some way. In order to prove that it is not let the sweeper place it on his own palm, and he will find it remains as immovable there as before. A few persons have flat palms. The cent may easily be swept off such palms, but they are not common.

Conundrums.

When are soldiers stronger than elephants? When they carry a fortress.

Why is a trolley car safe in a thunderstorm? Because it has a conductor.

Why have you a right to pick an artist's pockets? Because he has pictures (picked yours).

Why should 288 never be mentioned by polite boys and girls? Because it is too (two) gross.

Arctic Advantages.

"It's bedtime, dear," they always say
Just when I'm at my nicest play.
And then I wish for arctic climes,
Where day is six months long at times.

But when the breakfast bell I hear
My bed does seem so snug and dear,
I yawn and long with all my might
For six good months of arctic night.
—Mary Catherine Callan in St. Nicholas.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

100,000 Shares of Treasury Stock for Sale at

10 CENTS PER SHARE

This company was incorporated February 9th, A.D. 1907, under the laws of Arizona.

Capital stock 1,000,000 shares, full paid, non-assessable, par value $1, treasury stock 400,000 shares. Other stock pooled.

Officers and Directors

President ..... EDWARD T. PATRICK, Mine Owner and President of the Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Vice-President ..... JUDGE CHAS. L. HAYES, Mine Owner and Leading Attorney of Goldfield, Nevada.

Secretary and Treasurer ..... ADAMS F. BROWN, Corporation and Mining Lawyer and Member of Listing Committee Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Depository ..... JOHN S. COOK & CO. Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claim (80 acres) of some of the best proved mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accelsaint and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Blood and Daisy Mines near the Zeon group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which was outcropping equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

Wonderful Animals

The Forepaugh-Sells Circus has a Great Many

The mammoth proboscidian monsters, said to be the two most costly elephants in the world, will be with the Forepaugh-Sells menagerie, Tuesday. They are of the giant mastodon species, huge tusked, with enormous umbrella ears, rivalling in immensity of weight and in appearance the curious pictured mammoth of past ages.

One of the interesting sights incident to the unloading of a circus train is the performance of the two mammoths in getting out of their car.

The other elephants in this remarkable herd of 25 rare species of Asiatic and African origin in vacating their travelling compartments, walk down a heavy gang-plank that inclines from the car door to the ground. The car doors are ten feet high, which, of course, makes the big elephants stoop to get through as they step out upon the descending plank. The two mammoths are so tall and so wide, however, that they cannot get out of the car door until the gang-plank is taken away. They, therefore, calmly wai tuntil all of their travelling mates have "Walked the Plank," and are rouped together awaiting the comin of their leaders. Then it is that the two monsters get in motion, and prove that they know a thing or two about the solution of mathematical problems. They drop to their knees, and wriggling their great bodies forward, slowly manage to get their front feet out and upon the ground.

The floor of the car is about five feet above the tiles of the roadway, but this does not keep them from reaching the solid foundation of the earth without mishap or trying delay. Once their fore feet are on the ground they draw their bodies forward, allowing their hind legs to drag along the car floor. In this way they are soon able to get one hind foot out and then the rest is easy. They act as if they took more or less pride in this feat, and as soon as it is achieved, they begin to trumpet and wave their trunks with an energy that bespeaks deep seated satisfaction. The waiting group of elephants greet this signal of their leaders with an effective display of their own and begin to amble in a circle with the hurried gate that makes their ring performance both astonishing and pleasing.

Boating on Charlotte Street

On Saturday afternoon a very unusual scene was in evidence on Charlotte street, between the Snowden House and the G.T.R. crossing at Bethune street. The heavy downfall of water during the thunderstorm had created a miniature river to run on Charlotte street. A young man took a canoe from English's corner factory and actually paddled as far as Aylmer street. At that time there must have been between five and six inches of water rushing along the side of the pavement.

Diamonds are More Numerous

Washington, June 23.—Consul Frank D. Hill, in a report on diamond mining from Amsterdam, estimates that the 1906 production from South Africa will be 1,500,000 carats greater than the production according to the last available returns, which were for 1905. These show about 7,000,000 carats as the total South African production annually. If Mr Hill's figures are correct the output of diamonds from South Africa will increase next year about 60 per cent. Diamond mine owners are disturbed over as to what the largely increased output that is expected will force down the price.

Throw Parcels Into the Water

Gananoque, Ont., June 24.—The Methodist excursion to Ogdensburg, N.Y., yesterday went well until the return trip, when just before reaching Gananoque all on board were surprised when a lady and gentleman of the customs department asked for their parcels. The ladies on board were in a panic, and some threw their parcels overboard.

This morning the customs house is crowded with ladies making their entries. The collection of parcels on board is a new departure and is being done to prevent parcels being concealed just prior to the landing. All parcels collected were of little value, being mostly souvenirs. The ladies all declare they intended to pay duty.

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Fifty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can do which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots [illegible] Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone root, Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Cherrybark are extracted [illegible] by the use of chemically pure, [illegible] refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for [illegible] which quotes extracts from [illegible] leading medical authorities such [illegible] King, Scudder, Coe [illegible] and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia, as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, through them, the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist don't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

REV. DR. CROTHERS A GUEST OF HONOR

Presentation to Departing Pastor of George Street Church, Made in Council Chamber

Last night about hundred citizens gathered in the City Council Chamber to do honor, and make a presentation to Rev. Dr. Crothers, pastor of the George street Methodist church who has been moved to an important church in St. Catharines.

Mayor McWilliams, dressed in full uniform as an officer of the 57th Regiment, very ably filled the chair. His worship in a few pithy and well chosen remarks introduced the subject matter of the meeting and called upon Mr. J. H. Burnham, to whose influence and energy the proceedings and presentation of the evening were mainly due.

Mr. Burnham briefly but in no undesirable terms testified to the high opinion in which Dr. Crothers was held in public estimation throughout every class and creed of the city. He then handed the doctor a purse of gold containing some 25 English sovereigns.

The reverend recipient of such honor, not represented by the amount given him but by the large representation present from every class and creed, made an impassioned speech. He said that never in his experience had he been treated better by the people than in Peterborough. Among the Peterborough people he had many warm friends among the members of the sister churches. To demonstrate this, with a sweeping gesture, Dr. Crothers said, "Truth has a Wide field." He could not see why religious or political subjects should make any difference in the work of a pastor. He recalled the words of the Hon. Jas. Bryce that "Such tenanimity should exist, the tone in Canada should be and is high, whether we are Methodists, Anglicans, Presbyterians or Roman Catholics, that the right idea should be preserved. He hoped that wherever he may go that good may follow his efforts. He again thanked those present, especially the clergy of other denominations.

Mayor McWilliams then called upon Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's church. This popular clergyman, then began in a joking spirit to say that his remarks must be short as he had a sore leg. The rev. gentleman then went on to pay a high tribute to Rev. Dr. Crothers, for whom, "I have a great love, and I know that the friendship is not going to end." His congregation has had Dr. Crothers at his church, and Dr. Crothers carries their most sincere respects with him.

Mr. Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., then paid a warm-hearted token of respect to the departing clergyman.

Dr. Morrison then as president of the Board of Trade expressed his regret that Dr. Crothers was to leave the city.

Rev. Canon Davidson, Rector of St. John's church next paid a high tribute to the guest of the evening. He was glad to see that religion was being practically shown on broader lines here than elsewheres in Canada. The country has been too much split into too many religious bodies, and last night's celebration will have a tendency to end this. He then paid Mr. J. H. Burnham a high compliment for this good work done in connection with the evening's proceedings.

Lieut.-Col. Miller then made an excellent and eloquent address, consistent with the occasion.

Here Mr. Burnham jokingly remarked that perhaps too many Conservatives had spoken and called upon Mr. Gordon of O'Connell & Gordon, an active Liberal and a member of Dr. Crother's church to make a few remarks.

Mr. Gordon in a few well chosen, and (for a lawyer) diffident words, paid a strong tribute to the good work done by the departing pastor.

Mr. A. W. Cressman paid a high compliment to Dr. Crothers.

Mr. A. E. Dixon as a member of the church, said the church had never had a more faithful worker or a more popular pastor than Dr. Crothers.

Rev. M. Major, pastor of All Saints' Church said Dr. Crothers had received one of the best testimonies of appreciation of the services he had rendered at George street church by all denominations here tonight. Conversation he had had with Dr. Crothers had stiffened his Rev. Mr. Major's back bone.

The chairman here asked any of the ladies present to speak but they were seemingly bashful.

Mr. Williamson of the Y.M.C.A., spoke very highly of the good work Dr. Crothers had done among the young men of the city.

Mayor McWilliams then as representing the citizens expressed a wish that Dr. Crothers future may be bright. In his private capacity he paid a high tribute to the doctor's splendid qualities. He was pleased to see so many representatives of the Anglican clergy, too often called "exclusive" present.

Among those who subscribed to the presentation were the following:

Messrs. M. A. Morrison, C. Fessenden, S. R. Armstrong, J. H. Burnham, V. Eastwood, A. E. Dickson, W. H. Hall, W. Medill, E. A. Lanufeldt, Wrights' Bros, F. Milson, R. P. Lindsay, Rich. Holt, Robt. Neil, J. T. I. Baldwin, John Nugent, G. E. Elliott, Dawson Kennedy, G. H. Williamson, J. C. Davidson, Jas. Kendry, E. F. Mason, J. W. Miller, F. W. Doan, F. H. Dobbin, F. S. Schneider, R. M. Waddell, W. Hartley, A. W. Cressman, W. E. Conway, Robt. Mann, Geo. Ruth, Geo. Baird, R. J. Graham, H. C. Rogers, T. J. Wright, E. B. Clegg, W. Wight, Thos. Barrie, Geo. Burnham, R. S. Kingan, H. LeBrun, Ed. Green, H. R. H. Kenner, J. Crane, D. Buchee-Charles, A. A. Hollingshead, B. P. Kennedy, H. C. Stabler, W. Higgins, B. F. Ackerman, F. Brownscombe, A. Parker, W. F. Morrow, J. S. Kinnman, Jos. Middleton, J. Pentland, G. N. Gordon, A. Meeks, J. C. Sheeks, R. P. West, A. Agnew, G. W. Hutton and many others.

Refused by a Duke

London, June 24.—The Duke de Pieneuf has at last been awarded $1,250 by the courts for slander and libel by Lady Rose Horton Clarke. The action was begun in the high courts, but the lady did not appear, and the case was finally remitted for the assessment of damages.

Counsel stated that the duke became acquainted with Lady Clarke some time ago at Prince's skating rink. She claimed to be a distant relative of his, and the friendship developed until it became disagreeable, owing to the fact that her ladyship, a woman of 60, and a strong-minded person as well, proposed to the duke, who was a young man of 26 years of age.

The duke did not quite see his way to accept such a proposal and a feeling of coolness sprang up between them. Then it was alleged Lady Clarke made slanderous statements about the duke and sent several offensive post cards. The duke demanded an apology and this being refused he instituted proceedings.

To duke in his evidence described the growth of the friendship and Lady Clarke's proposal.

"What did you say?" inquired counsel.

I smiled and told her that I was already engaged, and that I thought she was a little bit too old," the duke replied.

"Was she very indignant?"

"She was—very."

Russian Newspapers Fined for Commenting

St. Petersburg, June 23.—The government's repressive campaign the Liberal press, to prevent hostile criticism of the dissolution of parliament and the new electoral law, continues vigorously.

Despatches from many cities report that newspapers have been fined from $500 up, the limit being $3000.

The radical papers have been suppressed entirely, and their editors in several instances have fled.

The fines inflicted at Moscow yesterday amounted to $7200. Such representative organs as the Russkaya Viedomosti and the Russkoe Slovo were fined without exparation.

In Isolated Eminence

Berlin, June 24.—One of the most amusing and suggestive comments in the German press on the alleged rivalry between Great Britain and Germany is the following passage taken from the "Rhenish-Westphalian Gazette," a leading German journal of aggressively patriotic views:

"Two players are sitting opposite to one another engaged in a stubborn contest on the European chessboard. One of them (Edward VII.) is a cool, calculating and quiet player while the other (William II.) is young, full of vivacity, the reverse of calculating, rich in ideas and fantastic imagination.

"There is no longer any doubt which of these players will gain the victory so long as the chessboard is confined to diplomacy. William II. is already checkmated.

"None of all these princes and kings whom he visited in the earlier years of his reign and whose friendship he gained have remained true to him except the aged Emperor of Austria, Francis Joseph and the proprietor of the greatest gambling hell in the world (the reigning prince of Monaco). All the others have quitted their seats at the German emperor's banqueting table, some noisily and others poliecisely, because so to speak the political cruisine offered them in Berlin is no longer suited to their tastes.

"All the marks of friendship, all the words of praise, all the presents, all the orders and the decorations which the German emperor has dealt out so lavish to foreigners, and even his own passionate prayers have been fruitless and William II. now remains in isolated eminence."

Mr John Bain, formerly foreman of the Auburn Woollen Mills' spinning department has, previous to leaving his old position, been presented with a valuable gold locket by his fellow employes. The following address, in part, accompanied the presentation;

To Mr. J. M. Bain,
Auburn Woollen Mills,
Peterborough, Ont.,

Dear Mr. Bain,—It is with feelings of deep regret that your friends of the Auburn Woollen Mills have assembled here to say good-bye. We should deem ourselves ungrateful were we to allow the opportunity to pass without expressing our heartfelt appreciation of your kindness and good work.

You have been a model to us all, ever so cheerful and willing to assist us, at all times genial and self-denying, conscientious and honorable in all your dealings. We envy those among whom your future lot will be cast, still, our heartiest good wishes will ever attend you.

We ask your acceptance of this slight token of our regard in the spirit in which it is offered, as a tribute to your merits and an expression of our sincerity and gratitude.

Signed on behalf of your co-workers.

Mr. Connors noted that he has been in correspondence with some of the leading horsemen of the Dominion, several of whom have already declared their intention of being here with their horses and drivers in August next.

Terrible Accident by Dynamite

Father Dies at Lindsay and Two Boys Injured

A Lindsay despatch says that James Rettie is dead and his three sons badly injured owing to the premature explosion of dynamite at Burnt River. The eldest, Lorne, a lad of about 14 years of age is in the Lindsay Hospital. The other two sons are slightly injured.

It seems that Mr. Rettie, aided by his three young sons was excavating the foundation for a new barn on his farm at Burnt River. Dynamite was employed to hasten the work. A charge was set, and the elder son, Lorne, was hanging the charge in place with a crowbar. It is thought the charge was ignited by the steel bar coming into sharp contact with the dynamite. The charge exploded, and Mr. Rettie, who was standing close by, had one eye gouged out and his face frightfully mangled; one arm was torn off at the elbow and he was otherwise injured. Lorne sustained injuries on the head.

The father was carried into the house, and Dr. Gould of Fenelon Falls called. Yesterday morning the sufferer was brought to Lindsay on the Haliburton train, but died just as the train was coming down Victoria avenue. The body was taken back to Burnt River on the 11.20 train.

The son was taken to the Ross Memorial Hospital, and is badly injured, his skull being fractured.

Mr. A. Rettie, brother of the victim of the explosion, accompanied the injured man to town. No one saw the accident occur.

FRANCE FEARED TO REFUSE JAPAN

Had Given Every Provocation for its Seizure

INDO-CHINA INSURANCE

Joined With Russia and Germany in Robbing Island Empire of Fruits of Victory Over China

Paris, June 24.—While political considerations of a high order contributed to the negotiation of the new Franco-Japanese entente, there is no longer any doubt that the substantial quid pro quo by France was the promise of access to the French market for future Japanese loans. Japan did not need a French guarantee for Korea and Formosa, but a Japanese guarantee for Indo-China was worth a great deal to France, and she was willing to pay the price demanded.

Japan, according to the confidential statements made by some of the highest representatives in Europe, will need something like $1,000,000,000 within the next few years to convert her present high rate loans, and to furnish the capital necessary for industrial and commercial development planned in Manchuria and London.

While the money markets of the world are at present unfavorable to flotations, Japan has succeeded in insuring the assent of the French government to the placing of her loans when the opportunity arrives.

INDO-CHINA IN DANGER.

It is regarded as a big achievement for Japan, but the French government is equally convinced that it is a good bargain for France. M. Pichon, the present minister for foreign affairs, had a long experience in the Far East as minister at Peking, and none appreciated more than he how impossible it would be for France to defend Indo-China against an adversary as Japan. Besides, as a matter of fact, the dread of Japanese aggression in Indo-China has haunted the Quai d'Orsay for years.

France has given Japan provocation in the past. She was a party with Russia and Germany to the tripartite agreement which forced Japan to relinquish the fruits of her victory over China obtained in the treaty of Shimonoseki, and there has always existed a fear that Japan would some day take her revenge. Indeed, there are in the archives of the Quai d'Orsay proofs that at one time a plan of campaign against the French colony of Indo-China had been prepared at Tokio. Subsequent events, however, decided Japan to strike Russia instead of France.

There was a critical moment during the Fashoda incident when France and England seemed on the verge of war. France was then greatly alarmed lest Japan would seize the opportunity and strikes and hurried preparations were made to defend the Chinese colony.

SHELTERED RUSSIAN FLEET.

There was another crisis in the relations between France and Japan during the Russo-Japanese war, when France stretched her neutrality to the limit in favor of her ally by allowing Rojestvensky's fleet shelter for weeks in Cameron Bay. So keenly did the French government at that time feel that it may have just given cause for reprisal.

After peace was made by the treaty of Portsmouth, and Japan entered the market for 500,000,000 yen loan, M. Rouvier, then minister of finance, deliberately braved the dissatisfaction of Russia by insisting upon the admission of part of the loan to the Paris bourse.

To those who complained that it would constitute an affront to France's ally he replied substantially:

"We must think of France first. It is cheap insurance for Indo-China."

M. Pichon was possessed of the same idea when M. Kurino, the Japanese ambassador, approached him last winter relative to the latest Japanese 500,000,000 franc issue. He wanted to know if Japan was prepared to give a written promise guaranteeing Indo-China. M. Kurino replied that Japan had absolutely no aggressive intentions, and offered to consult his government. That conversation was the germ of the negotiations which resulted in convention just consummated.

Next Monday's Great Game

Next Monday it is expected that a record crowd will be present at Riverside Park, when the Beavertons will clash against the locals. The Peterborough bunch have been praising faithfully all last week, and are now in good shape. With another hard week's work they will be in a condition to show the good material in them. Beaverton has succeeded in rounding up a fast team, as their 6—2 defeat of Newmarket last week indicates, and they expect to take Peterborough's scalp on the holiday.

Great Crowd at Jackson Park

Last night the street cars to Jackson Park were comfortably filled by people going out to that popular resort to view the moving pictures which were put on for the first time this season. The band was in attendance and a most complete satisfactory car service given, both to and from the park. This is really the best and safest outing spot in the city at present as the lights at Victoria Park are seemingly never lighted now, both Saturday and Sunday night the latter park was in darkness. This will have a decided tendency to impel people particularly ladies and children to patronize Jackson Park.

How Hod Stuart Lost His Life

Well Known Hockey Player Broke His Neck During a Dive

In our issue of yesterday we conveyed the sad intelligence that "Hod" Stuart the famous hockey player had been drowned at Belleville. We might say further, at the time of this lamentable accident that Mr. Stuart lost his life at Belleville whilst taking a dive near the Grand Junction docks.

"Hod" had on his suit and set out for a swim to the lighthouse, about a quarter of a mile away, while his companions waited for him.

He reached the lighthouse and climbed up on the platform which is about five feet above the water. There he rested and was then seen to dive into the water. The watchers waited for him to come up, but waited in vain.

After a few minutes they rowed to the lighthouse, where the body of poor "Hod" was found, lying on the bottom in two feet of water. He had dived head first on a lot of jagged rocks. There was a terrible gash in his head, and his neck was broken. The body was taken to the Bathbun dock, and Coroner Yeomans was notified.

222,000 Logs in Transit to Lakefield

Mr. Thomas Delaire, the well known lumber foreman, arrived in the city yesterday from Burleigh Falls. He is with the Cavendish Lumber Company. Mr. Delaire noted that seven drives of logs of his Company are now stretched out from Ketchecum Lake to Youngs Point. The various drives include some 620,000 logs that will eventually be brought to the Company's mill at Lakefield to be cut into lumber. Mr. Delaire yesterday, in conversation with a Times representative noted that the cut of this year surpasses that of many seasons. He expects that the first of these drives will reach Lakefield on Wednesday or Thursday of this week. Mr. Delaire claims that during his long experience in the lumbering business, the Cavendish Company is the best, as judged by his mens' stated opinions, he has ever worked for.

Particulars of the Sergt. Fee Case

Gunner Cooper Was Placed Under Arrest—Fee Will Lose an Eye

Further particulars have been received in the matter concerning the terrible fracas in which Sergt. Fee lost an eye, as reported a few days in The Times. It seems that Gunner Cooper of the 24th Field Battery was set upon by several men at the camp canteen, and one of his eyes was nearly gouged out. The trouble, as we have noted before, began on the trip. Cooper who was somewhat "under the weather" was told by Sergt.-Maj. Fee to behave himself. However he put a fist through the window and knocked glass into Fee's eyes. Cooper was placed under arrest and Fee sent to Toronto, where it is said he will lose the sight of one eye at least.

Lawn Bowlers Once More Busy

The lawn bowling green is once more in good shape for the season and many of our leading professional and business men spend the evening hours there daily, not to mention a few hours, in certain cases stolen surreptitiously during daylight hours. The schedule for tonight is as follows:

Dr. Greer vs. J. E. A. Fitzgerald.
W. Atcheson vs. Dr. Marshall.
T. E. Pratt vs. W. Talbot.
W. O'Brien vs. W. Lang.

The bowlers should get into practice at once, as the executive will announce the draw for the Frost Cup at an early date.

Monaghan Cows Milked by Snakes

Farmer From Near Rice Lake Tells Strange but Seemingly True Story

A leading farmer of South Monaghan township, who lives near the north shore of Rice Lake, in conversation with The Times yesterday, said with emphatic expletives to corroborate his remarks that whilst passing through a pasture field on his farm, near Rice Lake, he came upon two huge blacksnakes milking a cow. He killed the reptiles. They measured five feet eight inches in length, and their similarity led him to believe they were members of the same brood. A neighbor of his had noticed that one of his cows had gone practically dry, as he thought, but since the killing of the snakes she has been producing her wonted supply of milk.

Troy N. Y. Printer Related Here

Mr. Geo Wilkes in Peterboro on Business Trip at the Queen's Hotel

Mr. Geo. Wilkes, representing Messrs. Henry Stowell & Son of Troy, N.Y., was in the city yesterday and gave The Times a call. Mr. Wilkes is well known here, not only through business relations with some of our most prominent firms, but of relationship with two well known local citizens and their families. Mr. Wilkes is a brother-in-law of both Mr. M. C. Tooley, proprietor of the Queen's House, and Mr. J. Brooks the local capitalist. During his visit as a guest at the Queen's Hotel, Mr. Wilkes was seen by several local citizens and expressed the opinion that Peterborough has a great and prosperous future ahead of her. He was quite astounded at the progress, both industrially and commercially, that Peterborough has made since his last visit. It might be noted that Mr. Wilkes is a leading official of the Stowell & Son huge printing concern at Troy, N.Y.

UNWRITTEN LAW TO PLAY A PART

Sensational Trial of Former Judge Loving Commences in Houston---His Daughter Ill-used

Houston, Va., June 25.—The trial of Former Judge W. G. Loving of Nelson County, for the murder of Theodore Estes, son of Sheriff M. K. Estes, of Nelson County, began in the Circuit Court here yesterday.

Judge Berkshire presided. The trial promises to eclipse in interest and sensation the McCue and the Strather-Bywaters cases in Culpepper. It will again put to test the "Unwritten law."

Judge Loving, armed with a double-barrelled shot gun, instantly killed young Estes, while he was unloading a car of fertilizer on Oak Ridge on April 22. The shooting was the sequel to the buggy ride taken on the evening prior to the homicide, by young Estes with Miss Elizabeth Loving, the 19-year-old daughter of Judge Loving. The girl when brought home had been drinking, and it is alleged that her escort had maltreated her. Acting under the impulse that his daughter had been drugged and assaulted, Judge Loving immediately went in search of Estes. After the shooting he said;

"I shot to kill. Every drop of blood in my body cried for vengeance. I would have gone a hundred miles to kill him."

Backed by the millions of Thomas F. Ryan, of whose Virginia estate he had been overseer for a number of years, and with powerful political influence, every device known to the legal fraternity will be utilized in the effort of the counsel for the defence to acquit Judge Loving.

The plea of the defence will be emotional insanity and the "unwritten law." The relatives of young Estes, whose family connections extend to the governor of this State, will exert every effort to clear the memory of the dead man from any stain of wrong doing.

Miss Loving, who has lived in seclusion since the tragedy, appeared in public yesterday for the first time. She showed no signs of her experience. Two special coaches from Lynchburg, one reserved by the defense and the other by the prosecution, brought 110 witnesses and two corps of lawyers here last night. A venire of sixty has been summoned.

Fallon Was Discharged

Local Man Tried for Burglary is Dismissed on Evidence Given by His Relatives

The trial of Michael Fallon, charged with the attempted burglary of Dr. Nimmo's house, Harvey street, two Fridays ago, was resumed yesterday afternoon before his Honor Judge Weller. The first witness heard was a brother-in-law of the prisoner, one Fred McCormick, who swore he was at the prisoner's residence the evening of the burglary. Fallon was lying asleep in an intoxicated condition, with clothes and boots on, until midnight (or about the time the alleged burglary was perpetrated). To Mr. Ward, witness could not tell where prisoner was on the several days before, the night of the trouble. He did not know where prisoner was from midnight until six o'clock a.m., the early hours of the day of the burglary.

The prisoner then went into the box and said he was "between drunk and sick," the night of the burglary. He had been at the Cordage Company picnic down the river hence his condition. He told P. C. Newhall the day of his arrest, that he got home that night at 9 p.m., but his head was hardly right then. He was never in the Nimmo residence.

To Mr. Ward, he only holds a stove about every two months. He had been drunk for three days before date of the burglary. The night of the burglary he was so drunk he could not remember whether he slept that night with his feet over the head board of the bed or not.

To Mr. O'Connell, who then produced two overcoats, prisoner identified his overcoat which was somewhat lighter than the one The police put on Fallon at the time of his supposed identification. He swore that he had never worn a checkie stiff hat, as said by Miss Nimmo concerning the burglar.

His honor then said that he would like to have the police catch the man who did that and other thefts. Fallon was not however on trial for being drunk. Fallon ought to be more than ashamed of the manner in which he had been "beastly drunk." Fallon had made a beast of himself spending his money on drink instead of taking it home to his mother. This however, is not what he is on grief for. Miss Nimmo is quite a clever young woman and gave splendid evidence believing it to be true. Still, however, she did not get a good square look at the burglar. She only got a good look at the burglar's side face. The police brought Fallon to be identified, so as to give him a chance before picking him up. Fallon seems to have somewhat answered the description of the burglar. It was a very fair and decent action of the police. Fallon went without demur to the Nimmos house on request of the police. The fact of Fallon, during the identification process, being dressed in a stiff hat and overcoat, as previously described by Miss Nimmo, would have an effect on Miss Nimmo's mind. The fact of Mrs. Nimmo saying she could identify the prisoner's foot steps did not carry much weight with him. He would not like to convict a man on such testimony. "Such evidence beats Sherlock Holmes all to bits." The fact of paint being found on the walls of the Nimmos house, does not alone convict the prisoner as lots of other painters might leave paint about, and painters work in all kinds of houses. If the prisoner's relations' evidence is true, the prisoner's mother and sister prove an alibi during the hours of the burglary. Whoever the burglar was he did not amount to much. No matter how bad the prisoner is, and he had no sympathy for him, the evidence leaves a doubt in his mind as to prisoner's connection with the burglary. He then discharged the prisoner, who went with Jailer Nesbitt to his recent temporary quarters "on the hill," and got his belongings. Mr. Fallon then went down town cleared of a serious charge.

During the judge's charge, Judge Weller told Fallon, "Had my counsel relatives established an alibi, and had the case of the prosecution been a little stronger, I would have sent you to the penitentiary and not for a short term at that!"

What Does It Mean?

Dr. Hamilton Gives a Full and Satisfactory Explanation.

Look at your tongue!

Sometimes it's heavily coated sometimes it's clear and red.

Study this out and you'll find some interference with the functional activity of the body.

This means the bowels are not regular, the liver is sluggish and the blood is contaminated.

Strong cathartic pills act so destructively on the intestines as to provoke deadly sickness; this often frightens people from taking medicine when they badly need it.

To the multitude of dangerous purgatives now on the market, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a notable exception, they neither gripe, cause sickly feeling or headache, yet they cleanse and purify the entire system in one night. No other laxative acts with such mildness and certainty. Giving proper stimulus to the liver and kidneys, strengthening the stomach and lending valuable aid to digestion, it's small wonder that such marvelous results accompany Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Geo. O'Hagerty, of Amherst, N. S., writes: "Last winter I worked in a lumber camp and neglected my health. I was dreadfully constipated and had a headache that fairly made me reel at times. I was sick and miserable, and hadn't the slightest ambition to work or stir around. I felt heavy and dull and had a bad taste in my mouth. I sent into the city for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I knew were good for any condition. They fixed me up very quickly and have kept me in good condition ever since. There are other men in the camp that use Dr. Hamilton's Pills also. They say they wouldn't be without the pills for ten times their price."

Every dealer in the land sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills—25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 24, 1907.

THE UNITED STATES TARIFF

Among the subjects likely to engage public attention in the United States during the coming Presidential electoral campaign, that dealing with a revision of the tariff will be one. It is noticeable that the trend of political discussion in that country shows that a movement in the direction of revision is going on. It is possible that during the next session of Congress, or in a special session to be called immediately afterwards for that purpose, the matter may be dealt with. But the pressure of other business, such as the discussion of the proposals for legislation, in regard to railways and trusts, may postpone any action by Congress in regard to tariff revision, and so leave it an issue in the electoral campaign. It is unquestionable, however, that tariff revision occupies a more important place in the public mind than it has done at any time during the last ten years and some action on the subject seems to be almost certain to be taken before long. The revision of the United States tariff is a matter of very considerable interest to Canada. Although, happily, we are now far removed from the industrial dependence on the Republic that the Dominion occupied in the past, any important changes in the American tariff could not fail to have certain effects on some of the most important branches of Canadian industry, and the course of events on the other side of the boundry in connection with the matter will, therefore, be followed with interest in the Dominion.

It is probable, as we have said, that if tariff revision is not dealt with by Congress in the meantime, it will be an important factor in the electoral campaign next year. Secretary Taft, at present the most prominent of the probable candidates for the first place on the Republican ticket, is a most active advocate for revision, and is so persistent in expressing his views that his opponents are seeking to discredit his candidature by declaring that he is a Free Trader. It remains to be seen whether the Republican Party will nominate a man pledged to revision and so make that policy the leading feature in its programme, or consider it safer to select a candidate free from any such obligation. A radical revision of the tariff in the direction of one for revenue only, would, of course, be a complete change of front on the part of the eRpublicans. Such a step might be regarded as likely to alienate the support of the large body of manufacturers which, in the past, has been a bulwark of the party. Even if it should be that this great interest realizes that revision must come before long, and the ti is better that the matters should be dealt with by its political friends rather than by its opponents, ..hat still to be ascertained whether ..body of the electors is prepar- ..., and a very radical ... which, as the result of more than one Presidential election has clearly shown, they believe that the country as a whole has reached a pitch of prosperity that would otherwise have been unattainable. Doubtless the leaders of the Republican Party will take measures to gauge the strength of public opinion on the subject before they place the destines of the party in jeopardy by nominating a candidate pledged to tariff revision, however eminent may be his personal and other qualifications.

Intimately bound up with this question of tariff revision is the other question of the imperialistic policy that has been an important feature in American general politics during the past decade. So far the progress of colonial expansion, whether in the shape of direct annexation or oversea territory, or under the guise of protectorates, has not been a great success. There are not wanting American publicists who declare it has been a failure and urge the abandonment, by some means or other, of the possessions that were secured in the war with Spain. Cuba has been a heavy burden, and it is yet uncertain whether the United States will be able to get rid of its responsibilities connected with that island, or will not have to assume its formal ownership. The Philippines have certainly been a disappointment to their new owners, and while they have closed the door for trade there to other rivals, they have failed under their present fiscal policy to give much benefit to their own commerce. The necessity for larger markets for the ever-growing productions of their industries is a problem now pressing for solution and intimately involved with fiscal reform and the world politics necessarily associated with overse apossessions.

CIRCUS DAY IS HERE

Capacity Attendence Will Probably Greet Forepaugh-Sells Bros.' Shows Today.

The opening of the circus season is announced for today. The Adam Forepaugh-Sells Brothers' will give two exhibitions. Many novelties and features in plenty are announced in preliminary information. Much stress is laid upon the magnitude of the spectacle which forms an important part of the performance. This is described as a realistic production of a great city conflagration entitled "Fighting the Flames," enlisting the services of one thousand actors. Miles of scenery will be required in arranging the street scenes, and there will be real fire engines, hook and ladder apparatus, hose carts, life saving machinery, hair breadth escapes and heroic deeds of bravery. The sensational feature will be Mlle. Laroque's death daring automobile somersault.

Among the arenic artists are the Davenport family of equestrian celebrities; Oscar Lowanda, sensational bareback rider; Spessardy's troupe of trained bears; the flying Fishers; the fearless Lavans; the Navarros troupe of high wire experts; the Cornalia family in a novel acrobatic speciality; Captain Webb's two companies of trained seals and sea lions; Edward Shipp's school of beautiful manage horses.

Of riders there will be a score or more. They are said to be the champions of all countries and of all schools of equestrianism.

First class aerial performances possess the most thrilling interest for everybody, and in this branch of arenic art the Forepaugh-Sells Shows are preeminently strong. They represent an unparalleled number of the greatest and most venturesome and original male and female mid-air trapeze, horizontal bar, floating rings, invisible wire and funambulistic experts in the most startling flights, dives, evolutions, catches and combinations.

The menagerie of the combined shows is said to be made up of the largest and rarest collection of wild beasts ever exhibited under canvas. The two score elephants embrace the Adam Forepaugh performing elephants and the equally well trained troupes from the Sells shows. Merriment for the little ones will be furnished by clowns without number, who will be busy throughout the entire performance. There will be many other attractions to bewilder and delight.

Three enormous tents are necessary for the accommodation of the five hundred horses with the Forepaugh-Sells circus. The stable occupied by the heavy Percheron and Clydesdale draft horses is a model of equine neatness, while the Arabian thoroughbreds and the ring stock occupy luxurious quarters in separate tents. After all, the great attraction of the circus is the horse. To give a circus without horses would be like giving an opera without music. It is the life and animation of the horse, together with the beauty and intelligence of the animal, that lends as much charm and pleasure to the exploits of the sawdust ring, as the grace and dash of the rider. The Forepaugh-Sells shows under the present management, are said to surpass all previous efforts in the circus world. An interesting feature of the day will be the free street parade which will leave the show grounds at ten o'clock this morning.

Dr. Guy Denies He Murdered His Wife

New York, June 23.—Taking the witness stand in his own defence in the Flushing, L.I., court, Dr. Samuel S. Guy, a former Queen's County coroner, charged with the killing of his wife by shooting at their home in Rockaway, stoutly denied that he was responsible for his wife's death. Dr. Guy broke down and wept.

Dr. Guy said that the day of the tragedy he had had several drinks, but denied that he had any trouble with his wife. During the afternoon he said, he inspected the rear of the house with a carpenter relative to some repairs, when he observed a policeman coming out of the house. He spoke sharply to the policeman for persisting in his attention to a domestic in the house. He entered the house, and, after telling the domestic that she must not have the policeman visit her, went with his wife into the dining room. He denied that his wife threw him down or stepped on him. Dr. Guy said he fell asleep in his office and the next thing he remembered was awakening suddenly and feeling very dizzy.

"I got up and left the house," continued Dr. Guy, "and as I was crossing the lawn, Policeman Nussbaum came up behind me and said something had happened. I went back to the kitchen door and saw the body of my wife lying on the floor."

Weak Women

Be weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical Mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada

LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use of for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

Bradley's face fell. "Of course that settled it," he said. "You couldn't accept such an idiotic offer as that."

Captain Ezra took his cigar from his mouth. "Well, Brad," he answered soberly, "that's what I did; I accepted it."

"Now, Cap'n Ez, look here! You and I have put almost our last copper into the new schooner. We've got practically no ready money. We must hire from seventy to a hundred men at $3 a day and pay them every week. We must feed 'em. We must spend money fitting up the shanty to lodge 'em in. It'll take, maybe, a month before we get her clear—if we do clear her. We may have to spend five or six thousand before then. Where's the money coming from?"

"I know all that. We'll mortgage the Diving Belle and raise the cash."

"Are you out of your head? We've been lucky so far and haven't had a failure. But failures are bound to come. Suppose we work on this barge for a month and then a heavy gale strikes."

"But, Brad, think of what it means to us if we make good."

"Cap'n Ez, we got that job because nobody else would take it that way. We can do it if anybody can, but nobody else would be fool enough to gamble against the Lord Almighty's weather. We'd be called fools from here to Provincetown."

The captain drew a long breath. "All right," he said gloomily. "Maybe you're right, Brad. It is a crazy gamble, I s'pose, and I was afraid you'd see it that way. Only you must make up your mind to this—if we give up this chance we must settle back and be nothin' but anchor draggers the rest of our lives. We've flunked once, and, no matter how good the reason is, no more big jobs 'll come our way. But if we make good—whew!"

Now it was Bradley's turn to hesitate. There was some sense in what his partner said, but it was playing against odds and with the last dollar on the table.

Suddenly Bradley spoke. "Oh, hang it, what's the odds?" he exclaimed recklessly. "Go ahead, cap'n! I'll sink or swim with you!"

Captain Ezra grasped his hand. "I swore you would," he cried. "Son, this job's goin' to make us!"

Bradley's laugh was short and rather bitter.

"Yes," he said, "make—or break."

CHAPTER XVI.

IT was close to daybreak when the partners separated. They had planned and figured and estimated, and each now knew what his part in the great fight was to be. As he was leaving Bradley asked the captain how, in his opinion, Obed Nickerson had learned that they had the contract.

"Phoned the Salvage company," replied Captain Ezra decidedly. "I'll bet on it. You see, Brad, this job's a big one, and the salvage folks might have figured there was sugar enough in it to drop a lump in friend Obed's tea-cup providin' he stirred up their spoon. Well, good night, or good mornin', rather. It's double or quits with us this time, son, for sartin, but if Titcomb & Nickerson do go under it'll be with colors flyin'."

Within the week Setuckit Point, from a lonely, gull haunted sand pit, inhabited only by the life saving crew and the lighthouse keeper and his family, became a small town, the population of which left each morning for the Razorback shoal and returned at night to eat and sleep in the big shanty and those surrounding it.

Captain Titcomb saw the people at the Wellmouth bank and placed a mortgage on the Diving Belle. As the partners owned her free and clear, he was able to get her cost price, $5,000.

Placards announcing that men were wanted at once and at $3 a day and board were hung in the postoffices and railway stations in Orham, South Orham, West Harniss, Harniss Center, Wellmouth and other towns; also an advertisement appeared in the Item. The response was immediate. Work at good wages was scarce in the winter months, and men came from twenty miles away to obtain it.

The Diving Belle carried them down to the Point. There, under Barney Small's supervision, some set to work building extra bunks in the big shanty, slinging hammocks, putting up stoves—the partners bought five secondhand ranges—and making three neighboring abandoned fishing huts inhabitable. The rest worked over the stranded coal barge, getting out the anchors, stripping her of all unnecessary ironwork and rigging and preparing to bring the coal from her hold and dump it overboard.

Seventy men were hired altogether, and to feed them it was necessary to buy large quantities of provisions. Captain Titcomb managed this part of the business, and the bargains he made with Caleb Weeks and other storekeepers were wonderful and in some cases not too profitable for the sellers. As Mr. Weeks said: "Ez Titcomb spent ha'f the forenoon with me today, and afore he got through talkin' he'd tangled me up so with figgers that I don't know whether I sold him salt at a cent a pound or cornmeal at a dollar a barrel. I'll have to put in the rest of the day cal'latin' and addin' up, so's to know whether I've made money or lost it."

Soon the work on the Freedom was in full swing, and the great bull hummed like a beehive. Men were standing by the hatches and by the derricks. Men were working by the rail transferring ropes and tramwork to the Diving Belle. Down in the hold gangs of men with faces sooty black except where the sweat streaked them with pallid channels were shoveling the coal into the big iron buckets that the creaking derricks lifted and swung over the side. The donkey engines puffed and whistled, the chains rattled, and ton after ton of good hard coal roared from the opening buckets and splashed into the tumbling waves of the channel.

The captain and Bradley, together for a moment, stood in the bows, where the heavy cable led, taut and rigid, from the windlass out to the submerged anchors. The Freedom had moved slightly in the last few days, and the partners were encouraged.

"By crimus, Brad," exclaimed Captain Titcomb, pointing, with a grin on his grimy face, to the stout little Diving Belle just then shooting off to the Point with a load of strippings from the Freedom, "that's the little critter that has made it possible for us to handle this job. I don't know what we'd 'a' done if we hadn't had her. See her go, will you? Flies round like a flea in a fryin' pan, don't she? You never put your money into anything better for the size than her, and don't you let that fact slip your mem'ry."

The new schooner had proved her worth twice over. Equipped, as she was, with the engine, she performed the part of a steam launch, a tug and a ferryboat. She had carried out and dropped the anchors in the channel; she took her owners and a few of the hands to and from Orham every night and morning; she was always ready and always useful. In fact, as the captain said, they could scarcely have handled the job without her.

Bradley, dirty and bareheaded, looked at the little vessel.

"I shan't feel easy until we pay off that mortgage," he said. "And, another thing, you mustn't forget to see Obed and close that insurance deal. It worries me to think she is not protected at all."

Weak-Minded, He Is Very Cunning

Kingston, June 23.—Charlebrun, the Sault Ste. Marie murderer, has again created a sensation at the Penitentiary by attempting to escape for a third time within a year. He was caught just in the nick of time. It will be remembered that Charlebrun last June made a most sensational escape. One morning his cell was discovered empty. A dummy was found in his bed, and the guard had passed his cell throughout the night without suspicion. The murderer had got through his cell window and let himself down into the yards and then reached the outer walls. Several days later he was caught near Mallorytown, wandering about hungry and footsore.

Some time later Charlebrun caused another scare at the penitentiary. Once more his cell was discovered empty, and the prison guards were called to the hunt. Eventually the missing convict was found up the chimney, by which he made his way out of the cell and into a place where masons had been working. The Sault murderer, who is of somewhat weak mind, but keen in some ways, was then put into one of the safest cells in the prison on the ground floor, but even there he was not safe without constant watching. He was missed from his cell a few days ago, and again excitement was caused. Finally, he was discovered in a warehouse into which he had made his way, after cutting through the wall of his cell.

The resources of Charlebrun are remarkable. He is quite expert in cutting his way out and in using improvised tools. Where he gets the tools with which to work is a mystery to the prison authorities. He has been kept in solitary confinement on account of his ambition and inclinations and yet he gets the necessary tools.

Situation Grows Serious

St. Petersburg, June 23.—A special dispatch from Teheran, Persia, says the situation in the northern part of Azerbaijan province is becoming serious. The Iliadi chief, Mortug Khuli Khan, assisted by Kurds, is waging war on the population and destroying villages. Constant fighting is occurring in Miaku, 132 miles from Labriz. Two companies of Persian troops, with six field guns, are being despatched to Maku from Labriz.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

This company owns 4 claim (80 acres) of some of the best proved mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the consolidated and about two and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Jumpy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

Robt. Jewell for Asylum Today

Today Robert Jewell of Smith township will be taken to Toronto Asylum in charge of High County Constable Cochrane. Jewell, who, as noted in The Times a few days ago, was pronounced deranged in mind by the two doctors who examined him last week, has been considered to be a person not safe to be at large.

Lock up During Circus Day

Chief Rousel has asked the press of the city to call the attention of the citizens to the fact that there will likely be a number of thieves with the circus today, and that householders should not leave leave their houses unlocked. There is usually a suspicious crowd following every circus, and this will probably be no exception to the rule.

A Good Time for Rube

Great Cesar! How Reuben B.A. Country will have to dig down to his Sunday go to meeting not to go out without a dime to buy pink lemonade and peanuts for his best girl today. We will wager a great big five cent bag of peanuts that Reuben will however have the time of his life and get roped in for matrimony for keeps before reaching the farm.

Stony Lake Granite for New Church

The granite for the new Roman Catholic church, tenders for the erection of which are now being called, will be quarried at Stony Lake, probably from a quarry near the near the head of Stony Lake, owned by J. Brodie, who had undertaken to supply the stone for the new building, and at the present time has a staff of men at work quarrying it. Over 1700 square yards of rock will be required for this building.

Rube Will Take it In

This is the day that Rube of Asphodel brings Samantha Jane some 30 miles to see the elephant and on the return trip deavers himself of many criticisms regarding the circus, as well as many glasses of pink lemonade, mixed, unbeknown to S. J. with various brands marked X X X and G. & W., Nevertheless the course of true love must run true, and by the time next year's circus comes Rube and Samantha will doubtless be on the city with more cute on their hands. Still at that age no extra admission will be charged and pink lemonade will still be "5 a glass, 5 a glass cold and sparkling only 5 a glass. Buy for your girl your wife or your babies," and Rube will buy.

Charming Muskoka

The Grand Trunk Railway System, the pioneer line to Muskoka, will continue to give its patrons the best of service and "Muskoka Wharf" will remain the principal gateway, being the headquarters of the Muskoka fleet of steamers.

The beautiful scenic trips from Toronto skirting along the shores of Lake Simcoe and Couchiching and around Kempfeldt Bay, crossing the narrows at Orillia and Atherley Junction and the Severn River make the route the only way to go.

Muskoka Wharf has been widened 20 feet and lengthened 100 feet, enabling four steamers to dock alongside the Grand Trunk expresses. The trip up Lake Muskoka to Beaumaris, Little Pittsburg, among the Islands and beautiful summer homes can be seen no other way. Therefore, it is not unlikely the Grand Trunk will not be able to retain the patronage of its old customers.

Full information may be obtained from W. BUNTON, Town Agent, F. SANDY, Depot Agent, or write J. D. McDONALD, Union Depot, Toronto, Ont.

The Engineering Magazine

The leading article in the Engineering Magazine for July is a remarkable and forceful argument for the open shop by James W. Van Cleave, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. He defines the attitude of his Association towards the labor question in one of the broadest and farthest-reaching platforms ever put forth for the rallying of a new industrial campaign. In view of the utter misunderstanding showed by some of the press and much of the public when the plans for this campaign were first announced, Mr. Van Cleave's article will attract attention proportionate to its importance. The paper immediately following is an illustrated review of the great economies of practice introduced into Continental iron and steel making by the use of huge engines driven by the waste gases of the blast furnace, and by the use of electric power. The timeliness of this study is apparent from the large order just given by the U. S. Steel Corporation for the introduction of this same machinery into the American plants under their control. Other illustrated contributions are those by Demetrius C. Boulger, on the Railways of the Upper Congo, giving a new idea of Belgium's enterprise; by R. E. Mathot, on the Design of Modern Gas Producers; and by W. D. Ennis, on economy in the boiler room. C. U. Carpenter continues his widely read series on Profit Making in Shop and Factory Management. H. von Schon concludes his papers on the Hydro-Electric Plant; and W. F. Cleveland attacks the old theory of heat losses in the steam engine with vigor and refreshing interest. The number carries the usual full Review of the Engineering Press, and the Engineering Index.

Gets Trout for Ball

Lock Haven, Pa., June 23. — The feat of John Myers of this city excels anything reported heretofore in the fish line. The fishermen in Cherry Run, Sugar Valley, becoming weary of hauling out the speckled beauties, proposed a game of baseball, which was played along the banks. Myers was playing first base. A ball thrown high passed over his head and fell into the stream. Myers rushed to the bank and made a dive into the water for the ball. When he again came to the surface his companions saw him holding in one hand the missing ball and in the other a four-pound brook trout. As the ball struck the water the trout mistook it for a minnow or some other food and rushed for it just as Myers reached the ball, so with one hand he grabbed the sphere and with the other the trout.

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nervine. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeons' knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended.

A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take as candy.

Mr. Joe Millburn on Grasshoppers

Yesterday morning Mr. Joseph Millburn of the township of Smith, whilst conversing with several other farmers of the county at the market weigh scales noted that for the first time in his long experience he had found the new born crop of grasshoppers. Whilst passing through a meadow on Monday he happened to notice that the grass roots everywhere, seemed to exude a king of white effusium or as he called it "spit." This caught his attention. He examined closely and discovered that whenever this white spit came from a grass root there was a miniature grasshopper "alive and kicking." Mr. Millburn was unable to explain the connection between this effusium and the young grasshopper. It was suggested by several farmers present that either the mother grasshopper laid an egg within a grass stalk and that as the egg developed and hatched and ate its way out to the air, the juices of the grass got out. Others thought the young hopper was hatched from an egg laid in the ground last fall and on the young insect coming to its present complete existence, the hopper bit on the tender roots, thus letting out the sap of the plant. It is now up toone of our local entomologists to explain this matter.

YESTERDAY'S CIRCUS THE BEST EVER HERE

Both Procession, Menagerie and Performance Exceeded All Former Displays Given Here

Yesterday was circus day and the farmers and towns people turned out in thousands to see the street parade of Forepaugh and Sells Bros.' big circus.

Men, women and children from all parts of the city came downtown and thronged the route of the parade long before the gaily decked horses and the glittering wagons came along. The delay was caused by the last train only getting to Peterborough at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The small boy was perched everywhere. Girls in shops and factories stopped work and ran to windows to look down on the gay procession, and business was almost suspended for an hour or two in the downtown district.

IN THE PROCESSION.

A group of tournament knights led the parade, a body of trumpeters and heralds followed, then the band, chariots, and a number of green, red, and gold wagons, from which came weird voices of the desert and jungle. Two smart looking tandem teams followed splendidly managed by appropriately gowned women. More animal wagons, followed by a group of equestrianes and equestriennes, some astride, and others in the regulation side-saddle, the riders being garbed in the costumes of the court of France during the reign of Louis XIV. Then came the three herds of 20 odd elephants and a drove of camels. A float containing a gathering of pretty girls in various attractive gowns followed the camels. A number of open cages, showing behind the open bars a fine collection of lions, tigers, polar bears, and other wild animals, proved an interesting and instructive feature of the parade. Another feature was the complete metropolitan fire department, including four steam fire engines, hook and ladder trucks, hose carts, a volunteer hand engine, life-saving tower and ambulance.

NOTES AMONG THE CROWD.

Twelve fine horses drew the first wagon in the parade.

As usual, the elephants were the favorites with the small folk.

The "Fighting the Flames" brigade made a hit with their natty red uniforms.

There were 13 elephants in the parade and the camels were 13 in number.

The clown band had heaps of fun with the girls in the windows of shops and offices. These clowns are flirts—and as for the girls—enough said.

The shrill notes of the calliope could be heard all along its route, and its favorite selection was the latest ditty, "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie, Bye-and-bye."

Forepaugh and Sells Bros. carry a minstrel band of real negroes, and those darkies can make a heap of noise, too.

A company of fifteen women riding side saddles on big white horses, and dressed in yellow uniforms, attracted much attention.

THE CIRCUS.

Not for many years this city has not had a circus that compared in extent or excellence with that of the Forepaugh's & Sells combination. The menagerie is as good as ever seen in any travelling aggregation under canvas. To describe the animals would take more space than we have to spare. Suffice to say that the thousands who yesterday surrounded the cages had a better lesson in natural history than a library of books would describe.

To give a description of the various acts performed in the four or five rings in the main tent would be quicker conveyed, and probably more accurately in one of the official programs. Without making invidious distinctions between the merits of the various performers, we might say that all who appeared were artists in their particular line.

The only act that seemed to meet with comparatively little applause, as compared with the prominence given in the advance advertising, was the "Fire" scene. This was a too potent fake from beginning to end. No one, of course would expect to see a burning hotel under canvas. Still the whole scene from the exhibition of the fire engines in street parade and the fire ladders also, was hollow, too hollow for appreciation and in our humble opinion should be cut out as a leading feature.

Ald. Elliott Fully Explains Provisions of Garbage By-law

Maintains That the Only Fair and Equitable Means of Paying for the Service is by an Assessment of 7-10 Mills on the Dollar

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—Before further action is taken on the garbage bylaw, I think the general public should be thoroughly informed regarding the two propositions that were submitted to council by committee who had the bylaw incharge for raising the necessary funds to carry out the system. I believe every citizen of Peterborough wishes to see the city kept in a cleanly and sanitary condition, at the smallest cost possible. The idea of the committee was to remove the garbage, ashes, and in fact, refuse of all kinds, from the premises of the citizens once a week (private houses and business places oftener), regularly and systematically, not to cost the ratepayer any more than he is paying at present, with our once a year cleaning up process. We found, by communicating with other places, who have a system, what this would cost our city with a population of 15,000. The next thing was to find how many private houses, business houses, hotels, factories, and in fact every kind of a place that required the services of a scavenger, then try to levy a rate that we thought would be equitable to all parties.

The first proposition was to charge each householder 15 cents per month for once a week service, which is $1.80 per year to everybody. Business places or other places requiring services two or three times per week were charged in the same proportion per visit. These fees will raise the amount necessary to carry out the system successfully, but is it equitable to all?

The other proposition is to place 7-10 of a mill on the assessment, which works out this way: For instance, there are hundreds of small houses in Peterborough whose assessed value is from $500 to $1,000. Now, a house valued at $500, assessed in this way for this purpose would cost 35 cents per year. A house at $700 would cost 49 cents; a house at $1,000 costs 70 cents; a house at $1,500 would cost $1.05; $2,000 house cost $1.40, and so on all the way up. I submit, Mr. Editor, that it would not be just and equitable that these hundreds of small houses should be charged the same price for services of scavengers as the scores of handsome residences whose assessed value is from $3,000 to $5,000, and who burn from 12 to 20 tons of coal each year.

These fine residences would be taxed from $2.00 to $1.50 per year for this purpose, and it is certainly worth it. This pain will raise the necessary funds to carry out the system, and I may also add the Sanitary Inspector is included in both these propositions as part of the expenses connected therewith. As far as I am concerned, and I believe the majority of the council hold the same opinion, the only proper course is to submit the bylaw to the people for their approval or otherwise. Also an expression of opinion which of these systems of payment is more desirable.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

I remain,

GEO. E. ELLIOTT.

Seven Persons Crushed to Death

New York, June 26.—Seven persons, six of them members of one Italian family, were killed yesterday as the collapse of a ramshackle tenement in the downtown Italian quarter. There were some exciting scenes following the accident, one of which was the rescue of an old man from a two-foot edge forty feet from the ground, this portion of the fallen building having adhered to the adjoining wall long enough for the firemen to reach him before it collapsed.

THE DEAD.

The dead are: Tony Torchino, 17 years old; Maine Torchino, 21, Lillo Torchino, 9, Fred Torchino, 10, Susie Torchino, 13; Edward Torchino 27; and Susano Beline, 40 years old, a lodger.

Tomasso and Amelia Torchino, father and mother of the unfortunate family, and another son, George, 19, are suffering from serious wounds and concussions.

The collapsed building was a four story affair, built over fifty years ago. George Blumenthal, the contractor who had charge of recent repairs and shoring up of the building, was arrested, charged with homicide.

ROUSED JUST IN TIME.

Two boys happened to reach home shortly before two o'clock yesterday morning, and warned by the severe shaking and creaking of the house ran through the building and warned the sleeping tenants.

Battalion Chief Galvin and Ladderman Samet were badly hurt by the collapse of a wall while other firemen were cut and bruised but continued at work.

Charming Muskoka

The Grand Trunk Railway System, the pioneer line to Muskoka, will continue to give its patrons the best of service and "Muskoka Wharf" will remain the principal gateway, being the headquarters of the Muskoka fleet of steamers.

The beautiful scenic trips from Toronto skirting along the shores of Lake Simcoe and Couchiching and around Kempfeldt Bay, crossing the narrows at Orillia and Atherley Junction and the Severn River make the route the only way to go.

Muskoka Wharf has been widened 30 feet and lengthened 100 feet, enabling four steamers to dock alongside the Grand Trunk expresses. The trip up Lake Muskoka to Beaumaris, Little Pittsburg, among the islands and beautiful summer homes can be seen no other way. Therefore, it is not unlikely the Grand Trunk will not be able to retain the patronage of its old customers.

Full information may be obtained from W. HUNTON, Town Agent, F. SANDY, Depot Agent, or write J. D. McDONALD, Union Depot, Toronto, Ont.

A Douro Wedding of Local Interest

Miss Nora Condon is Now Mrs. Daniel Delaney

Yesterday there was celebrated at the Douro township church, of which Rev. Father Kelly, formerly of Ennismore, is the revered and respected parish priest, the marriage of Miss Nora Condon, daughter of Jas. Condon of Douro township, to Mr. Daniel Delaney of the same township. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. After the wedding, the bridal couple and friends drove to the home of the bride's father where a wedding dinner was partaken of.

The happy young couple will reside in Douro.

New Machine to be Tested Today

An interesting machine for cutting and making connections with water mains, without the necessity of shutting off the water will be tried by the water commissioners this morning at eight o'clock, at the corner of George and Brock streets.

The machine is made by the A. P. Smith Manufacturing Company of Newark, N.J., and will be purchased by the commissioners if satisfactory.

It will cut the 12-inch pipe on George street, tap it and allow of an eight inch pipe being connected without the water being shut off the main pipe. A new four way hydrant will be placed at the corner of George and Brock streets, and the eight inch pipe, which will tap the 12 inch main will connect with the new hydrant.

Japan is Not Hunting Trouble

Washington, D. C., June 24.— Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador, broke today the silence which he has observed heretofore in discussing American-Japanese relations.

"There is no situation," he said, "between Japan and the United States. The best of relations exist, and there is no thing of a diplomatic character under consideration. It is distressing that there should be agitation over trifles which are purely of local import, if of any import at all.

"I do not credit the story of my recall. The progressives have not a majority in the national legislature. I do not know what their strength really is, but I think it is not great.

BLAMES EXCITABLE PERSONS.

"It is bad," he continued, "that a few excitable persons should cause the impression to go out that Japan is aflame with indignation over alleged, perhaps imaginary insults. Of course, the government could stop such talk, but to do so might seem to give more importance to it, than would be justified. Some of our people are sensitive, and also impulsive.

"It is a mistake to imagine that Japan is anxious for trouble. We want no trouble. We have a population of 50,000,000 and your country has, perhaps, more than 80,000,000, with much more wealth than Japan. The conquests we seek are those of peace. We have entered on a constructive era.

"As far as the status of my countrymen in the United States is concerned, it is possible that they are not well understood, but I see no reason why, when they become used to the ways of the country, they could not assimilate with the people here."

FAVORS INTERMARRIAGE IN AMERICA.

"Would you advocate their intermarriage and naturalization?" he was asked.

"Yes," replied Viscount Aoki, "I think it proper, if they individually see fit, to marry here. I would leave it to them. As for naturalization, Japanese become subjects of other countries, and Europeans in many cases have become subjects of Japan.

"I have seen it stated in the press that they would not be likely to renounce their allegiance to their own country, but that idea is exaggerated. The Japanese are not so patriotic."

The ambassador declared that it was a fallacy to suppose that any country could ever dominate the Pacific. "It is too big," he declared, "and there are too many countries bordering on it. It is idle to suppose that Japan can ever hope to control such vast commerce as even Asiatic countries will furnish."

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

At yesterday's session of the police court Vincent Cubran, Percy Lynch, Harry McNearn, Arthur Black, Harry Baker, Fred Dunett and Ed. Cane were charged with having unlawfully walked along the G. T. R. tracks. They all pleaded guilty. It seems that the offence was committed in Jackson Park. A G. T. R. conductor said that the railway had been bothered by boys throwing stones at the cars. In fact a brakeman was nearly knocked off a car by a stone and the road wants this practice stopped. One of the boys at 9 p.m. tried to catch on to a moving car, which is dangerous. There was no evidence that these boys threw stones. The boys explained that fully 3,000 people Sunday night walked along the track. The magistrate remarked that whilst thousands of people walked on the tracks a complaint had been laid, and the Dominion Government law protects the railway's right of way. He fined them $1 each to be paid in tendays. The boys asked his Worship: "How about the other people that walked on the track?" Other names besides ours were taken that night." The magistrate replied: "You mind your own business and keep the law yourselves and you will have enough to do."

RUSSIANS IN THE KLONDIKE

Worked Northern Mines About a Century Ago

THEY WERE FORGOTTEN

Bodies of Convicts Found in Newly Opened Creeks. Manacles and Tools to be Exhibited

Seattle, June 25.—While the world is still wondering, after forty centuries, how such vast riches as the gold and diamond mines of Solomon and Hiram, King of Tyre, could become lost to the world, it forgets that in the great gold fields of Alaska there is a similar instance, confined entirely within the bounds of the nineteenth century.

There is ample evidence that the Klondike gold fields were discovered by Russians in the early 30's, last century, and worked by political slaves to a considerable extent before being aandoned and forgotten. And it is now recalled apropos of the new branch of the Alaska Central Railway up the Yenana—recently described by Dr. F. A. Cook, the first mountaineer to ascend Mount McKinley, who took that route to the mountain—that in 1837 the Russians explored that district thoroughly, and mined thousands of dollars worth of gold on the Anauk, Tuvern in the Steward peninsula. In fact, the instruments which they used, and the chains with which the convicts were hobbled while they worked, will be a portion of the Russian occupation exhibit of Alaska at the great Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, which will be held at Seattle in 1909.

Besides the industrial, agricultural, and mineral exhibits at the exposition, much space will be devoted to displays dealing with the early history of Alaska and Yukon.

DRAMATIC DISCOVERY.

The discovery in the Klondike was made in a dramatic way. A short distance above Discovery Claim, on Hunter Creek—chief tributary of the Klondike—a number of miners were working a "lay." That is, the ground belonged to someone else, and they worked it, agreeing to pay all expenses and to turn over a certain percentage of the gross output of the mine (usually 15 per cent) to the owner of the ground.

When the ground was opened a couple of feet, the miners came across traces of an old tunnel. At first they paid little attention, as in the early days of the country, in 1857 and 1899, all kinds of tunnels were dug and then abandoned by a certain class of inexperienced new-comers, who expected to find gold in millions for a few days' labor. But as the miners went deeper, they saw that this tunnel could not be the work of miners digging at so recent a period. The timbers that shored the walls were old and rotted, the tunnel looked as if it had not been worked for a century.

EVIDENCE OF A TRAGEDY.

At the end there were evidences of a tragedy. The bones of a couple of men were found past a cave-in, which had evidently imprisoned them beyond all rescue, and on their legs there still clung the heavy manacles with which Russia in the old days hobbled her political prisoners. The men had died miserably because of the cave-in, and for some reason, never to be known, were not rescued. The irons on their legs had apparently hindered their movements, for the situation would not have been desperate to a modern miner, possessing full freedom of movement. Beside them were their century-old picks, heavy, blunt, and inefficient instruments. The remains were respectfully buried, and the instruments and leg-irons were saved, and will be a portion of the Russian exhibit in the Alaska building of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

In 1837 a Russian dog mail on its way from the interior to Sitka, discovered traces of gold on the Anauk. An old grading post on the Konkokwim, the ruins of which are still to be seen, were the headquarters of Russian trade in that district. The Anauk River was known then as the Yellow River, and so appears today on the Russian maps. For years this discovery was worked, but the Russians, never good prospectors at best, abandoned gold mining as soon as the deposits in the immediate vicinity of the original discovery were worked out.

Why the rich Hunter was abandoned will forever remain a mystery. It has been claimed that all along the Russian government had records of the vast gold deposits in the neighborhood of the Klondike, and had that portion of the country been Russian, and not British, the United States would never have had the opportunity to purchase Alaska. But that must remain a speculation, as Russian Bureaucracy never gives up its secrets. One thing alone is certain, that the gold deposits of bth Yukoon and Alaska were worked half a century before Skookum Jim made his famous discovery on the afternoon of August 16, 1896, and opened up a new frontier kingdom for the troopers of the Lost Legion to conquer.

A Stock That Will Advance

Messrs. Durst-Kehoe Have a Promising Proposition

The Goldfield Mining District is too well known to our readers to require much comment. It is sufficient to note that more quick fortunes have been, and are still, dug out of the Goldfield District than in any territory of corresponding area in the world. Messrs Durst and Kehoe, the well known fiscal agents of Goldfield, Nev., are now offering stock in the Goldfield Red Hills Mining and Leasing Co. at 10 cents per share; this price, however, is only for a limited time. The Goldfield Red Hills Mining and Leasing Co. was organized expressly for developing a block of leased land in the Red Hills group. The lease covers 600 feet by 415 feet. This property is on the strike of the famous Florence Mohawk vein. The first allotment of 100,000 shares of treasury stock was eagerly bought up mess than a week. Not only that but it was over-subscribed by some 50,000 shares. The shaft is now down about 150 feet and well timbered. At 100 feet assays of the ore ran as high as $200 per ton. For stock or particulars address Durst and Kehoe, Fiscal Agents, 424 Columbia street, Goldfields, Nev., U. S., P. O. Box 1,006.

The incident is said to have aroused some comment at Belgrade.

Port Hope Barber Loses His Bet

Jas. Reynolds Only Gets Past Newcastle on His Return Trip

Whilst not wagering one cent upon the result of Mr. James Reynolds's bet that he would walk from the Queen's Hotel, Port Hope, to the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, and back, we regret to say that this plucky sport and pedestrian has lost his wager. It seems that at the village of Newcastle, some few miles from Port Hope, where Reynolds was to finish by three o'clock yesterday afternoon, he gradually grew weaker. When a mile out of the village and about fourteen from the end of his journey, the veteran pedestrian fell on the road from sheer exhaustion.

Sir Sanford Fleming is in the City

Sir Sanford Fleming and Mr. Chas. Fleming of Ottawa, were guests at the National Hotel last night. They arrived on the 4.48 C.P.R. train. Sir Sanford Fleming's good work done for the Dominion Government and for Canada is too well known to require comment. All we have to say is that Peterborough is glad to have this distinguished gentleman here again.

Provincial Cop Arrests Three Dips

Mr. George Brolly, Provincial high constable, with headquarters at Brampton, was in the city yesterday looking after the arrests and respectability of the Forepaugh-Sells circus yesterday. His vigilance here was rewarded by the arrest of three pickpockets whom his practised eye, and long experience spotted at their nefarious work. Particulars as to this arrest are in another column.

Five Rows of Teeth

New York, June 26.—Israel Metz, of No. 276 Monroe street, twelve years old, has five rows of teeth. Three rows are on the lower jaw, and two in the upper jaw. There are one or two teeth missing in each row. His mother said yesterday the teeth appeared when the boy was five years old, soon after he lost his milk teeth. They are now of normal size.

It takes the boy three hours to eat a meal, according to his parents, as he constantly bites his tongue unless he eats very slowly. He has never been taken to a dentist or a physician.

"We have to get 'Izzy' up every morning three hours before breakfast," said the mother, "so that he can finish his meal in time to go to school. When I first discovered my son's extra teeth I pulled them out. But as fast as I did it they would grow again. 'Izzy' hasn't been well for the last three years, and I won't let a dentist or doctor examine his teeth, as he is a delicate boy."

The boy has about sixty teeth; the case is said to be rare. He has what are known as supernumerary teeth. Five of such teeth are sufficiently rare to attract attention of medical men, and a case like this boy's has never been recorded, it is said.

DASH FOR POLE WILL SOON BEGIN

Wellman Preparing for Perilous Journey---To Start After July 20---In Meantime Balloon Will be Thoroughly Tested

Christiana, June 25.—The greatest interest is being taken throughout Norway in the airship experiments of Walter Wellman, the American who is contemplating an air ship dash to the North pole, a la Jules Verne. According to the present plans of Mr. Wellman during the first week of July there will be trials of the air ship until it is demonstrated that the latter is ready for the voyage.

The start for the pole will be made on the first favorable opportunity afterwards, probably between July 20 and August 10, but if necessary Mr. Wellman is prepared to start as late as august 30. The members of the expedition are; Mr. Walter Wellman, Major Hearsey, executive officer and scientific observer, who has been sent over by the United States government; Chief Engineer Vanneman, Dr. Fowler, surgeon, and M. Gaston Hervieu, the aeronautical engineer and the only Frenchman on the staff.

About thirty men constitute the total expeditionary force, though, of course, some of these are sailors and mechanics and have nothing to do with the expedition besides aiding in handling the balloon, car, gear, etc., at Tromso and at Spitzbergen.

WELLMAN'S PLANS.

Discussing his plans the American explorer said:

"There was no question of last years expedition having been a failure. An enormous amount of work had to be done at Spitzbergen, work which was found to be too much for one short Arctic summer.

"This year on arriving at Spitzbergen there is little work to be done in the matter of the erecting of buildings. We have constructed an entirely new airship with which we hope to accomplish the end we have in view, namely an aerial journey from Spitzbergen to the Pole and back.

"One of the most important changes we have effected has been the enlargement of the balloon of the airship. This has been made eighteen feet longer and its lifting power increased by 9,000 pounds giving a total lifting force of 19,000 pounds. The balloon is 184 feet long and fifty-two feet in its greatest diameter, its cubic volume being 265,000 feet. With the single exception of Count Zeppelin's airship this is the largest ever built.

"The next important change in our last year's equipment is that we have built an entirely new car and mechanical equipment, all of that used having been discarded. The car consists of a framework of steel tubing 115 feet long, ten feet high and eight feet broad. This is suspended close under the balloon at such distance that those standing on the top of the car can easily reach the balloon.

"The keel or backbone of the airship consists of a steel tank eighteen inches in diameter and 115 feet in length, with a capacity for holding 1,200 gallons of petrol. The top of this tank will be really the deck of our ship. By this disposition we make the weight of the tank, which is about 1,000 pounds, do double duty, for it is not only a safe reservoir for our petrol, but at the same time gives rigidity to the structure of the ship. This tank is divided into fourteen compartments, to prevent the danger of explosion, and the petrol can be pumped from any section of this tank, so as to trim the ship.

AIRSHIP HAS RUDDER.

"The car is inclosed with tightly stretched silk, the two sides forming a vertical plane and the wide roof a horizontal plane, all constructed for giving stability to the ship in the air. At the stern of the vessel is a rudder of some 900 square feet, in the form of a bicycle wheel, which, despite its great size, only weighs thirty pounds. A little forward of the center is placed a very heavy motor, built for endurance and safety; of seventy horse power and having a weight of 900 pounds, which is warranted to run constantly and steadily for as many hours as we wish.

"In this new airship the propellers, which are of the same type as those used in French military airships, are placed in the center of either side of the vessel. They consist of two blades of steel of eleven feet in diameter, and capable of 380 revolutions per minute.

"The living quarters of the airship are in triangular, bunklike spaces, within the inclosed car. These are capable of accommodating ten to twelve men and twelve dogs, together with our provisions and equipment. Suspended from the roof of the airship and running on light rails is a tank containing 600 pounds of provisions, which, by means of a windlass in the navigating room, can be run the entire length of the car, so as to supply our food whenever necessary, and also to balance the ship.

"The total weight of the steel car, and tank is 3,200 pounds. The motors, screws and machinery weigh 1,350 pounds. We carry in our tank 2,900 pounds of petrol, capable of running the motor for 150 hours at a normal speed of fourteen knots per hour, giving a total radius of action from the liquid fuel of 2,100 knots.

WEIGHT OF CAR DIMINISHES.

"The weight of the cargo we carry diminishes on an average 600 pounds per day by the consumption of petrol for the motor, while the loss of lifting power by leakage of gas through the skin of the balloon will probably not exceed 150 pounds per day. The net result of this is that we have on an average day 450 pounds to 500 pounds of lifting force no longer required, and representing just as much gas to be disposed of and to maintain the equilibrium of the ship.

"Ordinarily the surplus gas would be allowed to escape through the valves, but inasmuch as hydrogen has a very high calorific power we have thought it a pity to waste good fuel, and by actual experiments we have found that we can burn the surplus hydrogen in our motor with the result that we have a further thirty hours of motoring from waste gas, giving a total of 180 hours at fourteen knots per hour.

"That is to say, we have a total radius of action of 2,500 miles, or double the distance from our base to the Pole, and back again. If we can get but two-thirds of the value of these figures we shall still have 50 per cent margin over our needs for our journey from Spitzbergen to the Pole and back.

GUIDE ROPE PACKED WITH FOOD.

"It is our intention during our voyages to the Pole to be always in contact with the earth by means of a guide rope. We shall never ascend more than 300 feet to 600 feet, and our guide rope will trail over the surface of the earth. This guide rope is absolutely essential to the safety of our navigation and is of considerable weight.

"Instead of employing a steel line, we have made what I call a leather serpent fifteen inches in diameter and 140 feet long and weighing about 1,400 pounds. This is packed full of reserve food weighing 1,200 pounds and is suspended from the airship by means of a steel rope. It is covered with steel scales to protect the leather and to make the whole guide travel smoothly over ice and snow. It will also float on the sea.

"By means of the enlargement of the airship and food contained in the guide rope we are able to carry with us a total of 3,000 pounds of food, or enough to enable the crew of the airship to subsist on its own stores for a period often months without having recourse to game or outside supplies."

Salute But No Money

London, June 26.—Prince Edward eldest son of the Prince of Wales, received on Sunday the first formal recognation of his royal blood since the entered the Naval College. It was his thirteenth birthday, and it was marked by the playing of the National Anthem before the whole college, followed by a royal salute.

The young prince, who has won the privilege of his schoolmates by avoiding "side," is generally popular. He joins in all the games and is regarded as a sport. He has one grievance, of which, however, he does not complain, although his school-fellows sympathize keenly with him.

This grievance is that by special order all letters addressed to him are opened by the commander, the object being to prevent him receiving remittance money which sympathetic relatives might send to him. He is allowed a shilling a week as pocket money, and he gets nothing more.

He is, financially, probably the poorest of all the cadets. These also are supposed not to receive supplementary finances, but it seems the rule is not always enforced, and their letters from home are not opened.

White Evening Dress

Chicago, June 26.—White evening clothes have appeared in Chicago. Banker John Farson, at the Jinks balls of the Indiana Society, which was held at Pleasant Home, Farson's mansion in Oak Park, Saturday night, wore such a suit.

It was of pure white faced with white satin. It was cut in the tails and short in the front and gave every indication of having been made by a tailor under instructions from the wearer.

It included a wonderful waistcoat of pale cream satin, embroidered with delicate roses of near pink and yellow.

And John Farson seemed happy.

Orchard Was a Puppet

Boise, Idaho, June 26.—Beginning with the appearance of the first witness for the defence on the second yesterday, the story of Harry Orchard's life will be traced by a succession of witnesses called, not to sustain, but to contradict all the material facts testified to by the chief witness against Wm. D. Haywood. Witnesses are here to swear that Orchard was the confidant of the mine owners and their detectives; that they planned and he was selected to execute a number of crimes.

The one great crime the defence admit that Orchard committed is the murder of Steunenberg.

The claim that the defence will rest within eight days is looked upon as quite speculative. The State expects to take a week in rebuttal and the end of the case is not looked for until the last week in July.

A Great Oil Fire

Butler, Pa., June 26.—The plant of the Valvoline Oil Company was struck by lightning today, and 75,000 barrels of oil are on fire. Other tanks are threatened.

Pale Faced Girls

Thousands Using Successful Cure For Paleness and Anaemia.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton had invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up the young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwan, of Haliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness was hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young women to use them."

SPANISH AFFAIRS

It is not difficult to understand the popular enthusiasm and satisfaction that has been displayed in Spain over the birth of an heir to the throne. For many years the country has been the scene of internal dissentions as the result of the efforts of rival claimants to the crown. The Carlists for a long time kept a large part of the country in a state of disturbance, and the weakness of the reigning family on more than one occasion seemed to give the Pretender some prospect of success. The drain on the national resources caused by a series of revolutionary movements in Cuba, prevented the proper development of the country, although rich in natural resources, and inhabited by an industrious, frugal and sober race.

For the last few years better prospects have prevailed. The loss of her colonies may be regarded as marking the commencement of a new industrial era for Spain, and her rulers and people are now free to devote their attention to the development of the country. Under such circumstances an event that seems to promise stability in the ruling family and a check to the schemes of rival claimants to the crown, is naturally a cause of satisfaction throughout the country as a further assurance of freedom from internal dissension and of commercial and industrial progress.

GROWING IN WISDOM

Fifty years ago workmen in the factories of Great Britain were banding and pooling their funds for the purpose of fighting the introduction of labor-saving machinery. Today they laugh and look upon the vain endeavor as a piece of ridiculous folly. Workmen of the various trades have learned a great deal in 50 years, and they have accomplished much. Like the human species generally, they have learned more wisdom through making mistakes than through the process of direct deduction. In those days when men were fighting against the inevitable the standards of common education were low. The average man of the factories could not read or write. He did not read the papers. There were no books on mechanical or economic principles, or treatises on the useful arts. Each man individualized his work, had his own tricks of trade which he guarded jealously and transmitted them to his sons as a valuable heritage. Today workmen of the progressive type aim to constantly expand their capabilities and to acquire experiness through taking pains and studying the nature of the things which they have to do.

It is the common presumption that the employers of labor must be equally progressive and wide-awake to their own interests, but occasionally we have a demonstration that is suggestive of retarded development. The National Association of Manufacturers in convention in New York has voted a contribution of $1,500,000 to be paid in three small instalments, for the purpose of educating the public against the coercive methods of labor unions. Apparently they are in the same state of mind as the workmen of long ago, who spent their time, their money and sometimes shed blood in fighting the introduction of machinery.

Organization means the power of many combined as a unit. Possession of power is a strong temptation to yield it, and often it is exerted with more zeal than discretion. Corporations are said to have no souls, and this applies whether it be a corporation of capital, a corporation of labor or a political corporation. Great nations equipped with standing armies and powerful navies are inclined to take advantage of the weak, in a commercial way, and to rob them of their territory, and their rights, if some other nation or combination does not forbid. Selfishness is a universal characteristic. Labor unions try to force the price of their energy up and to put down the daily hours of labor that they may have more money and more leisure and to provide more comfort for each man and his dependants. They have the same right to do this that the government of Canada has to say to the manufacturer of Eugape, "You shall not sell your product in this country until you have paid a fee for the privilege." A protective tariff is designed to set the fee so high that the foreigner cannot sell to us at a profit. The government says to the home consumer: "You must pay a fancy price for certain products in order to enable the manufacturer to pay higher wages to his employes." The employer buys his labor as cheap as possible. Unions are organized and they say to him: "You are getting such a price for your product you pay such a price for your material. We furnish the labor that converts that material into high-priced product and we demand a fair division of the product."

The assumption that the public is really in need of education and that $1,500,000 spent during three years of propaganda of prejudice will accomplish beneficial results, shows a soft spot in the head of the National Association of Manufacturers. The public has its eyes open to passing events. It has its media of news upon which it can faithfully rely. A propaganda against unionism will have no more effect than the propaganda of misinformation that has been subsidized during the past three years by the big corporations that have been under fire. The people are bound to know the facts, and the truth is just as mighty and likely to prevail today as it ever was.

Open Last Link of Underground Line

London, June 23.—The last link of the late Charles T. Yerke's tube system of underground railroad was opened yesterday. The new line, which connects the Northern suburbs with the heart of London, is eight miles long. It was begun in 1903, runs on an average 60 feet below the surface, and cost $25,000,000.

A party of financiers and officials attended the opening ceremony, which was followed by an elaborate luncheon.

The public was permitted to travel free during the afternoon and evening, and received souvenirs of the event.

They Died Together

Belleville, Ill., June 24. — George Bullock and Miss Clara Miller, of Belleville, ended their lives in a suicide pact. The couple were in love, but Bullock already had a wife living. Their bodies were found on the shore of Triangle Lake by boys. In the forehead of each was a bullet hole and between them lay a revolver. The couple were clasped in each other's arms. Bullock was 30 years old, and Miss Miller 18.

The girl's brothers bitterly opposed her association with Bullock, and tried to force her to leave him. In his note to his mother, Bullock asks her to tell one of Miss Miller's brothers that "I got her as I said I would if I had to follow her to the grave." Miss Miller was clad in red, with a red rose in her hair.

Wanted Body Found

Rochester, June 23.—John Comfort, a farmer, 50 years old, who lived in Transit Village, committed suicide yesterday by drowning. He left a note which said:

"If any body is not home, look in the river."

A search of the river was made and a snake was found driven into the bed with a handkerchief tied to the top of the stake. To the stake a rope was attached, and at the other end of the rope Comfort's body was found. He had drowned himself in shallow water. Nearby was found a vial containing two ounces of strychnine.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, quiets nervous excitement, stops nervous vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, brings clear absorbed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Curious Fraud on Bank

London, June 24.—A remarkable story of halfpennies being substituted for half-sovereigns was told at the Manchester City Police Court, when Henry Douglas Anderson, who had been employed at the Manchester branch of the Bank of England, and after absconding had been arrested in Canada charged with stealing $5,000.

Mr. F. F. Smith in prosecuting said that the prisoner's duty was that of separating light weight gold coins from those of full weight, and he had to put the full weight coins into bags which he had to label and sign. One day the bank issued twenty-five bags of half sovereigns to another bank, and fourteen of them which had been made up by the prisoner were found to have been tampered with, half sovereigns having been replaced by the necessary number of half pennies to make up the correct weight.

Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making home improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club in with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

JOSEPH C. LINCOLN,
Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

"That's so. Fact is, I've been so everlastin' busy lately that I'd forgit to eat if I hadn't got in the habit of it. But I must settle that right off. The only thing that's kept it from goin' through afore is on account of that dynamite in the hold. The papers are ready, only Obed won't dicker until we take that stuff off; his comp'ny won't insure against explosives."

A little of the dynamite that they had been using in blowing up the bulk containing the tar was still stored in the Diving Belle's hold. Captain Titcomb had promised to see that it was taken ashore, but he always forgot it. Bradley would himself have attended to the matter, but the captain seemed to take the offer as a personal reflection on his own management. It was the same with the insurance. Anything that the captain undertook to do he hated to give up to another.

"Don't you want me to attend to that dynamite?" asked the junior partner.

"No, no. I'll tend to it myself. Told you I would, didn't I?"

Bradley saw that it was time to change the subject. He looked across the ocean to the horizon. The air was clear and cold and the November sunlight lay upon the water with a steely metallic glitter that had no warmth in it.

"Wind to the south'ard," he observed, "and seems likely to hold that way. If it only holds fair long enough we'll win out yet."

"Where's that special weather bureau of ours?" asked the captain. "Ain't had a prophecy for two days or more." He stepped to the hatchway. "Hi, Peleg!" he shouted. "Peleg Myrick, ahoy!"

A distant voice from the hold replied that Peleg was aboard the Diving Belle.

"That's so," said Captain Titcomb. "So he is. Well, we'll see him later."

When the schooner again ran alongside the barge Mr. Myrick was summoned and clambered on board. The weather prophet had coal dust in his nostrils, in his mouth and in decorative smouches on his cheeks. As for his whiskers, the red and gray had disappeared; they were now a solid black.

"P'leg," observed the captain, "does Skeezicks know you when you git home nowadays?"

"Know me?" repeated the astonished owner of the dog that was just like a human: "Know me! Course he does."

"Well, I didn't know. You look so much like a cross between a darky and a Kickapoo Sagwa peddler in his war paint that I shouldn't think your mother 'd know you, let alone a dog."

Mr. Myrick pondered. "Well, you see," he replied slowly, "mother, she's been dead for a consider'ble spell, and Skeezicks"—

"Skeezicks ain't. I see. That's the best reason I know of. Say, how about gales? Got any marked on the calendar?"

The prophet's dreamy gaze wandered mournfully to the sky.

"No," he drawled; "I don't cal'late there'll be a storm for the next week. After that—waal, I don't know. I've been havin' a feelin' that the weather'd shift, but p'r'aps 'twon't. Still, I'm kind of scart—kind of scart of the week after next."

Captain Titcomb looked troubled. "Thunder!" he muttered. "I swan I hope that ain't so!"

Bradley looked at him in puzzled surprise.

"Now, honest, Cap'n Ez," he exclaimed, "you aren't worried because that half baked chap says here, P'eleg! Come back here a minute! Say, how do you get your tips on the weather?"

Mr. Myrick hesitated and looked troubled. "Waal," he replied, "I—I—you see, I don't gin'rally tell that, 'cause folks laugh at me; but, bein' as you're my boss, I s'pose I ought to tell you a little. You see, I jest sort of feel it in my bones."

"Any particular bones?"

"Why, my laig bones mostly. If a no'theaster's comin', my right laig sort of aches, and if it's a sou'easter it'll fetch me in the left one. Then there's other"—

Bradley interrupted him by a roar of laughter. The prophet looked hurt.

"There!" he sighed. "I knew you'd laff."

"All right, Peleg; trot along. There, Cap'n Ez, does that satisfy you?"

The captain laughed, too, but he shook his head.

"I don't know," he replied. "Them leg bones of Peleg's seem to have been pretty good barometers afore now. Well, what is to be will be, as the fellow with dyspepsy said when he tackled the mince pie. My, this won't do for me or for you either, Brad!"

They separated to plunge again into their work. But Bradley's hint about the dynamite still troubled Captain Titcomb's conscience. When the Diving Belle came back from her next trip to the beach he hailed Peleg and, calling him to him, said:

"Peleg, I've got a job for you. I want you to git out that dynamite we've got in the bold for'ard and take it ashore some'eres."

Now, that dynamite was Mr. Myrick's particular dread. He was more afraid of it than he was of anything else on earth. The captain knew this, and that was why he always selected Peleg to bring up a stick of the stuff when the latter was needed. "It's the scared man that's always careful," said the skipper. "Peleg hangs to them sticks like a sucker to a barn door. He won't drop 'em unless his knee j'ints rattle loose altogether from nervousness."

When the matter proved beyond the captain's order the visible parts of his countenance turned white.

"Oh, my soul and body!" he gasped. "You don't want me to tech them pesky things, do you, Cap'n Ez? Git somebody else, do!"

"No," replied the skipper gravely. "I wouldn't trust nobody else. Tumble 'em out!"

"Tumble 'em out! Don't talk in that

"Say, how about gales?"

careless kind of way, Cap'n Ez. What'll I do with 'em?"

"Oh, dig a hole and bury' em; put 'em under your bunk in the shanty; feed 'em to Skeezicks, only git 'em out of the schooner some time pretty soon!"

"Will—will Sunday do?"

"Yes, yes! Whenever you have the time. Hi, Sam Hammond! What are you settin' there for? Git back to your engine."

Mr. Hammond was still with them, although his usefulness as a diver was gone owing to the temporary abandonment of the tar venture. But because they anticipated returning to this work if the Freedom should be floated he was retained at his old wages and was now running one of the hoisting engines, a labor with which he was more or less familiar, although he considered it beneath him and shirked whenever he could.

This shirking irritated Captain Titcomb.

Boodling in Building British Warships

London, June 23.—"Grave irregularities" is the term the Parliamentary Committee on Public Accounts gives to certain conditions in the navy on which it issued a report yesterday. The committee found that a widespread custom was the acceptance of commissions from contractors by petty officers, but the report adds that severe disciplinary measures have been adopted to suppress the custom.

The committee objects strongly to the action of the admiralty in contracting for the construction of the armored cruisers Invincible, Inflexible, and Indomitable, without competition, although the admiralty officials explained that they wished to keep the plans secret. The committee finds that the builders of the battleship King Edward VII secretly patched up a defectively cast rudder, which the government was obliged to replace. The builders gathered together a few of their employes on a certain Sunday, and by electric welding concealed a huge fault in the rudder.

Europe Should Be United

London, June 24.—The European policy in the Far East, and the friction between the United States and Japan is engaging the attention of the weekly reviews of London.

The Spectator comments upon the absence of America and Germany from the system of alliances now embracing Great Britain, Russia and Japan, and after dealing with the various reasons that animate America and Germany in holding aloof, the paper says one object of these alliances is to enable Europe, plus Japan, to press its advice on China with irresistible weight. This, however, as a means of preserving peace in the Far East will not be possible unless Europe is united, and the Spectator therefore urges that Germany should be courteously invited to enter the European ring, and that an inquiry should be addressed to Washington, asking whether America intends to await events, or join Europe and Japan in the scheme for securing in the Far East a long period of opportunity for peaceful and fruitful advance.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

DENVER BULLFROG CO-OPERATIVE MINING CO.

We told you about one month ago we would eventually open up one of the best mines in the Bullfrog District, and we tried to sell you some of our stock at 5 cents a share. If you had taken our advice you would have doubled your money. We give you another chance, but this time you will have to pay

10 CENTS A SHARE

But this is not one-third of the value of this stock, for we have discovered at a depth of twenty feet

Rock Literally Sprinkled With Gold

visible to the naked eye. We want to raise the money quick to put up a necessary hoisting plant to sink the shaft and get this rock out and turn it into a stream of gold to run into the pockets of THE LUCKY INVESTOR.

We offer only a small bunch of stock at this price. This stock is likely to quadruple in price in thirty days. Take our advice.

DON'T DELAY Don't put this off for later consideration or you will lose out again as you did before.

Gained Both In Strength and Weight

Another Case That Proves the Merit of

FERROZONE

"I was in poor health nearly all last winter," writes Mrs. Cross, of Wakefield, Que. "My appetite was variable, I was weak and unfit for work. I suffered a good deal from nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. My digestion was generally out of order. By springtime I had lost flesh, color, and had a bad cough. The doctor didn't help me very much, so I decided to try Ferrozone. It did me ever so much good in one week. I gained strength looked and felt a lot better. When I had used six boxes of Ferrozone I weighed myself and found a gain of fifteen pounds. Ferrozone rebuilt my constitution, and made me a new woman. I consider Ferrozone worth it weight in gold to every weak woman. It cures quickly and saves big doctors' bills. (MRS.) R. CROSS."

Port Hope Man Exits by Acid

James Baxter, a weaver, aged 64 years, of Port Hope, committed suicide there Monday night, by drinking carbolic acid. Dr. A. T. Dickinson was summoned and was present when death came. Ill health is said to have been the cause of the act. A wife, three sons and one daughter survive.

Composite Regt. Companies Off

The two companies of the 57th Regiment, to form part of the composite regiment at Barriefield camp, Kingston, left yesterday morning, each having about forty of all ranks. Capt. Mills and Lieutenants Hodgson and Merritt were in charge one company, while Lieut. Best was in charge of the other. Capt. McWilliams was unable to get away, yesterday, but will leave for Kingston today to take command of the company with Lieut. Best as subaltern. Lieut. Higgins who was to have been the other subaltern for the company cannot get away.

Settled at Y. M. C. Outing

The St. Luke's Church Y.M.C. excursion by moonlight, per steamer Otonabee was a great success. Whilst not throwing any stones at the excursion in general we have reason to believe that the Y.M. of the Guild concluded arrangements for a life partnership under the benignant beams of the moon or whilst Pale Luna took two or three naps behind a kindly cloud.

Decoration Day Arranged for

Arrangements are now complete for the decoration of the graves of Little Lake cemetery on Thursday afternoon next, when the Oddfellows will meet at Central Park at five o'clock and headed by the 57th Regiment Band, will march to the Little Lake cemetery where addresses will be given by Rev. H. J. Keith, Rev. J. R. Webb and Rev. William Major.

Poison Iron Works Trip Here

Mr. F. W. Miller received a letter yesterday that a committee from the Poison Iron Works, Toronto, would be here on Saturday to make arrangements for the annual excursion of the employes to this city during the summer. Mr. Miller was requested to make arrangements for the music. The Poison Iron Works excursion will bring several hundred people to the city.

Dual Runaway From Auto

Yesterday morning a dual runaway started from the market square. Rehill's ice wagon and H. P. Kennedy's delivery rig, with a driver on neither, were standing behind Mr. Kennedy's meat market. Mr. Fred Darcy's auto car came by and the horses on each rig became frightened. Both outfits started south side by side. At the Bank of Nova Scotia the ice wagon team turned south and were caught at the Southen Hotel. Mr. Kennedy's rig turned north on George street and was stopped at R. Dennis's flour and feed store. Owing to the crowds on the street it is fortunate the rigs were stopped so quickly.

Again Caught After 26 Years

San Diego, Cal., June 26.—A gigantic sea turtle, captured by a fisherman yesterday, had burned or carved on its back this inscription:

"British ship Sea Bride, Aug. 12, 1881, 1 south, 88 west. If found, please notify Thomas Fletcher, Brawley Road, Rivington, England."

It would appear that the turtle was captured twenty-six years ago in the South Pacific and that he was released after the lettering had been burned in his shell.

The turtle weighs 1,902 pounds, and its shell is 6 feet 6 inches from tip to tip.

A Serious Charge

Hamilton, June 25.—David Glenkirk, Smithfield, was arrested yesterday, charged with an offence against Agnes Arnold, the 12-year-old daughter of Thomas Arnold, Barton township.

The alleged offence was committed on Tuesday afternoon last, when it is claimed, Glenkirk enticed the girl away from her companions, who were out on a fishing trip near the Red Hall, telling her that he knew of a place where more fish could be caught.

Mutineers Were Locked In Train

Beziers, France, June 25.—The mutinious soldiers of the Seventeenth Infantry have been transferred from Agde without notice.

Three other regiments quietly marched into that town yesterday, surrounded the barracks and escorted the mutineers to a train, in which they were locked. A large number of the mutineers came to Beziers without permission, and were arrested on their return.

The destination of the mutineers is kept secret, but it is believed to be Briancon, in the department of Pawon, Algus, far from the scene of their insubordination.

Burglars Used a Racer

New York, June 26.—How a gang of Long Island burglars who have robbed more than a score of houses in the last six months made a practice of using chloroform to stupefy their victims and then driving away with the loot behind a fast racehorse is the interesting story told to District Attorney Franklin A. Coles, of Nassau county, and his detectives yesterday by Christopher Schang, 19 years old, of Freeport.

Schang said August Van Fahrig, the Freeport hotelkeeper, who has been arrested in connection with the burglaries, stole the horse, and that he kept it in his barn until late in May. Van Fahrig, according to Schang's confession, used to take the racer out only at night. When a trick was to be turned the racer, attached to a light road wagon would be hitched near the scene of action, and would light out like a streak of lightning after the haul had been made.

The racer which the gang used in getting away after they had turned a trick was found in this city last night. It is a gelding known as Parkville Prince, and was stolen from the stable of its owner, William H. Bowne, of Glen Cove, on the night of January 14 last. Parkville Prince is a racer with a record of 2.13, and has often appeared on the Mineola track. There has been a standing reward of $1,200 for the arrest and conviction of the thieves ever since January 23, and Mr Bowne has spent a large amount of money in employing private detectives.

Schmitz In Jail Uses Veto

San Francisco, June 26.—From his executive cell in the county jail, Mayor Schmitz has returned to the board of supervisors the municipal budget and a message vetoing the appropriation of $730,000,000 for the reconstruction of the Geary street road.

Schmitz, beside opposing the appropriation for the Geary street railway, also objected to the levy of a special tax of 29 cents to raise revenue for the city government.

Acting Mayor Gallagher said that Schmitz's right to pass upon the budget was not questioned by the board.

The first actual clash between Chief of Police Dinan and Acting Mayor Gallagher came yesterday, when Dinan flatfootedly refused to recognize Gallagher's signature as that of the mayor of San Francisco. The signature was on a fight permit issued to the Central Athletic Club for a series of six-round boxing bouts to be held in Dreamland Rink last evening and before Dinan would allow the doors to open to the crowd the promoters of the show had to bring to him a permit signed by Eugene E. Schmitz.

The application of Schmitz for a writ of habeas corpus and bail was taken under advisement by the judges of the Appeal will the judges decide whether or not it will give hearing to the application.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, hang-on chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

Angry Husband Killed Wife, Lover, Himself

Sudbury, June 26.—A double murder and suicide took place at Creighton Mine, some twelve miles from Sudbury, on the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway, about 11 o'clock on Saturday night. The victims were John Restula, his wife Sophia Restula, and the latter's paramour, Herman Vick, jr., all Finlanders. The three bodies were found early Sunday morning on the railway track between three and four hundred yards west of the station, which is at the west end of the village.

SHOT WIFE FIRST.

Apparently Restula had shot his wife first in the back of the head close to the neck. Vick, who had evidently started to run away, was shot in the back, under the left shoulder blade, and dropped within a few paces. Restula then turned the revolver, a 32-calibre, on himself, firing one shot near the left side of throat, and another in the left breast. He fell close to his wife and all were found lying face downwards.

VICK HAD A WEAPON.

In Vick's hand was a 32-calibre revolver, but not in very good working order, and apparently discovering this fact, he had started to run away.

Restula went to work at Crean Hill mine a short time ago, leaving his wife at Copper Cliff. Some two weeks ago she left there and went to Creighton Mine, where she took up with Vick, and they lived in a house at the Gertrude Mine, one and a half miles west of Creighton.

Restula was informed on Friday how his wife had acted; and on Saturday came to Sudbury and purchased a revolver in one of the hardware stores. Before leaving Creanhill he told his foreman, Frank Anderson, that if he found his wife with Vick there would be some shooting, and he kept his word.

An inquest was held by Coroner Struthers on Monday, and a jury, of which J. C. Kelly was foreman, brought in a verdict in accordance with the facts as given above.

Restula was about 28 years of age, and Vick about 23 years.

City Engineer Will Investigate This Matter--- Board of Works in Session Last Night

The Board of Works met last night when there were present, Ald. Geo. Duncan, chairman, and Aldermen McIntyre, Johnston and Wilson. Street Commissioner Harry Evans, City Engineer T. A. S. Hay and City Solicitor E. H. D'Hill were also present.

Mr. Mahony, who had entered into a contract with the city for handling the dredging from the government dredge and filling in water front at 8 1-2c. a cubic yard, asked the city to raise his price per cubic yard to 11 1-2c., and fix the cars used for hauling the dredging. Mr. Mahony claims these cars are not in working shape. These cars are government property, and the city has acquired the use of them for this work. Mr. Conroy did this work last year for 13c. a cubic yard. Mr. Mahony complains that he had not found conditions the same as he expected when tendering for the work; the rails on which the cars run, belongs it appears, partly to the government and partly to Mr. Conroy; he had been forced to pay Conroy $25 for the use of these rails, and had met with many drawbacks not experienced by Mr. Conroy. Mahony had also at first to pay for two men handling the dredgings on the barge, whose services Mr. Conroy received free; this grievance however has been remedied.

Mr. Mahony was asked to take the works at 9 1-2c. per cubic yard straight, he to repair the cars.

Mr. Mahony after considerable objection agreed to accept this offer.

Ald. McIntyre strongly objected to this; he offered that Mr. Mahony had tendered at an impossible figure, as he (Ald. McIntyre) had advised the Board when the tenders were opened, and Ald. McIntyre argued that the next lowest tenderer should be awarded the contract, or fresh tenders called for. Ald. McIntyre did not approve of a contractor accepting a contract at a certain figure, and after being awarded the contract raising his price to within a half cent of the next lowest tenderer, who was Mr. Kyles, at the price of 12c. per cubic yard.

Ald. McIntyre's opinion had some weight, and the matter was left in abeyance till the Committee of the Whole meet. In the meantime Mr. Mahony will continue the work at 9 1-2c.

AYLMER STREET DRAIN.

Mr. James Bogue wrote the city, in reply to the solicitor's letter, that he had put his property in good shape and intended keeping it so. He would hold the city responsible for any damage resulting from his filling in this drain which runs along the extreme westerly end of his property.

The course of this drain, was the city claims, changed from the middle of Mr. Bogue's property to its present position, with his own acquiescence.

This matter was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

NEW POLES.

The request of the Otonabee Power Company for permission to erect two poles on John and one on King street, was granted subject to the approval of the city engineer.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

The city engineer reported that it would cost $100 to water, roll gravel, clean ditch, and roll the road from the easterly portion of Nicholls Park to the canal, as requested by the township of Douro.

This road has not been repaired since 1898, when the work thereon cost $151.30. The city and the township of Douro each paid $50 of this cost, and Ashburnham the remainder.

The clerk was instructed to write the clerk of Douro, and inquire if there had been any agreement between Ashburnham and Douro as to the maintenance of this road.

SEWER CONNECTIONS.

Contractor White enquired if he should make connections with all vacant lots on Sherbrooke street while the sewer is in course of construction.

The board thought it exceedingly advisable to make all sewer connections, even with vacant lots, to avoid subsequent tearing up of the streets. Thirty feet would be an average building lot. It will take a week yet to finish this work.

Mr. White has already made six connections with vacant lots on advise of property owners as to where to make said connections.

On motion of Ald. Johnston the clerk will write interested owners of vacant property on Sherbrooke street that the city intends making sewer connections with their property, and asking if they have any suggestions as to location of such connections.

Mr. Edward Green complained that since the filling end of Charlotte street, his property on Water street at east end of Charlotte street, is flooded by each storm.

The engineer was instructed to water table the east end of Charlotte street, which will remedy this nuisance.

FAULTY CONNECTION.

Mrs. Jas. Campbell, of Water street, sent in a bill of $25.85, Adamson & Dobbin's charges for relaying a sewer connection made with her premises by Mr. Bogue in 1904.

Mrs. Campbell claimed that in constructing the cement walk in 1905, the sewer trap and breather had been disturbed, which engendered an unbearable nuisance from sewer gas, etc.

Commissioner Evans denied that the cement walk had anything to do with the nuisance; the connection had not been properly made.

The engineer agreed with this; The pipes were not laid on a single grade. The trap was loose and allowed the sewage to run through the ground instead of into the sewer; this filled the cellar with sewer gas.

Ald. Duncan offered that Mrs. Campbell should not be asked to pay for relaying a connection improperly constructed by the city's contractor. The charges made by Adamson & Dobbin, however, were conceded by the board to be exhorbitant, although all agreed that the city was responsible.

Ald. Duncan said the connection was never laid properly, and the men who recently reconstructed it said they never saw such a disgraceful condition of things in their life.

Ald. McIntyre moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston,—That the engineer demand an itemized account for this work, and that the bill be paid when certified to by the engineer.

ANOTHER CASE.

An account of $37.33 for a similar faulty sewer connection with the Peterborough Lock Co., was referred to the city solicitor. The board disputes the city's responsibility in this matter.

STEALING SOD.

The engineer reported that a person, whose name is known to Mr. Huffman, has removed some 6,000 feet of sod from Margaret avenue, and asked what action he should take in the matter. This sod is marketable at three to five cents a square yard.

Ald. Wilson said work such as this, which has been going on for years, should be stopped.

This matter was referred to the engineer for investigation. The person or persons who have been guilty of this offence will be expected to pay for the sod they have taken at be a square yard.

TO REMOVE HYDRANT.

The question of removing a hydrant from near the corner of Sherbrooke street, was referred to the water commissioners. This is needed for sidewalk construction purposes.

STREET FLOODING.

The west side of Bethune street, on Smiede, is flooded at the time of every storm, and the engineer is to report on the cost of constructing surface drainage from Rubidge street to the creek on Simpson street.

BAD SIDEWALK.

Ald. Wilson reported that the sidewalk on Gilchrist street from Elm to Murray is in a terribly bad condition. This will be repaired, on motion of Ald. Wilson, seconded by Ald. McIntyre.

Charming Muskoka

The Grand Trunk Railway System, the pioneer line to Muskoka, will continue to give its patrons the best of service and "Muskoka Wharf" will remain the principal gateway, being the headquarters of the Muskoka fleet of steamers.

The beautiful scenic trips from Toronto skirting along the shores of Lake Simcoe and Couchiching and around Kempfeldt Bay, crossing the narrows at Orillia and Atherley Junction and the Severn River make the route the only way to go.

Muskoka Wharf has been widened 20 feet and lengthened 100 feet, enabling four steamers to dock alongside the Grand Trunk expresses. The trip up Lake Muskoka to Beaumaris, Little Pittsburg, among the islands and beautiful summer homes can be seen no other way. Therefore, it is not unlikely the Grand Trunk will not be able to retain the patronage of its old customers.

Reynolds Says He Will Try Trip Again

Port Hope, June 27.—Jimmy Reynolds, the walking barber, who collapsed at Newcastle on the fag end of his Port Hope to Toronto and back journey, arrived here on the 4.30 train, and a great crowd greeted him. A subscription is taken up in the crowd netted over $100 toward Reynolds' end of the $300 bet on the result.

Dr. Forrest, who examined the walker, said that Reynolds was not in bad condition. His limbs were in good shape, and beyond a slight blister on the right foot the extremities were all right. The man complained of being very tired and needed rest.

Reynolds chatted freely and attributed his defeat to the excessive heat.

He said: "I will do it yet; just as soon as the weather gets cooler, probably some time this fall. I can go to Toronto and back in 36 hours. If I had gone a month ago I would have made it all right."

Lindsay Visitors See the Experiment

Officials of Lindsay Water Works Were in the City Yesterday

Yesterday a number of Lindsay men interested in or employed in the Water Works Department of that town arrived in the city and called upon Superintendent Henderson of the local Water Works Department. Mr. Henderson, with the courtesy that distinguishes all public departments took the Sergeyvillians under his protecting care and gave them, figuratively speaking, front seats at the trial test, when the water main at the corner of George and Brock streets was tapped. Those from Lindsay present at this most interesting test were Mayor Vrooman, Thos. Brady, water commissioners, and W. H. Hammond, superintendent of the Lindsay Water Works Department. It might here be noted that Mr. Hammond is the son-in-law of Mr. Chas. Duesy of the Queen's Hotel.

The test at the water main, where it was shown that a water main could be tapped, was entirely successful. Superintendent Henderson showed The Times a perfect circle of iron cut out of the water main as cleanly as a razor cuts a beard. The piece cut out of this 12-inch main, which has been underground for about a quarter of a century, was about eight inches in diameter. The edges were as clean cut and smooth as though a sharp knife had cut through a piece of cheese or butter. In the center of this disc was a hole where the drill first entered, the aperture in the center was about one inch and an eighth in diameter.

The Lindsay visitors were greatly pleased with the result attained and considered that the local water works is of the most modern construction.

Miss Alice Mary Hall Now Mrs. Mackay

Popular Local Belle is Now a Budding Matron

Yesterday afternoon a society event that has caused some excitement was consummated when Miss Alice Mary Hall, daughter of Mrs. Jas. Hall, 342 Rubidge street, was united in marriage at St. Paul's church to Rev. Wm. MacDonald Mackay, of Toronto, son of Alexander Mackay, of Thorneford, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance, assisted by Rev. Robt. Mackay, of Toronto, cousin of the groom. The bride entered the church as the wedding march was being played by Mr. John Crane, and was given away by her brother-in-law, Sir Sandford Fleming, of Ottawa. She was becomingly attired in white satin river taffeta, trimmed with lace, and wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms. The bride and groom were unattended. The ushers were Rev. George Hackney, of Toronto; Dr. Smith, of Stratford, and Mr. Harold Hall, of Peterborough.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, to which only immediate relatives and friends were invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackay left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for Toronto, and other western points, where the honeymoon will be spent, after which they will reside in Toronto.

Local Lady Who Went to South Africa Home Again

Mrs. H. C. Garrard (nee Miss Mabel Yeomey) and two children, of Ermelo, South Africa, has arrived in the city and is paying an extended visit to her parents, Mr and Mrs. H. A. Yeomey, 86 Wedgewood street. Mrs. Garrard and children sailed from Durban on the 27th March. Mrs. Garrard left Peterborough five years ago, with other Canadian teachers, who were sent to South Africa. After teaching in the Transvaal for about 18 months she married Mr. H. C. Garrard, a Cambridge graduate, who went to Africa to teach.

PEACE DOVE FLIES MID WAR'S ALARM

Russia and France in Throes of a Passive Revolution

GERMANY IN ANGRY MOOD

Kaiser Again Preparing to Raise Morocco Question: Ireland in a New Land Struggle

London, June 26.—The congress of all the nations of the earth is sitting at The Hague seeking to devise means to inaugurate universal peace. To the east of it Russia is in the throes of what perhaps may be described as a passive revolution. To the south of it a considerable section of France is in active insurrection. To the left of it Ireland has entered a fresh campaign for the overthrow of the existing scheme of government. The rustle of the wings of the angel of peace already is drowned by the clamor of strife, but the seeming mockery of the spectacle has not the gloomy significance which many cynical pessimists see in it.

It has been one of Fate's favorite ironies to make almost every peace conference seem to be a preliminary to the break of serious war and diplomatic circles have been disturbed this week by graver uneasiness than that caused by the three specific popular movements referred to above. This was hinted at by Premier Clemenceau when he informed the French chamber of deputies that if his ministry is overthrown its successor will have to deal with a more serious matter than an insurrection in the Midi.

GERMANY'S ANGER AROUSED.

The diplomatic world interprets this as an allusion to the situation created by the latest international agreement between Great Britain, France, and Spain anent the Mediterranean and Atlantic. This measure naturally is calculated to inflame still further Germany's resentment against the great combination, which now circumscribes that country's ambitions. It is well understood that Emperor William won't hesitate to give expression of his indignation in decisive action the moment he sees an opportunity to break the diplomatic cordon which surrounds him. He has entered a protest against the Franco-Japanese far eastern agreement. His action anent the new Mediterranean compact has not yet transpired.

It is difficult to see, however, what effective action Germany can take at the present moment, as a general conflagration in Europe today could hardly result to her advantage. Berlin advices are to the effect that the insurrection in France is being watched with the keenest interest, and Prince von Bulow's visit to the emperor at Kiel on Thursday was directly connected therewith. The German foreign office, however, denies strenuously that any diplomatic crisis is pending, but this would be done as a matter of course in any situation.

"NAGGING" FRANCE AGAIN.

Germany within a few days has resumed its policy of pin pricks against France anent Morocco, which France is resenting as vigorously as during the Delcasse regime. Germany still seeks a predominant influence at Fez, but the nominal cause of the latest dispute is the open door question along the coast between Tangier and Algiers.

The general public knows nothing of these diplomatic alarms, but the financial world is keenly sensitive, and if consols and the stock exchanges are taken as a barometer then the political situation would be described as threatening. All the markets, however, have been in the doldrums for months and the prevailing disgust and despair must be ascribed to a variety of causes.

Turning to the popular uprising, three countries were confronted with contrasts of absorbing interest and significance. In Russia, where popular suffering and oppression is greatest, they are also the most hopeless. The reactionaries, who were thoroughly alarmed eighteen months ago by the signs of revolution, have regained confidence. They believe now that tyranny can safely resume its ruthless sway, and they hope gradually to induce the czar to resume that policy. So cause can triumph without a leader, and the long agitation in Russia has failed to produce one. That is what makes the Russian situation discouraging.

LAND WAR IN IRELAND.

The French insurrection has its milder counterpart in Ireland. There will be no swift crisis in the Irish agitation, however. The home rule question they have always with them. The campaign which has been entered upon is illegal, but not startlingly violent in its present phases. Forcible dispossession and appropriation of land by the peasants is not a particularly dramatic proceeding, but it is likely to lead to interesting developments, whatever government is in power. A correspondent traveling in the disaffected districts thus describes this week's incident: "The land war is being steadily raged, and the people claim they have more than half won. The landlords with whom I have come in contact throughout the country admit the peasants have just cause for complaint. No other agitation ever before started in Ireland had such immediate results. A few graziers have placed their cattle back on the ranches, and a majority have given undertakings not to continue the occupation after certain dates.

Favors Cheerful Funerals

London, June 26.—The Rev. Frederick Spurr, one of the best known Baptist pastors in London, startled the mourners at the funeral of one of the deacons of his church last week by officiating in a gray suit of clothes. When questioned on the subject, the pastor declared himself a believer in cheerful funerals. He said:

"I am heartily sick of the paganism connected with Christian funerals. The deacon was 82 years of age. He had been a good christian all his life, and died of old age, and so at his funeral I wore a gray suit, and we sang the Easter hymns."

Four Young Men on Trial for "Doing" the Public

As noted in yesterday's issue, four young men who had seemingly followed the Forepaugh and Sells circus were arrested at the Commercial Hotel.

It seems that during Tuesday afternoon as the crowded cars bore passengers to the circus grounds several citizens on arrival found their pockets had been emptied of good coin of the realm during the trip. Others saw several young men taking trips that seemed somewhat unnecessary and unusual. In fact, it was noticed that these men on reaching the grounds would take a return ride and again revisit the grounds to agaain return. Mr. Learmouth, manager of the street car lines, was riding back and forth between the city and the circus looking after the service and convenience of their patrons. His alert attention was drawn to the actions of certain men as before described. He noticed that they would conjointly bump up against passengers in a suspicious manner. He then notified the police. Mr. Richard Hall also saw the men acting suspiciously and at once called up the station. As a result P. C. Newhall and P. C. Meharry got busy and after considerable trouble discovered four young men in the vicinity of the Commercial House who corresponded pretty well with the description sent into the station. The officers at once placed the four under arrest. When taken to the station and searched the four gave their names respectfully as Harry Goldfield, C. H. Phelps, Ray Bradford and Harry Lewis. As denoted by their names, whether fictitious or not, two at least of the prisoners are evidently of Semitic descent. Phelps, who is not a Jew by appearance, is a tall well set young man with hard but rather good looking features. When searched from $25 to $65 each was found on the prisoners. One of them, on being searched a second time was found to have $75 in an inside pocket of his under drawers. The men pleaded not guilty at the police court yesterday and were remanded for a week. After the court was over before being taken to the jail for detention the prisoners were taken, two by two, linked by handcuffs together to the market weigh scales to be weighed for identification purposes. Goldfield and Phelps were weighed first. The former turned the scales at 138 1-2 pounds and seemed to bear down with his muscled hands to make his weight greater(this, however, is only conjectural). Phelps weighed 144 pounds of muscular humanity. Then they were taken to Roy's to be photographed. The same process was gone through with Lewis and Bradford.

It seems that at least eight people and their money parted company without value received on the cars whilst going to the circus. One elderly man named Sam Baird who had just arrived in the city was "touched" for $680. A man who goes to a circus with $680 in his jeans and the $680 "are" soon parted." Mr. Kerr, of Denniston, Peck and Kerr, are retained by the prisoners to defend them.

A Western Round-up

Lethbridge, June 26.—The six outfits that have assembled here within the last week have all crossed their cattle to the north shore of the Belly River, and have moved on to sweep the south-western portion of the country, while the other two outfits are driving their bunches of cattle up from the Medicine Hat district, and will probably cross the river further east than Lethbridge.

In all about fifteen thousand cattle have been rounded up, fifth thousand of which were cropped by the six outfits at Lethbridge. Of these four thousand were sworn across the river by the Circle ranch, while thousands were crossed in the early morning on the bridge at Lethbridge owing to the river being so high.

A Voice From the Dead.

Wilmington, Del., June 26.—As a coffin was being lowered into a grave at a negro funeral near Denton, Md., Sunday, Samuel Johnson, a negro, ventriloquist, threw his voice into the opening and said, "Let me down easy." The mourners thought it was the corpse speaking, and, with a scream, they fled. The pall-bearers hurriedly dropped the coffin. Johnson was arrested for disorderly conduct and malicious mischief, and held in bail.

WATCH COFFEE

And Watch It Carefully

Any brain worker who depends on thought for his success in life, uses up energy, by brain work, a varying amount of the delicate particles of phosphate of potash and albumen of which the brain and nerve centres are composed.

The fine, microscope particles of phosphate of potash are found in quantities in the pores of the skin after the brain has been used actively. This must be replaced from food, or brain fag and nervous prostration set in.

This breaking down of the little cells each day, from brain work alone, is a natural process, and the cells can readily be rebuilt from the right sort of food, if the system is not interfered with by drugs, but if an increased amount of cells are broken down by the use of coffee, trouble then begins.

Frequently it first shows in dyspepsia, lack of power of the bowels to operate properly, palpitation of the heart, or some other lack of vitality and healthy vigor. There is but one thing for a sensible man or woman to do,—quit coffee absolutely. "Hard to do," you say. Take up Postum Food Coffee, use it regularly, have it well made, so it tastes good. You will find a well defined, unmistakable change in your health, and there's a reason for it.

You have become free from the breaking down force of coffee, and on the other hand, you are taking a powerful, nourishing liquid food which quickly rebuilds the new cells. These are facts—profound facts, ready for any one to prove to their own satisfaction by actual use. Postum is used by brain workers all over the world. Don't call it a "substitute" for coffee, leave out the coffee proposition altogether. Postum is a liquid food and a true food drink. "There's a Reason."

JUDGE LOVING TELLS HOW HE SHOT ESTES

"No Power on Earth Could Have Restrained My Hands" He Said---The Daughter Repeats Her Sad Story in Court

Hampton, Va., June 27.—During the trial yesterday of Judge Loving, charged with the murder of Theodore Estes, Judge Barksdale permitted the defendant, who was on the stand, to relate a conversation with his brother-in-law, Harry Snead, who told of the alleged drugging of his daughter which led to the killing.

"This revelation came to me as a thunderbolt from a clear sky," said the defendant. "I loved my daughter, and no power on earth could have restrained my hands."

A DELIBERATE ACT.

Here the witness wept, and several of his relatives also gave way to tears. Continuing Loving said: "In this condition of mind, I went out intending to put that man to death. I got my shot gun and drove at once to Lovingston. When I got there, I called a boy and asked for Estes, but found he was at Oak Ridge. I went to Oak Ridge and I inquired for Estes. I learned that Estes was in a car at the station. I then turned my horse to a livery stable, and got out of the buggy and loaded my gun. I saw Estes in the car with two negroes, and waved them aside, and said to Estes, 'You are the young man who takes ladies out driving and drugs and ruins them!' I heard no reply, and when he made a motion as to leave the car I shot him. I then surrendered myself to the nearest magistrate."

He was followed on the stand by Snead, who corroborated him.

A DRAMATIC RECITAL.

Between stifling sobs and with tears streaming from her eyes, Miss Elizabeth Loving testified to her alleged ruin by the young man whom her parent shot to death. The recital was probably the most dramatic ever heard in a Virginia court of justice. Estes, she said, gave her a drink of whiskey from a flask he had in his pocket while they were out buggy riding on the afternoon prior to his being killed. After taking the drink she declared that she immediately began to feel dizzy, and her head "spun around," as if she had been given some powerful drug. In this condition, she declared, Estes assaulted her. On the following morning when her father asked for the cause of her being brought to the home of Mr. Kidd unconscious she related to him on bended knees the same statement she made today.

A Fashionable Millbrook Wedding

A fashionable wedding was celebrated yesterday in St. Thomas' church, Millbrook, when Miss Helen Collins, daughter of Mr. T. B. Collins, one of Millbrook's most prominent residents, became the bride of Mr. E. W. Lamprey, manager of the Bank of Toronto, Maisonneuve, Montreal, and former manager of the Bank of Toronto in Millbrook. Mr. Lamprey is also a former resident of Peterborough, having been for some time ledger keeper of the Bank of Toronto here. Rev. W. C. Allen, rector of Cavan, performed the ceremony.

Sunday Fishing Must be Stopped

Bob Independent Out With a Strong Article in Preservance of Fish

The Bobcaygeon Independent is out, very wisely, against Sunday fishing. This bright little sheet says:

A meeting of the Fish and Game Association was held on Wednesday evening. The question of whether the bass were shot on their beds or not was discussed. At a former meeting the members agreed to close off the fishing on Sundays. Since then a few of the gamey sons of sirs of contraining the Sunday fishing. Correspondence between the secretary and headquarters secretary was read on this Sunday fishing question, and a heated discussion ensued, in which Mr. Crandell, who considered the Association should confine itself to enforcing the Fish and Game Act, which did not forbid sunday fishing, tendered his resignation as president, and it was accepted. Mr. A. E. Bottum was then prevailed upon to accept the presidency.

It was made clear that the association had agreed to make an effort to stop Sunday fishing. The new Fish Act omits any mention of Sunday fishing though it prohibits Sunday hunting. It was pointed out that it would be unfair for the Association to enforce the Fish Act against local residents during the closed season, and permit outsiders to break the Sunday law during the open season.

Canadian Caught Shoplifting in Detroit

Argentieres, France, June 26.—Marcelin Albert, the "Redeemer," arrived here yesterday and was cheered by twelve thousand persons who had gathered to meet him.

He met the members of the committee, and announced that the premier promised if the wine-growers would give up their illegal attitude he would release the prisoners, withdraw the troops and take the most lenient view of everything that had occurred, and would do this utmost to advance the interests of the wine-growers.

The committee resolved to continue the movement peacefully until full satisfaction had been attained.

It was stated last night that the committee stipulated that Albert should surrender himself to a justice. He agreed to do so on Wednesday.

A Promise of Lenlenoy

Detroit, Mich., June 27.—Mrs. Isabel Smart, who came here recently from Toronto and London, and was detected on Saturday night shop-lifting in a large departmental store here, was yesterday fined $25 or fifteen days in the House of Correction. Having only $10, Mrs. Smart went to the county jail. Five hundred dollars worth of goods, mostly from local stores, but some from Eaton's, Toronto, claimed to have purchased all except the goods she picked up on Saturday night. Mrs. Smart when in Toronto was for a time house-keeper in a leading hotel.

The Doctors Make Splendid Hosts

Yesterday at one o'clock the new steamer Otonabee bore possibly the most valuable cargo she will carry this year, to wit the doctors and lawyers of the city on their annual escape from, respectively, the savory smells of sulphuretted hydrogen, iodoform, etc., and the wrangling in courts with opposing counsel over men often known to be guilty but still to be proved innocent.

A happy condition exists here between the local members of the learned professions of medicine and law, whereby each profession takes its turn as host of the other, on a trip down the river. This year the medicos entertained the lawyers and did it well.

There were about 125 of the doctors and lawyers and friends of each aboard the Otonabee. The trip down the river was made in good time, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all all present. It seemed only too quickly that the beautiful stretches of the river, covered by the still new green foliage were passed by, and dyl Wyld was reached. Since the Otonabee Navigation Co., has purchased this lovely island gem, of Rice Lake, it has been greatly improved and is one of the most beautiful outing spots in Ontario.

Mine Host John Lonsdale of the hotel then had a most appetizing repast prepared for the learned visitors. The way those doctors and their guests put the edibles out of sight was enough to put a dispeptic into convulsions. After enjoying a stroll about the grounds and in some cases a too short boat ride on the lake the party returned to the city about 11 p.m. Next year the lawyers will entertain their hosts of yesterday.

Fatal Gas in a Tunnel

Fort William, Ont., June 26.—A catastrophe happened at Loch Lomond Water Supply Tunnel at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. One man is dead, one is seriously injured and three more were restored to consciousness. The men were going to their work in the shaft, which is being sunk for opening the tunnel through the mountain in connection with the waterworks. The fumes of the material used for blasting are driven out by an air compressor, but the six who work below the surface went into the shaft too soon after the blast and were overcome by the gas. John Polio, subforeman, undertook to give the alarm, and fell from the ladder, breaking an arm and injuring his back. The dead man is Joseph Chichester, a young Englishman. Three others were overcome, but the man on top of the ground succeeded in getting them to the surface and reviving them.

German Cabinet Changes

Berlin June 26.—The North German Gazette today announced that Count Von Posadowski-Wohner, Imperial Secretary of the Interior and Vice-Chancellor, has resigned, and that his successor will be Dr. Von Bethman-Hollweg, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, who will at the same time discharge the functions of Vice-President of the Prussian Ministry.

PEACE IN THE FAR EAST

The ultimate and permanent results of the Russo-Japanese war are gradually being unfolded. They are more far-reaching and important than many of the soberest statesmen anticipated they would be. In some particulars these results have entirely falsified the predictions made in some quarters as to the situation that would be brought about by the victories won by Japan and the collapse of the influence, both political and territorial, exercised by Russia for the last one or two decades in the Far East. The Yellow Peril that we were told would confront the Western World, as the result of the victory of an Asiatic power over the greatest military empire in Europe, has not only failed to show itself, but has been dismissed as a nightmare that at least for many years to come will give no occasion for alarm or anxiety to the white races. Japan, indeed, has been the most potent factor in dispelling the illusion that her victories were a menace to the civilized world. Instead of threatening the possessions in Asia of European powers, Japan has entered into agreements pledging their integrity as far as the influence of the Island Empire can do that. It is no exaggeration to say that the skill and endurance displayed by her soldiers and sailors in their death and life struggle with their gigantic opponent, have been complimented and rounded off by the sagacity and moderation shown by Japanese statesmen and diplomatists. The events that have followed the war are even more important than the series of victories that crowned the arms of Japan, and their effect is not yet fully realized.

The sensation that was caused when it was announced some yuears ago, and previous to the outbreak of the war between Russia and Japan, that Great Britain had compartment of Commerce and Labor, 148 more Japanese came into the country for that month than were admitted in the same month last year.

It is expected that this year will mark the flood tide of Japanese immigration. In May, 1906, Japanese immigrants to the number of 2,124 came in; in May, 1907, there were 2,262.

It is beginning to be expected that Japan had something up her sleeve when she agreed to the exclusion clause. There has been, it is true, a falling off in the number of laborers, but that has been offset greatly by the increased number of clerks, students, bookkeepers and other classes exempted from the operation of the exclusion law.

It has also been called to the attention of Secretary Straus that a large sum of money in the aggregate has been sent to the Japanese in Mexico from their countrymen in the United States to enable them to buy tickets for Canada, on which they are allowed to enter this country.

Apparently these passengers for Canada have got lost on the way, for not one of them has been reported to have arrived in Canada. Japanese, however, are swarming over the Mexican border and coming in from Canada in considerable numbers.

The government is watching the scheme of bogus journeys to Canada, but without any other effect than to demonstrate that it is difficult to stop them.

ANOTHER WORLD EMPIRE READY TO CRUMBLE

On the surface there is no great reason in the affairs of Portugal. The nation is neither powerful nor interesting. It is centuries since it played any important part in the world's affairs. It is generations since it played even the secondary part of a theater of action for greater nations.

What does it matter to the man in the street in Europe, Asia, Africa, or America that the king of Portugal has dissolved his parliament and proposes to reign as an absolute monarch and that those who do not relish this proceeding on his part—namely, about one-half of his subjects—are coquetting furiously with the legitimist pretender, Don Miguel of Braganza. These things seem to have no more rational interest for humanity than Macaulay's famous contest of kites and crows.

The reason lies in the traditional alliance of centuries between Portugal and Great Britain. This alliance has been cemented by treaties from time to time and has had the most important results in foreign war and domestic revolution. All through the Napoleonic wars the army of Wellington operated from Portugal.

In the troubles of 1826, when a French army replaced a Spanish king on his throne, the British fleet seized the naval forces of the legitimist usurper of Portugal and restored the power of the present dynasty. By the last treaty concluded in 1898, England is bound to protect Portugal from foreign invasion and to safeguard the throne from domestic revolution.

Suppose, as a result of the present troubles, the British government should be called upon to carry out this treaty. How would it suit the emperor of Germany to see British troops landed on Portugese soil and Portugese ports occupied by British ships? During the Boer war the British waived their treaty right to occupy Portugese territory for military purposes and left the port of Lorenz Marquez open to contraband German trade with the enemy rather than offend the sensibilities of the German emperor.

It may be said that the kaiser has no material interest in the domestic affairs of Portugal, except that of seeing order maintained and monarchy supported. But he has the same interest that he had in the affairs of Spain and still has in the affairs of Holland.

Portugal, like these two, has the fragments of a world empire in the shape of islands and coaling stations all over the world. What would not Germany give for the Azores, Madiera or the Cape Verdes, commanding the South Atlantic, or Delagoa bay or Macao, commanding the Indian ocean? It would be well worth his while to encourage a revolution in Portugal that might bring him one or more of these or to throw all Europe into turmoil to prevent England from coming nearer to possession of all of them.

There seems to be possibilities of far greater trouble in the Portugese revolution than there were in the Algeciras conference.

West to Jail.

Detroit, June 26 — Mrs. Isabel Smart, who came here recently from Toronto and London, and was detected on Saturday night shoplifting in a large department store here, was yesterday fined $25 or fifteen days in the House of Correction. Having only $10, Mrs. Smart went to the county jail. Five hundred dollars' worth of goods, mostly from local stores, but some from Eaton's Toronto, was found in her rooms, but she claims to have purchased all except the goods she picked up Saturday night. Her husband died in England four years ago. Later she came to Canada with her two daughters, both of whom are now in a training school in London, Ont. Mrs. Smart was for a time housekeeper in one of the leading hotels in Toronto. She appears to be heart-broken by the disgrace she has brought upon herself, and has wept almost continuously since her arrest.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood elements.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

The Pope Receives Persian Mission.

Rome, June 26.—The pope yesterday gave an audience to a special Persian mission which delivered an autograph letter from the Shah, notifying his holiness of his accession to the throne of Persia. The event is significant. It implies that the incident arising from the late Shah's refusal to visit the pope during his last visit to Rome has been forgotten. Before being received by the pope the mission nullified the quirinal of the shah's accession, an act contrary to vatican etiquette, which exacts preference for the vatican over the quirinal. The pope's reception of the mission was therefore unprecedented. His holiness received the mission enthroned. He made a speech in which he wished a long and prosperous reign for the shah, and expressed the hope that Catholics in Persia would be protected.

Cardinal Merry del Val, papal secretary of state, subsequently returned the visit in the pope's name at the residence of the mission.

will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, foul breath or complexion use Dr. Shoops Restorative. Write today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

Shut Up In Ice During Winter

Victoria, B.C., June 25.—A fur trader just arrived from Rampart House Porcupine River, Yukon, 60 miles from mail communication, brings news of Capt. Mickelsen's Arctic expedition.

During April, Mickelsen arrived at Herschel Island, and informed the inhabitants there that the schooner Duchess of Bedford had been shut up in the ice during the winter. All were well on board. Mickelsen asked the whalers about navigation further north, and was informed it was well nigh impossible. He stated his intention of making an attempt to return to the schooner at the end of April. The party were frozen in 150 miles north-west of Herschel Island, close to land.

Mickelsen had intended wintering at Minto Inlet, Prince Albert Land, but plans miscarried.

The schooner left here on May 20, 1906, with provisions for two and a half years.

Impure Blood

Clogs the Kidneys
Slows the Heart
Flags the Brain,

Weakens Every Part of the Body
Causes Organic Diseases.

Just as strength is the natural outcome of pure blood, so is debility and sickness the result of impure blood.

To know how quickly, how surely Ferrozone cures, to see how it rebuilds and restores, you have only to read the following letters—read them carefully—see if the symptoms resemble yours.

Miss Evelyn M. Gaetz, of Kingston, writes: "I have had an attack of blood disorder which broke out in horrid looking pimples. They were ugly, red, disfiguring blotches that ruined the appearance of my face. I tried all sorts of medicine, but the pimples didn't leave. I was recommended Ferrozone and gave it a trial. I noticed an improvement after the second box, and kept up the treatment which finally cleared my skin. As the result of Ferrozone I have a clear healthy complexion and can recommend it to all other young women similarly affected."

Another young lady well known in society circles of Springfield, who derived exceptional benefit from Ferrozone, says: "I felt it my duty to make known the value of Ferrozone. My trouble was poor, weak blood, and as a consequence my lips were pallid, and my cheeks had no color. I wasn't at all strong, and required a bracing tonic. Ferrozone soon brought color to my cheeks. Improved my appetite and made me stronger than I have been in years. I favor Ferrozone because it is so simple to take and works so quickly."

No blood remedy exists that has the power to cure, to heal, to restore like Ferrozone; try it, 50c per box at any drugstore.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 600,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

visible to the naked eye. We want to raise the money quick to put up a necessary hoisting plant to sink the shaft and get this rock out and turn it into a stream of gold to run into the pockets of THE LUCKY INVESTOR.

We offer only a small bunch of stock at this price. This stock is likely to quadruple in price in thirty days. Take our advice.

100,000 Shares of Treastry Stock for Sale at

10 CENTS PER SHARE

This company was incorporated February 9th, A.D. 1907, under the laws of Arizona.

Capital stock 1,000,000 shares, full paid, non-assessable, par value $1, treasury stock 100,000 shares. Other stock pooled.

Officers and Directors

President ..... EDWARD F. PATRICK, Mine Owner and President of the Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Vice-President ..... JUDGE CHAS. L. HAYES, Mine Owner and Leading Attorney of Goldfield, Nevada

Secretary and Treasurer ..... ADAMS F. BROWN, Corporation and Mining Lawyer and Member of Leading Committee Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Depository ..... JOHN S. COOK & CO. Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claims (80 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Coprate district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. We would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

A GOOD LOCAL AGENT WANTED

Partners of the Tide

...By... JOSEPH C. LINCOLN, Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1903, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

"Consarn him!" he growled. "Let him either fish or cut bait, one or t'other. If he's too good for the job, why, then, the job's too good for him. If I had my way we'd come to a settlement in about ha'f a shake."

The majority of the men hired by the partners were intensely loyal and thoroughly optimistic. They knew the circumstances under which the contract had been taken and would not consider the possibility of failure for a moment. But Hammond was the head of a little coterie of pessimists, among whom were Henry Simmons and a few others from Orham and Lon Clark and Ike Bodkin from Harniss. These croakers sneered at Captain Ezra when his back was turned and pretended to pity Bradley. When the pay envelopes were distributed they congratulated themselves loudly and wondered if this time was the last.

Bradley was aware of all this, because Barney told him, but he would not permit his partner to call Hammond to account. Sam should not have the opportunity of telling Gus that he was the victim of persecution by an unsuccessful rival—not if Bradley could help it, he shouldn't. Captain Titcomb understood, and so Sam was not reproved and grew more and more intolerable.

All day long the Freedom's deck was a whirl of industry. The captain and Bradley were always in the thick of it and were dog tired when 6 o'clock came. Then the cable was tightened and chocked, the watch was set and most of the crews were transferred in relays to the beach to eat supper in the shanty and shout, sing and play cards until bedtime. The partners, with Hammond, Bearse and a few others, went up to Orham in the Diving Bells.

The old maids had been very solemn of late. When Bradley first told them that his firm had secured the biggest wrecking contract ever handled by Orham men they were jubilant. But then came Miss Busted, brimming over—like a sort of living "extra"—with exaggerated reports of village opinion concerning that contract, and the sisters began to worry. Other callers, whose views were more weighty than Melissa's, came also, and now even Miss Prissy was nervously anxious.

Bradley went to bed early nowadays. On the night following the conversation with Peleg he took his lamp from the shelf soon after supper was cleared away. Captain Titcomb called, but remained only a little while.

As the young man rose from his chair Miss Prissy, who had been watching him over her glasses while pretending to mend some stockings, dropped the work in her lap and asked, "Bradley, how are you gettin' on down at the Point?"

"Tiptop," was the reply.

"Yes, you always say that, but are you gainin' as fast as you ought to? You don't think there's any—any chance of your not bein' able to git that vessel off, do you? Folks seem to think"—

Bradley laughed. "Has Melissa been here today?" he interrupted.

"No, she hasn't, but Mr. Langworthy has. Oh, Bradley, we hear such dreadful things! Mr. Langworthy came here almost on purpose to try to git us to coax you to give it up 'fore it's too late. He says the whole town thinks you can't carry it through. Men that know all about wreckin' say"—

"Who says, the Jeremiah club?" The Jeremiah club was Captain Titcomb's name for the daily gathering about the stove in Weeks' store.

"No, indeed! Men like Cap'n Jonadab Wixon and Mr. Wingate and lots more. They say that you've mortgaged your vessel and that if you fail you'll be ruined—absolutely ruined. They lay it all to Cap'n Ezra. Of course Tempy and me stand up for you and the cap'n and pretend we ain't a mite anxious; but, oh, Bradley, if any such awful thing should happen to you, to our boy, 'twould break our hearts!"

Bradley felt a pang of reproach. Miss Prissy's eyes were wet, and the tears were running down Miss Tempy's cheeks. He was very grave as he answered.

"Miss Prissy," he said, "please don't worry. I know how people are talking; but, honestly and truly, I think we shall succeed. If we do, it means everything to us. If we don't—well, whatever happens, if God lets me live, you and Miss Teppy shall never suffer. I owe everything in the world to you. I'll promise you something else too. If we win out now, I'll never take another contract where the risk is as big as this. Now, good night, and, to please me, don't worry any more."

As he was leaving the room Miss Tempy said timidly: "Bradley, you don't go to prayer meetin' any more. Prissy and me pray for you every night. I hope you won't let your business crowd out your religion."

Bradley shook his head, answered hurriedly that he was working hard nowadays and was tired and went up to his room. The last time he had been to prayer meeting Gus went with him. He had no wish to go there now and perhaps see her in Sam's company.

CHAPTER XVII.

AT that very moment Mr. Hammond, seated on the fence by the vestry door, was puffing at a cigar and talking in an unusually loud voice of New York and his experiences there. He seemed to be very happy, and his boisterous laughter penetrated even to the little company of worshipers on the settees inside.

When the meeting was over he threw away the stump of his cigar and shook hands with a number of the men. Then he sauntered down the path to the gate, where the horses were tied. Gus Bearse was there, and Hammond greeted him with a hearty slap on the back.

"Hello, Gus!" he cried. "Glad to see you. Been to meetin', have you? Good for you. Where's the girl?"

Gus looked sheepish. "Oh, she's around somewhere," he said.

"Well, I'll go find her. Don't you run off. I want to talk to you."

He sauntered on, looking about him. Presently he saw Georgiana Bailey standing with a group of girls. He left them and walked toward her. Georgiana saw him coming and turned away. Hammond followed her and touched her on the arm.

"Hello, Georgiana!" he said. "Don't you know me?"

Georgiana turned and looked at him. "Why, yes, I know you, Mr. Hammond," she said.

"Of course you do. Why didn't you look at me?"

"I—I don't know."

"Well, I'm glad you know me. Say, I've been looking for you. Where's Gus?"

"I don't know."

"Don't know? Why, I saw you walking with him. Isn't he around here?"

"I don't know."

"Well, I'll find him. Say, Georgiana, I've got a surprise for you. I've got a present for you. Guess what it is."

"I don't know."

"Don't know? Why, you're a queer girl. Don't you want a present?"

"I don't know."

"Well, I'll give it to you anyhow. Here it is."

He took a small box from his pocket and handed it to her. Georgiana looked at it, but made no move to take it.

"Why don't you open it?" asked Hammond.

Arrest a Preacher

Brantford, June 26.—Rev. John Taylor, a colored preacher of Woodstock, who has been collecting funds for the British Methodist Episcopal Church, now in convention here, was arrested in Montreal on a charge of misappropriating church moneys. The warrant for his arrest was made out at the instance of Rev. H. D. Wright, Toronto, secretary of conference.

Taylor collected a considerable sum of money, and, it is alleged, refused to turn it over to conference or allow his books to be examined. This and his departure for Montreal led to his arrest.

The Clergy in Politics

Winnipeg, June 26.—His Grace Archbishop Langevin, in a speech before the St. Jean Baptiste Society at the Church of the Sacred Heart, on Sunday, warmly defended the claim of the clergy to act as political and social advisers of the rank and file of the church, maintaining that it was the great heresy of modern times to exclude them from these spheres. Those who failed to follow the lead of the priests were no longer Catholics but would become victims of social and political agitators. The strength of the French-Canadian people lay in their devotion to their pastors. They, as pioneers of Canada, have special duties and rights, surpassing those who come later. They have no privileges to seek, like the unfortunates who come in herds from Europe. One sacred right was that of their schools. They should recognize no political leaders but the pope and their bishops. Any other course was dangerous to their faith and nationality.

Not to Hear Him Preach

London, June 26.—Dr. Cobb, the incumbent of St Ethelburga's church, Bishopsgate, invited his congregation to write the reasons why they go to church. A great majority, using various phraseology, claimed it was because they wished to be lifted to a higher sphere, but some ingenuously confessed that they were impelled by one or the other of the following causes: Habit, to get aesthetic pleasure, to show their new clothes, fear of public opinion, with an eye to the main chance, or to escape domestic worries. Dr. Cobb does not conceal that very few attend his church because of a desire to hear him preach.

Farewell to Fushimi

Victoria, B.C., June 26.—Prince Fushimi and his entourage will today proceed to Esquimalt, where they will embark on the Monmouth for the final stage of their journey home to Japan.

On the arrival of the prince and his suite yesterday a salute of twenty-one guns was fired at Work Point Barracks, and the 5th Regiment supplied the guard of honor, their band playing the Japanese National Anthem.

The prince and his party were taken for a thirty-two drive around the suburbs in the afternoon, and in the evening they were the guests of honor at a dinner at Government House. The prince and suite afterwards attended a ball given by Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir at Casey Castle.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional indorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

Moonshiners in Chains

Ashville, N.C., June 26.—The party of revenue officers who had a fight with alleged moonshiners in Stokes county on Friday last, returned here yesterday, having captured 85 moonshiners and destroyed 13 illicit stills. The captured men were chained together.

The capture was effected by surrounding the camp of the moonshiners, who surrendered after a fight lasting fifteen or twenty minutes.

Report on Coast Defence

London, June 26.—The Canadian Associated Press learns the admiralty is sending expert officers to Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, in order to prepare a report upon coast defences, and advise generally upon ships or squadrons at present stationed in their waters. It is said the report is expected to constitute a basis for the naval program of 1908.

To Cross Maine

St. John, N.B., June 26.—Hon. Wm. Pugsley, who returned yesterday from Toronto, says Mackenzie and Mann have received the report of their engineer, who traversed the route of the proposed line down the St. John River valley, and are delighted with the prospects for trade, both local and through. They, however, desire some modifications in the agreement with the Provincial Government, and these Mr. Pugsley will take up with the government at once, and, if it consents, preliminary engineering work will be at once commenced. Mr. Pugsley says the new line will cross a corner of Maine. It will be the shortest between Quebec and a winter port, and Mackenzie and Mann will utilize St. John in the winter.

Aoki's Trip Postponed

Washington, June 26.—The Japanese Embassy let it be known officially Saturday for the first time that the trip of Ambassador Aoki and Secretary Hamahara to the Pacific coast, which was to have been begun about June 15, has been indefinitely postponed. The reason for the postponement is that while the present agitation exists in this country and while the jingoist talk in Japan is so prevalent the ambassador does not wish to make any move that could be misconstrued either in the United States or in Japan.

When the subject of the opening formalities of the new Collegiate Institute was being discussed, Mr. Pringle moved that Mr. Jas. Stevenson, who had been a faithful member of the board for 55 years, should be asked to lay the corner stone of the building.

Mr. Dumble moved in amendment that the chairman of the committee in charge of the building take the position.

However, no one seconded Mr. Dumble's amendment.

Mr. Robinson spoke very strongly on the subject, noting the sacrifices of time, etc., that Mr. Stevenson had made both for the schools of Peterborough and other public matters. Dr. Morrison whose name Mr. Dumble had proposed for this honor, very gracefully withdrew considering that Mr. Stevenson should have the honor.

The meeting then adjourned until called by the chairman.

FACTS ABOUT FLOUR

Made White by Leaving out the Part Which Helps Digest

Modern methods of milling separate the parts of the wheat berry that contain the diastatic element, and furnish only the white flour made up almost entirely of starch.

One of the principal elements needed to digest this starch has been left out in the process, and therefore the person who eats much white bread is almost sure to have intestinal troubles, for the starch does not digest properly and must of necessity, decay, and cause all sorts of trouble.

Grape-Nuts food, on the contrary, is made up of the entire wheat and barley, and the processes of digestion as shown in the human body, are followed as exactly as possible, in a mechanical way, by the use of moisture, time, and warmth. No chemicals or other ingredients are used but simple methods scientifically arranged.

In this way the starch of the grain is transformed into grape-sugar, and the Grape-Nuts food, which appears in a granular form, shows on the outside of the little granules, glittering specks of this grape-sugar, which is not put on to the food from the outside, but is the result of the change of the starch in to grape-sugar which works out to the surface, very much as the sap of the hickory or maple tree will subsequently show in the shape of white sugar on the sawed-off ends of logs.

A handful of Grape-Nuts held to the light will show the little glittering particles of grape-sugar. It is naturally and scientifically predigested, therefore the food agrees with the weakest stomach. It must not be used in large quantities at one meal, for it is concentrated, and over-feeding of even the choicest food is not advisable.

Being perfectly cooked at the factory, the food can be served instantly with cream or good milk. There is a definite, distinct and undeniable gain in nervous energy, and vitality when Grape-Nuts food is used.

"There's a Reason."

Alleged Blackmail

Hornell, N.Y., June 27.—In a signed statement telegraphed to Hornell yesterday, General Manager J. C. Stuart, of the Erie Railroad, charges representatives of the International Association of Machinists with having accepted from the Erie each year until this year the sum of $10,000 to avoid a strike.

When the Erie decided to no longer pay this sum to the representatives of the association, Mr. Stuart states that a strike was threatened and finally called. The signal statement sent to Hornell by Mr. Stuart is inspired by the statements made by the striking machinists. Mr. Stuart's telegram contained the following:

"If any banker or other responsible citizen of Hornell will come to our New York office, he can see the original receipted vouchers for amounts paid by the Erie Railroad to the representatives of the International Association of Machinists, in order to keep the peace."

But the Horse Was Afraid

One story connected with the circus that was crowded out of yesterday's issue is perhaps worth relating now not as news but as a fairly good story. A local Lycerymen who recently purchased a fine bay horse asked the circus fraud to drive up town with him, in connection of the afternoon performance. As they left the exhibition grounds the driver began to chuckle and told his friend, who had noted his recent purchase, how he had gotten the better of a man from whom whom he had brought the boy. The friend asked for explanations as to the owner's worth. "Why ask there ————, I got that horse from ———— (a well known local dealer) at a bargain because the boy is afraid of street cars. Why that horse don't care anymore about a street car than he would over a Greek testament. As they got to Crescent corner a car came along eastbound. The boy reared in the head legs in such a manner that the owner's guest thought it was going to fall back on the trap. Then the horse, after recovering its feet tried to turn the rig over in its efforts to get somewhere to the rear of the county or province. Fortunately the shafts, although audibly cracking, still held good. The owner jumped to the ground and succeeded in holding the frightened animal. After the trouble was settled and on their way to the city, the new owner remarked, "Well ————, I guess that horse don't like the cars, after all. For ————, make K.M. (keep mum) and lets go and have a cigar.

The Union Bank Is Generous

A Successful Financial Institution Recognizes its President's Merits

One prominent feature of the 42nd annual meeting of the Union Bank of Canada, held in the head offices in Quebec City on June 18th, was the kindly manner in which the directors recognized in a tangible a way the services rendered by their late president, Mr. Andrew Thomson, who for 27 years so ably filled that important position. The bank, as represented by the directors granted $20,000 to the family of the late Mr. Thomson.

The Union Bank during the past year has done a most successful business and demonstrated that this leading bulwark of Canadian finance is both conservatively and progressively conducted. At the end of the Bank's fiscal year the net profits amounted to $446,532.73. This was divided between a seven per cent. annual dividend to shareholders, amounting to $210,000, $100,000 placed to rest account, $100,000 written off bank premises, the sum voted to the late president's family, and $44,079.03 to account carried forward.

The Union Bank has clearly shown that their system of management and methods of doing business are beyond criticism and that the Bank is established as one of the soundest in Canada.

St. John's Choir Annual Picnic

Was Held Yesterday at Idyl Wyld Per Steamer "Water Lily"—A Very Happy Day Was Spent, Ending in a Presentation

The annual picnic of St. John's church choir was held yesterday, at beautiful Idyl Wyld, the fast and comfortable little steamer Water Lily having been chartered for the occasion.

A very pleasant day indeed was spent, the trip on the Otonabee and Rice Lake being enjoyed immensely by one and all. The Water Lily is a fast little steamer, as evidenced yesterday by her making the trip from the street railway wharf to Idyl Wyld in two and a quarter hours. The thanks of the pleasure party are due Captain Frewer and crew of the Water Lily for courtesy extended their passengers and the very acceptable manner in which they catered to their comfort.

At Idyl Wyld a very happy time spent in various ways, including a good program of sports. Another excursion from Westwood was also located at this popular summer resort, which, together with the St. Paul's Guild party in the evening, gave the beautiful island a very busy appearance.

The pleasure of the day was considerably enhanced by generous contributions from friends. Mr. T. Hooper and Messrs. Coleman Bros. kindly contributed a can of ice cream each, A. A. Hollingshead $3 for candies, and Mrs. Jas. A. Bell, the cream. Prizes were also furnished by Mr. D. Hughes-Charles, the rector's warden, Mr. Macfarlane Wilson, W. E. Conway, A. H. Stratton, J. R. Bell, F. Linton and A. Taylor.

On the return trip, just before reaching Peterborough, a very pleasing ending to an exceedingly happy day took place when Choirmaster R. J. Devey made, on behalf of the choir, a presentation to Mr. N. Greenhalgh, who is severing his connection with the church on the eve of his departure for his home in Manchester, England. Mr. Greenhalgh, who has been a very valued member of this choir for twelve months, was presented with a large and handsome picture of his companion choristers, and the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, tastefully grouped around a photo of St. John's church. The presentation was accompanied by an appropriate speech from Mr. Devey, who hoped the picture would prove a memento to the departing young gentleman of happy associations in Peterborough. Mr. Greenhalgh, who is leaving Peterborough tomorrow, responded in fitting terms. A vote of thanks and cheers were given the wardens and congregation for placing the Water Lily at the choir's disposal. Mr. Chas. H. J. Mitchell, people's warden, responded, and also thanked Mr. Greenhalgh on behalf of the congregation, for his splendid work in the choir the past twelve months, and hoped he would have the pleasure of welcoming him back to Peterborough in the near future. A vote of thanks was also tendered Mr. Devey and the choir for their services in the church, and to those who so kindly contributed prizes and delicacies for the occasion. Mr. McFarlane Wilson replied on behalf of the contributors.

Another New Business in the City

Yesterday Mr. Goldbladd of Hamilton, was in the city doing, or trying to do business with Mr. George Stevens, the scrap iron and junk king. Mr. Goldbladd made Mr. Stevens an offer of $8000 for a half interest in the latter's business. Mr. Stevens is taking the offer under consideration. Still by a conversation heard yesterday Mr. Stevens seems to think that the price quoted will hardly suit, with his approval as a business proposition owing to his large country connection. Mr. Goldblad seems to have the "stuff" to put up.

The Winnipeg Free Press says;—the court of appeal sat yesterday morning to continue the cost of cases set down for argument. Present; Chief Justice Howell, Mr. Justice Richards, Mr. Justice Perdue and Mr. Justice Phippen.

A motion was made to quash the conviction on that ground.

The court granted a rule quashing the conviction. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, for the applicant; Mr. T. R. Ferguson for the crown.

Locals are in Midland League

Those, and there are many of them, interested in the daily doings on the diamond will be interested to learn that the Peterborough baseball team will henceforth play in the Midland Baseball League. A telephone message has been received from Blake Crawford, of Port Hope, who stated that the downmanville club, had dropped out of the league and asked the locals to take their place. The local management have decided to accept the offer and will play out the downmanville clubs games.

The locals start out in second place with a record of three wins and two losses and are tied with Cobourg. While Port Hope leads the league with four wins and one loss. Peterborough will play their first league game on Monday afternoon with the leaders in Port Hope, and the first home game will be played on Saturday, July 6th, with Cobourg.

Many Candidates on Examination

The Public and Separate schools of the city closed yesterday for the midsummer holidays. The schools will not reopen until Tuesday, September 6th. A majority of teachers on the local staff, residing outside the city, will leave for their respective homes this week.

Faltered, Then Died

Philadelphia, June 27.—Fearing he could not succeed in his chosen profession, Dr. Henry S. Hutchinson, son of a well known citizen of this city, committed suicide in a field at Landsdowne, Penn., near here, by cutting his throat with a razor. The body was found today, and it is believed he committed the deed a day or two ago. A bloodstained razor a vial containing poison and an affectionate letter addressed to his father was found near the body.

It is believed that Dr. Hutchinson, after swallowing the poison, cut his throat to make sure of death. In the letter to his father he stated that he feared he could not succeed in his profession, and had become melancholy. Dr. Hutchinson was about thirty-five years old, and was graduated from Harvardand from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. He was last seen alive Friday his family Wednesday, when he said he was about to take a trip to New York.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly-treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

Canadian Pacific Railway's Twentieth

Anniversary of the Inauguration of the Great Transcontinental Service

Montreal, June 28.—It is just 21 years ago today that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's transcontinental service was inaugurated. In the intervening years, the company has made great strides, and its progress and development have been so marvellous that it now ranks amongst the foremost of the world's great transportation corporations. The 4651 miles of track it then owned has grown to over 15,000, and this is yearly being added to. Its operations instead of being almost entirely confined to Canada, as they were in 1886, have been extended to Europe and Asia, and it is now the pardonable boast of the company that Canadian Pacific Railway steamships and Canadian Pacific Railway trains make the fast circuit of the globe, there being a regular service between Liverpool and Hong Kong, and the distance is covered in 29 1-2 days. The annual earnings of a little over $10,000,000 twenty-one years ago have grown more than seven fold, and the comparatively small battalion of employees have so increased that they now number nearly 50,000.

The operations of the company have broadened to include the housing and caring for the traveling public in handsome hotels from New Brunswick to British Columbia, as well as on palatial steamships and trains. It has its own commercial telegraph service and express company—just as it owns its luxurious sleeping and dining cars. It has been a prime factor in the development of western mining industries, it has large irrigation works in the west, it is one of the greatest land holders in the world; and it is one of the potent immigration agencies whose efforts to people Canada have met with splendid and substantial results. The amazing growth of the Canadian Pacific may be indicated by a few statistics, which show how the equipment has been added to during the past twenty-one years;

	1886	1907
Mileage	4651	13000
Locomotives	272	1213
1st and 2nd-class passenger cars and colonist and baggage cars	304	1178
Sleepers and diners	47	214
Parlor and official cars	27	53
Freight and cattle cars	8253	39987
Conductors vans	178	712
Boarding cars, etc.	71	1952
Steamships	3	50

The number of passengers carried in 1886 was 1,899,319, and the tons of freight were 2,046,195. The returns for the year just closing are not available, but they will show a heavy increase over last years when 7,753,323 passengers and 13,943,798 tons of freight were carried.

One transcontinental train six times a week met all the requirements of travel in those days. Today there is a double daily transcontinental service—the Imperial Limited and the Atlantic and Pacific Express—the "Over Seas Mail" carrying the Oriental mails, and next week there will be inaugurated another fast train, the "Trans-Canada Limited," which will cross the continent in shorter time than any train on any other road in America. It will be the fastest long distance train in the world. The time occupied between Montreal and the Pacific Coast will be nearly two days less by this new service than it was 21 years ago.

It is noticeable that the men at the head of the Canadian Pacific that way today were with scarcely an exception with the company at the inauguration of the transcontinental service. Sir William Van Horne, then vice president, is, after filling the presidency, chairman of the board of directors; Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, who was then assistant general manager, is now, as president, directing the policy of the company; Mr. D. McNicoll, then general passenger agent for eastern lines, has become vice president with a seat on the directorate; Mr. Wm. Whyte, then general superintendent of the western division, is now second vice president; Mr. I. G. Ogden, the auditor, is now third vice president, having charge of financial matters; Mr. G. M. Bosworth, then assistant freight traffic manager for eastern lines, is now fourth vice president; Mr. Charles Drinkwater and Mr. Sutherland Taylor are respectively secretary and treasurer as they were 21 years ago. Mr. C. E. Hosmer, from manager of the company's telegraphs, has become a director, and there are many whose services date back before 1886 who now hold important positions. This loyalty to and long service with an institution is remarkable and is evidently not unappreciated by the management. A superannuatio fund has been established, and now amounting to over half a million dollars, has 164 pensioners on its list.

Contrasting the Canadian Pacific Railway of today with what it was in 1886, the average Canadian will not need to be a great optimist to imagine what huge proportions it will assume in another twenty-one years. Today it is a wonder way, the All Red Line between the Mother Country and its dependencies in Australasia and the Orient. The future will likely make it the All Red Route around the world.

Decoration Day Observed

Local Oddfellows Pay Another Tribute to the Memory of Those Who Have Gone Before, at the Little Lake Cemetery

Yesterday was Decoration Day and the local members of the triple-linked brethren turned out on fairly good numbers to pay respect to their departed brothers. The members of Otonabee Lodge No. 13 and Peterborough Lodge No. 111, as usual joined in fraternal effort to make the great day of the year a success, with the result that a most imposing procession behind the 57th Regiment Band passed down George St. to the Little Lake cemetery at five p.m. The procession this year, whist of good size, was not as large as in former years. This was doubtless due to the changed time. In years gone by the Oddfellows used to take a half day off and the stores were almost without exception, along George street, closed during their parade. This year however, the brethren decided to hold the parade to the cemetery until 5 p.m. As a result of this innovation the George street stores, as a rule did not close, nor was the usual attendance visible. In short the new idea was not recognized by miliarable popular patronage.

Still whether the crowds turned out or not, and, it must be said that many hundreds were at the cemetery awaiting the parade, the same old hearted and honorable formalities were observed at Peterborough's beautiful resting place of those who have gone before. The simple but impressive ceremonies were carried out during the comparatively brief rest of the Oddfellows. A list of the graves to be decorated was given in three columns a day or two ago and not a single Oddfellows resting place, whether he was rich or poor was passed by.

Lieut.-Col. Miller, one of Peterborough's most enthusiastic Oddfellows, followed close on the band, lead the procession. There were 80 to 100 members of both subordinate lodges and of the encampments and also several of the defunct Union No. 10, of the Patriarchs Militant marched in good step, two by two Behind them were several hacks, the first of which contained Rev. Mr. Potter and other local men of prominence.

After the decorative ceremony terminated the brethren returned to their respective lodges and separated.

Insane Over Murder

New York, June 27.—The first man to become insane as the result of the murder of Julius T. Rosenheimer, a wealthy resident of Pelham, is Harold H. Walsh, of No. 10s Hillside avenue, Mount Vernon. He is now locked up in the Mount Vernon police station awaiting a second examination by experts. He was examined by Drs. Fleming and Robinson yesterday afternoon, and to them he explained that he was a human bloodhound and was running down the murderers of Mr. Rosenheimer. Young Walsh is an inveterate cigarette smoker.

Before being taken into custody he walked around Pelham with a big club, and held up every stranger he met. His home is in the neighborhood of the Rosenheimer estate. Walsh's mother died weeks ago, and it is believed that grief, superinduced by the Rosenheimer murder, has made the young man insane.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 28, 1907.

WOMEN AND THE TAG

Woman is being gradually jarred into a becoming sense of her sisterly responsibilities. She is hearing from other women that she can no longer evade her duties so far as they may affect the well-being and prosperity of the working classes. To put the matter concisely, a band of enthusiasts known as the Woman's Union Label league in the United States has decreed that everything that woman wears, from head to feet, must bear the distinguishing mark of union labor. This is perhaps the most important pronunciamento since King Canute command the ocean to keep back and not dare to approach his royal person.

Dictating to women is a hazardous enterprise, even if persons themselves are the dictators. And while women may have the best intentions in the world and are or may be at times amenable to reasonable argument, there is a fair presumption that general orders will not invariably suit specific cases. It is one thing to declare that women shall wear only such articles as may bear the union label; it is another thing to enforce that resolution and to see that the letter as well as the spirit of the law is obeyed.

The women will have moments of temptation. If an article of apparel, whatever it may be, possesses the most engaging qualities and the most irresistible attractions, the fact that it does not bear a union label is an objection perhaps, but not an unconquerable one, in the mind of the enraptured observer and subsequent purchaser. No woman would wantonly trample on the undisputed rights of union labor, or seek to depreciate the grand principles which govern it, but no woman will throw away the opportunity to possess an unlabeled bargain. She will buy it and wear it, and when the walking woman delegate comes up and insists on a personal inspection for tags, she will be told to take herself hence and attend strictly to her own business.

The concentration of union forces is unquestionably a powerful factor in the ordering of human affairs, but until a union can set the styles and device creations and confections of unsurpassable loveliness the supervision of woman's raiment will not be trusted solely to its care. Under a democratic government the people reserve to themselves the right to determine what they shall eat and drink and wherewithal they shall be clothed. The women will have no objection to a union label, discretely obscured of course, if there is nothing better in the market than the garment which bears it. If there is anything that pleases her more she will buy it.

TROLLEYS RUN WITH GARBAGE

The city of Nottingham, England, owns two garbage destructors, costing respectively $39,000 and $102,000. The latter one is equipped with electric machinery costing $13,000, connected with the tramway house. The cost of wages and other expenses of the destructors averages about 35 cents a ton of refuse burned. The average quantity of electric units produced is 44.23 per ton. The system of converting refuse into electricity works admirably there, and is a saving to the ratepayers. Only forty other towns in the country use anything similar.

Ashes, kitchen scraps, and house refuse receptacles are placed in metal barrels of large iron receptacles at the rear of the premises, and removed weekly by city employes. The total weight of the refuse is about 1,500 tons a week. It is carried away after being collected and burned in the two destructors, which require no other fuel except a trifle for starting the fire on Mondays. Enough steam is produced by the destructors to provide electricity for a third of the needs of the tramway system. All the rest is used as fuel for the production of electricity.

Besides electricity the Nottingham corporation produces from the house refuse more street paving stones than it can use. A plant connected with the main destructor mixes the clinkers with cement and places the composition under hydraulic pressure. The artificial bricks thus produced are harder than stone and can be used for building purposes as well as street paving. The engineer in charge of the work claims that from tests made the paving stones thus manufactured will wear longer than any similar composition now being produced, while costing but half the price. Another destructor, larger than either of the two now operating, is contemplated by the city authorities of Nottingham, whose example, even though it is a city of about 240,000, should be of interest to some of the smaller Canadian cities.

Brutal Treatment of 30 Russians

Englehart, June 27.—Thirty Russians who were working in Daly's camp near here were arrested on Friday night, charged with breach of contract by leaving the employ of Chandler and McRae at McDougall's chute. The complainant was a foreigner from Montreal, who conducts an employment agency there, and who claimed that he engaged the men to work at the chute. The prisoners, however, denied the truth of this story, and said they were engaged to go to Fort Wadham. Be this as it may, the unfortunate men were rounded up like so many cattle and driven into box car No. 43,900 of the Grand Trunk at the station here the doors closed, and left for the night, without food and some say without water. Half a dozen special constables were sworn in, and these, armed with revolvers, kept guard over the "black hole" and its occupants. Early on Saturday morning a crowd gathered at the station, composed of Britishers as well as foreigners, all of whom sympathized with the prisoners. The demand that they be taken out became so pressing that the constables opened the car, and the men were taken out and rounded up close to the station. One of their countrymen, a baker in the town, brought over a couple of bags of bread, and another a pail of water. Thus the prisoners breakfasted. Lawyer Sinclair was hurriedly called in the interests of the foreigners, and shortly afterwards they were allowed to go back to Daly's camp, without the formality of an investigation.

POLICE NEGLIGENT

Montreal, June 27.—The inquest over the body of Robert Beech, who was assaulted on the night of June 18 and died from his injuries in a cell where the police had placed him, thinking him to be intoxicated, was continued before Coroner McMahon. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that Beech met his death at the hands of unknown assailants, and said there had been negligence on the part of the police, but it was excusable. They recommended that prisoners taken to the cells be examined by a doctor if apparently injured in any way.

Beech had been taken in charge as an ordinary drunk when as a matter of fact it had turned out that he had been assaulted by a couple of unknown men in the heart of the city while defending another person from assault.

GENERAL FUNSTON THREATENED

San Francisco, Cal., June 27.—General Frederick Funston declared yesterday that he had received at least twenty threatening letters, all of them anonymous, in which he was threatened with the fate of Governor Steunenberg if he dared to parade with his troops on July 4.

These violent letters, General Funston says, were received by him before he wrote his reply to the request of the Fourth of July Committee for the co-operation of the federal soldiers in the proposed parade, declares that the threats in these letters were not the prime cause of his refusal to parade, but that he had them in mind when he referred to the unwhipped mob of the city.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—carries blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Raise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain always is. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Throat Coughs

Ask your doctor about these throat coughs. He will tell you how deceptive they are. A tickling in the throat often means serious trouble ahead. Better explain your case carefully to your doctor, and ask him about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Then do as he says. Get the best medicine, always.

We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our preparations.

Twelve Swam Ashore Deserting the Navy

Victoria, B.C., June 27.—While the guard of honor for Prince Fushimi, composed of bluejackets from the Monmouth, were drawn up as Esquimalt today, six of them broke away from the lines and fled, with a view to desertion. Officers of the warship requested the Dominion police to assist them in recapturing them, but all present were awaiting the arrival of the prince. The men first hid under the wharf, where two were taken and conveyed in irons to the Monmouth. The other four fled to the hills behind the navy yard and are out at large. Since the Monmouth arrived here a week ago there have been 40 desertions. Last night 12 swam ashore and disappeared.

The complement of the Shearwater, commissioned in November, numbered 113 men, but is now reduced to 83 by repeated desertions. The bluejackets are attracted by the high wages here.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken those nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

Housekeeping Hints.

Needles and pins will never rust in a cushion filled with coffee grounds. Pour the coffee from the grounds and rinse them in cold water. Let them dry thoroughly before using.

The best point of a sewing machine needle may be sharpened on a whetstone, and need not be discarded.

Put a small bag of talcum powder in a box with a cover, and keep in the workbox or rub on the fingers when they perspire.

When you have occasion to use plaster of paris, wet it with vinegar instead of water; then it will be like putty and can be smoothed better, as it will not "set" for half an hour, while plaster wet with water hardens at once.

To string very fine beads, cut one strand of silk thread a little longer than the rest. Wax and twist firmly. This can be threaded through fine beads without using a needle.

Thought.

Children are quick to learn whom to trust and whom not to trust, and the most stinging rebuke that a mother can receive from her child is its indignant and despairing cry of protest, "But, mamma, you promised me!" when she has failed to keep her word.—Louise Mitchell.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada

LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us, that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

visible to the naked eye. We want to raise the money quick to put up a necessary hoisting plant to sink the shaft and get this rock out and turn it into a stream of gold to run into the pockets of THE LUCKY INVESTOR.

¶ We offer only a small bunch of stock at this price. This stock is likely to quadruple in price in thirty days. Take our advice.

This company owns 4 claims (80 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bond and Daisy Mines near the Zeon group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprate district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. We would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

JOSEPH C. LINCOLN,
Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

She did not speak again until they reached the gate. Then she said, without looking at him, "Good night."

He put his hand over hers on the latch. "Oh, say," he exclaimed, with a laugh, "this isn't a square deal, Gus. Aren't you goin' to ask me in?"

She tried to snatch her hand away, but he held it fast and, leaning across the gate, threw his arm about her waist and drew her toward him.

"There!" he cried exultantly. "This is more like it. This is more like friends. Give us a kiss. You're too high and mighty to be the prettiest girl on the Cape."

She struggled from his grasp and stood panting. "Oh," she whispered, with a shudder, as she realized the truth—"oh, you've been drinking!"

He laughed foolishly and shrugged his shoulders. "Oh, what's one glass between friends?" he said. "I stopped into Web's a minute, and he set 'em up. First drink I've had since I left New York. Thought you was too sensible to have blue ribbon notions. Come; be more sociable, that's a good girl."

She was afraid of him now—not afraid of physical violence, but as she would have feared the contact with something loathsome and unclean. A sense of utter loneliness came over her. She longed for protection and help. She thought of Bradley. He would have helped her. She could have trusted him. But she had driven him out of her life, and this fellow—

"Go!" she cried. "Go!"

Sam ceased to smile. Other girls had told him to go, but never in that way or with such quivering scorn. He began to realize that this was the end of his game. He had lost the prize. But he made one more effort.

"Oh, say," he cried, "don't get mad, Gus. I was only fooling. Don't be such an old maid. Come here."

She turned on her heel and, without replying, walked toward the house. Hammond swore between his teeth, opened the gate, took one step in her direction and then stopped. He laughed a short, ugly laugh and nodded.

"You mean it, do you?" he asked. "Want me to clear out, hey? Well, don't you fool yourself that I don't know what ails you. You can't come the high moral game on me, my lady. You're whining after that sneaking Sunday school kid, Brad Nickerson, the fellow that didn't care enough about you to lift his hand, but stood still and let me walk off with his girl as if she was as common as dishwater. The whole town thinks you're going to marry me. What'll they say when I show 'em I'm done with you?" He laughed again and put his hands in his pockets.

"I'm going," he said. "I'm going all right. You go to bed and dream about Brad. Dreams come true sometimes, they say. Maybe I'll dream about him too."

He pulled his hat over his eyes and walked rapidly away. Gus watched him go. Then she went into the house, threw herself into a chair beside the table and laid her head upon her arms.

Sam plunged straight on through the mud and wet grass until he reached the back door of the billiard room. Web Saunders came hurrying to see who it was that had knocked; only the tried and true were admitted at that door.

"Hello, Sam!" he exclaimed, with a look of relief. "Why, what's the matter?"

"Nothing," replied Hammond gruffly. "Where's that jug of yours, Web? I'm dying for another drink."

After cautioning his visitor against speaking so loud Mr. Saunders indicated the whereabouts of the jug. Sam poured out a liberal dose of the villainous cheap whisky and drank it forthwith. Then he poured out another.

He refused to go home that night, and Web put him to bed upon one of the settees in the little back room. And in that back room he stayed throughout the next day, drinking frequently, in spite of his friend's protests, and growing more ugly with every drink.

That next day, Friday, was wet and foggy, with occasional cold showers, but there was no wind worth mentioning, and the wreckers put in ten hours of the hardest kind of work. The Freedom had moved perceptibly in the sweep of the latest tides, and the partners were happy in consequence.

It was dark, though a few stars were showing dimly through the mist overhead when the Diving Belle entered Orham harbor that evening. Alvin Bearse was at the helm, and he brought the schooner alongside the wharf. A half dozen men, the only members of the wrecking gang who returned to Orham at the end of the day's work, climbed over the stringpiece and departed for their homes in the village. Bearse remained on board when the vessel ran out to her moorings to help his employers make snug for the night.

A few minutes later Bradley stood by the cabin door with a lantern in his hand. Alvin and the captain were forward. Suddenly the junior partner was aware that some one was standing beside him.

"Well, Cap'n Ez," he observed, "all ready to go ashore?"

There was no answer. He looked up into the face of Sam Hammond. The diver wore no overcoat. His stiff hat, battered and muddy, was pushed back on his head. His face under the tumbled, damp hair on the forehead, was flushed and scowling, and his half shut eyes had an ugly glimmer. Even in the dim light of the lantern his condition was unmistakable.

Hammond's behavior in his native village had heretofore been of the best so far as this particular vice was concerned. Bradley was dumfounded.

"Hello, Sam!" he exclaimed. "Where'd you come from?"

"Off the wharf," was the gruff answer. "Where'd you think, you fool?"

It was evident that the fellow was spoiling for a fight. Bradley, however, had no wish to quarrel with a drunken man, especially this one.

"All right, all right," he said mechanically. "I didn't see you come aboard; that's all. Want to see Cap'n Ez?"

"No, I don't want to see Cap'n Ez nor any other longshore thief but you. I want to go below and get my things."

"Your things?"

"Yes, my things—my oilskins and the rest of my stuff. I wouldn't leave 'em aboard this rotten tub another minute for a million dollars."

"Oh, very well." Bradley swung open the cabin door and started to lead the way with the lantern. Hammond shoved him aside.

"I'll go alone," he muttered.

"You can't see without the lantern. You'll have to go with me or wait till tomorrow morning."

"Give me that lantern," snarled Sam, making a grab for it.

Bradley held it out of reach.

"You're not fit to carry it," he said shortly.

(To be continued)

One as Bad as the Other.

"You must be crazy!" said the grandfather on the mother's side. "The idea of giving little Willie an automobile! Do you want the child to kill himself and everybody else or wreck the premises?"

"Well, look at you!" snorted the grandfather on the papa's side. "Didn't you give him an air rifle and a box of tools?"—Judge.

Embarrassing.

There was no room in the omnibus, and the bashful Mr. B. took his little girl on his knee. Enter a beautiful young lady. Seeing her, the little girl calls out at the top of her voice:

"Oh, papa, I'll give this lady my seat!"

Confusion of Mr. B. and hasty retreat of lady.—Slovo.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

Aged Lady Drowned In a Water Barrel

Cornwall, June 27.—A peculiar fatality is reported from Hurmany, in the rear of Dundas county, where an aged lady, Mrs. Thomas Keys, was found drowned in a water barrel under circumstances which seem to indicate suicide. Her daughter-in-law injured in a recent runaway accident, was unable to leave her bed, and her husband and son were milking when the sad affair occurred. On their return they were horrified to find her body in the barrel.

Mrs. Keys has been ailing for some time, and this is supposed to have effected her mind.

The coroner considered an inquest unnecessary.

Twenty-two at Local Bastile

There are at present twenty-two prisoners in the local Bastile, including two females. Jailor Nesbitt states that this is an unusually large number of prisoners for this season of the year. Most of those spending the season at Victoria Park could attribute the cause of their incarceration to hooseriosky.

Bad Fire at Campbellford

Fire destroyed Mr. L. H Stephens's flour mill at Campbellford on Tuesday night. The alarm was given at 11.30 and soon a large crowd gathered at the place. Nothing could be done however, Mr. Stephens had just put in about $4,000 worth of new machinery, and had a large stock of grain and flour in the mill. The estimated loss is about $11,000 with about $6,000 insurance. No one knows how the fire started, but it is surmised that some one fishing dropped a match or cigar stub.

Both Thumbs Were Crushed

An unfortunate but unavoidable accident, occurred in the extensive works of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, where a recent importation from Albion, named Clarke, lost the thumb from each hand. It seems that Clarke was placing a block of wood under a boiler, which was being turned and had his hand at each end of the piece. When the boiler rolled over both thumbs were caught, Clarke is now in the Nicholls hospital.

Fire Hall Yard Levelled

Yesterday two teams were busily employed at the rear of the fire hall engaged in levelling off the yard. A number of men and scrapers drew the gravel which came out of the foundation to the lane leading to Simcoe street to fill in the holes which formerly existed there and at the same time level the yard and make a lower level behind the fire hall, so as to make a better exit for water from melting snow of winter time.

Circus Does Damage to Streets

It seems that the Forepaugh & Sells circus did not pay for the damage they did our streets. All the city got out of a concern that took in all probability $15,000 out of town and county was $25 while our streets got fully $200 worth of damage. This is where the circus got its four-paws on, and while the local authorities, still the children, but (mention it not in Gath nor in the streets of Askelon) their daddies and mothers got more than that amount of amusement out of the big show.

Are Smith People After Autos?

The road between here and Chemong is so utterly bad that neither the big auto-bus nor the smaller autos, that are owned here, can go over it. Several owners of legal autos yesterday expressed their opinion openly that the township is making this road impassible for these modern rivals of horse and rig because no law exists to stop them. (Whilst not endorsing these statements as we think the Smithtown councillors are too intelligent to try to prevent the advance of modern utilities, still if there is even one ounce of truth to a pound of prevarication in this matter, the parish authorities would be displaying great ignorance. Modern inventions and utilities must, where proven a success, be given a chance even if "Old Dobbin" the family pow gets a dose of thrums.

Unfair Methods of Anglers

Yesterday morning a lady living on Murray street, saw a lamp being carried in what she thought a suspicious manner through Victoria Park about 2.30 a.m. She woke her husband who got the family revolver and proceeded to pay himself on the back as a parody caricaturer of burglars. He crept down the stairs, taking good care not to turn on the electric lights, for fear the burglar would get frightened! However on creeping over to the park and doing the old fashioned dime novel trailing act after the supposed burglar, he ascertained that two members of the C. G.E. Angling Club were out after glow worms and heard them chuckling in unholy glee over a scheme they had concocted to catch some fallen and worms so that the fish would eat even give a pleasant look at the other members' baits.

UNION BANK OF CANADA

The forty-second annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Union Bank of Canada was held at the Banking House in Quebec on Wednesday, June 19th. There were present Hon. John Sharples, Messrs Wm. Price, M. B. Davis (Montreal), E. J. Hale, E. L. Drewry (Winnipeg), R. T. Riley (Winnipeg), John Galt (Winnipeg), Wm. Shaw, Geo H. Thompson, Lt.-Col. Turnbull, C. P. Champion, A. E. Scott, C. W. Walcot, H. E. Dupre, Wm Brodie, H. E. Price, C. A. Pentland, E. G. Price, T. C. Atwin, P. B. Casgrain and J. A. Charlebois.

The chair was taken by the President, Hon. John Sharples, and on motion Mr. J. G. Billett was appointed to act as Secretary of the meeting and Messrs C. P. Champion and C. W. Walcot as scrutineers.

The Chairman read the report of the Directors, which was as follows:

The Directors beg to submit a statement of the Assets and Liabilities of the Bank at the close of the financial year ending 31st May last, also the following statement of the result of the business for the past year:—

PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT, MAY 31st, 1907.

Which has been applied as follows:—
Dividend No. 80, three and one-half per cent	$ 105,000.00
Dividend No. 81, three and one-half per cent	105,000.00
Transferred to Rest Account	100,000.00
Written off Bank Premises	100,000.00
Amount voted to family of the late President, Mr. Andrew Thompson	20,000
Balance of account carried forward	44,079.63
forward	44,079.63

REST ACCOUNT.

Balance at credit of account, May 31st, 1906	$1,500,000.00
Amount transferred from Profits	100,000.00
	$1,600,000.00

During the year twenty new branches of the Bank have been opened, and three sub-agencies, of these, one is in the Province of Quebec, eight in Ontario, five in Manitoba, three in Saskatchewan, five in Alberta, and one in British Columbia.

The Directors have to record with profound regret, the death on the 16th of January last of Mr. Andrew Thompson, for twenty-seven years the honored and esteemed President of the Bank, to whose unremitting interest in its welfare, coupled with his matured and sound judgment in business matters, the present standing of the Bank may to a great extent be attributed. In recognition of the value to the Bank of Mr. Thompson's services as Director and President for so many years, the Directors have granted a donation of twenty thousand dollars to his family, which the Shareholders are asked to confirm.

The Hon. John Sharples, formerly Vice-President, has been elected President, and Mr. Wm. Price, Vice-President of the Bank. The vacancy on the Board of Directors was filled by the election of Mr. George H. Thompson, son of the late President.

The net profits for the year, amounting to $446,532.73, are close upon 15 per cent on the paid-up capital.

In compliance with the authority granted your Directors at the annual general meeting of shareholders in June, 1905, it has been decided to increase the capital of the Bank one million dollars (from $3,000,000.00 to $4,000,000.00) by the issue of ten thousand shares at $140 per share, one new share being allotted to present shareholders for every three shares already held. Circulars advising the issue of these new shares and the terms of payment, have been sent to shareholders.

At the annual general meeting of Shareholders, held July 12, 1901, it was resolved that future annual meetings of Shareholders be held in the month of June, on a day to be fixed by the Directors, not later than the twentieth of that month, instead of in the month of July, as until then provided. Your Directors would recommend that a resolution be passed providing that in future the Bank's financial year shall end on November 30th, instead of May 31st, and that the annual general meetings of Shareholders be held in the month of December, on a day to be fixed by the Directors, not later than the twentieth of that month.

The Directors, at the request of many Shareholders, have decided that in future Dividends shall be paid quarterly, instead of semi-annually, following the practice adopted of late by a number of Canadian banks.

The customary inspection of branches have been made during the year.

JOHN SHARPLES,
President.

G. H. BALFOUR,
General Manager.

After the President had referred at some length to the position of the Bank, and its business for the past year, he called upon the Western Directors, who were present, viz.:—Messrs E. L. Drewry, John Galt and R. T. Riley, of Winnipeg, to address the meeting.

Mr. E. L. Drewry spoke in part as follows:—"The President in his remarks was kind enough to mention the Western Directors, and myself among them. He has left very little to say, his address really covers the ground very fully on the progress made in the West. He refers to the fact that we have spent many years in the West. I have spent over thirty years in Winnipeg myself, and a great many more years in the West, and can recall the time that Minneapolis, with 250,000 souls now, had not a name even on the map. I remember the State of Minnesota, now containing two millions and a half souls, when it had not a mile of railway nor a foot of telegraph wire in the State. I realize and have known from experience the wonderful recuperative powers of our soil. Things have looked rather dark at times, and we have been fearful of having no crop at all, but with a few bright showers, the growth has been wonderfully rapid. As you all know, and I think realize, weather conditions generally were the same the world over last winter. We had rather stormy and cold weather, but we did not despair—the meaning of that word is not known in the West. If it is in the dictionary, we cannot find it, and we do not care to know anything about it. Manufacturing in the West is growing too. I notice by the statistical report that Winnipeg takes fourth place, and it is growing by leaps and bounds. The municipal authorities are trying to introduce cheaper power. The crop prospects, as I take it, are very fair at the present time. I see nothing whatever to be improved, and I think the Bank's business is very satisfactory. Of course, one thing should not be lost sight of, and that is that capital must come in. It is impossible to develop a large territory without capital. It is something like putting a strong able young man without tools to work out his livelihood. New capital must come in there, and I should say that it should be used merely for legitimate ends, for commercial enterprises, but not one dollar for speculative purposes in real estate. I feel that the banks have done one good turn by co-operating to a certain extent as they have, because speculation in some quarters was being carried to an extreme."

Mr. R. T. Riley then spoke as follows:—"Mr. President and gentlemen, as it no doubt appears to you, Mr. Drewry is a very difficult man to follow. He has been a most successful man in the West. He is a man who can get on his feet at a moment's notice and say the right thing. Two thousand miles is a long way to travel to attend a meeting, but we have been amply repaid in coming that distance to attend the annual meeting of the Union Bank. I am very much pleased to see the changes made in this office. The one point that Mr. Drewry touched upon that I want to emphasize is in regard to speculative investments. There is one thing that I rather resent, that almost everybody discusses in referring to the Western portion of this Dominion, viz., the large amounts of money made through speculation. There has never been one year in which as much money has been made from the sale of farm lands as from the production of lands themselves. The production is of greater benefit to us, and the trade of the country made in the legitimate buying and selling of goods is immensely more important to us. We hear of men making thousands of dollars from speculation, and I am sorry to say that the impression seems to be general in the towns in the East.

"I want to tell you a little incident that may illustrate how things may be exaggerated as to the growth of Winnipeg. A man who is stated to have said to a Winnipeg man: 'I have been through your country, but notice that you fellows bluster a good deal about what you have got.' And after the Manitoba man had listened to him, he asked: 'How long is it since you came down from Winnipeg?' He replied: 'About two weeks.' 'Oh, well, you ought to see Winnipeg now,' said the Manitoba man. But the fact I want to impress upon you is this: anything we have done of a speculative nature is of very minor importance in the West. "The Manitoba farmer is a borrower. He was a poor man, and he had a good deal of struggling to meet the cost of implements and other things necessary to make his home with. The Manitoba farmer today is a very different man. We have known some who have sold out good farms in the United States and Ontario, that in the old days used to take years and years of hard work to bring into a proper state of cultivation, and have purchased farms in the West where the land has been brought into good cultivation in a very few years. The Western farmer is the best borrower that the Union Bank can have. He does not object to a fair rate of interest as the business man does.

"I think, Mr. President, that we have in the West an enormous business for the Union Bank, and with the increased facilities that we shall have in the next few years, we have before us a time of prosperity, such as will surpass anything that has occurred in the past."

Mr. John Galt then addressed the meeting:—"Mr. President and gentlemen, I do not think there is very much for me to say, as Mr. Drewry and Mr. Riley have covered the ground very thoroughly. But I would like to refer to the position of the Union Bank in the Northwest. It is certainly the pioneer institution of the country, and I am very pleased indeed to see that we are taking our share of the additional burden which the development of the country has imposed upon its institutions in the handling of the heavy and ever-increasing business of the West."

Mr. Mortimer B. Davis also spoke of the great change in Winnipeg, which has taken place with the recent years, as having reference to his particular business.

The report of the directors was unanimously adopted, and the customary resolutions were passed. The scrutineers appointed at the meeting reported the following gentlemen elected as directors of the bank for the ensuing year:—Hon. John Sharples, and Messrs Wm. Price, M. B. Davis, E. J. Hale, E. L. Drewry, R. T. Riley, John Galt, William Shaw, George H. Thompson, and F. E. Kenaston.

At a subsequent meeting of the new board of directors, the Hon. John Sharples was re-elected President, and Mr. Wm. Price Vice-President.

PINKERTON AGENCY WILL BE BROUGHT IN

Attorney Darrow Says They Were Chief in the Conspiracy---His Charge Against Mine-Owners Has Come to the Front

Boise, Idaho, June 29.—The effort of the defence to open the way for a showing of a general conspiracy extending over many States on the part of the mine owners to crush out the Western Federation of Miners has now become one of the interesting features of the trial of Wm. D. Haywood. The State is resisting this very earnestly. So far Judge Wood has ruled that evidence showing a conspiracy in the States of Idaho and Colorado will be admitted on the promise that the defence will connect this latter with their line of defence. But the defence has not given up their effort to widen the field and today the struggle will be resumed.

OTHER LINKS TO COME.

The counter conspiracy and not the discrediting of Orchard has now come to the forefront. W. D. Easterly who, as a member of the famous Altman Union No. 19, of Cripple Creek, was on the strike committee and who Orchard swore was one of the men with whom he made the arrangement for more than one crime, is still on the stand. By him other links in the chain of alleged conspiracy of the mine owners and the work of the detectives employed by them to create feeling against the Western Federation, will be put in evidence. Incidentally Easterly flatly contradicted every statement Orchard made connecting him with the Independence Depot or the Vindicator Mine.

HAS WITNESSES ON HAND.

Clarence Darrow, who is conducting the defence, asserts positively that he proposed to go, directly if possible into the conspiracy of the mine owners and claims if he succeeds in broadening the scope he will be able to prove that a widespread conspiracy existed. The State insists that the defence must lay its foundation for the proof of a general conspiracy in the same way as was done by their witnesses Orchard and that separate cases do not suffice.

Darrow says that he can bring the Pinkerton agency in as one of the chiefs in this conspiracy and claims to have witnesses here who will fully support his charges.

Correspondent Thinks Fire Escapes Should be Required in Other Places

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—I see that the Ontario Government is demanding and insisting that each and every hotel in the Province shall have an individual fire escape for each room over one storey in height. I do not quarrel with the government in this matter of legislation; still they only cover less than half the danger from fire. The licensed victuallers, who, to begin with, pay $500 a year license. Then they pay exorbitant amounts for rent, help and other things. Now right on our main thoroughfare there are scores of establishments were hundreds of valuable lives are daily placed in risk of danger from fire, where no such restriction laws are in place. There is the "Grand Central," formerly a hotel, but now without a license. This house contains scores of people whose lives are just as valuable, and valued as those of any one stopping in a licensed hotel. Why does not the government place such places under its protective wings. Again there are many drygoods and tailoring establishments in the city, where girls and men work three and four stories from the pavement. Are not these employes' lives and limbs as valuable as those of the stranger within our gates?

If the government is bound to make the licensed victuallers supply full and adequate protection to those within their walls, why does the said aggregation of our Provincial Government officials not protect people who are not spending a day or night where booze is sold.

Yours Truly,
COMMON SENSE.

SCHWANEBACH RESIGNS

Was Leader of Reactionary Wing in Campaign for Dissolution of the Douma

St. Petersburg, June 28.—The Emperor has accepted the resignation of Charles Von Schwanebach, the Comptroller of the Empire, and leader of the Reactionary wing of the Cabinet in the campaign for the dissolution of the Duma. The retirement of Comptroller Schwanebach marks the culmination of Premier Stolypin's protracted struggle for the control of his own ministry.

M. Von Schwanebach, who has spent his entire life in State service, is unlikely ever to return to an influential position. It is understood that his retirement will be followed by the resignation of other reactionary ministers.

THE TIFLIS BOMB OUTRAGE.

Tiflis, June 28.—Up to a late hour last night the police had not succeeded in making any arrests in connection with yesterday's bomb outrage.

Early last evening a bomb exploded in a house adjoining Erivan Square, killing two brothers and wounding a third, who were trying to hide a quantity of revolutionary articles.

More than fifty persons were injured in the bomb outrage yesterday and $170,000 was stolen.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Houedry Return From the Continent

Mr. Louis Houdrey the well known wool buyer of this city, whose firm, the Messrs. Houedry Bros., are an internationally known concern of high repute, arrived in the city yesterday after a three months' trip to Paris, Berlin, English cities, Algiers, Africa, and other places of the world.

Mr. Houedry is a thorough cosmopolitan, and is at home where ever he may hang his hat in America, Canada, Africa, Belgium, Germany and other countries of Europe. During his recent visit Mr. Houedry was accompanied by his wife, who returned with him yesterday. They both report having had a most enjoyable outing.

It might be mentioned that the firm of Houedry Bros. occupy the extensive premises on Water street, near the C.P.R. depot, formerly occupied by the Peterborough Bridge Co., and before the latter firm by the defunct Brick Co., who used to bring the clay for their bricks from some eight or ten miles down the Otonabee river.

Tried to Kiss the Bride

A few days ago a rather exciting fracas occurred in the south end of the city. For a little while a well known son of Erin, whose first name is Michael, was a wedding guest. He attended a ceremony in the neighborhood of Albert street, but did not stay long. It was seven o'clock when he arrived and not much later when he left by way of the window.

As soon as the nuptials had been celebrated Michael insisted on kissing the bride. The husband is not of Michael's nativity, but a product of the Kaiser's dominions. He objected to the osculation. Michael objected to his objection and incidentally started to clean out the place. A friend of his tried to assist him. But they did not progress far till they were both flung on the street. They decided not to go back, and Michael's friend, who was the least hurt of the two, took him home where they swabbed him off and sewed him up. The chances are that the matter will come before Police Magistrate Dumble, although effort is being made to hush it up.

Canadian Firms In Beer Trust?

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 29.—A gigantic beer merger is being organized by James S. Brakley, of Toledo, Ohio, who has just completed the nine million dollar merger of the St. Louis, Mo., breweries. Despatches from Toledo today state that Bailey has returned to that city and is now at work on the general merger, with the ultimate consolidation of all principal breweries in the United States and Canada, into a billion dollar corporation, as the end in view.

Among the Canadian breweries that are already listed for this stupendous combination are the Rudolph and Begg plant, St. Thomas, Ont.; O'Keefe Brewing Company and Cosgrave Brewing Company, Toronto, Ont. At present these breweries that have consented to become a part of the trust will simply have a sort of working agreement with the St. Louis combination, which is the nucleus of the merger. The consolidation of the Ohio breweries has practically been effected, and Brailey figures that it will be an easy matter to get the others in, two States already being in line.

Cincinnati capital will be a dominating factor in the billion-dollar corporation. Local brewers refuse to discuss the merger, which is being worked out with a great deal of secrecy.

Strs. Leaving Quebec

Quebec, June 28.—It is stated today that the Empresses of the Canadian Pacific S.S. line can and probably may run past Quebec and on to Montreal, by carrying 600 tons less freight, as a result of the recent action of the Quebec ship laborers. In driving shipping from this port by increasing the cost of night and Sunday work. In consequence of the laborers' action, the Lake Michigan would not discharge cargo here, but carried it on to Montreal, thence the Quebec cargo will be shipped back by rail. The ship laborers met last night to reconsider the increased rates, but the majority insisted that they must go into force.

What Demooyacy Is

Chicago, June 29.—Roger C. Sullivan has given his definition of a Democrat, speaking from the standpoint of an organization leader. Mr. Sullivan defines a Democrat as follows;

A Democrat in this country is a man who believes in a constitutional government, administered impartially under the theory of equal rights for all and special privileges for none.

A Democrat asks concerning measures only one question: "Are they right?"

Concerning a leader, the Democracy asks, "What has he done?" It believes men are best known by their deeds and distinguished from their professions.

A Democrat opposes the creation of class hatred. He realizes that there are under the law no rich men and no poor men.

Democrats believe in the enlargement of individual opportunities. Socialists believe in the elimination of individual opportunity. This carries the continents between the two parties.

Hundreds Seek Aid From Helen Gould

New York, July 1.—According to a statement made public today the requests for gifts sent to Miss Helen Gould aggregate nearly $2 000,000 a week. They range all the way from the asking ing for $15 for a set of false teeth to $1 000,000 to start a colony in Cuba. In the week referred to Miss Gould received 231 requests for money outright. Out of these 199 left the amount to her good will and discretion. Miss Gould was asked in that week for $5 000 to help form an anti-saloon league in Idaho. She received forty-three requests for aid for churches twenty-seven for educational institutions and twenty-six for libraries. More than thirty were for help for charitable institutions. Four persons presumably young women wanted Miss Gould to help them buy trousseaus. Eleven persons wanted pianos and twelve wanted Miss Gould to buy their inventions. Following are some of the other wants:

Bibles bicycles, a farm and three cows, one invalid's chair, enough air pillows to supply a regiment of soldiers, one set of teeth, five sewing machines and fifteen railway tickets.

Drenched in Blood

Tiflis, Trans-Caucasia, Russia, June 29.—On account of the anarchical conditions of Bitlis, Turkish Armenia, where much fighting between Mussulmans and Armenians has occurred, the Russian troops on the Turkish frontier have been heavily strengthened in order to prevent the transmigration of Armenian refugees and a spread of the agitation to Russian territory, and also for the moral effect of the movement on the Turkish government. A repetition of the big Armenian massacres of 1906, when thousands of Armenian refugees crossed the frontier and settled in Southern Caucasus, is feared. The Russian government first encouraged the movement as a valuable industrial and civilizing factor, but later it felt obliged to prohibit immigration, asserting that the rapid occupation of Tartar lands by Armenians was responsible for the Armenian-Tartar racial warfare, which has since periodically drenched Southern Caucasus with blood.

May Have Gone Too Far

London, June 29.—The Saskatchewan Valley Land Investment Company has been formed, with a capital of £10,000.

The Christian Social Service Union claim to regenerate 50 per cent. of the unemployables recruited from the workhouse and placed in their charge. A large proportion of these emigrated to Canada.

Referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's scheme of an "All-Red" route to Australia through Canada, the Yorkshire Post says this was a subject on which Lloyd George was pressed very hard by the colonial premiers, and it may be found that in the end he conceded more than his colleagues in the government will be disposed to endorse. At any rate, he has aroused the suspicion of some radical economists. Concluding, the Post says it is doubtful whether our recent experiments in subsidies have been beneficial to the country. Fruit dealers recently protested that the subsidy paid Sir Alfred Jones is decidedly injurious to their trade.

Broken Hearts Healed

London, June 29.—Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, in introducing the Evicted Tenants' Bill in the House of Commons, said, "Ruin is falling heavily in the west of Ireland. The turf is rotting and the scarred ugly manure is as wet as when from the sea. Such a measure as this will be taken by the population as a token of good feeling. It will do much to bind up many a well nigh broken heart and in some measure staunch bleeding wounds. There are two thousand tenants to be reinstated and the government wants to make a clean job of it, and must acquire land compulsory."

Old Established Restaurant Sold

W. J. McCallum Sells Out to a Guelph Man

One of the most important business deals that has affected our main thoroughfare, George street, was consummated yesterday, when Mr. W. J. McCallum, proprietor of McCallum's restaurant, 330 George street, which has been open night and day, for the past sixteen years, has sold his business and will retire. The purchaser of this stand is Mr. McEwen Spence of Guelph, who arrived in the city Thursday night on the C.P.R. local. The new proprietor will take charge at once.

Mr. Spence recently resigned his position as assistant superintendent of the Homewood Sanitarium, at Guelph, the place where alcoholic and morphine patients are cured. He will have associated with him, Mrs. Spence and several of her sisters, and thus a good and prompt service is ensured.

Big Baseball Game This Afternoon

The local Knights of the Diamond are working hard at Riverside Park, under management of Mr. Arthur Johnston, in preparation for their games against the Arctics of Toronto this afternoon and Monday forenoon and against Port Hope on the afternoon. Every man of the team is working hard, including Fred Whitcroft. The boys are playing fast ball, and are putting lots of ginger into their practices.

The Arctics, while pleased with their visit to Peterborough on May 24th were not at all satisfied with the way they were trimmed by the locals and are coming back set on victory. The Peterborough team is now much stronger than when they met the Toronto bunch at the beginning of the season, and should come out on top. Today's game starts at 3.30 and Monday's at 9.30. They should be largely attended. Peterborough has a winning ball team and the boys deserve every support.

Damages for Anti-Japanese Riots

Washington, July 1.—According to private advices received here yesterday, the proprietor of the Horseshoe Restaurant, which was attacked during the recent Japanese riots in San Francisco, will enter suit in the state courts of California against the city of San Francisco to recover damages done the restaurant property. District Attorney Devlin, a telegram from San Francisco says, will represent the Japanese plaintiff in the action.

Major Harper Bad Shot

Pittsburg, Pa., June 27.—Major T. Lemuel Harper yesterday afternoon made a desperate attempt on the life of Levi DeWolf, a prominent and wealthy broker. With a revolver in each hand, Harper walked into the office of DeWolf in the Columbia Bank building and began shooting at his intended victim. For some time there has been a bitter feeling between the two men and back of this affair is said to be a scandal likely to shake Pittsburg society to its foundations. Harper and DeWolf refuse to disclose the causes leading up to the shooting. Harper's shots all went wild. He was arrested and locked in a cell.

London, July 1.—It is stated that the Government will award Lord Cromer, who lately resigned his post of British agent and consul-general in Egypt, the sum of £250,000 in recognition of his services in that country.

Toronto Man Speaks Well of Our Ads.

Mr. Melville, of Melville & Co., the well known brokers of the Confederation Building, Toronto, with offices at Winnipeg, Berlin, Ont., and Montreal was in the city yesterday. Mr. Melville was here in connection with the proposition his firm offers in farm and city lands in Saskatchewan and the other Northwest provinces. Mr. Melville is one of the smartest and most successful real estate agents in the Province of Ontario. In conversation with Mr. Melville yesterday The Times elicited the fact that this gentleman some two years ago purchased a piece of property in Saskatchewan for $1,200 which he recently was offered $6,000 for. This seems like a pretty good bargain in real estate. Mr. Melville was, beyond contradiction, enthusiastic over the business his firm had done through the medium of an advertisement that ran through a few issues of The Times. Mr. Melville remarked that he had paid from $25 to $50 for advertisements in the Toronto papers that did not bring his firm one per cent of the advertisements in The Times. To quote his words, "The Peterboro Times is the paper for me. I have got better results from the advertisements I put in The Times than from any other paper in Canada."

Japan Seeking German Friendship

Kiel, Germany, July 1.—The presence of two Japanese warships, the ambassador and several members of the Berlin legation here is regarded as having a distinctly political character.

Vice-Admiral Ijuin, in command of the vessels, brought Admiral William the ancient peace of Japanese bronze, an eagle with outstretched wings, perched on the point of a cliff, a message from the Japanese Emperor expressing the latter's good-will and friendship.

Horse Owners Should Take Care

To the Editor of The Times.

I saw in your paper of yesterday an account of two teams that, frightened by an auto car ran away. Now, I do not think you gave the auto car full justice. The auto cars are comparatively new here. Horses are not used to them, still, when the owners of two teams well acquainted with the possible danger of their horses being frightened by such annoyances leave their horses and rigs with no one in charge and the horses not even tied up and them next door to where the owners of each knew well an auto car stopped, at headquarters eight or ten times a day, what could such owners expect or look for. Had the owners of these horses and rigs used 11 cents worth of precaution there would have bee no runaway. Owners of horses living in the city know that there are auto cars and that when they leave horses without driver or tie line, next door to an auto headquarters, they risk not only their own horses but the safety of the public. The whole thing in a nut shell, is that the public knows that automobiles are becoming more common every day and common sense should prompt horse owners to tie up their horses when leaving them alone, especially when near an auto headquarters.

Kaiser's Friendship for France

Berlin, July 1.—Much interest is manifested in the Kaiser's marked attentions to the French guests at the Kiel regatta. Toasting the foreign guests at a dinner, he made general reference to other countries excepting France, which he specified as "our friendly and beautiful neighboring country." After dinner he chatted for an hour with Admiral Jonquieres of the French navy. The Frenchmen were reported to be delighted with His Majesty's courtesy. They declare he is a masterly diplomat.

Baby Swept up by Toy Balloons

Chicago, June 29.—A despatch to the Record-Herald from Rockport, Texas, says: Monna, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moody of Waco, was carried into the air yesterday by a bundle of toy balloons which an Italian peddler on the verandah of the hotel tied around her waist, thinking to please her. Before the spectators could recover from their surprise she was wafted out to sea, fifty feet in the air. A launch occupied by George Munaffo of Denver, was in the bay, and he came to the little girl's rescue, firing at the bundle of balloons, he punctured several of them, and she began to settle downward, finally landing safely twelve feet from the water on the shore of St. Joseph's Portugal's King to Abdicate?

London, June 29.—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard says it is rumored there that King Carlos of Portugal is determined to abdicate in favor of the Duke of Oporto, his brother. It is probable that martial law will be proclaimed.

The Madrid correspondent says it is rumored that the king will retired in favor of the crown prince, the Duke of Braganza, adding that the rumor is not generally credited in view of the fact that the crown prince has gone on a tour of the Portuguese African colonies.

Killed at Oil Wells

Petrolea, June 29.—Henry Garrison, in charge of Mr. Wm. English's oil wells at Osborne, about six miles from here, got tangled up in the machinery yesterday, and before assistance arrived he received fearful injuries, having one leg broken in three places, and one heel torn off, besides other injuries. He lived for a few hours in terrible agony and expired at two this morning. He was married and leaves a widow and family.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

At yesterday's session of the police court Edward Chamberlain pleaded guilty to having been drunk. He is an Englishman only three weeks in Canada. The magistrate remarked, "You can go but do not come back here again. You may as well learn right now that Canadian whiskey is strong. You came here to better yourself, not to go to the devil through whiskey." Chamberlain, who is an intelligent looking man, a steam fitter by trade, thanked the court and departed.

Murphy is Dying

Los Angeles, June 29. — Francis Murphy, the temperance and temperance evangelist, is dying here.

The great Ironmaster of the Blue Ribbon movement was born in Wexford, Ireland, on April 24, 1836. He came to this country in 1850, and married Elizabeth J. Gibbs of New York. After serving in the Union army, he began his work of temperance reform, organizing reform clubs in Maine. He made his first public address in Portland in 1870. In 1876 he spoke for the first time in Pittsburg, afterward his home. There he persuaded 45,000 people to sign the pledge in the Old Home church, in Fifth avenue. The work spread until 10,000,000 persons through out the country had taken the pledge. He worked in England later, served as chaplain in the Spanish-American war, and had lately spent the greater part of his time in travelling evangelistic work.

Girl Smoked in Car to Win a Wager

St. Catharines, Ont., June 29.—Undaunted by the stares of the other passengers and the people on the streets who noticed what she was doing, a pretty girl, whose home is in St. Catharines, calmly smoked a cigaret Wednesday afternoon while seated in a street car coming in from Port Dalhousie. She, of course, was in one of the "five cent seats" reserved for the smokers, and as she was in full possession of her rights, the conductor could not have any objections, though asked to remove her by several passengers. It turned out that the girl was doing the daring deed on a bet, and, of course, she won out.

Man With Two Wives

Toronto, June 29.—"You'd go to the Central for six months hard labor," was sentence meted out by Magistrate Denison yesterday to Alfred Middleton, charged with bigamy.

Middleton has a wife and five children in the old country, but he did not think this was sufficient reason why he should not also take a Canadian wife. Middleton pleaded guilty with the greatest sangfroid.

"My wife's glad she has four husbands," he crowed. "Why shouldn't I have two wives?"

Sold Telegraph Poles to Farmers

Chatham, June 29.—A shipper representing himself as a superintendent of the C.P.R., succeeded in swindling a number of farmers around Louisville, a few miles from Chatham, to the tune of several hundred dollars.

He claimed to be at the head of a gang of men who were going to remove all the telegraph poles from the tracks, and put the wires underground. He was disposing of the poles at $7 a hundred, and he made spot cash sales. Many farmers bought poles, and are still waiting for them to be delivered.

The shipper strengthened his game by engaging a number of rooms from William Huff, who keeps a country boarding house, claiming that he wanted accommodation for his gang of men.

IMPROVE YOUR COMPLEXION

Give Up Cosmetics And Seek The Cause of Your Bad Color.

When it's so easy to bring back the bloom of youth, to remove the blemishes and fill the hollows, isn't it foolish to plaster on cosmetics?

Sallowed skin and fallen in cheeks are produced by disorders of the alimentary canal.

Remove the cause—correct the condition that keeps you from looking as you ought. Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and very soon you'll have a complexion to be proud of.

Just imagine how much happier you will feel when those pimples and murky look have gone.

Dainty looks came to Miss Vrooman, a well known resident of Belfast, from using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I used to look so yellow I thought it might be jaundice. There was simply no color in my cheeks at all. Today my skin is clear and never gets that murky, dull appearance, it had before. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have also given me a good appetite and improved my general health also."

Not only the complexion, but every organ of the body is strengthened, cleansed and made healthy by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Buoyancy, vim and a feeling of vigor invariably follow their use. Sold in yellow boxes by all dealers; 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

LIVING TO BE A HUNDRED

In opposition to the suicide clubs, race or individual, which have demanded the attention of the country ,several attempts have been made to organize hundred year old clubs, or, more explicitly, clubs composed of members who will endeavor to round out a century of human existence. To a club of this nature belongs Chief Chemist Wiley, and while he is merely in his sixty-third year he expresses the opinion that no man should live to be less than a hundred, which is in truth scarcely more than a ripe old age.

It must be admitted at the outset that there are many reasons why human life should be prolonged beyond former limitations. Sanitation are hygiene have done wonders. Diseases that were considered incurable a few years ago now yield readily to treatment or have been practically stamped out. The art of living rationally and well has become more generally understood, the extreme luxuries of a former generation are now the common, everyday accompaniments of life, and if the simplicity of the fathers and their regularity of living are not quite so strongly in evidence the extravagancies are possibly more offset by the discoveries and general advance in the medical world. On the other hand, it is not to be overlooked that while sanitation and the spread of medical knowledge have arrested or averted disease, other perils threaten the would be centenarian. He must take into account railroad accidents, the electric cars, and other perils of city streets, and, not least of all, the operations so eloquently urged by the ambitious surgeon. If he escapes these and conforms in his mode of life to the careful hygienic directions, he may live to be a hundred.

But what avails it to Mr. Wiley or to any other simple liver that he reaches the century mark if his friends do not accompany him the whole of the way? Who cares to be a hundred, or even the greater part of it, if his children and grandchildren, the friends of his youth and the sharers of his greatest joys, drop off at 65? What excesses of pleasure are there at the disposal of the centenarian that the sprightly young fellow of 60 should yearn to emulate his example? What assurance have we from the honorable president, secretary, or member in good standing of the Hundred Year Old Club that after we have conformed to all the rules and regulations of sanitary science and turned the hundredth milestone, there will be anybody on earth who will give us more than a passing thought or even glance at our picture in the papers? A record of living simply to show that Methuselah and old Parr do not enjoy a monopoly is hardly worth the while. The pioneer in longevity, intentionally or accidentally, is not a happy person. Let us live to be a hundred when living to be a hundred is the fashion.

JAPANESE LABOR

I Alexander MacLean, Canadian trade agent to Japan, tells us in one of his interesting periodical reports that within a short time the United States will have more difficulty in obtaining labor from Japan than it now has in keeping Japanese laborers out. There is, Mr. MacLean remarks, a growing demand for Japanese laborers from almost all the countries of South America and from Hawaii which promises with the demand for men for the development of Corea and Manchuria, to absorb the whole of of Japan's supply of laborers. Within the last few months the emigration companies, who deal in Japanese labor as an export commodity, have filled contracts in Mexico for almost ten thousand laborers. This is information which may touch Canadian interests also. Where the army of laborers which is to hew the wood and draw the water on the great construction works of the next five years is to come from nobody knows. In the meantime the people of British Columbia, who of all Canadians have had the opportunity of studying the Japanese at the closest range continue to argue that Japanese immigration to Canada should be prevented altogether.

From Prison Cell to Ease and Wealth

St. John, N.B., June 27.—Elmer Maxwell, the Sackville, N.B., man, convicted at Portland, Me., six years ago, of killing Captain George Baisley, of the schooner J. B. VanDusen, having been discharged as cured from the United States Government insane asylum, where he was taken soon after being convicted of manslaughter. Maxwell said that he will not go to sea again, but would work on shore and lead a just and moral life. After being convicted, he was sent to the state prison in Thomaston, Me., serving until last January, when he was declared insane and taken to the United States Government institution for the insane at Washington. Maxwell says the physicians at Washington were unable to find anything the matter with him. "Of course they could not," says he, "for there was nothing the matter with me. I fooled them all at Thomaston. One day toward the last of my stay the physician in charge asked me how I managed to deceive all the physicians in Maine. I replied that was a very easy matter. All that was necessary was to do some foolish thing every day. Do some stunt every day, but vary it, and you can fool them all. It is simply a matter of guess work to the physicians. I didn't do very much at Thomaston, just stared at the guards and mumbled when I met them. After a few days they began to take notice. It is the one thing they are looking for all the time and soon I was put under observation. Then I loosened up and went it a bit higher. I said a lot of darned foolish things, talked disconnectedly, and claimed big things in general. The physicians thought I was really insane and they removed me. It was claimed at the trial that when the captain and I were struggling together, that I stabbed him, so that he died. Well, perhaps it was that cut that caused his death, but it might have been that he drowned when he fell overboard, or that the hemorrhage of the lungs was not caused by the cuts, but as true as I am talking to you, I had no idea of cutting that man as deep as I did, nor of killing him." He could not swear whether or not he was responsible for Captain Baisley's death, but he was acting purely in self-defence, he says.

From state prison, and an insane asylum ,Maxwell jumps into comparative affluence and the easy enjoyment of private life again ,for he is now in the city to claim two estates, one of his mother's, and the other a near relative, the two aggregating $40,000, which are to be settled very soon in Sackville and St. John.

Canadian Causes Gotham Sensation

New York, June 27.—Antics of Francis Russell, the wealthy Canadian who had been at the Hotel Majestic two weeks caused a search to be made for him today by detectives. Yesterday he left the hotel in a cab and at the bank had a large amount of currency changed into gold. He had so much, according to Joseph Hays, cabman, that his pockets overflowed and he had to empty some of it into his suit case. At ten hotels he engaged suites of rooms and ordered a big supply of sandwiches which he said he desired to give prisoners in the tombs. He took sandwiches into the cab and at a laundry in Columbus Avenue insisted that his collars and cuffs be painted green. At the Hotel Majestic he ordered 5,000 pounds of coffee and a safe. Drygoods and other good things ordered by Russell poured into the hotel all afternoon. Last nigh the left for an automobile and has not since been seen.

C. G. E. Angling Club Outing

The formal opening of the Canadian General Electric Company Angling Clubs new cottage will take place on Dominion Day. The members are preparing for a good time and will certainly have it. They will go down Saturday afternoon and camp there until Monday night. Provisions of all kinds have been laid in, to last the three days and it is now up to the anglers to justify the name of the club by getting the fish they are after. Corks are all right as floaters but it is fish on the business end of a hook and line that will decide whether the title "angling" is rightly used or not.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenuous and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

CATARRH OF STOMACH RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MDE. JOSEPH BEAUDOIN,

Mde. Joseph Beaudoin, 59 Rue St. Olivier, Quebec, P. Q., Can., writes:

"Peruna is wonderful for indigestion. I eat whatever I want and no longer feel any oppression.

"Having had dyspepsia for a long time and having tried various other remedies, I decided to try Peruna and with the fourth bottle of it I was perfectly cured.

"For this reason I recommend it to all those who are suffering with that terrible malady, dyspepsia.

"I hope that all who are afflicted in this way will take Peruna as I did."

The experience of Mde. Beaudoin ought to be sufficient proof to any one of the value of Peruna in cases of catarrhal dyspepsia. If you suffer from stomach catarrh in any of its various forms, give Peruna a fair trial, avoiding in the meantime all such indiscretions in diet as would tend to retard a cure, and you will soon be rewarded by a normal appetite and healthy digestion.

The Stiffness Between Japan and U. S. Same

Tokio, June 21.—Viscount Hayashi has given Ambassador Wright to understand that the Japanese Government will not, under the circumstances, enter into negotiations with the United States over immigration treaty at this time, or at any time in the near future. It has been said that ten reports of anti-Japanese outbreaks in San Francisco are in a measure responsible for this attitude of the Japanese Government, since these despatches have a tendency to stir up the feeling which has been dormant since the supposed settlement of school controversy, but the real reason lies deeper. Just as men at the head of government will never consent to a treaty providing in explicit terms for the exclusion of Japanese nationality, while people of Europe are admitted to American territory, so, too, will they decline to take a forward step in that direction that would be involved in a treaty going further than the present understanding between the two nations.

Piles get quick and certain relief from Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. Please note it is made alone for piles, and its action is positive and certain. Itching, painful, protruding or blind piles disappear like magic by its use. Large nickel-capped glass jars 50 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Alleged Blackmail

Hornell, N.Y., June 27.—In a signed statement telegraphed to Hornell yesterday, General Manager J. C. Stuart, of the Erie Railroad, charges representatives of the International Association of Machinists with having accepted from the Erie each year until this year the sum of $10,000 to avoid a strike.

When the Erie decided to no longer pay this sum to the representatives of the association, Mr. Stuart states that a strike was threatened and finally called. The signal statement sent to Hornell by Mr Stuart is inspired by the statements made by the striking machinists. Mr. Stuart's telegram contained the following:

"If any banker or other responsible citizen of Hornell will come to our New York office, he can see the original receipted vouchers for amounts paid by the Erie Railroad to the representatives of the International Association of Machinists, in order to keep the peace."

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us, that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

DENVER BULLFROG CO-OPERATIVE MINING CO.

We told you about one month ago we would eventually open up one of the best mines in the Bullfrog District, and we tried to sell you some of our stock at 5 cents a share. If you had taken our advice you would have doubled your money. We give you another chance, but this time you will have to pay

10 CENTS A SHARE

But this is not one-third of the value of this stock, for we have discovered at a depth of twenty feet

Rock Literally Sprinkled With Gold

visible to the naked eye We want to raise the money quick to put up a necessary hoisting plant to sink the shaft and get this rock out and turn it into a stream of gold to run into the pockets of THE LUCKY INVESTOR.

¶ We offer only a small bunch of stock at this price. This stock is likely to quadruple in price in thirty days. Take our advice.

DON'T DELAY Don't put this offer later consideration or you will lose out again as you did before.

Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claims (80 acres) of some of the best proved mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zeon group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located on the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

"You mealy mouthed sneak!" shouted Hammond. "I'm fit to fix you."

Bradley saw the blow coming. He dropped the lantern and ducked. Next instant Sam was upon him, screaming and cursing. They tripped over the swinging door and fell to the deck. Alvin and Captain Titcomb came running from the fo'castle.

"What in the nation?"— cried the captain. "Here, quit that, you! Let him alone, Brad!"

Hammond yelled and fought as they dragged him to his feet. Finally, overpowered, he sobbed in maudlin fury.

"There, that'll do for you," observed the captain, clapping a big hand over his prisoner's mouth. "Crazy tight, ain't he? Hold still, or, by the everlastin' hookblocks, I'll heave you overboard! Where'd he come from?"

"Must have come aboard when we stopped at the wharf," replied Bradley. "He was dead set on taking the lantern and going below after his oilskins and stuff."

"Scooner trust a blind cripple with a lantern. Chuck his dunnage ashore tomorrer mornin'. Now, then," turning to Hammond, "will you walk to the dory or shall we carry you? Shut up! You've cussed enough."

He led the way to the side, holding Sam by the coat collar. Bradley followed.

"Oh!" exclaimed the skipper, stopping short. "Didn't shut that cabin door, did you, Brad? I've left that blasted key somewheres, and if that spring lock's snapped shut we'll be in a mess. No? Well, all right then."

They got into the dory and Bradley took up the oars. Bearse sat on the bow thwart, while the captain reclined in the stern with Hammond, sprawling and muttering, between his knees. They had nearly reached the beach when Sam gave a sudden spring and, with an oath, threw himself upon his enemy. Bradley fell backward. The dory heeled until the water lipped the rail.

"You would, would you?" grunted Captain Titcomb. "There!"

Seizing the struggling diver neck and crop, he whirled him bodily over the side.

"Now, then," panted the captain, "if you can't ride like a man, walk!"

Sam went into the cold water with a tremendous splash. It was not deep and he floundered to his feet, but the shock sobered him a little. He waded to the shore. Turning, he stretched out an arm with a shaking forefinger at the end of it. His rage almost choked him. He tried twice before he managed to speak clearly.

"I pay my debts," he gasped. "I pay my debts!"

"I've heard different," remarked the captain dryly. "But never mind, Sam; it's a good habit."

Hammond did not heed him. "I pay my debts," he repeated. "Do you hear that, Brad Nickerson? You doughface! I've got your girl away from you already, and that isn't the end. I pay my debts, and, Brad Nickerson, I'll pay you!"

He stood for an instant pointing at the dory. Then he stepped back into the darkness. They heard his footsteps crunching the broken clam shells of the road.

"Seems to love you like a brother, don't he, Brad?" observed the captain as they were on their way uptown. "I jedge from the drift of his entertainin' remarks that he's decided to chuck up his job with Titcomb & Nickerson. Well, I cal'late he'll resign by mutual consaint, as the Irishman did when him and his boss told each other to go to blazes at the same time. I met one of the Metropolitan men when I was up to Boston, and he told me his folks fired Sam because he went on a howlin' spree, so I guess this little shindy was bound to come sooner or later. Kept pretty straight afore sence he's been to home, though, ain't he?"

Bradley did not answer.

Suddenly the captain slapped his thigh.

"Good land!" he exclaimed. "Brad, I've meant to tell you all day and forgot it. The Diving Belle's insured. I went down to Obed's after I left your house last night and we fixed it up. Five thousand dollars, and it went on at noon today—leastways. I s'pose it did. He was to telephone the insurance folks this mornin'."

"Good! I'm glad that's settled. It has worried me to think we weren't protected at all."

"Well, I told you I'd do it, didn't I? The only hitch was about that dynamite. But I fixed that. Give Obed to understand we'd took it ashore. We have, all but. I spoke to Peleg, and he'll have it off in a day or so."

Bradley stopped short. "You don't mean to tell me it hasn't gone yet?" he exclaimed. "Why, if anything should happen to the schooner with that stuff aboard the policy wouldn't hold for a minute. I've a good mind to go back now and take it off myself."

"Oh, don't be an old woman!" cried the captain testily. "What do you think's goin' to happen? I'll see to it tomorrow. Come on home."

The junior partner did not press the subject, but he made up his mind that if he lived until the next morning that dynamite should go ashore the minute the Diving Belle reached the Point.

At the gate of the Traveler's Rest they separated. "Coming round to the house by and by, cap'n?" asked Bradley.

The captain's manner changed. "I don't know," he answered gloomily. "I presume likely I may."

CHAPTER XVIII.

THERE was a mystery about the captain's visits to the big house. Up to the beginning of that week he had called on Tuesday and Friday evenings only and had remained until after 10 o'clock, joking, laughing and apparently enjoying himself. But now he came every night and seemed less talkative and more glum each time; also his calls grew shorter, and he went home as early as half past 8. The sisters did not know what to make of it. It was pleasant and encouraging to have him come so often, but why didn't he stay longer? Miss Tempy thought he must be worrying over the big contract.

She asked Clara for her opinion, but Miss Hopkins seemed very indifferent. She used to come into the sitting room as soon as the work was done to listen to Captain Titcomb's stories, but of late she had gone straight to her own room. The old maids did not urge her to remain. They liked to have the captain to themselves.

On the afternoon of the previous Sunday Miss Tempy had taken a sudden notion to go over to the Methodist chapel and attend the Sabbath school concert. The chapel was on the road to Orham Port, a mile or more from the Allen home. Miss Prissy was not strong enough to go and, in fact, thought the walk too long for her delicate sister, but Miss Tempy, having made up her mind, went. She would have been glad of Clara's company, but the young lady had already gone out.

Miss Tempy had just reached the corner when she was surprised to see Captain Titcomb driving toward her in a buggy. She recognized the horse and carriage as being the best owned by Lem Mullett, the livery stable keeper; also she noticed that the captain looked particularly well dressed—spruced up, she told Miss Prissy afterward.

"Cap'n!" she called. "Cap'n Ezra!"

The captain was then almost directly opposite, but he did not seem to hear or see her. Instead he whipped up the horse and drove by faster than ever.

"Dear me!" thought Miss Tempy. "He must be gittin' absentminded. Workin' too hard, I guess. Cap'n Ez-ra!"

His Wealth a Dream

Calgary, Alta., June 27.—A warrant is out for the arrest of George McNeills who is charged with inducing by false pretences, Mr. Downey, real estate agent, to make investments. McNeill came here early in the month, representing himself as a capitalist from Valparaiso, Chilli, desirous of making investments here. He said he was a railway engineer of $250,000 of which he proposed to invest about $200,000. He decided that he would put up a big seven storey tenement house. For this purpose Mr. Downey secured a number of options on valuable real estate.

McNeill left the city about a week ago, it is claimed, without paying his board bill, and since then it has been alleged that he made many statements that were untrue. One of these was that he had $150,000 in the Calgary Bank. McNeill gave out that he intended going to Edmonton, but later on was seen in British Columbia. He is believed to be now in Vancouver. McNeill caused over $1,000 loss to Mr. Downey, and had architect Dood working for a week upon plans for a new tenement for which he did not pay.

Insane Over Murder

New York, June 27.—The first man to become insane as the result of the murder of Julius T. Rosenheimer, a wealthy resident of Pelham, is Harold H. Walsh, of No. 188 Hillside avenue, Mount Vernon. He is now locked up in the Mount Vernon police station awaiting a second examination by experts. He was examined by Drs. Fleming and Robinson yesterday afternoon, and to them he explained that he was a human bloodhound and was running down the murderers of Mr. Rosenheimer. Young Walsh is an inveterate cigarette smoker.

Before being taken into custody he walked around Pelham with a big club, and held up every stranger he met. His home is in the neighborhood of the Rosenheimer estate. Walsh's mother died weeks ago, and it is believed that grief, superinduced by the Rosenheimer murder, has made the young man insane.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

Ratepayers, trustees, and others interested will be invited to attend to discuss the particular needs and difficulties of the localities in regard to education. This step will be an inaugural measure in an educational campaign to be carried on in the country districts of the Province.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription;" it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition.

Prince Edward's Birthday

London, July 1.—Prince Edward, eldest son of the Prince of Wales, has received the first formal recognition of his royal blood since he entered the Naval College. He was 13 years old on Saturday, and the event was marked by the playing of the National Anthem before the whole college, followed by a royal salute. The young prince, who has won the approval of his schoolmates by avoiding "side," is generally popular. He has one grievance, of which, however he does not complain. That is that by special orders, all letters addressed to him are opened by the commander, the object being to prevent him from receiving remittances of money which sympathetic relatives might send him. He is allowed a shilling a week as pocket money. And he gets nothing more. He is, financially, probably the poorest of all the cadets. These also are supposed not to receive supplementary financial aid, but it seems the rule is not always enforced, and their letters from home are not opened.

Free for Catarrh, just to prove merit, a Trial size Box of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Let me send it now. It is a pure snow-white, creamy, healing, antiseptic balm. Containing such healing ingredients as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., it gives instant and last relief to Catarrh of the nose and throat. Challenge From Canoe Men Toronto, July 1.—The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario war canoe crew, six men, in a Peterborough canoe, 20 feet long, challenge through a morning paper, any similar crew in the same class, course from Toronto to Niagara-on-the-Lake, the race to be paddled in October the first calm day. "As we are champions of the Temagami district," say the Northern men, "we would give a good account of ourselves in any long distance event, and would agree to a side bet of anything from $100 to $500.

New York Paper Defends Canada

New York, July 1.—The Sun says: "W. R. Givens, a man of Canadian birth and American residence, in a recent number of the Independent, submitted a review of Canadian conditions on which the present popular opinion regarding Canada and its progress is quite flatly contradicted. We have come to look upon Canada—and we believe with good reasons—as a progressive country, developing rapidly on a sound basis, and destined to play a much larger part in the affairs of the world in the immediate future. With the statement that there is little real Canadianism in the Dominion, and really no such thing as true Canadian spirit, we cannot agree in any way. It does not accord with the facts. The federation of 1867 was the first decisive step in the march of a distinct settlement of Canadian nationality, and on every later page of the history of the Dominion there is recorded the advance of that settlement. There is still loyalty to England and there should be, so long as Canada remains even nominally a colony, but Canada's self-government is now virtually absolute with the exception of the treaty-making power and the inherent though infrequently exercised, right of her citizens as British subjects to appeal from decisions of the Supreme Court.

ORCHARD KNOWN BY GENTLEMAN HERE

Mr. W. Power the Insurance Adjustor Whilst at the Snowden House Talks of the Idaho Desperado.

On Saturday The Times m[illegible] a[illegible] Mr. W. Power of Yonge street, Toronto, who is one of Canada's veteran fire insurance loss adjustors. Mr. Power, whilst conversation happened to run along the story of Orchard, the self-confessed murderer of many men, and now on trial at Boise, Idaho, remarked, "Do you know I was the innocent cause of that man Orchard's lapse into crime." Mr. Power then went on to explain that on October 23rd, 1906, a cheese factory owned and operated by A. E Horsley (Orchard), at Brighton, Ont., was burned down. Mr. Power went down to Brighton to adjust the loss. Horsley's policy on this factory amounted to $900. After Mr. Power had made his adjustment, but before his official return to the company Horsley wrote the company stating that he had need of money to "go into another line of business." It is into another line of business." He said further that if his loss could be settled at once he would accept $600 in full settlement. This the company paid. As soon as the cheque arrived Horsley or Orchard cleared out for the West taking with him his wife's sister. This misguided woman returned home a sadder but wiser woman in a month or six weeks afterwards.

Mr. Power knew Horsley well, in a business way and considers him a thorough placed blackguard. He thinks that Horsely is a degenerate whose sense of right and wrong is morally perverted. He does not consider that "Orchard" is altogether accountable for his recently admitted and proven acts of diabolism, but that he still retains enough sense of what is right and what is wrong to entitle him go full payment for his confessed acts by the strong arm and from hand of the law.

County Taxes are Lowered

3 3-5 Mills Will be the Rate for Ensueing Year.

The general county rate will be one-fifth of a mill less than in 1906. The rate is 2 3-5mills; the school rate is .15 mills, or the same tax last year, and a new rate of 2 mills for the maintenance of the County House of Refuge. The total amount of money to be raised is $27,169.44.

A bylaw to assess, levy and collect certain sums of money for county purposes, for the County of Peterborough for the year 1907, was passed as follows:

Whereas, it is estimated that the sum of $21,057.63 is required for county purposes for the year 1907 for the payment of salaries, jurors, sheriffs administration of justice in all forms, for the [illegible] and municipal expenses, wolf bounty, repairs of roads and bridges, votes of council and other expenses; including $5,021.40 for the maintenance of the County House of Refuge, and $1,089.41 for school purposes, equivalent to government grant.

It was therefore enacted that the following municipalities be collected from;

For county purposes — Lakefield, $408.05; Norwood, $535.97; Asphodel, $2,364.72; Belmont, $771.23; Methuen, $41.72; Burleigh, $91.24; Anstruther, $58.41; Chandos, $181.05; Dummer, $1,524.90; Douro, $2,195.52; Ennismore, $1,018.93; Galway, $193.85; Cavendish, $22.65; Harvey, $522.38; Monaghan, $1,500.68; Otonabee, $5,221.08; Smith, $3,953.29; Havelock, $262.10.

For school purposes — Asphodel, $119.05; Belmont and Methuen, $40.32; Burleigh and Anstruther, $8.63; Chandos, $10.44; Dummer, $87.96; Douro, $111.50; Ennismore, $58.78; Galway and Cavendish, $12.48; Harvey, $30.13; Monaghan, $80.84; Otonabee, $301.22; Smith, $228.07.

The assessment for the maintenance of the House of Refuge is as follows;

Lakefield, $145; Norwood, $127.80; Asphodel, $561.51. Belmont, $183.91; Methuen, $9.95; Burleigh, $21.76; Anstruther, $13.93, Chandos, $43.17; Dummer, $363.40; Douro, $523.55; Ennismore, $242.97; Galway, $46.22 Cavendish, $5.40; Harvey, $124.57; North Monaghan, $357.86, Otonabee, $1,245.09. Clergyman Under Cloud

London, July 1.—Walter Swinburne Hancock, formerly assistant rector of a fashionable Episcopal church in Chicago, is under police surveillance here. He is suspected of having poisoned his wife, who was the widow of Paul Townsend Jones, of New York. Allegations to that effect have been made in the Kensington Coroner's Court, at an enquiry now being held.

Hancock during his assistant rectorship of St. James' Episcopal church, Chicago, one of the leading churches of that denomination there, was inhibited by the late Bishop McLaren upon certain charges. Hancock came to Chicago from St. John's, Newfoundland.

Did a Foolish Act and is Still Living

Chicago, July 1.—If Cash Allen, Griffith, Indiana, wants to beat his own game, the only thing remaining for him to do is to commune with Mount Pelee when the latter is in a vigorous state of eruption.

On Friday he climbed to the top of a tank containing 80,000 gallons of kerosene and dropped a match into it. There was an atmospheric disturbance and Cash casually sat down in an oat field some hundred yards away and yawned.

Then Cash rose, dusted himself and raced over to a telegraph station and wired to Huntingdon and Crown Point for some fire engines. The population of Griffith knew a better way. They brought out ploughs and ripped up a dead furrow around the town and the oil blaze was stopped.

Lake Simcoe Carp Enter the Canal

Toronto, July 1.—The fact that Lake Simcoe carp are making their way through the new Trent Valley canal into Victoria county, and are already seen in the waters of Eldon and Carden townships, has been brought to the attention of Edwin Tinsley, superintendent of game and fisheries, by George Goodwin, of Lindsay. Mr. Goodwin asks if steps could be taken to prevent the carp reaching the Kawartha lakes to become a menace to the game fish.

Mr. Tinsley replied that anything that would prevent the advance of the carp would be an obstruction to navigation though the canal. He does not share the opinion that the carp, which have come to stay, are a menace to game fish. They do, he admits, destroy the wild rice and wild celery in duck resorts.

Charged With Theft

London, July 1.—Albert Thomas Blow, a cab driver, was arrested, charged with robbing C Lavallee of Port Arthur, of $[illegible].

The money was part of a roll of $1,500, with which Lavalee meant to purchase a horse.

The police found that Blow had given his landlady $600 to keep for him. Blow has only been in the city three months and came from Douda Valley, Wales, where he was a miner.

The Western Fuel Question

Ottawa, July 1.—Senator T. O. Davis, of Prince Albert, who was in the city for a few days on Government business, was asked his view of the probabilities of the fuel situation in the Northwest for next winter. He replied that a proposition had been placed before the railway companies, which, if acted upon, would obviate a recurrence of last years unfortunate scarcity.

The reason, adds Senator Davis, that coal dealers in the West do not lay in large stocks during the spring and summer is that they cannot afford the necessary outlay of capital. It has been represented to the railway companies by myself and others that these conditions could be overcome by such a reduction in rates as would make it an object for the dealers to buy and store their coal stock during the summer. The railways could afford to do this, we believe, for they would gain by it in two ways. In the first place it would give employment to a large amount of rolling stock that is practically idle during the summer, and in the second place, if the bulk of the coal transportation were done early in the season it would give an immense freight capacity for the carriage of grain immediately after harvest, when the scarcity of cars is bound to be felt. A comparatively short reduction in rates would enable the dealers to buy their coal in advance and pay the cost of storage and insurance."

Treasure Stolen from Ocean's Depths

New York, July 1.—Two expert divers, John L. McPherson and Simon Grant of this city, have brought from Hayti a tale of one of the strangest robberies on record. It was the theft of a safe containing $50,000 from the bottom of the sea, where it had lain in a sunken hull for nearly five years.

The divers had been engaged to recover the treasure from the Haytien gunboat Crete-a-Perriot, which was sunk in Gonaives harbor September 6, 1902, after an encounter with the German gunboat Panther. It appears that the Haytien gunboat, commanded by Admiral Killick, had taken part in a revolution against the Hawtien government. To further the cause a German merchantman, the steamer Markomannia was boarded and arms and ammunition were seized. The commander of the Panther was notified, and he soon cornered the Haytien gunboat in Gonaives harbor and fired at her. Those on board the Crete-a-Perriot, rather than let the ship fall into the hands of Germans, exploded a charge of dynamite in the ship and caused her to sink. Several men were lost with the vessel. It was known at the time that the safe in the admiral's quarters contained money and valuables amounting to upward of $50,000, but no effort was made to recover this until recently, when McPherson and Grant were engaged to dive for the fortune. They had no difficulty in locating the sunken ship nor in locating the admiral's room. But when they sought for the safe they found it had been taken away. The condition of the cabin indicated that it had been removed recently. The Haytien officials, the divers say, were astounded at the revelation, but could find no clew to the identity of the submarine thieves.

Local Man Challenges

[illegible]

An Automobile Turns Turtle

New Haven, Conn., July 1.—A frightful accident, causing the death of one undergraduate and injuring more or less seriously two other students and a guest, cast gloom over the commencement exercises at Yale university today.

The victim was H. Lee Oliver, son of Mrs. J. B. Oliver of Pittsburg, Pa., and a senior in Sheffield scientific school, a member of St. Anthony's fraternity and one of the most prominent socially of the upper-classmen.

The injured are W. Strothers Jones of Redbank, N. J., a Sheffield junior, and J. Colston of Baltimore, a senior in the same department, and E. Hudson, a commencement guest of the others, all of whom live at St. Anthony's house.

Oliver died from a broken back, being crushed under his automobile after it had jumped off a bridge in Centerville, about four miles from the college. The others are suffering p from manifold bruises.

The party were coming into the city just about daybreak and the machine, apparently, skidded off the end of the bridge.

As the machine took its flight in the air, it turned over and landed just at the edge of the water, the full weight coming on Oliver, who was driving, and he was almost instantly killed.

New Haven, Conn., July 1.—Mrs. Geo. H. Russell was knocked down and fatally hurt by a bicycle ridden by W. A. Perry, of Tarboro, N. C., a Yale senior. The medical examiner found that Mrs. Russell's death was purely an accident. Perry graduated yesterday.

Sixty Leading Citizens Indicted

Denver, July 1.—Sixty or more indictments will be returned before tomorrow morning by the special federal grand jury, which has been in session since May 14, investigating coal and timber frauds in Colorado and other Western States. Among those indicted will be at least ten Denver men, among them millionaire officials of at least one railroad company, officers and several stockholders of Milwaukee and St. Louis coal companies, doing business in Colorado, will also probably be dragged into the net.

It is not likely that bench warrants will be issued by Judge Lewis for the arrest of the persons indicted until Monday. Arrests will follow immediately.

L. C Wheeler, who is in charge of 100 secret service men, who have been in the State for six months gathering evidence against the men accused of fraudulent coal and timberland entries, considers the work of the grand jury in Denver by far the most important of any inaugurated by the United States Attorney General since the beginning of the land fraud inquiries.

Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are snarely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. RAYLAN'S DIARY BARES MYSTERY

Woman Who Posed as Man in Chicago Sought by Police.

WEALTHY MOTHER LIVING

Girl Instigator of Daring Plot Forced to Flee.

Chicago, Ill., June 30. — The life story of Nagoni De Raylan, the woman who for eighteen years posed as a man, and for twelve years was secretary of the Russian consulate in Chicago, is laid bare in a diary left by De Raylan in Phoenix, Arizona, where she died several months ago. This diary and other data have been brought here by Michael Feinberg, who was sent to Arizona to prove the sex of De Raylan.

Investigation in Russia has led to the discovery that De Raylan's mother is still living in Kiev, Russia, and is the rightful heir to the $6,000 left by the decedent.

De Raylan's real name was Taletsky. Her Christian name is unknown. Who her father was she did not know and in the diary she is referred to as "the unknown." It is surmised that he was a RRussian nobleman. When she was sixteen, attending a government school for girls at Kiev, her mother, who had been well to do before, suddenly acquired 250,000 rubles in a mysterious manner.

When the girl, about to graduate, found the existence of this wealth, she demanded to know the mystery which surrounded her origin, but her mother would not tell her. She thereupon conceived a plot to obtain a share of the money. She would insist that her mother had mother had been punishing her as a girl in order to avoid military service for her "son," and she who would make the same charge so that her mother might be punished for having enrolled a boy in a girl's school, an offence punishable by imprisonment under the Russian statutes.

She laid her plans carefully. Her mother was arrested. The girl had a private personal interview with M. Coudrintini Procureur Imperial or the Holy Synod, and such were her views that she convinced the statesman that she was in reality a boy. When the case came to trial the procurator was chief witness for the government. The mother's attorney produced the doctor who had assisted at the birth of Nicolai and also the priest who had christened her. They both positively testified that they knew Nagoni was a girl. The procurator flew into a rage and the case was dismissed.

M. Pobiedonostseff now found himself in an embarrassing and delicate position. He had stood sponsor for Nagoni and personally supervised the proceedings and swore that she was a boy. He was in the position of having to confess he had been fooled.

The story was hushed up quickly, but the secret police of Russia were [illegible] for the escaped girl and they tried for years to track her.

She lived for a short time in Bielostgora, and then with money borrowed from a girl sweetheart she fled to Bergium and later to America.

After a stay in Worchester, Mass., for a time she came to Chicago, where she took out naturalization papers, got an introduction to Baron von Schippenbach, and became his secretary.

Japanese are Here Looking for Cattle

Toronto, July 1.—Officials of the Japanese government are in the city studying the question of obtaining a supply of breeding cattle from Canada. Scotland in the past has been their source of supply, but it is the policy of the Japanese, as explained by their chief envoy, N. Niki, expert from the Government stock farm at Sapporo Japan, to buy their future supply in Canada if stock of a suitable character can be purchased here.

This afternoon the party left to visit the stock farm of John Gardhouse and Sons, 14 miles west of the city. They are authorized to purchase all the suitable cattle they can find, but were careful to explain that the standard is very high.

Mr. Wm. Mein Has Passed Away

Saturday morning Mr. William Mein passed away at the family residence Louis street, aged 71 years. The deceased had been in bad health for the past three years or more. The immediate cause of his death was gangrene.

Mr. Mein, born in Melrose, Scotland, was married 44 years ago to Fannie Adams in Edinburgh. The young couple came to Canada and to Peterborough, 30 years ago, and have resided there since then. Mrs. Mein survives her husband with a family of six children. They are Mrs. R. Beach, Peterborough, Mr. Harry Mein of Toronto, Mr. John Mein, Picton, William and George Mein, Peterborough, and Miss Maggie at home.

The late Mr. Mein was a member of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union. He was a member of St. church.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2.30 from the family residence, 34 Louis street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

Japanese-American War Is Certain

Minneapolis, July 1.—That Japan and the United States will engage in war within the next six months is the opinion of nearly every subject of the Mikado resident in Minneapolis.

Students, merchants and domestics who have for some suspicious reason recently flocked to America, are beginning to express themselves in antagonistic sentiments concerning the United States and its people. Contrary to their usual reticence a score of the Japanese living in Minneapolis talked freely to The Tribune yesterday, and the tenor of their remarks was that a war between this country and their own is inevitable.

The following interview with P. K Yamagishi, a Japanese student, and the son of a powerful Samurai prince, is illustrative of the feeling that exists, not only among the Japanese in this country, but throughout the Mikado's realm. That the Japanese are making the fatal mistake that led Spain into a war of ruin with the United States can be read between the lines in Yamagishi's remarks.

"Your country," said he, "is made up of so many nationalities that the elements of patriotism are lacking. Americans love only the dollar.

"They do not care to fight; their only thought is to make money.

"There will be war sometime. No, not today or tomorrow, but sometime.

"It must come. America is not as fair as she is said to be."

Local Woman Morally Good

On Saturday evening a relative of Mrs. Richards called at The Times office and said that this woman has recently been in some trouble with the local police, was given credit, in an evening contemporary of not being of good moral character. Now the man who called at the office admitted that Mrs. Richards' liquor but insisted that no slur has ever attached to her moral character. It might be noted that nothing has ever transpired in evidence in the police court to show that Mrs. Richards has any other fault than a leaning to drink.

KILLED BY TROLLEY WHILE IN TORONTO

Mrs. Weir, of Seaforth, Was Grushed Beneath the Wheels of a Car while Crossing Yonge Street.

Toronto, June 30.—Struck down by an Avenue Road car on Yonge street, above Charles street, Mrs. Weir, of Seaforth, met a terrible death at 11.30 Saturday morning.

She was crossing from the west side to the post office, when she got in front of the car going north. The car struck her when she was in the middle of the track, and the body was drawn under the wheels and almost severed. Before the car could be stopped it had gone nearly fifty feet, and the body was terribly mangled. It was nearly ten minutes before the car could be jacked up and the bleeding remains drawn out.

They were tenderly carried into the side hall of a nearby grocery, and doctors summoned, but death had been almost instantaneous.

Before the car struck her some one on the other sidewalk called out to warn her, but she evidently did not hear.

Mrs. Weir came to Toronto to take three months' electrical treatment.

BODY WAS CRUSHED.

Mrs. Weir was apparently crossing the road to the post office when she was struck by a northbound Avenue road car going along at rapid speed. She fell under the wheels and the body was practically cut in two, death being instantaneous.

It took some time to get the remains out from under the car, which had to be "jacked up" to extricate them. They were then removed to Millard's undertaking establishment.

Mrs. Weir, whose home is in Seaforth, has been rooming at 42 Carlton street for the past six weeks. She is a sister of Dr. Welch, of this city. Dr. Welch left Saturday morning for Muskoka. An effort was made to catch him before he started, but the train had left and the news of his sister's death has been wired on to catch him en route.

Many Thousands are Naturalized

Ottawa, July 1.—Figures have been issued showing the number of foreigners who during 1906 have become naturalized Canadians. For the whole calendar year 1905, the number of new-comers who took the oath of allegiance was 6,333. Last year, 1906, the official figures which have just been compiled, the total number of new citizens was 10,342. These included subjects of practically every monarch under the sun, Chinese, Japanese, Russians, Germans, Hungarians, Galicians—in fact, the figures show that practically the head of every family which entered Canada in 1906 took steps to become a citizen and a voter. No less than 3,558 of the new arrivals from the Republic took the oath of allegiance just as soon as the law allowed. This figure was an increase of 660 over the previous year, and all indications are that the same proportion will be preserved this year.

The figures show that while the number of British subjects arriving at Canadian ocean ports is 11,851 more than in 1906, the foreigners who are coming via the United States are becoming Canadians just as fast as the statutory provision of the law allows.

The total immigration for the month of April was 14,000, as compared with 15,313 for April of last year, an increase of 25 per cent. For the ten months, July 1, to April 30, the immigration was 168,-713, compared with 124,651 for the corresponding months of the fiscal year, an increase of 44,67 or 36 per cent. This is a large increase in the percentage of arrivals from the United States.

Peterboro Defeats Arotlos of Toronto

Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park before a large crowd of people the Peterborough Baseball team defeated the Arotlos of Toronto, by a score of 10—3. Burns, who was on the rubber for the locals, twirled one of the best games seen on the park this season and had the visitors at his mercy all through the game. This morning the same teams will meet again and this game promises to be a hummer, as the Arotlos will put their best slab artist in the box, while the locals will have either Quinlan or Flaherty. Everybody should turn out this morning and see the best team that Peterborough has had in years representing them.

Wanted to Poison Sparrows

Windsor, June 30.—Dr. Merwin, who was complained against for scattering poisoned meat around his residence on Victoria avenue, from the eating of it, portion of which a neighbor's dog was poisoned, was fined $86.50.

The doctor claimed he was trying to exterminate some of the sparrows which had become a nuisance to him. He was defended but unsuccessfully, by Hon. R. F. Sutherland and J. W. Hanna.

The doctor, when paying the fine, suggested that the people who lost their dogs will not have to put up the expense of buying flea powder this season.

Are You Often Bilious?

Read This and Learn How to Prevent Attacks.

Biliousness is merely a term applied to a condition that exists when the body is over-loaded with bile.

The complexion turns yellow, eyes look dull, pimples, itching and eczema break out, headaches are ever present.

Biliousness has two great causes, constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken they not only correct the bowels, but act directly on the liver, regulating its bile secretion.

Unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the condition which causes biliousness; thus permanent cures are effected.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure biliousness and liver ills under all circumstances.

We prove this by the statement of Mr. Fenwick Luddington, of New Harbor, N.S., who writes: "Three months ago I had no expectation of ever getting free from periodical bilious attacks. They were preceded by dizziness and dreadful headaches. If I stooped over my head would swim and a nauseous feeling crept into my stomach.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills fixed up my liver, drove all the bile out of my blood and made me a well man in a few months. Today I enjoy a good appetite, excellent digestion, and the best of health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

IMPERIAL DEFENCE

Without saying that the view is right or wrong, we think there is no doubt that public sentiment throughout Canada on the whole at the present time would be opposed to any direct payment to the British Government as Canada's contribution to the cost of the defence of the Empire. It is possible if an enquiry were made throughout the Dominion that it would be found that there is no very general sentiment even for the establishment of a Canadian navy. There is no doubt that the people of the Province of Quebec, or, at least, a large majority of them, are strongly opposed to Canada being called upon to make a direct contribution to the Imperial authorities. The constitutional position that no taxation should be levied without those who are taxed having representation, or a voice in the manner in which the money so raised shall be expended, has also a considerable interest in disposing the English majorities in the other provinces against any proposal of the kind. It would not be difficult to show that to hold such a view is to stretch the principle unduly, and, indeed, to apply it in a manner entirely foreign to the reasons on which it is based. But in practical politics we must take things as they are and undoubtedly public opinion throughout the Dominion has got to be educated to realize the national status to which we claim to have attained has great responsibilities as well as advantages.

There is no reason to regard this attitude on the part of a large section of Canadians as indicating in the slightest degree any desire to sever the British connection or any feeling of hostility to the Mother Country. Rather it is caused as regards many persons, by a directly contrary view. They think the time has come when Canadians should not ask the taxpayers of the United Kingdom to contribute one dollar for the defence of the Dominion. This, while an honorable and broadminded view, is, however, based on a misconception of the actual situation. To give effect to it Canada should contribute something to the cost of the British Navy. That the Dominion is part of the British Empire and that the whole strength of the Empire would be available to repel any aggression on this country, is a fact that has, and must have, an enormous moral influence in Canada's favor with the other nations of the world. No army or navy that it would be within the resources of this country to establish and maintain could give Canada the security that she now possesses as an integral part of the Empire. Whether we desire it or not, we must admit that we are really under great obligations to the Mother Country and that her people are bearing the cost of our defence. The argument that British trade and prestige requires the maintenance of a navy strong enough to command the seas, does not alter the fact that on the strength of the British navy depends our security from menace from any quarter, and our relief from the heavy burden that even a very moderate attempt at the maintenance of a Canadian naval force would entail.

This problem of Imperial defence is one that will be solved in the course of time to the satisfaction of all parts of the Empire. Australian and New Zealand statesmen seem to realize the importance of the subject more than those of the Dominion. Geographical conditions and the greater distance from the center of the Empire probably account for this keener appreciation of possible danger on the part of our kinsmen at the Antipodes. As population and wealth increase in the Colonies both the desire to provide for their own defence, and the ability to do so, will increase. The nearer the populations of the different Colonies in the aggregate approach that of the United Kingdom, the easier it will be to reach an arrangement for the common defence on a basis that will be generally satisfactory. In the meantime there are other ways in which we can show our desire to bear some part of the burden that Imperial responsibility imposes.

A TOWN WITHOUT A TAX

The Chicago Tribune's attention has been drawn to the municipal record of the historic shore town of Guilford, in Connecticut, as an example of New England thrift and economy. For political economists, it says, Guilford will henceforth be held up as a model of prudent government.

Guilford has just voted to lay no tax whatever for the coming year. It has all the money on hand that it needs, will have more from the sale of franchises before the year expires, and it has no debt.

When the annual town meeting was held the other day there was passed a unanimous vote not to levy a town tax, because there was no need of it, and its collection and investment would be a bother. For four years a tax of only 10 mills has been laid. Guilford is the first town in New England to go a year without a tax levy since the landing of the pilgrims.

Isn't that enough to make you ask why the shrewd Yankee should be in advance of the thrifty Canadian?

Steamer Burned on Lake Superior

Sault Ste. Marie, June 29. — The steamer Batchewana, of the Gayley Tug Line, was totally destroyed last night in one of the first marine disasters of the season at Copper Mine Point, fifty miles west of the Soo, on the Canadian side.

At ten o'clock fire was discovered in the engine-room, due it is said to the explosion of a lamp. The flames made rapid progress, compelling the engineers to make a hurried exit, leaving the engines in operation. The vessel was immediately turned to the shore one mile away and beached, the crew of fifteen men, under Capt. James Gauley, all being landed safely. They reached the Soo this morning on the tug Shamrock none the worse for the incident.

The Batchewana carried a cargo of iron ore from the Helen mine for the Algoma Iron Works at the Soo. The boat was partly insured, but the Gauley Line will lose heavily on the disaster.

Both Lads Took Cramps at Once

Ayr, June 29.—A sad drowning accident occurred at Ayr on the River Nith, when Earl Garbutt, a boy of seven, was drowned, and Bert Walton, a boy of twelve or thirteen, was saved in time to prevent drowning. They were both swimming in a deep hole, when Earl said, "I have a pain in my leg." He sank immediately. Young Walton was swimming at the same time, and had a cramp too. Some big boys arrived in a short time, and pulled out Walton, but Garbutt had sank. His body was recovered later.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

DON'T EAT TOO MUCH.

Good Rules to Follow For Our Stomachs' Sake.

How often should we eat? I know people who seem to be in a high state of health, mentally and physically, who have, one of them for about ten years, eaten only one meal a day. I also know a man who boasts that every day he eats "five good, square meals." He won't keep it up, though. Nature is already prodding him with sharp little pains at his knee joints.

The stomach is a flabby, elastic sack, holding normally about a quart, although as a result of various dietetic abuses it is very commonly so distended as to be capable of containing much more. Food swallowed passes at once into the stomach, which clasps it closely and begins a series of peculiar churning, rotating movements, the result of which is to thoroughly mix the food with the special secretion of the gastric juice. Then follows the conversion of certain parts of the food into substances capable of passing through the walls of the stomach and being absorbed by the blood—in other words, of converting proteids into peptone. Part of the matter so changed at once passes into the blood, and a part goes into the next section of the tube, to be dealt with later.

In most cases the stomach should be permitted at least seven hours to do its work, to empty itself and to rest in preparation for another meal. Now let us imagine the stomach four hours after being loaded down with a heavy, complete meal, laboring hard to do good work for its owner. Imagine that the process of conversion has proceeded until it is, say, three-quarters completed and the man thinks it is time to eat a late supper. What happens? Why, the process of digestion is at once arrested, the function of the stomach itself is entirely deranged, and within an hour that stomach contains a mass of mixed up, broken down, putrefying matter that is a menace not only to health and comfort, but even to life. I could mention cases where such conditions have caused sudden death.

The usual division of the three meal system does not permit the stomach and other digestive organs to perform their work and get sufficient time for proper rest. Breakfast at 8, dinner at 12 and supper at 5 does not give us sufficient time. Even if the morning meal be an hour earlier and the evening meal an hour later there will be crowding and embarrassment of the organs. The remaining hours of the day are not long enough to enable the digestive organs to recover from the strain of being compelled to do such an enormous amount of work in so short a time.

AUTOMATIC DOOR.

Gradually Opens as Anybody Approaches It From Either Side.

Still another road pointing to laziness is a door which opens automatically. Why anybody should be relieved of the little exertion necessary to open a door is hard to explain. Of course it is useful in a few ways. If a person is burdened with an armful of articles it would be very advantageous to step on a button when approaching the door and have it open without further effort. A San Diego (Cal.) man has invented a door which thus opens and closes automatically. When about six feet on either side of the door the person steps on a button. This releases a spring which slides the door open. When he has passed through the doorway and reached a point six feet on the other side he steps on another button. This operates another spring which closes the door again. Weights incased in the walls serve as the motive power.

DOOR OPENS AUTOMATICALLY.

To Remove Warts.

For home treatment for warts these is a safe remedy, a simple one and within the reach of all. It is this: Several times a day moisten the spots with water and rub them with a piece of washing soda. This removes them, and no scar remains that is to stay. Frequently a little white spot appears after the wart is gone, but that will soon wear away.

A home treatment does very well to remove those on the hands and face when they are small, but the larger ones should be removed by electricity, particularly those that appear near the ears, on the throat and under the chin. These are glandular and should under no possible circumstances be treated by any one but a specialist. He will remove them surely and safely. Electricity has done quite so much in the removing of warts as it has in the taking away of moles that physicians consider it the best means of destroying these over[illegible]

Kiel, Germany, July 1.—The presence of two Japanese warships, the ambassador and several members of the Berlin legation here is regarded as having a distinctly political character.

Vice-Admiral Ijuin, in command of the vessels, brought Admiral William the ancient piece of Japanese bronze, an eagle with outstretched wings, perched on the point of a cliff, a message from the Japanese Emperor expressing the latter's good-will and friendship.

A Good Stock

THE GOLDFIELD RED HILLS M. & L. COMPANY

was organized expressly for developing a lease on the September claim of the Red Hills Group and on the strike of the great Florence-Mohawk vein. They have their shaft down 220 feet, cutting well mineralized vein matter, and two shifts of men with a good 18 h.p. Gasoline Hoist still pushing the shaft down.

The last 100,000 shares were sold in one week. Act quickly and get in on one of the best things in Golefield. Only 700 feet from the great Little Florence and on the strike of the vein.

We told you about one month ago we would eventually open up one of the best mines in the Bullfrog District, and we tried to sell you some of our stock at 5 cents a share. If you had taken our advice you would have doubled your money. We give you another chance, but this time you will have to pay

10 CENTS A SHARE

But this is not one-third of the value of this stock, for we have discovered at a depth of twenty feet

Rock Literally Sprinkled With Gold

visible to the naked eye. We want to raise the money quick to put up a necessary hoisting plant to sink the shaft and get this rock out and turn it into a stream of gold to run into the pockets of THE LUCKY INVESTOR.

We offer only a small bunch of stock at this price. This stock is likely to quadruple in price in thirty days. Take our advice.

DON'T DELAY Don't put this off for later consideration or you will lose out again as you did before.

Brown Bonanza Mining Co.

100,000 Shares of Treasury Stock for Sale at

10 CENTS PER SHARE

This company was incorporated February 9th, A.D. 1907, under the laws of Arizona.

Capital stock 1,000,000 shares, full paid, non-assessable, par value $1, treasury stock 400,000 shares. Other stock pooled.

Officers and Directors

President ..... EDWARD T. PATRICK, Mine Owner and President of the Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Vice-President ..... JUDGE CHAS. L. HAYES, Mine Owner and Leading Attorney of Goldfield, Nevada.

Secretary and Treasurer ..... ADAMS F. BROWN, Corporation and Mining Lawyer and Member of Listing Committee Goldfield Stock and Exchange Board.

Depository ..... JOHN S. COOK & CO. Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claims (80 acres) of [illegible] of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bond and Daisy Mines near the Zom group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprate district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be fixed at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

A GOOD LOCAL AGENT WANTED

Partners of the Tide

...By... JOSEPH C. LINCOLN, Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

It is doubtful if the captain would have heard even then, but Jonadab Wixon was coming down the road, and he also began to shout. Hailed thus, fore and aft, the absentminded one was obliged to heave to, and when Captain Jonadab pointed out Miss Tempy he turned his horse and drove back to where she was standing.

"Well, I do declare!" exclaimed the lady, smilingly conscious of a becoming new bonnet—one of the reasons for her desire to attend the concert. "I'm all out of breath callin' after you. I don't know what folks will think!"

The captain didn't appear to care very much what folks might think. He was polite as usual, but seemed to be a trifle nervous and kept glancing up and down the road. Miss Tempy, unconscious of the nervousness, went gushingly on.

"What a lovely horse!" she cried. "I declare, it must be a pleasure to ride behind him. I do so like to ride with a nice, gentle horse like that. Father used to take Prissy and me drivin' with our Dexter when he was alive—father was alive, I mean—yes, and the horse, too, of course. I hope I haven't kept you. Was you goin' to see Bradley?"

"No, no," was the hasty answer. "I was just—just drivin' down the road a ways." Then, perhaps noticing that his friend was headed toward the village, he added: "I had a little errand down toward the Port. You're goin' uptown, I see, else I'd ask you to jump in."

"Why, how lovely!" exclaimed Miss Tempy. "I was goin' to the Port, too—down to the Methodist folks' concert. I only came this way 'cause I thought I'd stop at Mrs. Wingate's and see if she wouldn't go with me. Prissy was afraid the walk there and back would be too long for me, and, truth to tell, I was a little afraid of it myself. I didn't expect to ride, and with you, Cap'n Ezra! It'll be such a treat, because I shall feel perfectly safe with you drivin'."

The captain did not answer immediately. He was busy with the buckle that fastened the reins together. But the silence was only momentary.

"Good enough!" he cried. "I'll have you there in a jiffy."

He sprang out, assisted the lady into the buggy and then turned the horse's head into the road leading up the hill.

"Why, you're goin' the wrong way," Miss Tempy exclaimed. "You're goin' the wrong way, Cap'n Ezra!"

"Oh," replied the captain cheerfully, "that's all right! I thought we'd go round by the Neck road. It's prettier that way."

But Miss Tempy would not consent. She told Miss Prissy afterward, "I felt as though I'd the same as begged him for a ride as it was, and I swan if I was goin' to let him go miles out of his way jest for me."

"No," she protested. "No, cap'n, I won't hear of it. We'll go the shortest road or I shall git right out."

She stood up as she said it. The captain looked at her determined face.

"Why, Tempy"— he began.

"No, I shan't like it a bit, Cap'n Titcomb, if you don't turn right round and go the way you was goin'."

The captain jerked at the rein with almost unnecessary vigor. The turn was made in a hurry. They wheeled back into the direct road to the Port and moved swiftly along it. Captain Titcomb did not say much, but as Miss Tempy talked continuously he had little opportunity.

"Now nice the horse does go!" commented the lady. "You don't have to cluck to him or nothin'. Father used to find so much fault with our Dexter, said he had to shove on the reins so hard to make him navigate at all that he didn't know's 'twouldn't be easier to haul the carryall himself. But, then, father was so high spirited that nothin' less 'n a race horse would do him. What's that waitin' on the corner in front of Gaius Eldredge's? Why, I do b'lieve it's Clara!"

Captain Titcomb evidently did not see Miss Hopkins. At all events he looked the other way and chirruped to the horse. But Miss Tempy not only saw, but intended to be seen.

"It is Clara," she declared. "I must speak to her. Clara! Clara!"

The young lady, who had been intently watching the approaching buggy, stepped to the edge of the sidewalk and waited until the equipage drew up. She was dressed in her new gown and jacket and certainly looked very pretty. She nodded to the captain, whose face was redder than usual.

"How d'ye do, Clara?" said Miss Tempy, trying hard not to be patronizing. "I s'pose you're takin' a walk. You look real nice. Where are you goin'?"

Miss Hopkins replied that she didn't know just where she should go.

"Well, I hope you'll have a pleasant afternoon wherever you go," gushed Miss Tempy. "The cap'n is takin' me for a little drive. Isn't this a beautiful horse?"

Here the captain made his first remark since the carriage stopped. It was to the effect that he was taking Miss Tempy down to the Methodist chapel. She had been going that way, and it was a long walk.

"Oh," said Miss Hopkins sweetly, "is that all? I thought perhaps you were going to take her over to Harniss. It seems as if I remembered you saying you expected to go there today. Good-by. I hope you'll have a nice time."

On that evening Captain Titcomb made the first of the short calls which were to continue during the week. Miss Tempy welcomed him enthusiastically, and her sister did her best not to appear jealous. Clara did not come into the sitting room at all, nor did she do so during the following four evenings.

Bradley did not mention the trouble aboard the Diving Belle when he reached home Friday night. He was even more silent than usual at the supper table. When the meal was over he suddenly exclaimed: "By George, Clara, I must beg your pardon! There was a letter for you in our box this morning, and I left it aboard the schooner. I'll bring it home tomorrow."

Captain Titcomb came about 8. He seemed really cheerful when he first arrived, but soon relapsed into the moody silence that had characterized his visits that week.

"Clara out in the kitchen?" he asked after awhile. "I noticed the light was burnin'."

"No," replied Miss Tempy; "she's up in her room. She's left some bread to rise, and I guess she's comin' down to see it by and by. That's why she left the lamp, I s'pose likely."

As the big clock in the dining room struck 9 the captain rose, announced that he must be going and went.

Bradley retired soon after, and the sisters followed his example. The old house grew still. Miss Prissy was dropping into a comfortable doze when she felt herself clutched violently by the back hair.

"Ow!" she exclaimed, half awake. "Let go! What on earth"—

"S-s-sh-h!" Miss Tempy breathed it frantically into her ear. "Don't speak!"

"I won't if you let go of my hair. What's the matter—nightmare? I told you there was a limit, even to pepper tea."

"Oh, do be still! There's robbers downstairs. I heard 'em."

Miss Prissy grouningly sat up and listened. "It's Clara seein' to her bread," she said after a moment.

"It ain't. Clara's in her room readin'. I saw her through the crack in the door. And Bradley's in his room. I heard him breathin'. Please git up!"

Miss Prissy said no more. She donned a wrapper and put on her slippers. Her sister was already similarly garbed. Then, Miss Prissy bearing the lamp, they tiptoed into the hall and on to the door of Bradley's room.

A TIP FOR WIFEY.

Solitaire Vacation Is an "Extra Hazardous Risk."

Long summer separations between husband and wife are unwise temporary divorces that often leave a trail of sorrow, grief and misunderstanding. They do not actually wreck home and happiness, but they are an unnecessary risk, like "rocking a boat," a foolish experiment that may overturn and swamp it.

When one member of the home firm takes a long solitaire vacation and the other stays at home in loneliness, Cupid, though blind, sees trouble ahead. With two who love each other the temporary separation may be the thin edge of the wedge of a permanent growing apart, says W. G. Jordan in the Delineator. These sole vacations force each into a new environment in which the other has no part; they lessen the sweetness of mutual dependence; they break the continuity of loving conference and constant confidence; they make it easier for each to face life's problems alone instead of hand in hand.

The regular annual exodus of the wife because she has a restless desire to get away somewhere, because she has friends who insist on her accompanying them or because she fears the neighbors will think she cannot afford to go away—these are the forms of voluntary separation for weeks and months that are dangerous and sometimes even prove a short cut from matrimony to alimony.

The theory that husband and wife should be separated occasionally, so that they may appreciate each other the more, is a dangerous doctrine. Vacation with each other may be new miniature honeymoons, bringing renewed love to both, but long vacations from each other are what the insurance companies term "extra hazardous risks."

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

Losing Muscular Power?

The First Sign of Mental Decay--The Warning of General Break-Down.

Changes in the nervous system manifest themselves slowly.

They show first by muscular weakness—a feeling that threatens paralysis, or by a fullness in the head that indicates approaching apoplexy.

It seems like stiffness but you soon discover there's a lack of power—that the endurance of this or that muscle is not what it ought to be.

Your friends may notice a slight thickness of speech or that your memory is decidedly failing.

These symptoms may grow worse very quickly if they are not treated by Ferrozone. You must build up the nervous system. This can be accomplished in no other way as thoroughly and permanently as by the use of Ferrozone.

This remarkable remedy, which has cured tens of thousands of Canadian people, increases enormously the digestive power, stimulates the formation of blood, the rich, red kind that puts new life into the nerves.

The first result of these changes is increased strength.

Natural circulation quickly follows, and that fullness in the head, so disturbing and alarming, too, quickly passes away.

These changes are wrought in a natural way, for the reason that Ferrozone treats the causes that excite these troubles.

For the aged and weak who need strength—for those run-down and thin—for the sickly and nervous who lack staying power—nothing compares with Ferrozone.

No tonic gives such lasting good health; try it yourself. Sold by all dealers in 50c. boxes.

Mr. J. Garrow of Toronto, was in the city Saturday, a guest at The Queen's Hotel. Mr. Garrow was here arranging for the Poison Iron Works excursion to Peterborough, which comes here on July 27th by G.P.R. It is expected that some 1500 to 2000 will accompany the excursion.

Mr. Crowley Wins Prizes

Mr. T. H. Crowley, of this city, was the lucky participant in the drawing contests at the Emmamore Picnic, being fortunate enough to obtain two prizes. One was a beautiful cushion which Mr. Crowley has received from Rev. Father Fitzpatrick. The other was a souffler donated by the Peter-Hamilton Manufacturing Company, which was taken out to his residence later on.

An Assistant Rector Suspected of Murder

Chicago, June 29.—Walter Swinburne Hancock, who is under surveillance in London, suspected of poisoning his wife, was during 1896 assistant rector of St. James Episcopal church, one of the leading churches of that denomination here, and was inhibited by the late Bishop McLaren upon charges preferred by Rev. James S. Stone, who is still rector of St. James' church. Hancock came to Chicago from St. John's, Newfoundland, and investigations made there by Bishop McLaren showed him to have been a man of evil repute.

"The charges brought against Hancock here," said Dr. Stone last night, "where that he was given to consorting with lewd women. They were never made public, but Bishop McLaren was convinced of his guilt. Being a British subject Hancock could not be deposed, and after his inhibition he dropped out of sight."

These "Trans-Canada Limited" trains will leave Montreal, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12.30 noon during the months of July and August. Connecting trains leave Toronto for North Bay at 1.15 p.m. on the same day. Close connection is made at Moose Jaw with the new fast trains for Spokane, and other Western American points.

Failed to Rescue.

Prince Albert, Sask., June 28.—Fred Simpson, a young man of 21, was drowned while bathing in the Saskatchewan river here yesterday evening. Simpson and another man dived from the ferry when it had left the bank about fifty feet, but when he rose to the surface he had by some means lost the power to swim. His companion went to his assistance, and went under with him twice, and then started to swim ashore with Simpson holding by his shoulders. Simpson's hands slipped, and on a moment he had disappeared. The ferryman and a passenger put out in a boat, but Simpson had gone down in the current before they could reach him, and they had to rescue another bather, who, though a poor swimmer, had started to the rescue.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

Only two cases came up at Saturday morning's session of the police court. One was that of a local butcher charged by Chief of Police Roszel with cruelty to animals. It seems that this man tied calves by ropes round their legs, and then flung them alive into his wagon. This, it was shown, inflicted much suffering on the poor creatures. The magistrate imposed a fine of $2 and warned the defendant to be more merciful. Two local men were charged with vagrancy, having no visible means of support and no established place of abode. They were allowed to go with a warning that next time they are arrested on such a charge, a free ticket for Toronto, with six months meal coupons attached, good at Central Prison will be handed out.

Well Known Lumber Foreman Home

Mr. Hugh Regan, foreman for the Turner Lumber Company, of South River has arrived home after a busy season's work, and is renewing old acquaintances. The Turner Lumber Company's operations were centered in Nipissing District in Algonquin Park and during the past season 15,000 pieces of timber were gotten out. Mr. Regan will be shifted to the District of Algoma, where the company has secured new limits, after his vacation.

Local Ladies Were In Toronto

Miss Stevenson, Simcoe street, and Miss Amy Clementi, 461 Water street, spent Saturday in Toronto, guests at the Queen's Hotel of Mr. A. H. Gross, the well known Chicago capitalist and head of the Natural Gas and Water Co. Mr. and Mrs. Gross, their four children and maid were in Toronto en route home after a trip to the Azores, Gibraltar, Geneva, Paris and England and Scotland, which took them some four months. Mr. Gross is a nephew of Mr. James Stevenson of this city and is known to many of our local citizens, having for years passed several weeks each summer here with relatives.

Mr. Stevenson's Name Approved

The nomination of Mr. Jas. Stevenson to the honor of laying the new Collegiate Institute corner stone, met with unanimous approval Saturday. It was generally thought that Mr. Stevenson's 55 years of service on the Board of Education thoroughly entitled him to perform the ceremony. In all the Dominion of Canada there are few men who have put in five kips past the half century for the good of a municipal body where their or his services were given gratis. pp

G. G. F. G. Pass Through City

The Governor-General's Foot Guards of Ottawa passed through the city Saturday morning on a special train, on their way to Buffalo, where they will spend the holiday, as the guests of the 74th Regiment.

A feature of their visit will be the placing of a wreath of flowers on McKinley's monument, as a tribute from the Canadian militia.

There were seven coaches on the special train bearing the Guards, and they were timed to arrive in Buffalo about noon.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure, are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

Mr. Wm. Power was Here Saturday

This Toronto Insurance Adjustor Settled Arnprior Fire Loss.

Mr. William Power the well-known fire insurance loss adjustor, arrived in the city Saturday after settling the losses made during the recent terrible fire at Arnprior on June 27th, when W. P. Armstrong's wife and four children were burned to death. This fire, as noted in a former issue of The Times, occurred in a laundry at Arnprior. Mr. Armstrong with his family lived in the building. Mrs. Armstrong awoke and remarked to her husband, "There is a fire near here you had better get busy." Mr. Power told a Times man on Saturday that Mr. Armstrong seems to have lost his head on discovering that the fire was in their own building, and instead of throwing a stone or brick into the family apartment window, ran through an alleyway to the fire hall and gave the alarm. On his return he was too late to help assist his family who were burned to death under sensational and lamentable circumstances. Mr. Armstrong had been married some seventeen years and had had eight children, four of whom had died previous to the fire.

Mr. Power came here to adjust the loss alleged to have been sustained by Mr. John Jamieson at his residence No. 85 Aylmer street. This loss was covered by the Standard Mutual Co.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, final result it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

INDIANS IN THIS CITY ON THEIR WAY HOME

Remenants of Former Rulers of Canada Gather in Peterborough after Attending Religious Ceremony at Chemong---Times Representative Interviews Two Chiefs and Several Important Members of Canada's Wards.

It was noted in our issue of Saturday that on Saturday an unusual number of Indians were present in the city that day. Yesterday the conundrum was solved when a Times representative met a wandering body of the descendants of our original and aboriginal owners of the soil who were a blue and gold badge some eight or ten inches long. To the Indian our representative said "What are so many of you gentlemen of the red skin and scalps tied with wampum belts decorated, doing here?" To this the dusky descendant of the forest replied "Why we are here from all quarters to attend as we did Sunday, the opening of the Chemong Village church. In reply to further questions our informant Mr. Ketchemore, chief and past master at Georgian Island, this name by the way in English, means Big Canoe, replied that Indians from Christian Island, Parry Sound, Parry Harbor, Sarawauna (this spelling is writt n by the Indian chief who gave us the information), Rama, Lake Couchiching, Lake Simcoe, Hiawatha, Alnwick and other Indian villages. These Indians gathered from all quarters of Ontario, and it is to their credit that, after a visit on business and a day spent in the city where "Fire Water" is sold, not one of them was seen the worse of liquor. In this connection, a Times man spoke to several of the Indians in turn regarding their restriction from their rights of procuring liquor as do their white successors to the gift. Each and every one of the Redmen (whit by the way are more white than red owing to intermarriage) rather laughed at this restriction saying, "Why, we are as good and quiet citizens as are gin peggie. Many of our people are teetotalers. Still those who want liquor get it and will always get it as long as liquor is sold." All these seen by The Times, report having had a splendid outing and as proud that their congress at Chemong could not only erect not one church, but be inducted to perform their connecting link between the ancient owners of the soil and the usurpers by force of arms. Every Indian in the city as far as seen by The Times representative is a loyal supporter of the Dominion Government irrespective of party politics.

Eye Hurt by Burst Glass Water Guage.

In consequence of the accidental breaking of a water glass of the boiler of the government steamer "Empire," Engineer W. P. Costrieum had an eye somewhat severely injured yesterday morning. The Empire is working in connection with the dredge "Emmerson" at Dangerfield, and it was there that the accident occurred. Mr. Costrieum came up to the city on the Empire and had the injured optic dressed. A piece of glass had lodged in the eye and the doctor had to remove it.

admirable pulpit orator in George street church. The office was crowded to the doors on this farewell occasion, and the service was greatly enjoyed, although tinged with regret at the doctor's departure.

Beaverton Beats the Local Players.

Good Game of Lacrosse Disgraced by Many Rows and Fights

Saturday, notwithstanding the rain during the early part of the afternoon and the threatening appearance of the sky until later on, some five or six hundred people, many of them visitors from Beaverton, gathered at Riverside Park to see Beaverton and Peterboro play lacrosse. Mr. Thos. Henry acted most impartially and capably as referee. During the whole game in which 11 goals were made, not a single outcry was heard against his decisions by the partisans of either side. Mr. Henry is, without doubt one of the best and most impartial referees we have had on a Peterborough field. The game was somewhat exciting, although the locals were not up to their usual play. Beaverton's team play was far superior to that of the Peterborough boys. It was remarked more than once in the field and grand stand that the Peterborough players had their eyes on the grand stand too often. The game was a very rough one, several fights taking place. In this connection the fault lay with both sides. It seems to us that when two players deliberately lay down their sticks and take to fisticuffs, that such players should be laid off for the balance of the game. Twice a doctor had to be called to attend players. At the beginning of the game it looked as if the locals would have everything their own way as they got three straight goals. Then Beaverton got in one. Peterborough got another and then Beaverton seemed to be playing a one team game and ran up five more goals. Peterboro when the score stood 6-4 against them made a good fight and got another, leaving the match 6-5 for the visitors. At the last part of the game Beaverton seemed to toss the ball from one part of the field to another just to kill time and prevent a chance for a tie.

Former Local Man From Kentucky.

Mr. Harry Stewart Returns After Thirteen Years.

Mr. Harry Stewart, son of Mr. Noble Stewart, of Otonabee, a visitor in the city after 13 years' absence. Mr. Stewart went to Louisville, Kentucky, where he has made his home during that time. At present he is connected with the post office department at Louisville, and is accompanied to Peterborough by his wife and one child, who will remain here until the end of July.

Rich. Hall's Stony Lake Cottage Burnt.

Handsome Summer Residence Destroyed By Electric Juice.

Much interest and sympathy was noticeable throughout the city Monday evening, when those who had attended the various Stony Lake excursions that day brought to the city the intelligence that those aboard had actually seen the destruction by fire of Mr. Rich. Hall's handsome cottage, on Anchorage Island, Stony Lake. This conflagration was evidently due to lightening. The storm came up just before three o'clock and lightening was accompanied by a terrific down-pour of rain. When Mr. Hall's cottage was hit the crash of thunder which followed was heard distinctly by the excursionists, who knew that something had been hit.

Local Man is Well Mentioned.

The Sudbury Mining News of June 28th says: Mr. J. A. Tully, special agent for the Oddfellows' Relief Association, was in town this week in the interests of the association. Mr. Tully was on his return trip from the Soo, where he spent a few days, and after a stop at Sudbury will proceed to his home in Peterborough. Mr. Tully's territory extends from ocean to ocean and in a few months he will commence a western trip which will probably extend to Victoria.

Mr. Tully returned to Peterborough on Saturday night. During his absence of three weeks he visited not only Sudbury and the Soo, but Parry Sound, Latte Current, Mississauga, Thessalon, Bruce Mines, Webbwood and North Bay. He reports Oddfellowship as flourishing in all these centers.

Preparing for the Glorious Twelfth.

During the past few days quite a number of local citizens, all of whom are heavy ratepayers, have called at The Times office in reference to what they allege to have seen at the new Aylmer street fire hall. The matter of their complaint as taxpayers is that the doors between the active machinery of the department that puts out fire and the horses that draw said machinery are held shut by sticks thrust against said doors, which it has been alleged would take three men to remove in case of a "hurry up" call on the brigade.

If such allegations are correct some action should be taken to obviate this difficulty. It is alleged by these ratepayers that some seven weeks ago, the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council passed a resolution that $100 should be expended to provide electrical fire alarms to open and close the doors that open automatically, to let the horses out when a fire alarm is struck. Now, if such is correct, it seems peculiar in face of the appropriation for this purpose, that these doors, if as alleged is correct, that they should have to be shut with sticks.

Musquitos Bother 24th Field Battery.

Black Flies May Be Small But They Get There Just the Same.

The 24th Field Battery, Canadian Artillery, which has been in camp at Petawawa for the past two weeks, returned home on Sunday afternoon. The Battery, whose strength and equipment has been noted in a former issue of The Times was in command of Major T. W. H. Young. The other officers are Capt G. R. Hall, acting adjutant, for 14th Brigade, 13th Regts. R. H. Leary, T. W. McDonough, Battery Sergt.-A chinson, Quartermasters, Sergt. Boyle, O R. Sergt. R. A. W. Hay, Sergts. F Gucin, Grey, E. Clancy and Galvin.

Members of the Battery all had a good time in evident good health. They did kick about the black flies and mosquitos, which were not only omnipresent, omnipotent, but an infernal nuisance.

Prominent Citizens Thrown Into Prison

Mexico City, July 3.—Word has been received in Mexico City that President Cabrera in Guatemala has ordered the arrest of 100 citizens of that republic on the charge of alleged complicity in the recent attempt to assassinate him. All were thrown into prison and herded into squads of twenty, and tried in groups. Two bands have been tried and many of the accused sentenced to death. Among the men imprisoned are some of the most wealthy and prominent men in the country.

The statement is made that these men have long been on Cabrera's black list, and that the charges against them were trumped up for political reasons.

When the news of the wholesale arrests became generally known the diplomatic corps, with the exception of Philip A. Brown, the U.S. Charge d'Affaire protested. No attention was paid to these protests by President Cabrera. The British Minister was thereupon charged with drawing up a note detailing the incidents of the trial which was characterized as a farce. This note is to be sent to the Powers.

London, July 2.—At the meeting of the founders of the celebrated Barnardo Homes, Lord Brassey stated that 19,000 children had been sent to Canada from that institution.

CHASE OF THE MURDERER.

He Was Getting a Shave When Captured.

Utica, N.Y., July 3.—An exciting man hunt after George Delcour of Lake Placid came to an end yesterday morning near Bloomingdale, about 15 miles from the scene where Delcour committed the crime for which he was wanted. Delcour had been driving his horse on the sidewalks in Lake Placid, and Policeman Fred Cutler and John Arnould went out to gether him in. They found him in a barber shop getting shaved, and Cutler told him that as soon as the job was over they wanted him to go to the town hall with them. Delcour said that he didn't propose to go anywhere with them and leaping from the chair shot Cutler over the heart. Arnould ran in and exchanged several shots with Delcour, but finally got a bullet in his pistol arm and retired. Then Delcour, waving the pistol, sought the woods and escaped. In a little time the big hotels and various reports turned out automobiles, livery rigs, and horseback riders, and armed men, who followed the desperado. It was learned that he had gone towards Saranac Lake, and both roads were patrolled. However, Delcour escaped his pursuers, and passed through the village of Saranac Lake without detection. As the whole country had been aroused, and his crime was known in every direction where the telephone lines ran, Delcour was soon heard of west of Saranac Lake. Large numbers of the searchers followed, and about two o'clock in the morning the man was surrounded and captured near Bloomingdale.

Cutler is very dangerously wounded, and is not expected to live.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood an dmucous surfaces of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Rev. Dr. Torrance Makes Valedictory.

Respected Pastor of St. Paul's Leaves With Best Wishes from His Congregation.

ready acquainted with the facts of this article, we might mention that this is the first issue since our printers went on Saturday night getting out our paper of Monday. After the communion service in St. Paul's church was over Sunday morning, Rev. Dr. Torrance gave his valedictory, after 31 years of faithful services. This respective pastor remarked that he had presided at every communion service in 31 years, with the exception of one, when he was ill. He looked back upon the past when he and the congregation had assembled in the banqueting house. During the past five months it was difficult to keep back his tears as he said farewell. He had come among the people 31 years ago young and inexperienced. He spoke of the help and support received from the congregation, of their devotion and loyalty to him in th eearlier and later days; how the membership had grown and the church had increased both in structure and attendance. On the occasion of his starting housekeeping, his marriage day and other occasions, and lastly the donation of $2,500 as a retiring honorarium had testified to the appreciation in which his work was held. This severance was the greatest sorrow that had ever come into his life.

"I resigned my pastorate," he said further, "because I was given to understand that a considerable portion of the congregation did not believe that my retention was for the best interests of St. Paul's church, so I resigned. I was led to understand a number believed that under another pastor, the church would make greater progress—spiritually and financially. I therefore felt that it was my duty to resign. My interest in the church I shall ever keep up with deepest interest. May God's richest blessing rest upon you all, and may you all work together in the best interests of St. Paul's.

A Kick About the Fire Hall

Millbrook is going to celebrate the Twelfth of July in right loyal style and it is anticipated that on that occasion the town will be overrun with the wearers of King Bill's colors. Among other preparations is one that stands alone for uniquiness and indelibility as evidenced by the fact that the new granolithic sidewalks on the main street is stamped in six inch letters with the soul stirring legend "No Surrender." These letters are blocked into the new sidewalk in such a manner that they cannot fail to attract the attention of passership, and in order to remove the motto it will be necessary to tear up and replace a section of the walk. This work is the outcome of special inducements offered the side walk gang on the part of a loyal Orangeman to impress visitors with the suggestion that Millbrook is so loyal to the memory of King William III. and the residence of Londonderry, that even the sidewalks on the streets proclaim with one accord "No Surrender."

Remarkable Invention FOR THE CULTURE OF HAIR

THE EVANS VACUUM CAP is a practical invention constructed on scientific and hygienic principles by the simple means of which a free and normal circulation is restored throughout the scalp. The minute blood vessels are gently stimulated to activity, thus allowing the food supply which can only be derived from the blood, to be carried to the hair roots, the effects of which are quickly seen in a healthy, vigorous growth of hair. There is no rubbing, and as no drugs or chemicals of whatsoever kind are employed there is nothing to cause irritation. It is only necessary to wear the Cap three or four minutes daily.

60 DAYS' FREE TRIAL!

The Company's Guarantee

An EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent you for sixty days' free trial. If you do not see a gradual development of a new growth of hair, and are not convinced that the Cap will completely restore your hair, you are at liberty to return the Cap with no expense whatever to yourself. It is requested, as an evidence of good faith, that the price of the Cap be deposited with the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit Company of London, the largest financial and business institution of the kind in the world, who will issue a receipt guaranteeing that the money will be returned in full, on demand without questions or comment, at any time during the trial period.

The eminent Dr. I. N. Love, in his address to the Medical Board on the subject of Alopaecia (loss of hair) stated that if a means could be devised to bring nutrition to the hair follicles (hair roots) without resorting to any irritating process, the problem of hair growth would be solved. Later on, when the EVANS VACUUM CAP was submitted to him for inspection, he remarked that the Cap would fulfil and confirm in practice the observations he had previously made before the Medical Board.

Dr. W. Moore, referring to the invention, says that the principle upon which the EVANS VACUUM CAP is founded is absolutely correct and indisputable.

An illustrated and descriptive book of the EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent post free, on application.

CITY FATHERS IN COM. OF WHOLE

Mr. Mahony Will Continue Handling Dredgings from River at 11-2o. a Cubic Yard---Ice for Drinking Fountains.

The City Council met in Committee of the Whole last night, when there were present Mayor McWilliams presiding and Aldermen Bradburn, Phelan, Morrow, Tovey, Duncan, Wilson, McIntyre, Morgan, Elliott and Johnston.

The first question taken up was that of the contract between Mr. Mahoney and the city for handling the dredgings from the Government dredge at 11 1-2 cents per yard instead of 8,1-2 cents as tendered for by Mr. Mahony. The matter was referred to in full last week.

Alderman Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston,—That Mr. Mahony go on with this work at 11 1-2 cents per cubic yard, the city repair the cars as necessary.—Carried.

TO KEEP $200 IN HAND.

The tax collector's request that he be allowed to keep $200 of tax receipts in hand instead of only $50 was passed.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre,—That the amount of Mr. Green's bond be referred to the Finance Committee with a view to a possible reduction.—Carried.

LACK OF DRIVERS.

A deputation of the Fire Brigade waited upon the Council. Mr. Metherall being the spokesman. Mr. Metherall, deputy-chief, pointed out that only one driver now sleeps in the Fire Hall and that therein no alarm connection with the second driver. The Brigade positively refuses to man the second rig without a properly qualified driver.

Chairman John Smith offered that there should be electric openers to the stable doors; the Brigade objected to propping up the doors with sticks at the time of a fire, in fact they objected to a former opening of the new Fire Hall until electrical door openers were furnished. They thought Peterborough had outgrown a village status, and this hall should be provided with up-to-date appliances commensurate with the expenditure upon a modern building.

The firemen also contended that the new alarm bells on their houses are not strong enough to give a moderate alarm.

The manufacturers of this alarm system have already been notified of this effect.

Fireman Butcher offered that any person can get into the hall and push the alarm button. The big doors will not close correctly, and he has been aroused more than once by a false alarm. The Council will attend to this.

Chief Rutherford contended that there should be a shift put on each side of stables. There is now takes three men to get a team of horses out for want of electric openers. And the front doors won't open at all. He also offered that three drivers should sleep in the hall; the brigade is no better off today with a foreman than previously with but one. he could not understand why a foreman should not sleep on the premises, otherwise he is only useless to the brigade. In conclusion he asserted that it would be foolish to open the new hall until it was in up-to-date shape.

The foreman of the fire hall will be instructed to have the necessary repairs made to the fire hall doors at once.

The chairman of the Fire Water and Light Committee was instructed to report on the other defaults at once, with a view to leaving no stone unturned to place the new fire hall on an equal footing with any hall in the province.

ICE FOR FOUNTAINS.

On motion of Ald. Phelan the chairman of Property Committee was authorized to make best arrangements possible for supplying the public drinking fountains with ice.

KIRKFIELD LIFT LOCK.

Ald. Elliott suggested that the City Council should attend the opening of the Kirkfield lift lock next Saturday.

Ald. Wilson thought the council should get an official invitation to this function.

The mayor offered that it would be derogatory to the city's interests for the council to attend as ordinary excursionists.

No definite action was taken on this matter.

CARE OF FIRE HALL.

Ald. Johnston regretted that the best terms he could reach for keeping the bad rooms in new fire hall clean and making beds was $9 per day the Parnell boys $60 a year each. He contended that these men are keeping the rooms in very satisfactory condition, and recommended that they be paid this amount for a continuance of this service.

Ald. Johnston also recommended that electric door openers be furnished for such doors.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston—That the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to have electric door openers placed on six doors in the new fire hall at $25 each.—Carried.

Ald. Morgan moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre.—That the present two fire hall drivers be paid $100 between them for looking after the rooms, this arrangement to date from the time they started to do the work.—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

A Life Prisoner Freed

Kingston, July 2.—There was released from the penitentiary here yesterday life-prisoner named Alexander Gillis, who has been for the past twenty-two years within prison walls.

In the year 1885 Gillis murdered a man in Nova Scotia, striking him on the head with a piling pin. He was sentenced to be hanged, but later, the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. For nine years he remained in the penitentiary at Dorchester, N.B. In 1891 eight prisoners from that institution were transferred to the penitentiary at Kingston, and since then Gillis has remained here.

Several times he tried to get the justice department at Ottawa to review his case, but each time somebody blocked his attempt to get pardoned. Now Mr. Aylesworth has seen fit to grant the life-prisoner his parole, and at noon yesterday Gillis passed through the penitentiary gates a free man. He immediately left for the United States. Gillis originally belonged to Charlottetown, P.E.I., in the penitentiary he was a model prisoner.

Cadet's Romance a Vain One

Montreal, July 2.—The action of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Agnew, to have the marriage of their son Augustus W. Agnew, to Miss Mai Mabel Gilbert annulled has failed. In 1904 Agnew, who was cadet at the Royal Military College, Kingston, married Miss Gilbert, who is an honor graduate of Queen's University, and was then principal of the Kingston Ladies' College. At the time he was only a minor, only twenty years and six months old, but the judge held that once he came of age the parents' rights of action to annul the marriage ceased.

A few months ago Mrs. Agnew, sr., entered a counter-action against Mr. and Mrs. Agnew and their daughter, Miss Kathleen Agnew, for $53,000 for the alienation of her husband's affections, alleging most cruel and inhuman treatment. The case will probably come up for trial this fall.

How Holiday was Spent.

Dominion Day has gone and it was a delightful day for all. Thousands went out of the city, down the river and up to Stony Lake, while the city parks were crowded, Jackson Park being the favorite.

London, July 2.—Captain F. A. Holt has obtained a divorce from his wife who eloped to Canada with another officer named Ernest Walter Appleby while her husband was besieged by Boers.

Can you use a Strong, Sturdy Set of BRAINS?

Eat

Grape-Nuts

A man said:

"I don't believe you can arrange food so that it will go to rebuild and nourish the brain. Grape-Nuts is a most delightful tasting food, but I can't understand how you expect any certain food to be appropriated by any certain part of the body."

A good earnest skeptic and well worth attention.

Actual results are better than any theory pro and con. Grape-Nuts food is being eaten by millions of people all over the world and any interested person can satisfy himself by questioning his neighbor as to the result of the use of Grape-Nuts. The testimony is given over and over that after 10 days' use there comes a feeling of strength, sturdiness, clearness of intellect and power of the mind that is unmistakeable.

"There's a Reason."

Thinking uses up each day parts of the filling of the cells in brain, and Nature demands albumen and natural phosphate of potash (not from the drug store) to make new the soft jelly-like substance (gray matter) which is used as the filling of these brain cells.

Grape-Nuts contains these elements direct, from Mother Nature and prepared in the form of a most delicious and dainty food, practically pre-digested and quickly absorbed into the system.

The hard stubborn facts are that Grape-Nuts does build brains. Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

THE DANGER OF LIVING

Truly life is full of peril. Not merely the peril that comes with steam and electricity, and gasoline motors, perils by land and perils of water, but the dangers that confront us even when we think that we are following the most hygienic laws of nature. Exactly where we stand we know not, for just as we have learned from Mr. Gladstone and Dr. Fletcher that each mouthful of food should be chewed patiently from 20 to 100 times, according to the substance thereof, along comes Dr. Wiley and warns us against the danger of too much chewing. Rather should we bolt our food, after the manner of the intelligent dog, for notably in the case of meat much chewing is the forerunner of serious indigestion. And when we have meekly accepted this doctrine, up rises a physician, fresh and ruddy from his sixteen days' fast, and tells us not to eat at all, but drink copiously of sparkling water, for eating is a vile habit, productive of many diseases of the digestive organs.

Still bewildered, we are constrained to resort to a cold bath, which is much admired of certain medical gentlemen. On the brink of the tub another American expert halts us and assures us that nobody ever did enjoy a cold bath, and that, moreover, it is as dangerous as it is unpleasant. We heat the water and again we are checked by an English scientist, who warns us to forbear from soap if we must bathe, because, as the Lancet admits, soap is the cause of the frequent inability of the Anglo-Saxon to resist disease. Even the fact that if we die we die clean cannot entirely reconcile us to the thought of a premature demise. And so, unfed, unwashed, we go about our daily business or seek in germ infested sheets the sweet oblivion of all that makes life one perpetual menace. Assuming that we have slept three hours and a half, Mr. Edison wakes us up and assures us that in excess of slumber we are despoiling our natural resources, and swiftly inviting general debility. We arise, possibly reluctantly, and await the next expert opinion as to the development of a long and merry life.

Now, in the absence of testimony from Methuselah and old Parr, we must accept every suggestion that is offered or reject them all with "a plague o' both your houses," or try to live up to the teachings of the grandmothers. These were not numerous, but they were explicit and mandatory. They involved the general principle, "Eat slowly; chew your food," without any special enumeration of jaw movements. They maintained the doctrine, "Early to bed and early to rise," without defining the exact hours. They insisted upon the old fashioned Saturday night soak, with soap and plenty of it. And the subjects of this treatment lived to a fine old age or died young, according as Providence decreed, and with no haunting fear that sleep, or meat, or soap was shortening their days. Artemus Ward said, "We are governed 3 mutch," and Artemus passed away before the medical experts and the scientific gentry assumed entire charge of our living and dying, even when quarreling one with the other. What he would say in the present emergency would require probably all the ingenuity of his exuberant spelling.

A VISIT FROM MARS

Astronomers are generally a disquieting cult. They keep us ducking our heads in dread lest some wild and random comet may strike us. Of late the heavenly bodies have been more riotous than usual, and we have recovered from one fear of celestial collision only to be affrighted at the reported imminent danger of another. Sometimes we have tranquil weeks when the universe appears to be running along all right and we are permitted to turn our attention to the Panama canal, the "Brownsville affair," the "Ohio situation" and other more or less profitable topics. Then we pick up our newspaper and suddenly and without warning learn that some celebrated astronomer has discovered a hitherto unsuspected comet that is making straight for us at the rate of a billion or so miles a minute. The world is told to look out, but what's the use? A comet is not a thing easily avoided. We gaze up into the serene heavens and contemplate the infinite mystery of the twinkling worlds. Everything appears normal with each star winging its everlasting flight according to the original specifications. But somewhere afar in sidereal space a greedy comet, like an empyreal shark, has sped us out and is making for us with malevolent intent. What is the good of warning us and thus giving us the shudders? We are as helpless as the sturdy trumblebug pursuing his provident calling in front of the steam road roller.

The astronomers, however, have discovered something pleasant in the heavens, which has diverted their attention from the doleful and the threatening. Mars, our mysterious neighbor, is coming to pay a visit to the earth. Within a few weeks the planet will be only 35,000,000 miles away, and an American expedition has gone to South America to take photographs from the top of the Andes. While 35,000,000 miles seems, to the lay mind, quite a distance, to the astronomers, who think in billions of miles and millions of years, Mars will be within speaking distance. They are very enthusiastic over the prospect of studying Mars, and learning, if possible, if there is human life upon it. When the two bodies get close to each other it will be possible to make observations that may develop hitherto unknown or even unsuspected Martian conditions. It must be remembered that many scientists contend that Mars supports beings of high intelligence and physical achievements. Many indications bear out this theory, and the act adds zest to the coming observations. Let us hope that the long-expanded-of scheme to communicate with the people of Mars may find people of Mars may find fulfillment as a result of the present friendly visitation.

Each Had a Spouse When They Married

St. Catharines, June 30.—Just a week ago last Monday Mrs. Beam and a man named Gibson slipped over to Buffalo, and were quietly married by a judge, who gave the fee paid him to a charitable institute, and thus let the cat out of the bag. Both Gibson and the woman had spouses to live, so it was a double case of bigamy. The judge's act of charity brought the Gibson-Beam nuptials into a Buffalo paper, and that gave the thing away to the folks at home. Lewis Auger, the woman in the case, and good looking, was married to Sidney Beam of Hamberstone, a few years ago. They had one child. Two years ago they separated. Mrs. Beam lived in Welland up to a couple of months ago, when she went to Sherkston to keep house for Gibson, whose second wife, a daughter of Jefferson Bailey, had left him. When Sidney Beam read of his wife's marriage in Buffalo to Gibson he laid a complaint with the police. Detective Moriarty swooped down with an automobile, and brought the erring couple to Welland jail last Monday.

—Tomorrow Mr. G. P. Preen, managing director of the Brinton Carpet Factory, and Mr. Reginald S. Brinton, of Kidderminster, leave on a trip through the Eastern States, going by way of Niagara Falls. Mr. Brinton sails on the steamer "Baltic" from New York on July 11th for his home in England.

Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety, cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc. surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

FACTS ABOUT SALT.

How the Waters of the Ocean Got Their Saline Properties.

How did the sea become salt? Have you had that question yet in your physical geography class? Whether you have or not, perhaps you might be interested in a little talk about it and about a few other things connected with salt.

The salts of the sea are sodium chloride (common salt), magnesium, potassium and calcium, all minerals, of course, which are carried to it by the rivers and other streams. These minerals are washed out of the rocks of the earth and reach the sea in a state of solution. The water of the sea is being constantly evaporated by the sun's heat, and it comes back to the land as rain, snow, hail or sleet, but the salt does not come with it. The sea therefore is all the time getting more salt, but so gradually that we do not notice it.

It has been estimated that if all the salt of the sea were crystallized and spread out over the continent of North America it would cover it with a layer at least half a mile thick.

As salt may be obtained by evaporating sea water, you may wonder why it is not generally used for that purpose. In some parts of the world it is so used for obtaining all the salt the people need, but a better quality is obtained from mines of rock salt and from salt springs.

There are only two states in this country, the editor believes, where rock salt is found—Louisiana and Virginia—but there are salt springs in many of the states. Salt is obtained from them by boiling the water, when the liquid passes off as a vapor, leaving the salt as a crystal. Very quick boiling makes the fine salt that we use on our tables; slow boiling makes coarse salt.—Chicago News.

No Imitation Opal.

It is said that all the precious stones have been counterfeited, with more or less success, except the opal. That stone never has been and perhaps never will be counterfeited, for the reason that it is made up of innumerable facets so held together by cohesion as to refract the light like a prism. It is this quality that produces the well known iridescent effect. A few artificial opals have been obtained in the laboratory, but they seem to have been accidental, as repetitions of the experiment have not succeeded.

A Few Conundrums.

Why is life the greatest of riddles? Because we must all give it up.

Why is the alligator the most deceitful of all animals? Because he takes you in with an open countenance.

How many soft boiled eggs could the giant Goliath eat upon an empty stomach? One, after which his stomach was not empty.

Antiquity of Skating.

The name of the first man who skated is buried in oblivion. Skating, however, is very ancient. It is mentioned by the Danish historian, Saxo Grammaticus, in 1154. William Fitz Stephens speaks of it in London in 1180. Figures of skates appear in Olus Magnus' history, printed in 1555.

The last 100,000 shares were sold in one week. Act quickly and get in on one of the best things in Golefield. Only 700 feet from the great Little Florence and on the strike of the vein.

But this is not one-third of the value of this stock, for we have discovered at a depth of twenty feet visible to the naked eye. We want to raise the money quick to put up a necessary hoisting plant to sink the shaft and get this rock out and turn it into a stream of gold to run into the pockets of THE LUCKY INVESTOR.

¶ We offer only a small bunch of stock at this price. This stock is likely to quadruple in price in thirty days. Take our advice.

DON'T DELAY Don't put this off for later consideration or you will lose out again as you did before.

This company owns 4 claims (60 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bond and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

A GOOD LOCAL AGENT WANTED

Partners of the Tide

...By... JOSEPH C. LINCOLN, Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

"Bradley," cautiously whispered Miss Prissy, "Bradley, will you git up, please? Tempy thinks there's somebody downstairs."

They heard Bradley chuckle sleepily. In a few moments he came out, dressed in jacket and trousers and blinking at the lamp. Clara, who had not gone to bed, had already joined them.

The procession moved—Bradley first, then Miss Prissy with the lamp, then Miss Tempy, who, as she said afterward, was "too scared to go ahead and dasn't go last." Clara brought up the rear. They peered cautiously into the dining room. It was empty.

"There," exclaimed Miss Prissy, "I guess 'twas nothin' but Tempy's imagination, as usual. She"—

The words died on her lips. There came a sound from the kitchen—they all heard it—a rattling sound and the faint squeak of a door.

Bradley sprang to the coal hod and picked up the poker. It was the only apology for a weapon in sight. He started for the kitchen, but Miss Prissy seized him by the jacket and Miss Tempy threw both arms around his neck.

"Don't you stir, Bradley Nickerson," whispered the older sister. "Don't you stir a step! S'pose he had a revolver."

Bradley tried to free himself, but it was hard work. He unclasped Miss Tempy's arms from his neck, but she immediately seized him around the waist. It was a ridiculous situation, and suddenly he became aware of a cold wind blowing from the direction of the front hall.

"Is that front door open?" he whispered.

The horrified sisters turned to stare at the black tunnel of the hall, and then footfalls were heard on the walk, coming up the steps. Clara's voice became audible. She was speaking in agonized whispers.

"Who"— began Bradley.

Clara appeared, clinging to the arm of Captain Eri Hedge. Captain Eri looked puzzled, but he grinned when he saw the tableau in the dining room.

He told the story the next morning to his messmates, Captain Peres and Captain Jerry, about as follows:

"You see, I'd been up to lodge meetin' and stayed a little longer'n usual. I was comin' home by the short cut, and jest as I got abreast the old maids' house the front door burst open, and somethin' comes prancin' down the walk fluttern' and flappin' its arms like a hen tryin' to fly. Thinks I, 'Has that spiritu'list camp meetin' I went to last summer struck in?'

"Jest the critter swooped out of the gate and bore down on me like a hawk on a June bug. Then I see 'twas Clara Hopkins, scart pretty nigh to death.

"'Oh, Cap'n Eri!' says she. 'Oh, Cap'n Eri!'

"'The same,' says I. 'What's the row?'

"'Burglars!' says she, makin' fast to my arm. 'Burglars!'

"I had to laugh. I couldn't help it. 'Burglars at 10 o'clock?' I says. 'Did they come to supper?'

"'But they're there!' she says. 'Everybody heard 'em, Bradley and all.'

"I couldn't b'lieve 'twas burglars even then, but I knew if Brad Nickerson took any stock in it somethin' was up. And the poor girl was tremblin' like Peleg Myrick's pup.

"'All right, Clara,' says I. 'Let's go in and shake hands with 'em.'

"So in we went. When we struck the dinin' room there was Brad in the middle of the floor lookin' pretty tolerable foolish, with Prissy moored to his coattails and Tempy with a clove hitch round his waist. All hands looked s'prised to see me, but no more 'n I was to see them. 'What is this?' says I. 'Living statues?'

"Brad, he kind of grinned. 'Well,' says he, 'the ladies thought they heard some one in the kitchen, but I guess'—

"'Thought we heard 'em?' busts out Prissy. 'Why, you heard 'em yourself!'

"And now Brad, he paid up his hands, poker and all. 'All right, all right!' says he. 'Now that we're reenforced maybe we'd better go out and interview 'em. They might die of old age if we stay here much longer.'

"So he winked to me and the fleet got under way. Me and Brad led off, like a couple of tugs, and the women folks strung out behind, like coal barges, holdin' on to each other's wrappers and breathin' hard.

"We opened the kitchen door and sailed in—that is, Brad and I did. The coal barges got in a lump, so's to speak, in the doorway and stayed there. There was a lamp burnin' side of a pan of dough on the table, but, jest as I expected, we was the only humans in sight.

"'Looks as if the burglars had got tired of waitin' for us and got mad and gone home,' says I. 'Don't know what they broke into the kitchen for, anyhow. I've heard of a feller's stealin' a redhot stove, but'—

"Brad looked puzzled, sort of. 'I sartinly heard something movin' out here,' he says. 'Most likely 'twas a stray cat, and it's hidin' around somewheres.'

"But jest then comes a whistle—a squeal, I mean—from the barges. Tempy's headlights were poppin' out of her head, and she was p'intin' a shaky finger at the floor. There was big muddy footprints all over it.

"Well, I own up I was set back two or three rows. Somebody had been there, that was sartin. I've seen cats with double paws, but no cats made them prints.

"'Humph!' says I, and Brad agreed with me.

"I was standin' right in front of the door of the closet where the old maids kept their pots and pans. And jest then inside that closet bust out the most outrageous racket ever you heard. Biffity, bang, thump! And then a coughin' and sneezin' like forty packs of thunder crackers.

"I ain't a narvous man, gin'rally speakin', but I got up and moved sudden. I didn't exactly run, but I kind of glided over to the sink. Leastways I was backed up against it when I remembered to take an observation. The women grabbed each other and screeched. Brad, he turned sort of yeller round the gills, but he was the coolest one in the bunch.

"The bangin' and barkin' and sneezin' in the closet kept right up to time. Whoever it was, he wasn't shirkin' his work none to speak of.

"'Come out of that!' yells Brad, makin' a dive for the door.

"Afore he could reach it that door flew open of itself. Out comes somethin' doubled up like a jackknife. It kind of pawed the air with its flippers and dove head first for the sink. I give it all the room it needed—didn't want to be selfish.

"'Hoo-rash-oo!' remarks the thing as if it meant it too. Then it shoved its head into the water bucket.

"The whole congregation was consider'ble shook up. Nobody felt like risin' and addressin' the mourners. The critter at the water bucket splashed and gurgled for a minute. Then it turned round. Its head and face was all streaks of red and brown, and the water was drippin' off its chin. Who was it? You'd never guess in a million years!

"I swan to man if it wan't Ez Titcomb!

"'Oh, it's the cap'n!' squeaked Tempy and went down in a heap.

"'Hoo-rash-oo!' says Cap'n Ez, sort of openin' the conversation.

"'Well?' says I.

"'For heaven's sakes!' says Brad.

"But Prissy stepped forard and took command. She didn't looked scared any more; only kind of queer round the mouth and snappy round the eyes.

"'Cap'n Tetcomb,' says she, 'if you please, what were you hidin' in that closet for? If you can stop sneezin' long enough to answer, I should like'—

How to Avoid the Worried Telephone Look.

There is no good without its attendant evil, and this is as true of the telephone as of many of the other wonderful time saving contrivances of the day. Now that this convenient instrument is installed in every well conducted establishment some suggestions as to its use and abuse may be useful.

"Those who wish to avoid the worried telephone look," says a woman of many activities, "should make up their minds to resist holding conversations with their friends. Let it be an understood thing that only messages are received and then arrange with a responsible servant to take these down exactly. We all know the discomfort of trying to tell a friend something of importance, while all the time he or she has the distrait air of awaiting the tinkling of that well known little bell. I was at a luncheon party the other day when the hostess was called to the telephone from the table. After futile efforts at comprehension she discovered it was not herself, but one of the guests, who was wanted. This entailed another upset of the luncheon table and the absence of a guest for some time, with another agitation when she returned. The luncheon party was quite spoiled, and it need not have been had the rules I have given been in force in the house."

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

NERVOUS?

Do You Brood?
Have Morbid Fears?
Toss in Your Sleep?

Your Physical Condition is Below Par and Must be Built up. Try Ferrozone.

All the vital activities of the body are quickened into new vigor by Ferrozone, which contains all the constituents necessary to make nerve strength.

Its first action is upon digestion.

It stimulates the secretion of gastric juice, ensures perfect digestion and prepares the food so as to be easily assimilated.

Thus everything you eat is converted into nourishment that enriches the blood and lends new strength to the nerves.

By Ferrozone the mind is relieved of those brooding tendencies, of morbid unnatural fears, of unwillingness to concentrate attention on things that should be done.

Won't you try Ferrozone?

Won't you give it a chance to win you back to health; it will do it, just as it did for Mrs. Creighton Zinck, of Palm St., Lunenburg, N. S., who says: "I want to give my experience with Ferrozone because I believe it will be of assistance to thousands of women who need it badly. I was very thin, run down in flesh and lacked color. My nerves were in a dreadful state. If anything fell I would jump and start. At night I would suddenly wake up, heart palpitating and all keyed up. Ferrozone went right to work. It restored my poise and balance, gave me self-control, cured my nervousness. Ferrozone increased my appetite and my weight came up so fast that I simply didn't need to use it any longer. Eight boxes cured me."

Why won't you use Ferrozone also, it certainly will do you good in many ways—sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

Ready for Ladies' Shines.

Yesterday Messrs. Yeates Bros., 339 George street, made quite a material improvement in their shoe shine parlor. They placed curtains across the south window and stretched curtains on a long pole to cut off the chairs to the south side so that ladies may enter and have their shoes shined with privacy to themselves and the operations.

Free Delivery of Mail Assure.

Yesterday a notice was posted in the local post office noting that a post office inspector will soon be here to investigate and finally settle the matter of a free delivery for Peterborough city. This, whilst indefinite as to date, seems to convey the definite information that Peterborough is to have "free delivery" of letters and other mail matter.

Where Was the Horse Inspector?

If ever a human being was subjected to what a livery horse got the other night he wouldn't consider "brainstorm" in it. The way the "law" was "laid" down on that gaunt animal made him actually swell with fear. Undue advantage seemed to be taken of the dumb brute, he being only "semi-ready" for the attack, but he managed to pound out a few retorts in H'andy" fashion.

The popular and delightful spot known as the Ottawa House at Cushing's Island in Portland Harbor, Maine, was refurnished and reconstructed in all departments last year. Extaordinary Lot of Young Ducks.

What is almost a unique hatching of chickens occurred at the Peterborough House stables two weeks ago Monday. On that date Mine Host, Jas. Head, got 19 good chicks from 19 eggs he had previously placed under a setting hen. On Dominion Day quite a number of patrons of the hotel, hearing of this extraordinary hatching would not believe that such could be. Mr. Head explained that four of the little chicks had been killed by cats, dogs or otherwise. Still a good many dollars were wagered that no hen could have hatched out even the 15 remaining. Mr. Head noticed yesterday that enough money changed hands over this lot of chicks to place a value of from $1.25 to $1.75 each on them. Mr. Head bought the first incubator here, ever seen in Peterboro, but he remarked that no incubator ever made can hatch out 19 19 chicks from 19 eggs purchased haphazard.

Local Mining Man on Top.

Mr. Crowley, the well known mining man and capitalist when asked yesterday by The Times, "How are things coming with you?" replied, "Say old man if any of your subscribers asks after Crowley, the mining man, you can say that he is doing all right and that he has rights in fall on proven English property to make your humble servant independent of anyone's opinion or obligation for seven generations. It might be mentioned that a relative of Mr. Crowley was with him on the conveyance in which they drove, and the latter, in private conversation fully corroborated all Mr. Crowley's statements.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE

Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $300,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business; furthermore, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his 'Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatever; and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

In the retraction printed by said Journal they were forced to acknowledge that they had obtained analyses of "Favorite Prescription" from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs.

These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

At yesterday's police court there was a very good showing for a manufacturing city of 15,000 people. Not a case of any real importance resulted from a public holiday, following on the preceding Saturday night and Sunday. Only three prisoners were on trial, three drunks who were gathered in together by P. C. Ewhall in a bunch. They were three young Englishmen, named respectively Oscar Fowler, Thomas Jones and Fred Leslie. It seems these recent importations had changed their usual order in the English "Pubs" of "Arf of Bitters, Miss" to a good many orders for G. & W. or some such other brand of tanglewit. In consequence their legs and thinking machinery got thoroughly entangled. They were noisy on George street and when the officer went to arrest them, young Fowler used language to him that would not be tolerated in polite society. Fowler was assessed $6.85 and the other two $2 each. Fowler's friends came to his aid with the collateral, but Jones and Leslie retired to the seclusion of Castle Nesbitt for ten days.

Intelligent Indian in Town.

Mr. Alfred Stinson of Rama Road, Ont., correspondent of the Orillia Times and News Letter, a full blooded Indian and a true descendant of Fenimore Cooper's heroes as far as can be judged by physiognomy and feature, passed through the city yesterday on his way home from Chemong village where he attended the opening of the church there. Mr. Stinson is a man of intelligence and well worthy of a high place among our modern white people.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men, at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

At yesterday's police court the first cases called were those of Messrs. Goldfield, Phelps, Bradford and Lewis, who were arrested a week ago last Tuesday, circus day, charged with being pickpockets. It will be remembered that their preliminary hearing was a week ago yesterday and, that they, after being photographed, were remanded for one week. Yesterday the wife of one of the prisoner Mrs. Bradford of New York was in court. This lady is of rather handsome features, somewhat Semitic in cast, and well dressed. The prisoners were represented by counsel, Mr. Gordon acting for Bradford and Lewis, and Mr. Kerr for Goldfield and Phelps.

After the prisoners had been charged by the magistrate with having stolen $40 from Luke Frances, $1.50 from J. Hartley, $12 from W. Burl, their respective lawyers decided not to plead," i.e., they would not elect whether to be tried by the magistrate summarily or go to trial at a higher court, whether by judge or judge and jury.

Chief Ronzel asked for a further enlargement of one week.

Mr. Kerr at once arose and said whilst fully understanding the latitude asked for and usually granted the crown, the prisoners had had one enlargement in their trial and justice should give them a trial then.

Mr. Gordon said that if the crown was ever able to have their evidence in, they should have it ready then. The police are simply hunting through the whole country for possible evidence. The wife of one of the prisoners was here in the city and it was not right to put her to the trouble and expense of remaining here another week.

Chief Ronzel then remarked, "That woman is not here as a witness and there is no real reason for her remaining."

Then the magistrate remarked that the prisoners will get good board during their detention and that the evidence sought by the police may help out their case. The prisoners were then remanded for one week.

The next case proved to be the result of a family scrap. John R. Cully was charged with assaulting Fred Oliver. As Oliver the complainant was not present to prosecute, the case was dismissed, Oliver to pay the costs.

Patsy Ferguson from Ireland and Thos Geddes from Scotland were arrested yesterday morning on George street for being drunk. They will appear before the court this morning to explain and hope from temperance.

The Ancient Town of Thaxted, England

Has Been Proof Against the March of Progress. So Writes Mr. Harry Rush of This City.

The Times is in receipt of a souvenir post card from Mrs. Rush, who is spending a few months in the British Isles and Europe. The card gives a splendid view of the Old Guildhall, Thaxted, England, a building in the Queen Anne style of architecture, each story overlapping the lower one until the ancient tile roof is reached.

The photo shows conclusively that Thaxted has been proof against the march of 20th century progress, which fact is further evidenced by Mr. Rush's information "that it is a scene in the old town he left fifty-one years ago and there has been hardly any alteration in the buildings since then. The town is about seven miles from a railroad."

Mr. Rush writes that Mrs. Rush and he are enjoying their trip immensely and expect to go on to Scotland and Ireland in a week or so.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Rush will be pleased to learn that they are blessed with a full measure of good health and are enjoying an ideal trip through the Old Country and Europe.

Bertillon System In Vogue In this City

Alleged Pickpockets Subjected to Latest Mode of Identification

Yesterday morning the police court session was somewhat enlivened by another identification piece as pursued in connection with the four alleged pick-pocket gentry under arrest here since a week ago Tuesday. It seems that the local chief of police's report had reached the office of the Attorney-General, Toronto. That official in response to the information received sent an officer of his department to Peterboro to take measurement of the prisoners along the lines laid down in the Bertillon system. This system, our readers might be in the one used in Paris, France. By it any criminal or any innocent man once measured by the Bertillon plan can be identified any time during such existence above ground. It includes a number of measurements of various parts of the human anatomy, including a detailed record of the size, shape and peculiarities of the man's nose, ears, eyes, length from elbow to finger tip, height, etc.

Before the police court opened yesterday a young man sent here by the Attorney-General had a private séance with each of the men said to be Dips. They were taken one by one, into a cell at the station. A blanket was thrown over the barred door of the cell in question and the prisoners were admitted one at a time with the Toronto expert who took their Bertillon measurement. These men are now being held for trial and this Bertillon measurement will materially affect their future should they be proven guilty of the charge laid.

Lack of Courtesy To City Officials

The City Council Not Invited to Be Present at the Opening of Kirkfield Lift Lock.

The city council should in all courtesy have been officially invited to attend the opening of the Kirkfield lift lock. Ald. Phelps, when asked by Mr. J. H. McClellan if the council were going to be represented at this function, properly replied, "We are waiting to be asked." When the Peterboro lift lock was officially opened, this city spent $500 in entertaining the Government and other visitors, chartering steamers and other contingencies. And this city's invitations were pretty general, all along the line of the canal. Since in all courtesy our city council owes it right to expect similar courtesy extended them for Saturday next, when the second high lock on the Trent waterway is to be formally opened.

Peterboro Girl is Honored.

At the close of the present term Miss Fife, a teacher in the Kenora, Ont., High school, was presented by the staff and pupils with an address accompanied by a handsome writing desk. ENGINEER FOR FIRE HALL IS WANTED

Council are Advertising for a Man to Fill This Position---Nothing to Bar Sam. Wainwright From Applying for Reengagement.

A joint meeting of the City Board of Works and Fire, Water and Light Committee was held last night.

Mayor R. F. McWilliams presided and there were present Ald. Duncan, Phelps, Bradburn, Morgan, Johnston, McIntyre and Wilson; also Street Commissioner Harry Evans, City Engineer T. A. S. Hay and Foreman Pakenham of the fire hall.

Wainwright's position with the city was taken up first. Wainwright refuses to sleep in the fire hall when working on the steam road roller for the Board of Works, and on the ground has resigned his position as engineer in the fire hall.

The Board recognizes Wainwright to be a good man and would like to retain his services, although they feel that he should sleep in the hall occasionally at least with the two drivers.

It was suggested that Foreman Pakenham sleep in the hall but the objected to this and contended that when he resigned his position to resume control of the fire hall and electric alarm system, it was distinctly understood that he sleeping in the hall would not be necessary. He took exception to the opinion offered by the Committee that he should have seen that the doors of the fire hall were in automobile workable condition, and pointed out that he had 33 miles of electrical wire to inspect and 140 battery cells to keep in order; he has not any leisure time.

It was decided that Wainwright should retain his dual position with the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Board of Works.

Ald. Bradburn contended that our $5000 steam fire engine should be taken out at every fire, to assure its being in perfect working order should occasion arise for its use.

Ald. Johnston suggested that Wainwright and the two drivers (Parnells) should attempt to sleep in the hall during the summer, and allowed it be necessary during the winter months, extra might be secured for him in the hall.

Ald. Johnston denied this statement.

While not excusing Wainwright's action in quitting his position the way he did, Ald. Bradburn realized that he had had difficulties to contend with, and he would favor his being engaged.

Street Commissioner Evans thought Wainwright was a valuable man to lose; he had always found him faithful and dependable, he was very handy with machinery.

Mr. Morgan moved that Mr. Wainwright be reengaged providing he will live up to the by-laws, and the conditions imposed by this committee as to the sleeping in the hall. There was no seconder to the resolution.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston,—"That the city advertise for an engineer for the fire hall, he to give what portion of his time is necessary for street work with the road roller.—Carried.

This does not preclude Wainwright from applying for re-engagement.

The Ontario Weights Coal by-law for a rate and fixed assessment will come up again before the council Monday next and will be voted on July 11th. Interested parties should govern themselves accordingly.

50% IN ANNUAL DIVIDENDS

The Death Valley Mining & Smelting Co. Commences the Installation of a Smelting Plant in one of the World's Richest Gold, Silver and Copper Fields. An Extraordinary Opportunity for the Small and Large Investor to make Rich Returns.

The mining properties of this company cover 780 acres, located in Kern county, California, in the heart of the Radamacher Mining District, a field of untold riches in gold, copper and silver. These properties consist of fifteen claims, estimated by conservative mineralogists and reliable mining experts from the ore now in sight at a minimum valu eof millions of dollars.

WHAT OUR MINES SHOW.

Our fofteen mining properties are in various stages of development, from open cuts on the surface to shafts from 30 to 200 feet deep, with drifts in the ore from 10 to 100 feet in length.

From assays and smelter runs on our ore values are shown ranging from $16.00 to $147.50 per ton. The Vulcan Mines, adjacent to our properties and in the same vein as runs through three of our mines, shows values up to $500.00 per ton. Every outcropping of veins bear evidence of rich deposits and wherever opened up pay ore is found growing more valuable with depth.

PROFITS PROVED.

The cost of mining our ore is less than $2.50 per ton, and the cost of smelting ore, similar to ours, by the system we have under consideration is from $1.50 to $2.50 per ton. The cost of smelting by the Lustre Mining Company at El Oro, State of Durango, Mexico, is $1.50 per ton. They are sixty miles from the railroad in Old Mexico; we are fifteen miles from the railroad in California. Their ore egoes $9.00 to $13.00 per ton; our ore averages $20.00 per ton. Coke costs them $2.00 per ton in gold. It will cost us $12.50 per ton. The par value of their stock is $10.00 per share. Before they put in their present system of smelting, the stock was selling at $4.00 per share; it is now selling for $10.00 per share. Why should not our stock do as well? It will do as well, and better, for our ore will show a net average profit of $15.00 per ton.

WHAT IS NECESSARY.

An attempt to operate these mines relying upon outside smelting companies to treat the ore is impracticable. The smelter nearest us at Needles, 250 miles distant. Their charge for smelting our ore is $15.00 per ton; the freight by rail and wagon is $8.50 per ton. We propose to eliminate this prohibitive expense by doing the smelting ourselves.

We intend to install a single smelter having a capacity of 50 tons per day and increase the same to 100 and 200 tons as rapidly as consistent with good business judgment. 50 per cent per annum is not extraordinary earnings for a smelter. We expect to greatly increase the earnings as the capacity of the plant is expanded.

CAPITALIZATION AND STOCK OFFERING.

We are incorporated under the laws of Arizona. The capital stock of our company is $2,500,000, divided into 2,500,000 shares of the par value of $1.00 each. The Articles of Incorporation provide for the non-liability of the stockholders.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand shares is Treasury stock, of which seventy-five thousand shares are now offered for sale at $1.00 per share. We estimate that the sum realized from the sale of this stock will be sufficient to meet all demands on the company for taking title to the properties, development of the ore bodies, installation of the smelter, operation of the plant and all other legitimate outlays. There are no commissions, no promoters' expenses to be paid out of this; no salaries other than for actual services rendered. Every dollar received from this sale will go into the treasury of the company for the purpose mentioned.

This is a straight business proposition to which we invite a thorough investigation.

A VICTIM OF TRADE.

Nature's "Craggy Ocean Pyramid" Leased to a Quarry Firm.

Great indignation has been excited by the story that the Marquis of Ailsa has leased for the purpose of quarrying its granite the noble rock known as Ailsa crag, says the London News.

This stupendous crag, rising abruptly from the sea to a height of 1,114 feet and having a circumference of nearly two miles, stands sentinel at the entrance to the estuary of the Clyde, almost equidistant between the peninsula of Kintyre and the County of Ayr and within sight of the Irish coast; hence its sobriquet, Paddy's milestone.

The rock is an object of great natural beauty and inspires feelings of wonder and admiration. The thought of its demolition to make paving stones raises bitter resentment among a people who are at present collecting $50,000 to preserve the "auld brig o' Ayr" against the dilapidations of time, simply because their beloved peasant poet had endeared that structure in their hearts. Ailsa crag, storm beaten by the foaming billows, has enlisted the muse of Keats and Wordsworth, and Daniel Defoe is among the many prose writers who have paid it homage.

Apart from its recognition as nature's "craggy ocean pyramid," as Keats called it, the rock is of great strategic importance. It is the Gibraltar of the Clyde. Although unprotected, the rock commands the waterway that leads to Greenock and Glasgow. It has besides great geological and historical value. Scientists say it is of volcanic origin—thrown up from the bed of a crater like Berwick, Law and Edinburgh castle rock. Many basalt columns, four, five and six sided, resembling those seen at the Giant's Causeway and the island of Staffa, are also found there, and there are besides several interesting caves.

Above the lighthouse on the eastern side there stand the ruins of an old castle, and the ruins of an old church and burying ground are known to have existed near by. The castle is said to have been the property of early monks.

Quarrying operations to the extent of the material for 1,000 pairs of curling stones have been permitted at the rock for a number of years, but the wholesale deprivation of the granite, of which it is largely composed, is exciting stern opposition.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MISS ANNETTE KELLERMAN.

The Champion Woman Swimmer of the World an Australian.

The proverbial endurance of women stands them in good stead when it comes to swimming. That is how it happens that in Australia, which has produced the champion woman swimmer of the world, Miss Annette Kellerman, it is a common thing for girls to swim five miles, while not one boy in a hundred ever does it.

Miss Kellerman, the champion woman swimmer of the world, does not look as if she could swim any farther than any other young woman who has had an opportunity to form aquatic habits. She is very slight in figure, not particularly tall, and in a smart tailored suit of dark red cloth there was nothing about her to suggest the professional athlete, yet she is the victor of many battles. She has won forty long distance contests, from one mile up to thirty miles, and she has almost swum the English channel, a feat that no one but Captain Webb has ever accomplished. She might have got all the way across had it not been for seasickness and storm, and she means to try again.

Miss Kellerman says that she just drifted into swimming. She has been perfectly at home in the water ever since she was seven, but until she was fourteen swimming shared equally in her favor with riding, tennis and dancing. Then she happened to see Fred Lee swim.

"I thought his stroke the most beautiful I had ever seen," she said, "and I began to imitate it. It was the double overarm stroke, and I have used it ever since, though other swimmers think it only suitable for short swims. Well, in a few weeks I found I could swim better than any girl of my acquaintance. Then I entered a contest and won it, and my career as a swimmer had begun."

Self Consciousness.

Of all vain and egotistical creatures none equals the girl who thinks that people are always talking or thinking about her. Vanity and self consciousness are ugly twin sisters. Any girl who is possessed of these ugly sisters is to be pitied and should be glad to be well rid of them, as was Cinderella when she triumphed over her less fortunate relatives.

People have plenty of things to discuss and think about besides their friends. A girl who is in a constant state of wretchedness on account of what her friends may be thinking or saying about her is lacking in common sense. No girl on earth is of such absorbing interest to her friends as to be continually food for gossip or reflection.

The girl who is constantly living in the thought that her every action and word is being criticised by her friends or otherwise spends a miserable existence. And the pitiful part of it is that any young girl of this type can rarely be made to realise her own foolishness or the misery it causes her. She cannot, it seems, recognize the simple truth that supersensitiveness never has found and never can find happiness.

Some girls are so sensitive—and very foolishly so—that if by some ill chance they believe they have given cause for offense they are utterly wretched and go about half crazy, wondering what So-and-so will think. As likely as not the offense is absolutely imaginary and So-and-so is not giving the slightest attention either to the supposed offense or to the person who is fretting her life over it.

But if the sensitive girl should happen to really offend or make a mistake let her take her criticism bravely, let her profit by it. If she bears herself adversely criticised, she must be truly thankful and acknowledge that it is dearer to her than the sweetest compliment of a friend. It is only by learning our faults that we can know ourselves and kill what in us is distasteful to others.

Tips For Traveling Abroad.

"The permanent character of the European pensions renders them very reliable, and even the modest ones serve bountiful meals in courses," writes Esther Brook in the Woman's Home Companion. "Very good board is to be had as cheap as a dollar a day, and the ones at $1.50 a day are legion. It only remains for the traveler to exercise the same deliberation and judgment he would in his own country in selecting and bargaining.

"The subject of tips is one which sometimes puzzles the uninitiated. A safe rule is to make the tips aggregate one-tenth of the amount expended, as the custom of tipping has its origin in the old Biblical tithe. On these terms a servant may not overwhelm you with his attentions, but he certainly will respect you as a person who knows what he is about. Here seems a proper place to admonish you to keep about you always an inexhaustible supply of copper coins, one and two cent pieces. It will save a stream of dimes and francs, which quickly mount up the day's expenses.

"In the matter of baggage I is much easier for a woman to travel alone in Europe than in America. She can if she chooses travel from one end of the continent to the other without ever lifting a finger weight. There are porters everywhere, swarming at every station, and for a few pennies, not more than five, instant service is secured.

House Decoration.

When the new house is papered, do not have the hall and stairway touched until after the furniture has been moved in. The most casatal of movers find it difficult, particularly when there is a square staircase, to lift the awkward, heavy bureaus and beds upstairs without grazing the walls.

If the walls are already papered, hang sheets along the staircase walls so that the paper will at least not become soiled.

The hall carpet or rugs should not be laid until after the moving is finished, but the rest of the carpets should be put down before the family effects are put in.

Regarding Baths.

When the body is fatigued or the brain has been overtaxed by excessive mental work, it is very wrong to take a cold bath. Such a bath exhausts, and if we add this to the already weak state of the body the result seems rejuvenating for the moment, but very soon the tension becomes too great and the body cannot be forced to do more work. A warm bath is the only kind to be applied when one wishes to recover from fatigue, and the longer in reason a tired body remains in a bath of, say, 70 degrees the quieter becomes the strained nerves and the easier follows the sought for rest.

Moths and Rugs.

Dyed rugs, such as dog and goat-skins, are not attacked by moths, because in curing and dyeing these, poisons are put in that make them practically immune from attacks by these insects, but the contrary is true of the natural skins, such as polar bear, tiger, leopard, etc., for, though the curing process they go through contains more preservatives than are put into that used on moths, bugs, etc., they are much more likely to attract these destructive insects than those that are dyed.

Best Bath Towel.

A crash towel is apt to be a little too harsh for a baby's delicate skin. Cotton birdseye diapering that has been washed and smoothly ironed several times makes about the best towel for a young baby's use. The widest width of goods that come should be selected and the towel made long enough to reach almost to the bottom of the mother's skirt when it is pinned to her waist. It will then be the proper size to roll the baby upon immediately after the bath.

Physicians Pie-Crust.

A physicians pie crust has been found to be a possibility. One which children or grown people with weak digestion may eat with impunity is made of one heaping cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one and one-half teaspoonful of salt sifted together and mixed with a heaping tablespoonful of suet which has been melted and allowed to cool. Add enough rich milk to make the dough as soft as can be handled. This will make one large pie.

What Not to Wear.

Tightly drawn back hair with a thin face and a high coiffure with a long head.

Gray or navy blue veils over a sallow complexion.

Round hats with a full face and a peaked crown with sharp faced features.

Linen collars with a homely neck or linen cuffs with dark, thin or wrinkled hands.

Strawberry Ambrosia.

To make strawberry ambrosia, select fine, rich flavored berries and arrange them in a deep glass dish with alternate layers of coarsely chopped pineapple, sprinkling between each layer a generous dusting of powdered sugar and fresh grated cocoanut. Pour over the top a cupful of orange juice and set in a cold place until thoroughly chilled, then serve.

To Ebonize.

Picture frames, chairs and other furniture may be ebonized by washing them four times, thoroughly drying between times, in a boiling mixture of strong logwood and water. Then wash the wood in a solution of acetate of iron, which is a mixture of iron filings and vinegar.

Look For Blood Humors

They Crop Out Constantly, Showing the System Needs Purifying.

You're not satisfied with your looks. How can you be with such disfiguring pimples, such rough unclean skin?

Blood is full of humors, and it's no wonder you look and feel poorly.

You are languid,
Appetite is miserable,
Sleep is hard to get,
Snap and vim are lacking.

High time to improve matters—but what's the proper remedy?

Experience proves that Dr. Hamilton's give instant effect. They tone the entire system, fortify the blood, and impart a feeling of new life in a few days.

Unlike strong purgatives, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are exceedingly mild. They are made from concentrated vegetable extracts such as Mandrake and Butternut, and can be taken by young or old, with absolute safety.

"I learnt something very valuable after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills," writes Miss Effie Thompson of Meriden. "I used to have ugly pimples that much embarrassed me. The tonic and purifying effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely restored me. My health is splendid and my complexion a great credit to this marvelous medicine."

Let your medicine be Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They do cure so thoroughly. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or five boxes for $1 by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

A Mild Laxative

Ask your doctor to name some of the results of constipation. His long list will begin with sick headache, biliousness, dyspepsia, thin blood, bad skin. Then ask him if he would recommend your using Ayer's Pills for constipation. Just one pill at bedtime, a few times, that's all.

We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our preparations. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

DENVER BULLFROG CO-OPERATIVE MINING CO.

We told you about one month ago we would eventually open up one of the best mines in the Bullfrog District, and we tried to sell you some of our stock at 5 cents a share. If you had taken our advice you would have doubled your money. We give you another chance, but this time you will have to pay

10 CENTS A SHARE

But this is not one-third of the value of this stock, for we have discovered at a depth of twenty feet

visible to the naked eye. We want to raise the money quick to put up a necessary hoisting plant to sink the shaft and get this rock out and turn it into a stream of gold to run into the pockets of THE LUCKY INVESTOR.

¶ We offer only a small bunch of stock at this price. This stock is likely to quadruple in price in thirty days. Take our advice.

DON'T DELAY Don't put this off for later consideration or you will lose out again as you did before.

This company was incorporated February 9th, A.D. 1907, under the Laws of Arizona.

Capital stock 1,000,000 shares, full paid, non-assessable, par value $1, treasury stock 100,000 shares. Other stock pooled.

Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claims (80 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bond and Daisy Mines near the Zeon group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

JOSEPH C. LINCOLN,
Author of "Cap'n Eri"

"'Sneeze!' hollers Ez, gittin' ready for another explosion. 'Sneeze!' says he kind of through his nose and wavin' his hand desp'rate. 'I guess maybe you'd sneeze if you'd upset the spice box right into your face and eyes and had your mustache full of red pepper!'

"Seemed a likely sort of guess, when you come to think of it, but Prissy didn't pay no attention.

"'Why was you hid in that closet?' says she.

"'Well, sir, that was the fust time in my life that I ever see Ez Titcomb clean out of soundin's! I snum! You could see he didn't know what to say, and when Ez gits that way things must be consider'ble mussed up. He fidgeted and stuttered and picked at his watch chain.

"'Prissy,' says he, and then he stopped. 'Prissy,' he says again and shut up like a clam. 'Prissy'—

"'Well?' says Prissy in a sort of vinegar on ice voice.

"'Prissy,' says Ez. He looked at her and at Tempy and at Brad. As for Brad, there was a twinkle in his eye. Honest, he looked almost as if he was havin' consider'ble fun out of the show.

"'Prissy,' says Ez once more; then he let everything go with a run and hollers: 'Oh, thunder! What's the use? Clara, you know what I come here for. Why don't you tell 'em and be done with it?'

"Course we all looked at Clara then. She blushed up pretty red, but she answered prompt.

"'I s'pose you come here to see me,' says she, 'though why you should hide it don't see.'

"'Cause I couldn't see you no other way; that's why! I've tried hard enough to speak with you for the last week, but you've cleared out every night 'fore I got the chance. I thought if I waited till you come to fix the bread I'd be here, and you'd have to see me and hear what I had to say. So I come in the back door and waited. Then I heard Prissy speak in the dinin' room and—well, I got rattled and hid in that da—that everlastin' closet. That's the whole fool yarn! There!'

"Out comes somethin' doubled up like a jackknife."

"Prissy looked as if she was goin' to say something, but Clara cut in ahead of her. 'Yes,' says she, 'but what you haven't explained are your actions last Sunday. When a man asks the lady he's engaged to to go out drivin' with him and then calmly ups and takes somebody else, why'—

"'I wrote you how it happened,' says Ez, pleadin' like.

"'I never got the letter,' says Clara.

"'One minute, if you please,' breaks in Prissy, calm, but chilly, like a January mornin'. 'Let's understand this thing. Cap'n Titcomb, are you and Clara engaged to be married?'

"Ez swallered once or twice and looked round as if he was hopin' somebody'd heave a life line. But nobody did. Then he shoves his fists in his pockets and says, 'Why, yes, we—we are.'

"'Well, I never!' says Prissy.

"I didn't say nothin', neither did Brad, but I calc'late we both looked s'prised. Tempy, who'd been settin' on the floor ever sence Ez was materialised, like one of the camp meetin' spirits, out of that closet, spoke up as if she was talkin' in her sleep, and says she, 'And it was Clara he was comin' to see all this time?'

"'Well,' says Prissy. 'Well, I must say, Cap'n Titcomb, that I think it would have been more manly if you'd come and seen Clara instead of spendin' your evenin's with us and lettin' us think'—

"'Come and see her!' hollers Ez. 'Didn't I try to come to see her? But every time I got to the kitchen door you or Tempy 'd take me in tow and head for the settin' room. I swan to man I ain't had a chance to breathe, you watched me so!'

"Tempy started to say something, but Prissy was skipper jest then. 'Don't say any more, Tempy,' she says. 'Now that we know the cap'n is goin' to marry our'—I guess she was goin' to say servant, but didn't hardly dast to—'our young lady friend,' says she, 'we'll treat him as her comp'ny, not ours. Come, we ain't wanted here.'

"And, helpin' Tempy up, she took her by the arm and sailed out, all canvas set and colors flyin'.

"Ez, he looked consider'ble like the feller that stole the hen's eggs and forgot and set down on 'em.

"Brad didn't speak. He jest looked sort of mournful at the partner and shook his head slow. I ain't a mind reader, but I'll bet he was thinkin', same as I was, that, for a chap who had the name of bein' the slickest kind of a ladies' man, Ez Titcomb surtinly had upset the calabash this time.

"And we went out and left him alone with his best girl."

CHAPTER XIX.

"WELL, Clara," observed Captain Titcomb a few hours later, standing on the step by the back door and buttoning his peajacket, "I s'pose it had to come out some time, but I did hope 'twould come more soothin' like, as the feller said to the dentist. The thing that worried me most of all—always exceptin' your givin' me the mitten, as I'd begun to think you had—was how we was goin' to break it to the old maids. And now it's kind of broke itself, as you might say."

will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably drive weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, foul breath or complexion, see Dr. Shoops Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Bargains in Horseflesh.

Luther Blind, winner of the Great Metropolitan at Epsom, who is said to have cost his owner no more than £40, is the latest addition to the long list of successful race horses which have been picked up for a paltry sum. The historic Eclipse, who won at least £25,000 during his brilliant career, was bought as a yearling for 75 guineas, which was, we believe, the exact sum paid for Peep o' Day, winner of many big races; Deadlock, dam of Isinglass, came into Captain Machell's hands for the absurd price of £20, one twenty-fifth of the sum Major McCalmont purchased her for a little later; Rover, whose son, St. Gatien, was sold for £15,000, changed hands for £30, and £30 secured two capital horses in Althorp and Carlton; Thrastle, who beat Ladas so sensationally in the St. Leger, was actually given away by one of her owners, and Stockwell, a famous St. Leger winner and sire of three winners of the Derby, was bought by Lord Exeter for £180.—Westminster Gazette.

Pooled Their Resources.

Liang Tung Yn, the new Chinese minister to the United States, is a pretty good business man, according to the stories of some of his old classmates at Yale. When he was in college he was closely associated with a set of young fellows, ten in all, who had about the same allowance each month, $100. All the checks came at once, and after a day or so every member of the set was "strapped." Liang finally solved the difficulty. The checks were all pooled, and each $100 was to last the coterie three days. For exactly three days one man had to pay all the expenses of the ten. Thereafter every one was able to get through the month without being in danger of starvation.

San Francisco as a Phenix.

On the average a new building has been finished every forty-five minutes in San Francisco since the fire. The building permits issued in San Francisco in 1905 were about $22,000,000. That year was a record breaker up to that time. Labor Commissioner Stafford's report shows that $1,000,000 a week is now paid out for wages, or $52,000,000 per year, and as wages only represent about 50 per cent of actual cost of building it is conservative to say that San Francisco at present is building at the rate of over $100,000,000 per year.

Pittsburg Leads in Pig Iron.

Of the total production of 25,307,191 gross tons of pig iron in the United States in 1906 Pennsylvania made 11,247,869 gross tons, and of this output the Pittsburg district (Allegheny, Beaver and Washington counties) contributed 6,230,863 tons. In other words, says the Iron Age, the Pittsburg district last year made nearly 25 per cent of the total production of pig iron in the United States and 55 per cent of the output in Pennsylvania.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

Heaviness, Lassitude, Drowsy and Dull

Do You Feel That Way?

How provoking these symptoms are! You sleep well, but when you awaken there is none of the exhilaration that sleep and rest should confer.

Instead of being alert, having quickness of apprehension, there is languor, dullness, a disinclination to do things.

Three causes for this feeling.

Lazy liver, lazy kidneys, and a mighty lazy stomach which does its work very poorly and compels the other organs to do things they are unequal to for any length of time.

Note the consequences—blood is filled with wastes—poisons weigh down the nervous system—rebuilding processes are absolutely stopped.

You'll note an instant change when you take Ferrozone.

Appetite improves, digestion becomes good as ever—skin grows ruddy and clear, all sense of langour, unsteadiness and depression fades away and finally disappears.

Ferrozone clarifies the brain, supplies tone and vigor, imparts clearness and strength. You feel like a new person, full of life, full of ambition, ready to do things—and able to do them also.

Think it over. Ferrozone is a tonic that uplifts, upbuilds, that nourishes and restores the sick by supplying the elements their weakened system need.

It can't help but do you good. For men, women and children, in fact anyone seeking strength and health, Ferrozone is invaluable; try it, sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

C. P. R. After Trespassers.

Before yesterday's police court opened Mr. B. McQuay, a C. P. R. detective, swore out summonses against no less than twenty-four persons for walking along the tracks of that railroad, where they had no right. In conversation with Mr. McQuay, The Times elicited the facts that there are still forty-five summonses to be served. Mr. McQuay was very guarded in his conversation, but remarked that the C. P. R. is carrying on this campaign more for the protection of the public than for their own ends. He said that men, women and children walk along the railroad who, whether from deafness, lack of care, or accident might be run over by trains at any time and the road wanting to avoid such catastrophies takes this way of preventing such trouble.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

Board of Audit to Meet.

The quarterly audit of the Administration of Justice accounts of the county and city will take place on Friday. The Board of Audit is composed of Judge Weller, County Crown Attorney Wood, City Clerk Armstrong and County Solicitor E. A. Peck.

The Council Acted Wisely.

Quite a lot of talk was to be heard throughout the city yesterday regarding the council turning down a proposition to attend the opening of the Kirkfield Lift Lock, as they, the City Fathers, had not been asked. If it is any satisfaction to the council, it might be remarked that their act in not going before invited met with general approval, as far as the Times could ascertain. The man or body of men, who go to a public function without invitation, are about as welcome as hot water in gehenna.

Fine Cattle for Local Market.

In our issue of yesterday we noted the 134 head of cattle of unusual weight had been purchased from several nearby farmers by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, to be sent by him to Montreal. This information who correct as far as every particular went except the destination of the cattle. We understand from Mr. Kennedy that these cattle were kept for Mr. Kennedy's home trade in Peterboro. Of course any intelligent man can easily understand and sympathize with the difficulties of one hunting news for a daily paper. When such hunter gets news presumably correct he sends it in to his paper as he receives it in good faith.

ENGINEER WANTED

Applications, endorsed "Application for Position of Engineer," will be received by the undersigned up to Monday afternoon, July 8th, 1907, at 5 o'clock for the position of engineer of the fire engine and road roller and feeder duties, particulars of which may be obtained from the undersigned.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of "American Dispensatory"; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Always push the carpet sweeper in the same direction as the warp of the rug or carpet. This means that it is running with the nap and therefore will work better and more easily.

The best bedding is an iron bedstead, a hair mattress, no curtains or valance, very light blankets for a covering, as weak patients are always distressed by weight of bedclothes.

To make a delicious cup of tea is by the introduction of cloves. Put a couple of these spices upon the slice of lemon when having tea without cream, and the cloves will give a slight but delicious taste to the whole beverage.

A delicious flavor is given to the after dinner black coffee if the trouble is taken to rub each lump of sugar to be used with a piece of lemon peel. This should not be done until a few moments before the coffee is to be served, so that the sugar may retain the full fragrance and taste of the lemon. For afternoon tea orange peel may be used.

Small pieces of chicken with the merest suggestion of its own liver pounded up with some cream and a little cayenne pepper makes a delicious paste to spread on thin slices of brown bread.

To clean earthen or granite ware warm well, then rub them with damp cornmeal. It will not scratch them.

To keep a poultice from adhering too closely to the flesh, first cover the skin with glycerin.

Popcorn shut tightly in a glass jar will keep fresh.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada is LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men here are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information, and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

MARK TWAIN TALKS OF PENNY POSTAGE

He is in Favor of Lifting the Post Office Out of the Robbery Business----The Illegitimate Source of His Boyhood Revenue

London, July 4.—Discussing the establishment of penny postage between the United States and Great Britain with The Sun correspondent, Mark Twain said—

"I have given little this subject thoroughly with Mr. Hawken, and I am convinced that the present postal arrangements are absurd. Why should parcels of printed matter be carried between the two countries for nothing and letters charged at the rate of a dollar a pound? The whole burden of postal cost come upon the senders of letters, and to pay him dit is nothing but down right robbery to extort a dollar a pound for letters.

"If the post office is in the robbery business let it do it on a decent scale, and if it is going to grab the public let it do it for $10 instead of $1. Magnitude in crime may be forgiven, but petty larceny is always abhorrent.

"Speaking personally, my mind goes back to the old days, when it cost as much as a quarter to send letters to New Orleans. We had no stamps in those days. My father used to give me letters with money to take them to the post office. This constituted my one source of income, as it did for the majority. The letters went just the same, only the receiver had to pay. I believe this system did more to undermine the moral fibre of the boys in Missouri than anything I know. Fortunately my moral character has since been rehabilitated.

"At that time, when the proposition was advanced to reduce the postage to five cents for short and ten cents for long distances, the same cry was made which is now raised, that reduction would ruin the post office.

"That the cry was false, Reduction increased the revenue, and a reduction of the postage between the United States and Great Britain to a penny would have the same effect. I am taking up this matter on this side because it is a curious commentary on our Government that once England introduces a new system it is very easy to get the United States to toggle suit. The mere fact that England has done this or that acts with wonderful effect on Congress, and if we glance backward along the line of Governmental reforms and ideas we find that America only adopted them after England had tried them and found them desirable."

Local Electricians Work at St. Thomas

Yesterday Messrs Alexander and Miller, the Brock street electricians, concluded negotiations whereby this firm has secured the contract of lighting the new Dominion Bank at St. Thomas, Ont. This award is a total farm is the direct result of good work done by the same firm hear in the Peterboro branch of the Dominion Bank. It is of general interest to learn that St. Thomas has to come to Peterboro to get work done that is right and Messrs Alexander and Miller are to be congratulated on their share in advancing Peterboro's interests.

COFFEE COMPLEXION.

Many Ladies Have Poor Complexions From Coffee.

"Coffee caused dark colored blotches on my face and body. I had been drinking it for a long while and these blotches gradually appeared, until finally they became permanent and were about as dark as coffee itself.

"I formerly had as fine a complexion as one could ask for.

"When I became convinced that coffee was the cause of my trouble, I changed and took to using Postum Food Coffee, and as I made it well, according to directions, I liked it very much, and have since that time used it in place of coffee.

"I am thankful to say I am not nervous any more, as I was when I was drinking coffee, and my complexion is now as fair and good as it was years ago. It is very plain that coffee caused the trouble."

Most bad complexions are caused by some disturbance of the stomach and coffee is the greatest disturber of digestion known. Almost any woman can have a fair complexion if she will leave off coffee and use Postum Food Coffee and nutritious healthy food in proper quantity. Postum furnishes certain elements from the natural grains from the field that Nature uses to rebuild the nervous system and when there is good condition, one can depend upon a good complexion as well as a good healthy body. 50% IN ANNUAL DIVIDENDS

The Death Valley Mining & Smelting Co. Commences the Installation of a Smelting Plant in one of the World's Richest Gold, Silver and Copper Fields. An Extraordinary Opportunity for the Small and Large Investor to make Rich Returns.

The mining properties of this company cover 780 acres, located in Kern county, California, in the heart of the Radamacher Mining District, a field of untold riches in gold, copper and silver. These properties consist of fifteen claims, estimated by conservative mineralogists and reliable mining experts from the ore now in sight at a minimum valu eof millions of dollars.

WHAT OUR MINES SHOW.

Our fofteen mining properties are in various stages of development, from open cuts on the surface to shafts from 30 to 200 feet deep, with drifts in the ore from 10 to 100 feet in length.

From assays and smelter runs on our ore values are shown ranging from $16.00 to $147.50 per ton. The Vulcan Mines, adjacent to our properties and in the same vein as runs through three of our mines, shows values up to $800.00 per ton. Every outcropping of value bear evidence of rich deposits and wherever opened up pay ore is found growing more valuable with depth.

PROFITS PROVED.

The cost of mining our ore is less than $2.50 per ton, and the cost of smelting ore, similar to ours, by the system we have under consideration is from $1.50 to $2.50 per ton. The cost of smelting by the Lustre Mining Company, at El Oro, State of Durango, Mexico, is $1.50 per ton. They are sixty miles from the railroad in Old Mexico; we are fifteen miles from the railroad in California. Their ore egoes $9.00 to $13.00 per ton; our ore averages $26.00 per ton. Coke costs them $20.00 per ton in gold. It will cost us $12.50 per ton. The par value of their stock is $10.00 per share. Before they put in their present system of smelting, the stock was selling at $5.00 per share; it is now selling for $10.00 per share. Why should not our stock do as well? It will do as well, and better, for our will show a net average profit of $15.00 per ton.

WHAT IS NECESSARY.

An attempt to operate these mines relying upon outside smelting companies to treat the ore is impracticable. The smelter nearest us at Needles, 250 miles distant. Their charge for smelting our ore is $15.00 per ton. The freight by rail and wagon is $4.50 per ton. We propose to eliminate this prohibitive expense by doing the smelting ourselves.

We intend to install a single smelter having a capacity of 50 tons per day and increase the same to 250 and 500 tons as rapidly as consistent with good business judgment; 50 per cent per annum is not extraordinary earnings for a smelter. We expect to greatly increase the earnings as the capacity of the plant is expanded.

CAPITALIZATION AND STOCK OFFERING.

We are incorporated under the laws of Arizona. The capital stock of our company is $250,000.00, divided into 250,000 shares of the par value of $1.00 each. The Articles of Incorporation provide for the non-liability of the stockholders.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand shares is Treasury stock, of which seventy-five thousand shares are now offered for sale at $1.00 per share. We estimate that the sum realized from the sale of this stock will be sufficient to meet all demands on the company for taking title to the properties, development of the ore bodies, installation of the smelter, operation of the plant and all other legitimate outlays. There are no commissions, no promoters' expenses to be paid out of this; no salaries other than for actual services rendered. Every dollar received from this sale will go into the treasury of the company for the purposes mentioned.

This is a straight business proposition to which we invite a thorough investigation.

C.P.R. Detective Still in the City

Mr. McQuay Thinks City Could Get Walkway Over C.P.R. Bridge.

Detective McQuay is still in the city looking after the trespassing cases, as noted in yesterday's Times, on the C. P. R. tracks. In conversation with Mr. McQuay The Times representative learned that this officer is actuated by no malice against the men or boys, particularly boys and girls, who walk on the C. P. R. tracks and especially the bridge crossing the Otonabee, but to prevent accidents to those who walk on the face of almost certain danger. Mr. McQuay remarked that this warning to be conveyed by the coming trials will, in his opinion, effectually stop people walking on the C. P. R. track. He further indirectly hinted that the city could easily, at small expense, arrange with the C. P. R. to have a walk way added to the bridge that crosses at Burnham's point. Should this be effected, as most certainly ought to have been done when the road first asked permission to build the bridge, the many residents in the East Ward and especially those working in the Peterborough Lumber Co. Mills, would have easy access to their respective destinations without danger to themselves or menace to those employed on the railroad.

Chief of Dominion Police in the City

Prominent Government Detective Registers Under Assumed Name.

Yesterday it was understood by those supposedly "in the know" that Chief of the Dominion Police, Mr. Sherwood was in the city registered at the Showden House under the name of H. Johnston, Montreal. If this is no fold, it is up to some of our local knowalls to ferret out his business here. The local police, when asked about this matter by the Times denied all knowledge of the arrival of this prominent crime detector. Still it must be remembered that the police here are as close as the proverbial oyster when it suits their convenience to do so.

Peterborough Is With Few Poor

Only Three Children at Present in the Children's Shelter.

Peterboro must be, and is prosperous as judged by the unfailing test of the number of children sent to the local charitable institutions. There are only three children in the Children's Shelter at the present time, two girls and one baby. This is the smallest number that has been there for a long time. There have been very few cases of ill treatment of children reported lately and everything is quiet in Children's Aid Society circles.

Escaped the Horns of Furious Bull

Close Race Between Mr. W. Snowden and a Maddened Bovine.

On Wednesday afternoon Mine Host Wm. Snowden, of the hotel of that name, had a run that displayed a speed utterly unexpected in a man so long out of active athletics as William is. It seems that Mr. Snowden was out at the farm he owns in Smith, and which is operated by his son Harold. As father, son and dread mum were passing through a field in the farm, albeit accompanied by a neighboring farmer happened to find a hole in the fence and strayed in. The bull in case, with lowered horns and tail erect made for Mr. Snowden, evidently sporting him as a city man and out of place in agricultural pursuits. Mr. Snowden did not stop on this order of his going but "it out" for a short pile in the field. Unfortunately this excitement in the 200 yard gait he was going impelled Mr. Snowden to forget the fortress he was making for for safety. The bull was a better gait on and Mr. Snowden had to beat the Marathon Race in record time for the easiest and fence. Fortunately he got to the fence just 33 1-2 seconds ahead of the bull's horns. As it is, his friends swear that three inches of his garments still decorate the bull's horns.

RIGHT OF CAPTURE OF SHIPS AT SEA

Hague Conference Will Make No Change in the Law.

REJECT PROPOSED REPORM

Its Adoption Would Give Unfair Advantage to England as Against All the Other Powers

London, July 4.—The Hague correspondent of the Tribune says that the last chance of carrying any reform in the law regarding the capture of property at sea has disappeared. If Prof. Martens recovers sufficiently by July 9th from his rheumatism to preside at the meeting of his committee, Mr. Choate's proposal to abolish the right of capture will then be accorded a first class funeral. The only chance of assimilating the law of private property at sea to that on land was the acceptance of the Italian compromise, which retained the right of capture, but abandoned the right of confiscation. This compromise has been decisively rejected. Neither the British nor Americans liked it, but the coup de grace was given by Russia, France and other powers, which regarded the proposal as giving unfair advantage to England. Their argument, which was not unreasonable, was that nEgland alone had parts in every sea where she could store prizes until the war was over. Other less favored powers must either sink the ships they captured and pay for them or let them go, whereas England would simply sweep them into her immmerable harbors an dreclare them on the declaration of peace.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

The first crack on the dot at yesterday's police court was the trial of three men, Alf. Choate, Pat Fergus and Thos. Collins, who were charged with being drunk. Now, whilst the last named defendant's name may recall to more than one citizen of Peterborough visions of many past "Collins" that helped to clear away the cobwebs from his fir their eyes next morning and revive the slumbering brains that the night before had put in dormant states these men, who had evidently "been out" the previous evening were allowed to go with a warning.

The next one called was that of a complaint laid by Fishery Inspector John Watt who has charge of the waters between Lakefield and the Locks. Mr. Watt is certainly "Johnny on the Spot" after violations of the fishery laws. His charge yesterday was against three young men or rather two young men and a boy, named respectively Percy Hartley, James Gammon and the boy. Frank Longo. The prisoners pleaded not guilty to spearing fish or having spears in their possession. Mr. Watt in the box stated that on Monday morning June 3rd, he saw the prisoners just north of the locks & went reports had come to him of these defendants having been spearing fish. The previous of June 3rd Longo had spear with him when he caught Hartley but Longo got away. Witness told Hartley that he was there he was looking for Hartley said, "You are mistaken," and then quickly ran away. Mr. Watt told them they could pay a fine to him and he would not bring them to court. Witness said that they acknowledged the offence and would pay the fine. After giving them some time to do it in, they never paid. Gammon swore that the were sitting at the rock and Longo happened to see a spear in a bush. He went and got it. He denied spearing a fish. P. Hartley denied ever having speared a fish. Mr. Donnelly said he would have to make a conviction but, it being their first offence, he would allow them to go on suspended sentence.

Hawk Creates a Commotion at Auburn

Local Citizens Witness a Catastrophy in Bird Circles.

Yesterday afternoon several citizens while crossing the bridge at Auburn Mills saw a scene that may often be read about but seldom witnessed in person. On the west side of the river a large number of sparrows were heard twittering about the electric wires and nearby trees. Suddenly a commotion was visible and audible among these English invaders. A sparrow hawk suddenly swooped down and as quickly gathered in one of the sparrows in its talons. With its opening meal the hawk flew across the river towards the Mills. There must have been at least 500 in victim. The sparrows circled about sparrows follow this bird of prey and the hawk and its captive for the full distance from shore to shore of the river until lost in the gathering shadows of the horizon.

Dr Hamilton Proves That Piles Are Caused by Constipation and Strong Catharties.

Knowing the frequency with which people suffer from this ailment, Dr. Hamilton made an exhaustive study into the cause of piles.

He found that the lower part of the bowels is like a network of blood-vessels, and if subjected to persistent pressure, a section will bulge out and form what is commonly known as piles.

The only effective mode of curing this trouble is the regular use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which can be taken before retiring. Next day will bring wonderful relief.

"I suffered up to about the limit of human endurance with piles," writes Miss Landers, from Cornwall, Ont., "I was employed in a factory here, but for a while had to give up work till I got better of this trouble. I read in the Montreal Herald about Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and after using them for two weeks was cured. I can recommend these pills very highly; there are none better. They at once relieve and pervent a constipated condition of the bowels, and from my experience can be depended upon as a perfect safeguard against piles. Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, I am sure, would be a benefit to ever girl or woman."

Take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and your system will be regenerated, revitalized, and made proof against disease.

PRETTY TEACHER HAD HER REVENGE

Was Refused More Than $20 a Month So She Quit and Got Married---Husband Doubled Salaries, and the Supervisors Will Have to Give Them $2,000,000 a Year More Now.

Philadelphia, July 4.—The women school teachers of Pennsylvania—20,000 of them—are busy buying crocheting or knitting needles to send to Representative Charles A. Snyder of Pottsville.

It is Mr. Synder who has just succeeded in making the Legislature pass a bill by the degree of which the salaries of women school teachers are increased all over the State, and in some case adoubled. The increase will cost the State $2,000,000 a year.

The school matrons are sending Mr. Synder the needles because he is one of the most bachelors "dressers" in the State, sometimes changing his attire, including his cravats, four or five times a day.

Miss Arter, — now Mrs. Synder, taught the young man how to spell cat, and for it received the absurdly low price of $20 a month.

When she asked to figure money they laughed at her. She pointed out that in neighboring townships, where there were men teachers, the attr was ringing paid twice as much at least. Some were getting even $50 a month for doing the same sort of work that, tod to Miss Arter's lot, and doing it not a whit better. To all such orguents and argument the young woman crossed but the one answer; "Twenty dollars a month is plenty for a woman. A woman teacher must not expect the salary of man gets."

HUSBAND FIGHTS FOR WIFE.

Finally Miss Arter resigned. It was not that she quit the occupation of school teacher in disgust. No, but pCharles Synder, then a rising young lawyer of Pottsville, had asked her to marry him. The supervisors asked her cast to go, but they did not offer her any more salary. She would not leave simply so anyway.

They got mmon, and they made his salary, to start with, $40 a month!

The news reached Mr. and Mrs. Synder. "The idea!" exclaimed the young wife, "and for the same work they paid me only half as much!"

"Paying a man twice as much as my wife got and simply because she is a woman! I'll see about that!" said the husband.

He was elected to the State Legislature, and again and again. Last year he was one of the two men selected as a candidate for Speaker of the House. He failed to win in the Legislature but pass a bill equalizing salaries.

When the opposition began to grow so strong that it looked as though the bill might be defeated, Mr. Synder put on the screws, and finally he won out. Miss this that, he has seen to it, through his measure, that the provisions of the bill will be carried out to the letter.

There are twenty-seven thousand teachers in Pennsylvania who will be affected by Mr. Snyders bill. Of these more than twenty thousand are women. Under the provisions if the Synder bill the lowest salary to be paid a school teacher is $40 forty dollars a month, and teachers with Normal school certificates will receive a minimum of fifty dollars.

Supt. McClellan Explains Situation

Why the City Council Could Not Be Invited to Kirkfield.

His Worship Mayor McWilliams yesterday received the following letter from the superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal;—

His Worship Mayor McWilliams,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—There seems to be some misapprehension existing in the minds of some of the Peterborough aldermen, in regard to the ceremony in connection with the opening of the Kirkfield lift lock.

I wish to assure you at the outset that the opening of the Kirkfield lift lock is in no sense of the term, an invitation affair. All are welcome to go to the Kirkfield lift gork, and to get there either by train or boat. The sole and only question is, 'How can the people get there?' No society in Peterborough has undertaken to run an excursion from Peterborough to Kirkfield lift lock, because the nearest point they can run an excursion by train would be to Kirkfield, which is two and a half miles from the lift lock. The societies, therefore, realized that it would be utterly absurd to expect the people would walk two and a half miles.

It was also impossible for them to run an excursion from Peterborough to Lindsay and take the boat at Lindsay for the simple reason that every steamboat that is available is being utilized by such points as Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls on the south, and by Orillia, Barrie and Bracebridge on the north. The only other boats on the Trent waters that could have been available would have leave their regular passenger service.

I might further say that every available space upon the Government boat will be taxed to its utmost capacity by the party which comes from Ottawa, consisting of the Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Postmaster General, the Canadian newspaper correspondents of Ottawa, and the Midland District, and by the Senators and members of the Commons and Local Legislature, Mayors, Wardens and Reeves, in this district. You can therefore, readily see how utterly impossible it would be for even the representatives of our municipal institutions, along the line of th, and to obtain either auxiliary boat or train accommodation to go to the Kirkfield lift lock.

Some of the municipal councils have already made arrangements on their own account to be present, but what those arrangements are, I do not know.

Yours faithfully,
J. H. McCLELLAN.

Mormon Church Sells Property

Salt Lake, Utah, July 4.—Confirmation of the report which out some time ago that the Mormon church has decided to retire from business is the announcement just made by the Deseret News that the church has sold the Grass Creek coal mines near Coalville for $300,000 to Denver and Pennsylvania capitalists. The purchase includes six miles of railroad.

Other sales made by the Mormon church since the abolition of the new commercial policy were the Saltair pavilion and bathing pavilion, the street railway and the electric light and power plant.

Bilious People Now Easily Cured

If you are frequently bilious or have feelings of nausea there is a reason.

When the liver action is normal the bile is secreted in the proportions necessary to ensure the digestion of fats.

When liver action is irregular it is an evidence of impairment of nerve force.

When these derangements occur, an undue amount of work is thrown upon the liver and kidneys, they rebel—the whole system suffers, and ill-health follows.

Another dangerous result of derangement of the biliary function is constipation. Deadly disease results from this condition.

This is a hateful condition because it ensures two results—heavy dark rings under the eyes and a sallowness that's absolutely abhorrent.

These derangements if allowed to continue excite the formation of gallstones, cause jaundice, catarrhal inflammation of the bowels, and indigestion.

If you wish to get better, the very root of the trouble must be reached.

This can be accomplished only by Ferrozone—a remedy that strengthens the system, the blood, the liver and kidneys.

Ferrozone is food for the nervous system.

It fortifies and strengthens it.

The nervous system controls all the functions of the body.

Improve its tone, you improve the tone of the whole body and this is what Ferrozone accomplishes.

Its first action is to fortify digestion—this means nourishment and more building material.

Ferrozone makes rich, red blood—lots of it, and this means the proper action of all the large and vital organs of the body.

Quickly there comes strength, vigor, endurance—that glow of feeling which we call health.

You are sure of robust health; sure of strong nerves, good appetite; sure to look and feel your best if you use Ferrozone; try this great tonic, sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

VERY SUGGESTIVE FIGURES

The table published below contains some very suggestive figures. It shows the actual number, so far as could be ascertained by the census of 1900, of illiterate children between the ages of 10 and 14 years, in the various States of the Union:

Alabama	66,072
Georgia	63,329
Louisiana	55,691
South Carolina	51,536
North Carolina	51,190
Mississippi	44,334
Tennessee	36,575
Texas	35,491
Virginia	34,612
Arkansas	28,972
Kentucky	21,247
Indian Territory	12,172
Missouri	11,660
Alaska	1,908
Arizona	2,592
California	1,279
Colorado	742
Connecticut	436
Delaware	845
District of Columbia	398
Hawaii	394
Idaho	209
Illinois	4,044
Indiana	1,454
Iowa	883
Kansas	878
Maine	1,255
Maryland	5,854
Massachusetts	1,147
Michigan	1,744
Minnesota	354
Nevada	271
Nebraska	412
New Hampshire	157
New Jersey	2,069
New Mexico	4,364
New York	4,740
North Dakota	896
Ohio	2,048
Oklahoma	1,296
Oregon	175
Pennsylvania	6,328
Rhode Island	091
South Dakota	472
Utah	220
Vermont	237
Washington	340
West Virginia	5,819
Wisconsin	1,688
Wyoming	72

These figures are very suggestive, indeed, if we investigate even in a casual way the conditions they represent in the States named. From them we cannot fail to note the small percentage of illiteracy in the New England States, or in such States as New York, Ohio, Iowa or California when compared with the conditions in the South. The condition in the latter is undoubtedly very largely owing to the large colored population, coupled with the loose child labor laws, for the rule generally holds that illiteracy diminishes in exact proportion to the rigor with which children are kept out of industrial life, until they have attained the proper age.

In Canada the child labor problem is beginning to demand the attention of our legislatures. Conditions existing in this country, of course, are such and will remain such that no fear need be entertained for a moment that we will in time have to face the situation existing in the South. It is to be hoped, however, that our legislatures will make it illegal for employers to hire children of tender years in their business and also see that the law is rigidly enforced, for there is no telling anything that will so materially affect our country's life in days to come as the opportunities afforded the boys and girls of today to grow physically, mentally and morally into the kind of men and women the country needs.

Great Chances for Mineral Wealth

Mr. T. H. Crowley the Local Mining Expert Gives His Views.

Mr. Frank Brennan, of Sault Ste. Marie, is the guest of Mr. T. H. Crowley, the well known mining expert of this city. Mr. Brennan has favored The Times with a call. He has spent the past 12 months in the Cobalt district where he has made his pile. One claim which he recently disposed of, brought him $40,000 in cash and he has several others which he regards as among the best.

Mr. Crowley, who is of the opinion that the county immediately north of this city is rich in minerals, has in company with Mr. Brennan left to look over some mining property they have in Gunnorgan township. Mr. Crowley does not hesitate to say that we are on the eve of a great mining development in this part of the county. He thinks that the county has vast mineral resources which will soon be developed.

IDEAL SUMMER BEDROOMS.

Avoid Glaring Papers and Select Comfortable Furniture For the Cottage.

In the summer cottage it is a pretty idea to have each bedroom papered with a design showing clusters of some flower. One country house in the suburbs has a guest room facing north in violet. The matting is lilac, the paper is white with clusters of violets over it, and old fashioned furniture is mahogany and the fireplace and woodwork of white enamel. All through the season a bowl of violets is left on the table in this cheerful room.

Another guest room in this house has a forgetmenot wall paper above a white picture shelf and blue burlap frieze.

In a seashore cottage care must be taken to avoid glaring walls in the bedrooms, all of which, by the way, should be furnished with shades if there are no awnings.

Each guest room should have a comfortable chair, a rocker or an armchair, even if there is little more than necessary furniture in the room. With a bureau or chiffonier and a good looking glass, a comfortable chair and a bed, the average summer visitor is well content, for the afternoon siesta is really the only part of the day spent in one's own apartment.

BEAUTY TALKS.

With the sleeves of today, as much attention ought to be paid to the appearance of the arms as to the completion or hair.

Too many women take a discouraged view of their ugly arms and think that there is no use trying to do anything for them. On the contrary, bony elbows and skinny forearms can be much improved if a certain amount of trouble is taken.

Here is the way that one woman made her arms look—not quite like new, but certainly quite presentable. First she would fill a basin with water as hot as she could bear it, putting into it some borax, a few drops of benzoin and a handful of oatmeal. After holding her arms in the water for about two minutes she used a rubber sponge on them to wake up the skin, and just a bit of pumice on the rough skin of the elbow.

Treat Your Feet Well.

If you want to possess a buoyant walk, treat your feet admirably. Give them careful attention and keep them good natured.

If you neglect your feet, they'll answer you with an ache or with a callous spot that is a fretful reminder of your carelessness.

If you think about your feet, you'll agree that they put up with a lot of imposition before they verge into peevishness and pain.

But there's a limit to their patience if you go beyond that limit with careless treatment of them, you'll discover they will get even with you by means of aching joints and corns and bunyons. You'll have good reason for hobbling along instead of walking buoyantly.

You need to have your feet in first rate health all the time, therefore, be good to them.

A Useful Wrinkle.

Sometimes the upper or lower part of fountain pens become so tightly screwed that, being unable to refill them, they are put aside as useless. If a kid glove is put on the right hand before attempting to unscrew the section will be found to turn quite easily.

Take Care of Baby's Eyes.

Many infirmities of the eyes of children have their foundation laid in the early days in the nursery when eye strain was brought about by the injudicious use of colors and a careless arrangement of light.

SELECTIONS

A BASEBALL SUPPER.

How a College Team's Captain Entertained Eight "Fans."

"Out on the first!" "That's a hot one!" "Willie scores one!" "Home run for Arthur!" These were the familiar terms that greeted each joke or attempted joke. The occasion was a novel entertainment recently given in a college town at which the captain of the college team entertained eight of the most enthusiastic "fans" among his friends at a baseball dinner. Counting the host, the party numbered nine. Dinner was announced at 9 o'clock in the evening.

With the assistance of his mother and sister the young man carried out the whole arrangement with brilliant success. Before going into the dining room each man was given a place on the "team" and by this means found his proper place at the table. The dining table, which was square, was turned and spread in such a manner as to represent the diamond of a baseball field. Instead of the usual cards there was at each cover a miniature fan bearing the word pitcher, catcher, first base, second base, third base, right shortstop, left shortstop, right field, left field. The menu cards were diamond shaped and had "Official Score" printed on one side, and on the other side was the menu, consisting of nine courses, or "innings," as they were termed on the cards. They read, leaving out the interpolations, as follows:

FIRST INNING.
First strike.....Oyster Cocktails
SECOND INNING.
In which the Losing Team Lands....Soup
THIRD INNING.
Caught on the Fly.....
Mountain Trout on Diamond Shaped Toast
FOURTH INNING.
A Sacrifice.....
.....Lamb Chops with Potato Balls
FIFTH INNING.
A Foul Ball.....
.....Turkey Croquettes, Green Peas
SIXTH INNING.
The Umpire, When We Lose.....
.....Lobster Salad, Cheese Wafers
SEVENTH INNING.
What We Were Handed...Lemon Cream in Diamond Shaped Slices and Macaroons.
EIGHTH INNING.
Essential for Good Playing.....
.....Preserved Ginger, Watera, Coffee
NINTH INNING.
Where They All Score.....
.....Distribution of Favors

The favors were tiny horns, with which, at the suggestion of one of the boys, they rested for the clever host and the unique way in which they had been entertained.—What to Eat.

The "Drago Doctrine."

What is the "Drago doctrine," which is to be excluded from the deliberations of The Hague conference? It had nothing to do with the late Queen Drega of Servia, but derives its name from Dr. Drago, foreign minister of the Argentine Republic, who, imitating the example of President Monroe, enunciated the convenient theory that debts owed to the citizens of one government by those of another may not be "collected" by force. This was when the combined fleets of England, Germany and Italy in 1902 appeared off Venezuela and caused Mr. Kipling to write his "Rowers." This "Drago doctrine" was naturally hailed with enthusiasm by all the money borrowing republics of South America, but they were told from Washington that it could not be regarded as a subclause of the Monroe doctrine.—Chicago News.

The Postoffice and Crime Detection.

Discussing "Frauds in the Mail" in the North American Review, George B. Cortelyou, secretary of the treasury, says: It will be readily understood that the guarding of the mails for the purpose of keeping at the minimum the manifold abuses to which they are inherently subject is a task of great magnitude. But it is being better and more efficiently done every year, affording much justification for the remark which was made not long ago that "the postoffice department of the United States is the most effective agency in the world for the detection and prevention of crime and the apprehension of the criminal."

The Phonograph as a Witness.

In Brussels from a lawyer who recently made good use of a phonograph in a lawsuit. He had been continually annoyed by the noises of hammering at an iron foundry in his near neighborhood. Finding that complaints were unavailing, he brought the matter into court. But before doing so he placed a phonograph in his library for one whole day. When the case came before the court he produced the phonograph and set going the specially prepared cylinder. An uproar and din as from the forge of Vulcan was the result, and the ingenious lawyer won his case.

The Shock on the Dreadnought.

In the simultaneous discharge of eight of the ten twelve-inch guns of the Dreadnought a shock was given that vessel of 18,000 tons, more than double that of any broadside ever before fired. The vessel of 18,000 tons shielded sideways several yards, heeling many degrees. The guns are fifty-three feet long, and each shell of 850 pounds is discharged by 280 pounds of cordite, with a muzzle velocity of 2,850 miles an hour.

Prussia Lost Provinces.

The Germans are by no means content with the state of affairs in Alsace-Lorraine, for in spite of the six and thirty years which have passed since the annexation the sentiments of the majority of the population are as anti-German as ever.—London Globe.

Salmasius.

Salmasius, Milton's antagonist, was a man of mild manners and quiet in speech, but his wife imagined he did not do himself justice in controversy, unless he called his antagonist vile names. Some of his manuscripts are extant, containing abusive words interlined in her own handwriting.

This company owns 4 claim (80 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about nine and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has outcroppings equal to anything in Goldfield, showing fine surface values and is without doubt rightly named, "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

A GOOD LOCAL AGENT WANTED

Partners of the Tide

...By... JOSEPH C. LINCOLN, Author of "Cap'n Eri"

Copyright, 1903, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

a shawl about her shoulders, smiled, but shook her head. "Yes," she said, "I should say it had. I guess the best thing I can do is to move back home right away. They'll never forgive me for letting you fall in love with me, Ezra, never in the world."

"Oh, I don't know," replied the captain hopefully. "That's where Brad 'll help out. He can do more than anybody else to square you and me with Prissy and Tempy. Land of love! Is that 1 o'clock?"

"Yes, it is. You must be going right away. I'd no idea 'twas so late."

The fog had entirely disappeared, and it was a clear, cold November night. The heavens were spattered thick with stars, and the horizon was dotted here and there with the sparks of lighthouses and lightships. Sleeping Orham lay still, and the surf hummed a restful lullaby.

"What was that?" asked Clara, pointing.

"What was what?"

"I thought I saw a queer light out on the water there. Yes; see, there it is again."

The captain put up his hand to shade his eyes from the rays of the lamp in the kitchen and looked in the direction she was pointing. Out Beyond the strip of water at the foot of the long hill behind the house, beyond the point that divided it from the harbor, a speck of light glowed for an instant, flickered and went out.

"That's queer," he muttered. "That's off in the harbor, right by our moorin's."

The speck of light reappeared, grew larger, puffed for an instant into a ruddy flame that lit up the masts and hull of a schooner lying at anchor.

"Lord A'mighty!" yelled Captain Titcomb. "It's the Diving Belle on fire!"

And from the darkness in the direction of the distant wharf came a faint shout, then another.

The captain plunged headlong for the back fence. "Call Brad!" he shouted. "Quick!"

Clara ran screaming into the house, and her companion vaulted the fence and dashed down the hill. The dead grass beneath his feet was wet and slippery. Blackberry vines caught him about the ankles, and tangled clumps of bayberry bushes tore his clothes as he scrambled through them. Once he fell head first into a sand pit, but the sand was soft and he was not hurt. The Diving Belle was on fire! The Diving Belle was burning up! His brain repeated it over and over again. Then came the thought of what her loss would mean to Bradley and himself, and he groaned aloud.

He reached the foot of the hill and plowed through the soft sand of the beach. The tide was low, and he ran across the flats, splashing to his knees in the channels. As he climbed the bank by the bridge he heard some one running before him over the loose planks.

He crossed the bridge and panted up the second hill. As he reached its top the wind from the sea struck cold on his sweating forehead and brought to his ears the sound of shouting. There were lights in the upper windows of the houses he passed. Jonadab Wixon thrust a tousled head from the window of his bedroom and hailed, asking what was the matter.

Captain Titcomb could see the cluster of buildings at the landing plainly now and the masts of the catboats alongside the wharf. The water of the harbor was black except in one spot. There the Diving Belle lay in a flickering halo of red light. Little jets of flame were shooting up from her hull amidships. The smell of burning wood came on the wind.

Lem Mullett, the livery stable keeper, was just ahead, puffing and stumbling in the middle of the narrow road. He seized the captain by the arm as the latter overtook him.

"How'd—how'd—she git—afire?" he gasped.

Captain Titcomb did not answer. His eyes were fixed on the burning schooner, and he pushed Mr. Mullett out of the way and ran on.

Just as he reached the head by Newcomb's fish house a huddle of men, some with overcoats and hats and others bareheaded and half dressed, rushed wildly around the corner of the building. The captain's shoulder struck the foremost man, a blow in the chest that knocked him backward.

"Ugh! Ow!" grunted the man. Then he cried: "Hey? Is that you, Cap'n Ez?"

The captain was fighting his way through. "Let me by!" he shouted. "Git out of my way!"

Some obeyed, but others did not. There were confused cries of "Stop him!" "Don't let him go!" He was seized by the arm. The crowd closed about him.

"Don't let me go!" roared the captain, striking right and left. "Who'll stop me? Are you crazy? Parker, by thunder, I'll— Alvin Bearse, take your hands off me!"

But Alvin held tight. "Cap'n Ez," he pleaded, "listen! Listen jest a minute! You mustn't go off to her. Ira, hold his other arm."

Overpowered and held fast, the bewildered captain gazed at the faces surrounding him. "For the Lord's sake!" he cried. "You cowards! Are you goin' to let her burn up without liftin' a hand? What are you standin' here for? Why ain't you aboard your ship, Alvin Bearse? Did you set her afire yourself? Let me go! I'll"—

He struggled frantically. "Cap'n Ez," pleaded Alvin, "listen to me. The dynamite's aboard—the dynamite!"

Captain Titcomb stopped struggling. The dynamite in the hold! He had forgotten it entirely. That was why no boats had put out to the burning vessel. That was what they were running away from.

"'Tain't safe to stay here!" shouted some one from the outskirts of the rapidly growing crowd. "We'll be blowed to slivers when she goes off. Git back to the hill!"

"Busy Bachelder," yelled the captain, "you're a coward and always was! But ain't there no men in this gang? Bearse! Sparrow! Ellis! Are you goin' to stand by and see me and Brad ruined? Who'll come with me and pitch the stuff overboard? We'll save her yet! Come on!"

They were wavering, some of them. Bearse was a brave man; so was Ellis. The two looked at each other.

"Come on, boys!" shouted the captain, getting one arm free and waving it. Then, as a new thought struck him: "What's the matter with you? Dynamite don't blow up in a fire. It burns like cord wood. Come on, you fools!"

will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. COOKERY SUGGESTIONS.

How Tomatoes and Cucumbers Can Be Used in Salads.

Take a good thick slice of tomato and lay it on shredded lettuce. Mince some cucumber, heap upon it some parsley or watercress and serve with oil and vinegar dressing. If preferred, use a half tomato for each person, with the pulp loosened and mixed with the cucumber. A bit of celery cut up with these is nice, or some celery salt.

Quite a new idea is that of using some apple with tomato and other things for filling. It fits in well with celery, being more tender, and does not dominate, but assists in blending flavors of the divers things often used with tomatoes for salad. Of course it is common to use just apple and celery or apple and nuts, but try the apple with tomato.

In stuffing tomatoes with crumbs try some walnut catchup to give a nice flavor. Be sure to season and drain your tomatoes before stuffing them. Scoop them out and turn them down after salting the inside well. This makes a lot of the watery part disappear. Then before filling dust in pepper and red pepper. Cook the filling, especially if onion goes into it, else the tomatoes will bake before the onion is tender. Fried onion gives a better taste than plain raw chopped onion in the filling. Some grated corn or the kinds that come freed from all hulls may be used for stuffing tomatoes. Instead of thickening stewed tomatoes with bread many persons prefer to combine tomatoes with the kinds of corn that have no hulls left.

Why not try a tomato and cheese salad, instead of passing cheese with a salad course? Simply slice the tomatoes as usual and arrange them in the salad dish with a layer of grated cheese. Use plenty of French dressing and chill thoroughly. Serve with toasted crackers, bread sticks or pulled bread.

Norway Rats.

In the mountains of Sweden, Norway and Lapland all vegetation would be utterly destroyed by the Norway rats were it not for the white foxes that make special game of the rodents.

Lake Ontario.

The name of Lake Ontario was first noted as Skanodairo (beautiful lake). It was also, at various times and by different men, denominated Lac de Frontenac, Lac de Iroquois and Lac de St. Louis. The Mohawks called it Candinsequi.

OTTAWA, LARDER AND OPASITIKA LAKES SYNDICATE

CONTROLLING 2,800 ACRES

A syndicate is hereby formed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase for the sum of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) and one hundred thousand shares in a Company to be hereinafter formed at the discretion of the subscribers, with an authorized capital of One Million Dollars, divided into One Million Shares, at par value of One Dollar each, to acquire the mining rights in certain lands in the District of Nipissing, Province of Ontario, and also in the Province of Quebec.

In order to raise the sum quickly, five hundred and fifty syndicate shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars per share, will be sold with the understanding that each syndicate share of One Hundred Dollars will entitle the holder to one thousand shares, par value One Dollar, fully paid-up and non-assessable stock in the Company, when the Company is organized.

This special offer applies only to the first five hundred and fifty shares, and no more will be sold at that figure.

Fifty-six of these claims are situated directly opposite Larder Lake, just over the Quebec boundary, and are composed of three and one-half square miles adjoining the Lake Opasitika and include the height of land ridge.

Nine claims of this property are situated north-east of Larder Lake and adjoining the now famous Dr. Reddick claims, and five claims are situated to the south of the Lake on the Juno Creek and next to Mr. Fitzpatrick's claims. He was one of the original prospectors in that locality. As gold is being found on claims in this district which assay $6,000.00 per ton, this certainly is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor, as the company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, of par value one dollar per share.

These shares will be taken up quickly, and as soon as same are subscribed for, the syndicate will meet and choose from among themselves a directorate and decide on the future operations of the Company.

All subscriptions should be accompanied by check, payable to the order of Messrs. James K. Paisley and D. O'Connor, Jr., who will act as trustees for the syndicate.

Rosy Cheeks

The Ambition of Every Woman

Hollow cheeks with dark lines, sallow complexion—how a woman hates them.

But rosy cheeks, clear skin, bright eyes—give them to a woman and she is happy.

In the blood is found the first sign of trouble.

It grows thin and watery, its color fades, and increasing pallor and sallowness give the outward evidence of the change within.

Soon the nerves weaken, the heart easily tires and palpitates, strength declines.

The delicate mechanism of the womanly functions is interfered with, and pleasures, activities and even duties are loaded down with the burden of declining health.

Why is it that women neglect the first warnings?

Usually she waits till she is ready to drop—often then it's too late.

These conditions are easily checked, easily cured at the beginning—but even when long established Ferrozone will remove the cause and cure the trouble.

Ferrozone's action aids the three principal functions of the body—digestion, assimilation, elimination.

By strengthening digestion it forms an abundance of rich, red blood—this gives good color.

By perfecting assimilation Ferrozone supplies nutrition—this gives strength, vim, stability.

Elimination is assured because Ferrozone quickens the actions of the liver, kidney's and bowels—this guarantees the maintenance of vigorous health.

Ferrozone puts you on the right road—the one that leads to health.

Not a man, woman or child needing blood, vigor, endurance—not a person who is weak, nervous or sickly, not a person in ill-health who won't receive immediate help from Ferrozone.

As a tonic and restorative, as a health-bringer and body-builder, Ferrozone is unrivalled. It cures because it feeds and nourishes, because it contains the elements that build up and strengthen. Try it yourself—sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

Will the People Turn Out?

Port Hope had 3000 people at the game there Dominion Day, when their team won out by 3—0. It is said by several of the local people who went down that the game was won by the umpire's decision. Let this be as it may, the point is will our lovers of the great game attend Saturday's game here, in the league series between the same teams. Surely Peterborough can turn out at least half as many fans as does our little southern lakeside suburb, Port Hope.

Gift to the City Not Appreciated

Correspondent Thinks Victoria Park Fountain Should Be Used

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—I would like to offer a further medal and Munyon's imported at that for the first satisfactory report as to what, wherefore and why such conditions, even though not legally binding exist in Victoria Park. Mr. Stevenson gave to this city the fine iron fountain in Victoria Park some years ago. It will be remembered by our older citizens that Mr. Stevenson, during a visit on business to the city of Buffalo, thought this handsome fountain an dpresented it gratis to the town.

What is the result of this gift? Yesterday a Times man strolling through Victoria Park, with senses alert for news, was somewhat saddened by sight of this fountain and evidently forgotten gift to the city. Not for one hour this summer has this fountain had the water turned on to delight the thousands who daily visit this Peterborough's most beautiful tree garden of the palace. Yesterday the main basin of the fountain contained a few gallons of greenish white spawn bedecked mud, presumably water. In this sprang up pea soup, water, or whatever the stuff may be, fluttered, half submerged by age a fence, or rather gate post, a dead rat, two sticks of wood, several hundred pounds of dead leaves and a smell that would make a corpse of three years in hot weather ask for a disinfectant. If the city does not appreciate a gift to our citizens that, used as it might be, would delight thousands or is too cheap to pay for the water the city itself controls the supply off, why not sell Mr. Stevenson's gift for junk, to Mrs. Stevens and place the proceeds to the credit of some future outing of the City officers.

Yours truly,
FOUNTAIN.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend Lakefield Man Saves Life.

An Edmonton, Alberta, despatch says:

Adrift on a log in mid stream, and within an ace of drowning, was the thrilling experience of a miner from the north yesterday afternoon. The rescue, which was accomplished by Reg Bloomfields formerly of Lakefield, the well known canoeist, and member of the Argonauts, was no less thrilling. The miner had come down the Saskatchewan River about seventy miles on a roughly constructed raft, which went to pieces on a sunken pier opposite the brick yard below the Grust estate. The miner managed to cling to one of the logs on the pier until rescued by Bloomfield. The rescue was a daring piece of work.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

The Money That's Being Made in Western Canada LAND

In October, 1906 we sold 5,000 acres of Saskatchewan lands to an Indiana party of men at $8 per acre, and resold it this year at $12, making just about 100 per cent. on the money invested.

A Montreal party of men who bought 10,000 acres from us at $8 per acre last September, resold through us within three months at $10.00 per acre.

A Chicago client writes us that after making some improvements on a section she bought near Regina, one year ago, she sold out recently for exactly twice what she paid for the land.

We resold a section of land located near Lipton for a man at $18.00 per acre last April, which we sold him in December at $12.00.

Western Canada Lands offer the greatest opportunity this continent has ever known

Men there are growing wealthy who never knew success in any other line. You can make money here too, if you think your amount too small club it with a few friends. Some of the most prominent financial men in the United States and Eastern Canada are now interested in this country heavily.

We own about 200,000 acres of the finest wheat and mixed farming lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.—Picked lands on which we are prepared to give accurate trustworthy information and these tracts being portions of extremely large purchases, we can sell them at prices that cannot be equalled, quality of land considered, by any firm in this country.

Prices range from $6.00 per acre upwards

Reasonable Terms in every case

Write us for further information but when doing so tell us the class and amount of an investment you desire, and whether you want the land for your own use or for investment purposes purely. $1,000 is about the minimum we can handle. References Union Bank and Traders' Bank, Winnipeg.

REVOLT PREACHED THROUGH BENGAL

The Seriousness of the Situation is Not Realized---The Government Has Exhausted Its Reserve of Police and Brought in Gurkhas---Firearms are Filtering in --- Europeans go Armed and Ladies Fear to Travel.

New York, July 6.—A London despatch to The Sun says that Indian dispatches represent the trouble in India as increasing. A correspondent who has returned to Calcutta from there tours of the most disaffected districts in Bengal telegraphs that the seriousness of the situation is hardly realized by the Europeans in India or at home. The discontent has spread among the land-holders and rich Bengali landowners, as well as among the peasants and coolies.

REVOLT IS PREACHED.

An active organization known as National Volunteers, which has branches in almost every town and village, is being trained in archery and sword exercise by well-paid instructors. They preach everywhere revolt against the British, and actively push the boycott of British goods. Men who cannot be threatened and who still maintain relations with English officials are punished by a social boycott, the deadliest weapon that can be employed against a Hindoo.

Hundreds of cases of lawlessness and oppression by the National Volunteers come from every district. The rural police are too weak or too disaffected to take action. The people are gradually losing respect for order and authority. Several land owners have usurped executive and administrative powers by imprisoning tenants.

In the Barisal districts committees of public safety have been informed. These committees hold judicial inquiries, summon witnesses and punish offenders. The Government has exhausted its reserve of police, and has borrowed companies of Gurkhas from Assam, and military police from other provinces. These are posted in small batches about the country, but are unable to prevent the persecution of loyalists. The worst feature of the situation is the growing number of assaults on Europeans. Europeans go about armed with revolvers. European passengers carry shot guns in trains. Ladies are afraid to travel on the Assam-Bengal Railway. A traffic official said there was danger of certain sections of the line being closed owing to the reluctance of guards and drivers to take trains out.

FIREARMS COMING IN.

The impression is gaining strength that firearms are filtering into Eastern Bengal. All over Bengal national schools, financed entirely by Bengalese and disclaiming all connection with the Government, are springing up.

The students in the Government-aided schools in Calcutta are openly defying the recent Government circular prohibiting students from attending political meetings. The students not only address the meetings, but implore the reporters to mention their names in the newspapers.

Wrong Fire Alarm Seemingly Made

Early yesterday morning the brigade had a call to a fire on Romaine stree. This building was used as a candy manufacturing establishment by Arthur Hotly, and it is believed that the blaze came from the stove. The fire alarm rang shortly after 2 o'clock, but apparently a mistake was made in the box selected. Alarm box No. 15 was used, which is on the corner of George and Perry streets. No water could be obtained by the firemen, as the nearest hydrant was over two blocks distant, so that the building was completely destroyed.

Mr. H. M. Fowlds Buried Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon the last mortal remains of the late Mr. H. M. Fowlds were laid to rest in Lindsay. The late Mr. Fowlds, who passed away at the residence, "The Maples," on Wednesday, was born in New York City, in 1825. After living at Birdsall and Westwood he moved to Hastings in 1851 and afterwards to Lindsay where he was a prominent merchant and known well by many people of this city. He left a widow and six children.

Lindsay Excursion Had Good Time Here.

Yesterday morning seven coaches were in the special Grand Trunk train that brought some 400 excursionists from Lindsay to the city. The excursion was under auspices of the two Methodist churches of Lindsay, the greater number of those on board getting off at Jackson Park, where dinner was enjoyed midst the beautiful scenery of this beauty spot of Peterboro, where a number of sports was run off.

Many of the excursionists visited the light lock and other spots of interest around the city. The train arrived here at 10 o'clock and returned at 7 p.m.

Youthful Grain Thieves Guilty

Local Boys Who Stole Oats from Cars for Cereal Co.

Yesterday afternoon a special session of the police court was held when the boys named respectively Fish, Ahearn, Lehar, Armstrong and Holland were charged, after two remands from previous trials, with having stolen oats from cars consigned to the Quaker Oats Co. The evidence mainly substantiated by P. C. Newhall, clearly showed that these boys had committed the crime alleged. They were allowed to go with a stringent warning against the repetition of a similar offence. During the trial a Mr. Tine of the Peterborough Cereal Co., came within an ace of being locked up for contempt of court by trying to evade answering a direct question put by the prosecuting attorney Mr. Goodwin appeared for the boys whilst Mr. Wood carried on the prosecution.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Happenings Around the Local Police Station

At yesterday's session of the police court an amusing but withal sad case was tried in which Mrs. Lingard charged Mrs. Corcoran with assault. As is usually the case in trials of squabble between women of a certain age, as one would give her testimony audible sniffs of disgust and incredibility were heard. It seems the row dates back to past bickering between the women and culminated in one of them throwing a stick at the other's dog after the canine had chewed the former's cat. The evidence went to show that neither was free from a suspicion of breaking the peace. Each grabbed a stick, but Mrs. Corcoran was the one who got the bow in.

Mr. Gordon acted for Mrs. Lingard and Mr. Kerr for the defendant.

The magistrate imposed a fine of $2 to be paid in ten days or tendays in jail. "I'll never pay it," remarked Mrs. Corcoran. "Well," responded his worship, "you have ten days to think it over and then a constable will call, and in default of distress, you will have to go to jail." "Not a copper, not a red cent will I pay," retorted Mrs. Corcoran. The fine however was afterwards paid.

Mr. Thos. Rehill Busy on Contract

Well Known Local Ice Dealer Busy on Well Carried Out Side Lines.

Mr. Thomas Rehill, the well known local ice merchant, whose methods of business are too well and favorably known to require further comment, as well as are his contract dealings yesterday put a gang of men at work to excavate the cellar of the new Bell Telephone Co. building to be erected at once on Hunter street just to the west of Mr. D. Bridgman's undertaking establishment. Mr. Rehill, with his customary and proverbial promptitude in such jobs, had the work well under way and had his men and horses hustling the work along as fast as consistent with prevailing conditions. Mr. Rehill has just completed an excavation contract for the fine new building to be erected at once on Simcoe street for the Trust and Loan Co. When this energetic and far-seeing contractor gets a haul of a job gravel flies and things begin to dance. It is not a case of up-hill, but Rehill.

Cheese is Going Down in Price.

A letter from Hudgins Bros., Liverpool, England, says;

"The general demand for cheese has been of a retail character dealers buying only for immediate needs, and with the English make both plentiful and cheap, there is anticipation of a further decline in Canadian. Values are is 3p to 6d lower this week." We quote; Choicest mellow coloured and white, Scotch and Canadian, 58s to 59s per cwt., lower grades, colonial and half meals, 30s to 44s; finest fall makes, coloured and white, 64s to 66s.

Where Have Frog-Legs Gone?

The Lindsay sportsmen seem to be making an awful kick over the alleged slaughter of frogs on their stump decorated body of water. What has become of the frog catchers who used, in years gone by, and not so long ago, to bring the succulent and tasty legs to this city? Whilst the frog may not, from an aesthetic point of view be as beautiful as a peacock or a golden pheasant, still his north-west legs do certainly make good eating when properly cooked.

COLOR LINE DRAWN IN BRITISH ARMY

Youth of Negro Parentage is Refused Admission.

NAVY ALSO ADOPTS RULE

Question Will be Brought Up in Parliament When a Lively Debate is Expected.

London, July 6.—The British Admiralty and War Office have both drawn the color line against a youth born in London of a negro father and English mother. On the death of his parents the Strand Board of Guardians took charge of the boy, who has now grown up and desires to serve his country, but the authorities refuse to permit him to enlist in either the navy or the army.

This banning of a British subject because of his color promises to lead to a lively discussion in Parliament, where the matter shortly will be brought up.

DENIES ENGAGEMENT TO TWAIN

New York, July 6.—Reports that Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) and Miss I. V. Lyon, who is his private secretary, were engaged to be married were current yesterday in literary circles. Miss Lyon was with Miss Clemens, Mr. Clemens' daughter, on Monday when the steamship Rosalind on which they were passengers, came into collision with another vessel near Halifax. She was seen yesterday at the Nova Scotian pier and emphatically denied that there was any truth in the rumor.

"I hope that you will contradict the report you have mentioned," she said to a correspondent for The Herald. "I am so glad that I saw you in order that I might thus be able to give this unqualified denial, and I hope you will telegraph it to The Herald. You will, won't you? I have for five years been Mr. Clemens' secretary, and look after his affairs."

His friends in New York did not place any credence in the report of the engagement. Mr. Clemens is in his seventy-first year.

A hearty invitation is extended to the Peterboro Boys and True Blues. All will meet at the church, and not at the lodge room.

Two Men Killed as Result of Fight

Seattle, Wash., July 6.—A despatch to The Post-Intelligencer from Valdez, Alaska, says one man is dead, another is fatally injured, and nine seriously injured as a result of a fight occurred here on the Guggenheim and the Bonner interests at Katella on Wednesday.

The fight is over the right of way which the Bonner forces are protecting.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

Orillia Board of Trade Gives Flag

First Boat from Kawartha Lakes to Orillia Gains a Pennant.

The Times was yesterday in receipt of a letter from Mr. J. B. Henderson, the secretary of the Orillia Board of Trade, stating that they offer a flag to the first steamer to bring an excursion or cargo into the port of Orillia from any point on the Kawartha Lakes by way of the Trent Valley Canal, after the formal opening of the Kirkfield lift lock, on Saturday, July 6th. The board hopes that the opening of this section of the canal may be the means of thawing up trade between the two sections of country hitherto cut off from communication by water.

War With Japan Within Five Years

North Yamaki, July 6.—Rear-Admiral W. J. Thompson, U.S.N., retired, who has arrived here from a short stay in the Orient, predicts a war with Japan within five years.

Admiral Thompson says that war is inevitable, but he does not believe that Great Britain will assist her ally in such a struggle, and thinks that in the end the resources of the United States must result in the defeat of the Japanese. He believes that in the event of hostilities France would drive financial aid to Japan.

AFTERMATH OF THE FOURTH

Chicago, July 6.—The Tribune today says 37 men, women and children are dead, 2,153 are maimed, lacerated or burned as a result of yesterday's excess of patriotism in the United States. The latter of the dead is four more than last year's mortality. Unfortunately the death roll will increase day by day, and even the late days of August will witness additions to it. New York leads all the cities of the United States in the number of injured, while Pittsburg is a close second in the grim race. The total number of injured is under last year's figures, which were 2,789.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN.

Pittsburg, July 6.—All records of casualties following the celebration of Independence Day in Pittsburg were broken this year. Fifteen violent deaths were reported to the coroner's office, and the number of injured will exceed three score.

NOISE WAS UNBEARABLE.

New York, July 6.—Distressed by the noises of the Fourth of July celebration, Mrs. Johnson Evart, a widow, leaped hurled from a flat-roof in her home on Wades avenue, Jersey City, last night.

Good Ball Game Today.

"Yebbie" Eldridge will pitch for Peterborough against Port Hope today and will have as his opponent Henry Sudds the crack twirler who shut Peterborough out on Monday. Between the two there should be a great battle. The Port Hope team will be the same as defeated, the locals.

Bilious People Now Easily Cured

If you are frequently bilious or have feelings of nausea there is a reason.

When the liver action is normal the bile is secreted in the proportions necessary to ensure the digestion of fats. When liver action is irregular it is an evidence of impairment of nerve force.

When these derangements occur, an undue amount of work is thrown upon the liver and kidneys, they rebel—the whole system suffers, and ill-health follows.

Another dangerous result of derangement of the biliary function is constipation. Deadly disease results from this condition.

This is a hateful condition because it ensures two results—heavy dark rings under the eyes and a sallowness that's absolutely abhorrent.

These derangements if allowed to continue excite the formation of gall-stones, cause jaundice, catarrhal inflammation of the bowels, and indigestion.

If you wish to get better, the very root of the trouble must be reached.

This can be accomplished only by Ferrozone—a remedy that strengthens the system, the blood, the liver and kidneys.

Ferrozone is food for the nervous system.

It fortifies and strengthens it.

The nervous system controls all the functions of the body.

Improve its tone, you improve the tone of the whole body and this is what Ferrozone accomplishes.

Its first action is to fortify digestion—this means nourishment and more building material.

Ferrozone makes rich, red blood—lots of it, and this means the proper action of all the large and vital organs of the body.

Quickly there comes strength, vigor, endurance—that glow of feeling which we call health.

You are sure of robust health; sure of strong nerves, good appetite; sure to look and feel your best if you use Ferrozone; try this great tonic, sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

JAPANESE INFLUX NOT A SURPRISE

The Immigration Department Have Been Expecting It for Some Time---The Newcomers are to Work on the G. T. P. Notwithing Government Denial.

Ottawa, July 6.—Asked as to the immigration of Japanese into British Columbia on account of their being refused entry at San Francisco, the authorities at the Immigration Department stated that they had no official advices on the subject, but that they were not surprised, as it had been expected for some time that such an influx would take place.

There is no law on the statute book to prevent such immigration. The British Columbia Legislature last session, after Mr. McBride's departure for England, passed a bill which seeks to prevent Japanese from working in the mines. The bill is now before the Dominion Government, and probably will be vetoed for Imperial reasons.

TO BE EMPLOYED ON THE G.T.P.

It is understood, however, that these Japanese immigrants will be employed on the Pacific section of the Grand Trunk Pacific, thus solving the problem of procuring navvies.

It will be remembered that some months ago the announcement that the Grand Trunk Pacific would have recourse to Oriental labor was denied in the most positive terms by the Government in the House of Commons.

BUYING TICKETS TO CANADA

Mexico City, July 6.—Two hundred and seventy-five Japanese landed at Santa Cruz Wednesday. They are headed for the coal mines in the district of Las Esperanzas. Joseph X. Strobel, a Chinese immigration inspector stationed at El Paso, who arrived in this city yesterday, stated that Japanese are flocking to the border in great numbers and buying tickets from Juarez to Canada, to enter the United States. Instead of going to Canada, it is stated, many stop at convenient points in the United States.

TRAIN DESPATCHER PRAISES HIS ROAD

MR. W. H. IVORY STATES C. P. R. HAS DOUBLED ITS TRADE.

Gentleman With Many Friends in this City, Omemee, and Other Parts of the County, is Interviewed By a Times Representative.

Mr. W. H. Ivory of Omemee, a gentleman who has a host of warm friends in this city and who fills the important position of train despatcher for the C. P. R. in Toronto was in the city yesterday with Mrs. Ivory, and their three children. The party who are guests of Mrs. Ivory's mother, Mrs. Menzel, Rubidge street, leave on Monday for a two weeks' outing near Oak Orchard, near Pigeon Lake. Mr. Ivory in conversation with The Times, in response to many questions put by our scribe, told in detail the terrible nervous strain involved by men who are responsible for the trains on their division. It is up to these despatchers to regulate whether passenger train No. 438 passes passenger train No. 986 or freight or gravel trains No. xyz at such and such a station or whether such trains meet in head on collisions between the stations and wipe out the lives of engineers, train crews and passengers. Mr. Ivory was very reluctant to mention the deeds that nearly reflect the highest heroism upon the class of the community, who, though known to comparatively few, daily control the lives and destinies of scores of thousands of the travelling public. Mr. Ivory is in charge of the trains between Toronto and Havelock on the C. P. R. and is one of the brightest young men the Times has recently met. In the statements it was learned that the C. P. R. on his particular division has within the past year truly doubled their freight traffic. Mr. Ivory is one of those sober-minded, modest, retiring young men on whom the future of the road they serve depends in great measure as to its future success and absence from accidents. Mr. Ivory is a man who seeks satisfactions and genuine efforts under fate, does not worry over small fraction of the responsibility that do the train despatchers.

In addition to the work involved in his civic position the doctor had a large private practice. He purchased a fine residence in Detroit. When Dr. Crevier sold out his practice an dproperty recently he realized the handsome sum of $30,000.

LINKED WITH DEATH.

Articles That Brought Tragedy to Their Owners.

SOME QUEER COINCIDENCES.

The Hindoo Idol That Mme. Carnot Ordered Destroyed—A Grim Exhibit in a London Museum—A Ring That Brought Its Owners to Suicide.

Of course the psychologists have explanations for them all, but there are lots of things that happen that somehow do not respond readily to these so called explanations of "purely mental effect" or "accidental coincidences" and all that sort of thing.

When Mme. Carnot, widow of Sadi Carnot, died and her will was read, a clause in it caused considerable comment. This was to the effect that a certain small Hindoo idol carved from a hard stone which would be found among her property must be taken out and crushed until completely destroyed. Many marveled at this apparently singular request, for the idol seemed a harmless, ugly little thing, but her instructions were carried out to the letter.

The idol had been presented to Sadi Carnot years before he had ever thought of the presidency of France by a friend who had brought it from India. Later he learned that there was a legend attached to it which asserted that whosoever would retain it in his possession would rise to the fullest height of power in his chosen profession, but die of a stab wound when at the zenith of his career. Carnot traced the history of the idol and found that for 500 years the rulers who had possessed it had all died either in battle or by assassination or stab wounds. Yet he laughed at the story, called the facts adduced by his search a mere chain of coincidences and retained the idol. He died by a dagger in the hands of an assassin; hence Mme. Carnot's strange request.

In Chicago a pawnbroker has a queer looking old turnip of a watch that he will not sell and will not wear, for he knows its history. He bought it at a sale of accumulated police property, and after the sale as a warning one of the police officials related three "coincidences" in connection with it. The first Chicago man to own the watch, so far as the police knew, had been killed by a burglar, and the watch was one of the few things the thief got away with. A few weeks later the burglar, with a party of his pals, pursued by the police for another crime, took refuge in a house on the outskirts of the city and sought to hold the officers at bay. All were taken alive except the burglar, and he was shot dead. The watch was found on his body. It was around the detective bureau for a long time, and one day one of the force asked permission to take it home to show some friends, his description of its quaint, curious case having aroused their curiosity. On his way back to report that night, with the watch in his possession, he was shot dead by a crook who had a long standing grudge against him.

The pawnbroker put the watch in his showcase, but purely as an ornament, and made such investigation regarding its history as he could. He learned that it had been made in France more than a hundred years ago, and five men who had worn it had died violent deaths. Yet these were all coincidences, and the curse of the old woman from whose hands it had been snatched by a thief in Bordeaux shortly after it left its maker's hands had nothing to do with the case whatever.

In the South Kensington museum, London, there is an object catalogued 22,459. It is a cast of a woman's face and was found in an excavation not far from Luxor, in Egypt. The cast is that of a beautiful woman, but the face wears an expression of sinister evil. The man who found the cast died within twenty-four hours after he had touched it, and the two workers who handled it died within a few weeks. Three of the carriers who handled it on the Nile boat died within a short space of time, and the man who reshipped it at Cairo also died within less than a week after he had played his part in the work of getting it to its destination. All these were seemingly natural deaths, but it is odd that all the men whose fingers touched the cast in Egypt should have died so soon after the handling.

Then there is the ring of which Girouard, the French detective, has told us and which now is in one of the museums of Paris. It is odd in that it is flexible, slightly so, for it is formed like a twisted serpent in closely woven gold links with an opal on the top of the head, two tiny emeralds for eyes and a ruby in its mouth. Seven such rings are not apt to be in existence in any one city, yet seven times during the twenty-nine years Girouard served the Parisian police in a position which brought him to the morgue daily he found this ring on the bodies of suicides. Four times it had been claimed by relatives of the dead, and twice had it been sold. The seventh time Girouard saw to it that it went through the usual red tape channels to a place where it could no longer be worn.

The Badge.
